Eli Black, former dance teacher, provided the professional touch in a scintillating Latin-American number, following an expert's version of the can-can and variety dancing by Marie MacDowell.

Comedian master-of-ceremonies George Stout and his vocalist wife, Nora Bennet Stout, and the "Four-Jacks," consisting of Doug Wareham, Al Crew, Ron MacDonald and Chuck Barnet, all added the flowing flavor to a pleasant program.

If enthusiasm ever waned Aubrey Hill with an exhibition of impressionistic dancing, put the entertainment-hungry crowd back in the mood again.

Fred Wildish and his orchestra from RCAF Station Trenton, accompanied the performers.

After the show the manager of the group indicated the public would be hearing more from the newly discovered Trenton players.

Mrs. Mary Colling Heads Women's Section of Club

The men's and women's sections of the Belleville Lawn Bowling club joined last night at the clubhouse on Yeomans Street, to close a successful season, distribute prizes, elect officers and enjoy a delightful "pot-luck" supper. The president of the men's club, Austin Wakin, chaired the early part of the meeting, while the social hour was spent in playing bingo.

Before the business meeting of the women's section was completed, it was unanimously agreed that more such parties should be held during the winter months so that the members of both sections would not lose contact and keep alive the spirit of bowling in the community.

Mrs. Mary Colling was the unanimous choice of the meeting to head the women's section of the club in the coming year, Mrs. C. L. Hyde was president during the year. Mrs. Hyde thanked all for the co-operation given during the year, while Mrs. Colling thanked all for the honor conferred. She asked that each and everyone would extend their aid and ability in making club life the best in the district. POLES

Few people then thought that the taciturn man who vowed to stem the "reaction" with force if necessary was a fiercely nationalistic and patriotic Pole.

He was one of those self-educated Polish workers who literally learned to read on Marx, Engels and Lenin. A child of Warsaw slums, he believed that communism was the key to his country's future.

Men of Gomulka's calibre constituted the core of the old pre-war Polish Communist party. They believed that communism was the only answer to Poland's economic plight, and their crusade was aimed against the privileged.

TURNED TO RUSSIA

They believed Russia was the only country which could support their cause. To Russia then they turned, although they knew that Poland's national interest would clash in the future with Soviet interests.

Most of those men were purged by Stalin in the late 1930s. Gomulka escaped the purge by being in Poland at the time.

He fled Poland after the Nazi invasion in 1939.

The political winds changed. The Russians needed Poles to organize a new government. Gomulka, whose anti-state activities in pre-war Poland were well known to the Russians, was one of those. Thus, in 1944, he returned to rule a new, Sovietized Poland.

But few in Poland have ever heard of him. Some doubted that he was a Pole. All the Poles knew that he was there to impose a system they hated and feared.

TRIED AS DEVIATIONIST

Then, in 1949, came his downfall. He was denounced as the "Titoist deviation" charges.

At his trial Gomulka admitted that on some of the issues the party was right. But surprisingly he challenged none of the charges. He spoke long and bitterly, always a master of dialectics. Damned Poles read news dispatches of the trial and didn't believe it.

Gomulka was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. He emerged, a tired, broken man—or so it seemed.

And then, nearly overnight, he was back in power—first secretary of the Polish Communist party.

This time, however, to millions of Poles he was the man who said no to Russia's Nikita Khrushchev.

SUDBURY (CP)—First case of the fall assizes here opened Monday with the trial of El Guay, 37, and his wife, Christina, 27, of Espanola, jointly charged with murder in the slaying of William Snider, 78.

Snider, believed to have died from a beating suffered June 22, was found on June 29 in his lonely shack beside the Spanish River. The Guays, parents of seven children, were arrested July 6 near North Bay.

Dr. H. A. Nestler of Espanola testified that Snider died from 13 fractures of the ribs.

Taxi driver Antonio Landry of Espanola told the court that he saw a large sum of money in Snider's wallet. Police said they found the empty wallet near the shack.

BUILD-UP FOR MARTIN?

Just where do Canadian voters live—in Canada or in the Far East?

The question is prompted by the opinion of the Vancouver Sun that "a proposal to send Hon. Paul Martin on a Canadian goodwill swing through the Far East sounds suspiciously like a build-up for Liberal party leadership."

If anybody wants to build up Mr. Martin for the Liberal party leadership, let them send him on a good will swing through the back concessions and the city streets. Or, better still, let him stay at Ottawa and get the baby bonus increased, or health insurance in operation. Any one of these activities, we feel certain, would bring Mr. Martin more votes than would a Far East tour.

The Vancouver Sun points out that President Eisenhower sent Vice-President Richard Nixon on a journey to the Far East. Mr. Nixon, it says, is Mr. Eisenhower's heir apparent. "If Mr. Martin were not despatched by Prime Minister St. Laurent on a similar errand for Canada the parallel could hardly be missed in the host countries," it says. Perhaps not. Perhaps, as the Sun's cover paper says, it "certainly wouldn't be missed among Mr. Martin's colleagues." Mr. Martin, though, might be pardoned for hoping that it would be missed by some Canadian voters. There is a suspicion that a sea similarity to Mr. Nixon might be somewhat of a handicap in some circles, north of the border as well as south of it, where the Democrats are convinced that Nixon is the Achilles heel in the Republican armor.

QUICK SWITCH

The pace of modern living is terrific!

It is practically impossible to keep up with developments, in the realm of science, aviation, economics and politics.

This poses quite a problem for the man who recalls that it has been said that only the fool is consistent, because consistency involves retaining an unchanged opinion in the face of changing facts.

We had not thought, though, that facts were changing quite as fast as it would appear from a statement by Hon. Thatcher, member of Parliament for Moose Jaw-Lake Centre. Mr. Thatcher was explaining why he formerly espoused the CCF cause and why he is now a Liberal. He said he joined the CCF during the depression years.

"It looked like a good thing. But boy, was I wrong. Their ideas then—for instance government factories for the unemployed—were very sound but of course completely impractical."

From "very sound" to "completely impractical" without even a pause for breath—let alone station identification! That seems to be like a new record, even in this modern day and age.

Or are we to conclude that Mr. Thatcher believes it is possible for an idea to be "sound" and "impractical" at one and the same time?

ATOMIC DEATH WILL BE NO ACCIDENT

K. R. Patrick of Montreal, president of Canadian Aviation Electronics Ltd., told the Canadian Club at Winnipeg the other day that the world's marvellous scientists would be able to solve the problem in connection with the use of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

"Arr error of only one degree in guidance at 5,000 miles would lead to an 80-mile miss," he said. But, he continued, improved electronic techniques will make it possible to use such missiles with pinpoint accuracy within the next few years.

This is the most encouraging news we have heard for months.

We have always had a deep-rooted aversion to being reduced to cosmic dust as the result of a mere stupid accident. Now we can rest assured that the boom that busts us will have been accurately designed for better dying.

A HUNDRED MILES OF ROAD IN SEVENTEEN YEARS

Fort Erie is rejoicing in the arrival of a two-lane highway at its front door. The road took seventeen years to get itself built the full hundred miles from Toronto.

Eastern Ontario residents will read this report with amazement.

Noting the current rate of progress on by-passes at Kingston and Belleville, we can only wonder what was the rush at Fort Erie.

Looks like rank favoritism.

KITCHENETTE IN BUS

Spurred by the competition of new streamlined trains which incorporated several luxury features, bus companies in the United States are doing something on their own. One company has installed card playing facilities at the back of the bus and a kitchenette. Another is trying out an observation lounge at the back; not to be sold, but for the use of all 41 passengers. In addition the latter firm is planning better upholstery and color patterns, as well as air-conditioning. (Fort William Times-Journal).

UPBRINGING

His father and his mother thought	They wanted it to be a place That he could happily recall.
To choose he should be polite. To him in many ways they taught	They hoped his childhood brief would be A lasting happy memory.
The difference 'twixt wrong and right.	When frowns of theirs he had to see
They made it their especial care To have him gracious, kind and fair.	They wished that soon they'd fade away. And when a man he'd grown to be
They touched the home they kept with grace With pleasant smiles they lit the hall.	His friends would often hear him say "My parents did a lot for me. I hope that like them I can be."

Thought-Inducing Actions

New York Times

One of the pictures taken of Adlai Stevenson during his recent presidential campaign in Washington showed the Democratic nominee scratching his left ear. It was not indicating of political significance — and the photographer apologized for the sloppy-looking away without interest in that motion in particular. He simply caught a glimpse of the ear-scratching pose, however, Mr. Stevenson was in the act of thinking.

Ear-scratching is only one of the thought-inducing movements that many of us unconsciously use to accompany — and perhaps (who knows?) facilitate — the thinking process. A close relative, of course, is head-scratching — almost indistinguishable from ear-scratching since the thinker ordinarily scrapes his scalp usually in the vicinity behind the ear. There are in this category also chin-scratching, nose-pulling, nose-tweaking, forelock-twirling knuckle-biting and elbow-stroking.

It might be said (most probably by those who are quick to look for a way to classify people in contrary society) that we are sadly lacking, preferre, in some thought-provoking gestures that were available to our great-grandfathers. Tugging at one's beard, for instance, now seen so rarely — the many-pocketed vest — was a marvelous prelude of explication for thinking fingers." The wearer could think away as reflectively as anybody with his forefingers crooked into a vest pocket on either side; or as pensively as anybody with thumbs hooked in. Best of all, perhaps, those pocket watches that dangled from fob and chain for twirling. Then, too, great-grandfather in his full beard. What strokes of brilliance and flashes of genius has the world missed by substituting the shaving and beard-pulling? It is a question for social metaphysicians.

"Prope"—that is, things or objects we often toy with when thinking—constitute a broad field. Eyeglasses are so versatilely used that they deserve a study of their own. Many a wearer may, when reflection is called for push the glasses up to built.

his forelock, leaving the stems still hooked to his ears. This, it might not be too fantastic to speculate, gives him the appearance (and perhaps the actuality) of looking forward at his worldly problem and backward (for divine inspiration) at the same time. Another eyeglass ploy is to remove the glasses and swing them in gentle circles by one of the stems. This often, though not always, indicates that a kind of restless or annoyed type of thinking is in process—and a man conferring with an employee who is arcing his glasses is advised to be on the alert.

A less ominous habit is the eyeglass tap. This is done by folding the spectacles and applying them in light rhythmic strokes to the desk edge or the side of one's head or one's lower teeth. The last might be assumed to represent a calm thought process that is on the point of fruition — of being verbalized. This can't be assumed of the man who allows the glasses to hang from his mouth, chewing the stems as he is chewing over his thoughts. The symbol of obviously arrant thought — to the point of the eyeglass plays — is the whipping off of the glasses in a quite most effective when accompanied by the jutting jaw).

Other less common props used in the process of thinking number into the hundreds. Rulers, pencils, pencils. Toothpicks are complements of rumination. A good ashtray may be slowly revolved. The swivel chair may be rocked to and fro, or side to side. Not listed in the list of thought accompaniers are paper clips. These can be folded and unfolded, or can be twisted into odd surrealistic shapes (some of which — if the imagination can be freed to believe so) as coiled and tortuous as the course of thought itself.

More Alarming Than Spies

Ottawa Journal

There is a weekly magazine published in Washington called Science that is not devoted to breath-taking tales of do and derring-do in the realm of science but which is published by the American Association for the Advancement of Science. It is an erudite as usually to be far beyond the ken; for example a recent issue contains articles on new advances vaccine, on what is known as ribonucleic acid and deoxyribonucleic acid of bacteria and a mathematical discussion. But it should con.ey our suggestion that the magazine Science is by of and for scientists.

It is interesting then to find its issue of September 28 devoted to the research and freedom of science in present-day Russia. It is a matter of prime importance the report written for the Baltimore Sun by Dr. Owen Lattimore, political affairs at the Institute for Advanced Studies, Princeton. Dr. Lattimore has been recently made to Russia to attend scientific meetings. He found that the scientific party had been astonished "at the friendliness, the openness, and the solid achievements of the Russian scientists." Upon reaching with the editor of the Baltimore Sun asked him to discuss how it was that Russian science could progress so well when it had already been said that science could flourish only in an atmosphere of freedom.

To this Dr. Dyson replied that they were impressed and thought that Russian science as by the improvement in Russian science. The U.S. was still ahead in science but Russia was catching up. Before the war some of his group had worked in Russian laboratories and they recalled that Russian equipment was complicated and inefficient. "Today all that has changed completely. The Russians have learned to make scientific equipment, equal in quantity and quality to any in the world, and they have plenty of people who know how to use it. It is the speed and suddenness of their progress which are impressive."

The second main fact they established was that Russian science was now essentially free, not politically free but scientifically. "Russian physicists enjoy the basic professional freedoms, to work on problems of their own choosing, to publish their results, and to discuss their ideas with foreign colleagues."

Dr. Dyson says this freedom is quite new, "it came suddenly, soon after the death of Stalin," and "it had an intoxicating effect on those scientists allied to them with optimism and self-confidence for the future ..... their enthusiasm and high morale are directly caused by their new experience of freedom."

In conclusion Dr. Dyson states: "It is clear that the Soviet government now understands the fact, which the American government always knew, that scientific progress demands scientific freedom. It is also clear that the Soviet government is spending enormous amounts of money on scientific and seriously intends to make Moscow the scientific capital of the world. They have understood that the power of American science depends on its mobility and openly attracting people and ideas from all over the world. And they intend now to beat us at our own game."

So here is a more testimony to Russia's progress. It seems to surprise some of the scientific party anew that Russians stationed in Canada busy themselves with buying spun us. And the surprise excites us to alarm. Of infinitely greater import would be the flow of reports of Russian progress which we are obviously not getting. Here is piety doings of one Mr. Popov are not within a link year of the Russian lead in Dyson's report. It seems that one of our freedoms is to dwell upon the relatively unimportant.

Anger Harms Human Brain

Brockville Recorder and Times

Because he was "mad at his wife," a Toronto man got behind the wheel of his car and drove at the rate of 110 miles per hour. In his excitement he stalled when his speedometer was broken and he had just had a "fight with his wife." While this certainly doesn't excuse him from driving so fast, it is easy to see how the driving of a habit with which you have been long associated can speed the pedal to the floor board!

Anger, actually, is a very dangerous thing. There are some schools of thought that believe it is quite normal for a child to occasionally toy every so often yet anger is really one of mankind's greatest enemies.

The late Dr. Crile, a Cleveland brain surgeon, was one of the famous books had this to say about anger: "When we are angry we are not our normal selves, because the greater part is blocked off and we are more or less dependent on our primitive brain." And further he said: "Under anger or fear there occurs a decentralization of brain cells which are slowly repaired and under stress of severe anger or fear, or repetition, the brain is permanently injured."

It is easy to see from this that anger never settles anything as nothing is so insensitive as the human mind. Periodically people or situations work the average person into a state that they let their anger do its worst — "blow their cool" is an expression that no human should tempt. Self destruction, to say nothing of harm done to another by anger — hardly comparable to a headache which might be caused by "suppressing that temper."

Personal Health Talks

Everybody Needs Three Glasses of Milk Daily

If physicians know anything about the nature and treatment of chronic joint disability, which I call rheumatis and most victims call arthritis," they certainly keep their knowledge secret. I hope any reader who finds a physician who knows the cause or cure or even treatment for chronic joint disability will tell me, not for my benefit but for the benefit of thousands who follow this column and maybe hundreds who try to follow the advice they find there. Please believe I'm not just flippant about it.

I call insidiously developing joint disability which continues indefinitely rheumatism. Not because rheumatic means anything in particular. It was a guess of the old timers, label to apply to any kind of lameness of backs, limbs, joints, muscles; and it carried a vague suggestion that the victim must have been "exposed" to cold, damp, change of weather, etc., etc., which was enough to satisfy any ignorant customer for a lifetime of it.

If you ask me for advice about rheumatism, the only advice I'll give you is: Consult a physician.

If you ask me for advice about rheumatism — ditto.

In short, if you think I know what I'm talking about, you'll call your joint trouble rheumatiz.

If you dislike the use in quotation marks or add a patronizing "as you call it." I won't under stand what you mean and you won't be hearing from me.

I do not deny that actual chronic arthritis (joint inflammation) occurs. I merely say it is a rare happening as compared with rheumatiz.

The nature of rheumatiz, I contend, is physical degeneration of joint tissues.

The cause in the great majority of cases is nutritional deficiency through the years from childhood up to the present.

I know of no particular remedy or treatment for the rheumatiz. All I can tell you is how to revise and supplement your diet so as to correct the nutritional deficiency responsible for your rheumatiz. Not for a week, a month or a season, but you, for the rest of your life.

Just for instance, if you reject the ounce of cottage cheese containing not less than 1½ pints of milk or the equivalent in dairy products every day for the rest of your life, my advice is not for you.

The concept of rheumatiz is not something I picked out of the air. It is a conviction based on personal and professional lifetime of study of the question, and I present it with confidence that from many reports of persons who have experienced extraordinary benefit from the regimen I recommend for rheumatiz.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE IMPORTANCE OF NOW

Yesterday we considered the life of a man who, being told that he was incurably sick, began to make the most of the little life he believed he had left and one half years twenty-six years later he is still living. Now since the doctors passed the death sentence upon him he has lived as the way he established a pattern of usefulness which makes him a comfort to family and beloved person.

What would you and I do if we knew this were our last day? John Wesley once asked that question of his converts. What would we begin doing that we are not doing now? Would we hurriedly reconsider certain things about which we secretly have an unquiet conscience? Are there injustices and would try to make right and dishonesties which we would try to make good? Would we stop worrying? Would we be more concerned to be rectified or would we relax?

The chances are that most of us will live quite a while yet, but of course we never know. We should not brood about death but we should be ready for it, because it will inevitably come to each of us. It has come to all who have lived before on the earth. Life is now the period in which God has given every one of us in order to prepare ourselves for eternity. It is never too late to mend, but neither is it wise to presume on God's love. For every one of us, "now is the accepted time, behold, now is the day of salvation" (II Cor. 6:2).

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GOING TO!

There is an old saying that "hell is paved with good intentions." How many of us fall behind following that saying of Going To! We have fine intentions but lack the decision to put them into practice.

Take that habit, for example, that you have for so long said you are going to break. You say you are Going To. But when? The most difficult thing in the world is to start that habit. The first step in the breaking of a habit is to make the decision to stop and then to stop. Before you have started to break that habit, do as William James has suggested and make no exceptions.

Rip Van Winkle, you will remember, kept saying that "this one don't count." Well, every effort you make when it comes to the breaking of a habit with which you have been long associated does count. You must make the decision—and keep it. This is more important than anything else. It's making an agreement with yourself that brings relief and satisfaction, and which stands out before others as a genuine triumph.

There are more damaging sayings than this one of Going To. The habit of anxiety of cases nothing is done and something of significance is lost to character. A strong person is one who can make a decision—and carry it to completion.

Breaking a damaging habit is actually easier than it is imagined. After you have cleared that mountain of decision the rest becomes a matter of will power. Think and put in its place a good habit that will help you. That one sure suggestion: When you break a habit, try and put in its place a good habit that you are Going To.

Say that you will!

'401' Completion Five to Ten Years Away if Built Piecemeal Rather Than as a Toll Road

Completion of the new 401 Highway route from Windsor to the Eastern Ontario border may be "five to ten years away" if it is built piecemeal out of current revenues rather than as a toll road.

This is what Belleville and district municipal officials were told at a fact finding committee showed more or less surprise to learn that apparently people in the Quinte district favor higher taxes for motorists in preference to toll roads.

They were asked to express an opinion on whether they would rather see 401 built as a toll road out of revenue, taking possibly five to ten years to complete, or as a toll road to be completed in a possible two years.

Committee chairman John P. Robarts, Q.C., of London reviewed the constitution of his committee noting that it had been on fact finding tours in Michigan, States. It had made one report to the legislature recommending that the provincial government accept the toll highway principle.

He also noted his committee was making a study on a weight-mile tax for commercial vehicles which he described as nothing more than a tax relating to the weight of the vehicle and the number of miles it travels.

NOT SATISFIED

Mr. Robarts said his committee was not satisfied that the present system of taxation provided sufficient money to keep up with highway requirements of present day taxes.

The province was said to be ten years behind in highway construction due to the fact there was just not enough money to meet the need.

Mayor Jane Forrester welcomed the committee to the city.

She referred to the traffic problem in Belleville and said the local expectation was that the new 401 road would greatly relieve congestion in the city.

However, if the new four-lane road was built there was the question of whether trucks would use it. If not the road would do little to relieve the downtown traffic problems.

It was pointed out that truckers will use a toll road only if it means greater profits. Through or express vehicles might be expected to use it, but transports hauling deliveries along the route could be expected to use No. 2 Highway.

Local speakers more or less frowned on the question of whether portions of 401 should be tolled.

J. Grant Rathbun, Trenton haulline operator, said the highway construction problem should be faced in the same way as school construction.

The government didn't ask parents of children attending schools to contribute more toward the education system. He observed that all taxpayers paid the same toward schools and the same should apply with highways.

OPPOSE TOLL ROADS

Tracey Adams, chairman of the Hastings County roads and bridges committee, said the people in his section of the country were opposed to toll roads.

He said they would rather pay higher gasoline taxes to get roads built.

Police Chief Walter Probert urged higher taxes for gasoline and tires to get the 401 road built in a hurry.

Roscoe Robson, M.A. for Hastings West, said one of the members of the select committee on toll roads in Ontario had been looking forward to the 401 road.

"I doubt if you could build the road in ten years considering the amount of construction going on in Ontario," he said.

Elmer Sandercock, M.P. for Hastings West, and one of the members of the select committee on toll roads in Ontario said of this district had been looking forward to the 401 road.

"I question whether the public would go for a toll road after hauling all these years. They are now seeing it constructed in a piecemeal fashion in stages and rather wait and see it built piecemeal."

Committee member Donald C. MacDonald, York South, noted there was ten-year backlog in highway construction which would take two billion 800 million dollars to catch up.

SHORT OF REQUIREMENT

"Ten years ago Ontario was and Ontario is now spending but $184 millions a year, or about $100 millions short of the requirement.

"Revenues from motor vehicle licences and gas tax this year was about $145 million," he said.

He for one would hate to think highway construction go ahead at the expense of education.

Norris Whitney, MLA for Prince Edward-Lennox, claimed that construction of 401 out of revenue was holding up building of local roads.

It was noted that there were 948 miles of the 401 road which had not even been started. Mr. Sandercock noted, however, that the right-of-way between Belleville and Trenton had been purchased.

Committee members observed that tolling of 401 would release money for other highway construction in the province.

John Yarmych, Q.C., Bellwoods, Toronto, said he was surprised to find that apparently residents of this district favored higher motor vehicle taxation to toll roads.

Reeve Ivor Herring, Belleville city manager, asked whether in view of the expressed wish of the area we could afford to wait five to ten years for the completion of the 401 highway.

Members of the select committee attending the meeting were as follows:

Chairman: John P. Robarts, Q.C. (London North); Y. Jerome Morrison, Q.C. (Lambton West); Donald C. MacDonald (York South); Toronto; Alexander Mackenzie (York North), Woodbridge; Peter Manyer (Stormont); Berwick; John Root (Wellington-Dufferin), Orton; W. Elmer Sandercock (Hastings West), Belleville; John Yaremko, Q.C. (Bellwoods), Toronto. Secretary: J. Keith Collins, executive officer, office of the prime minister, Port Credit.

Outline to Council Aims and Objects Of Association

The organization and aims of the Lake Ontario Development Association, together with the potentials for the district, were outlined to members of city council Monday evening.

Mr. D. W. Larry, Trenton, chairman of Zone 3 of the Association, addressed council on the Association and explained the aims and accomplishment of the body since its constitution were outlined by Percy Kingdon, Belleville, general manager of the Association.

Mr. Larry noted that the Association took in nine counties ranging from Bowmanville to Napanee and from Trenton to Peterborough. Its aims being to promote industrial development and the tourist industry.

He said the potential of the area was unlimited but reminded that the Association could do for Belleville or any other centre would depend upon the interest shown by the organization.

"The Association is like a big chamber of commerce," Mr. Larry said.

He noted that the cost to each municipality was assessed at seven cents per capita, the average budget of the Association expected to be something over $20,000 per year, including a $10,000 government grant.

Mr. Kingdon outlined the program of work scheduled for 1956 and 1957.

PUBLISH BROCHURES

This included the publication of two industrial brochures; setting up of a committee to investigate the construction of industrial buildings for new industry; setting up files for each municipality giving facts and figures on the area; and obtaining industrial prospects.

Ten thousand tourist folders for the area were being published and distributed and attendance at sportsmen shows in both New York and Cleveland would be made.

Study activities included highways and agriculture.

Referring to industrial prospects, Mr. Kingdon assured that no partiality would be shown by the Association with respect to industry.

"All we can do is bring the prospects to the municipality; then it is up to the municipality to sell the industry on locating."

Mr. Kingdon said that centres within the association were not competitors for industry. Rather metropolitan Toronto was the big competitor.

Mr. Kingdon said that municipalities within the association were expected shortly to make announcements of four new industries locating, these industries having been original prospects of the association.

Quebec University Students Mass to Demand More Help

MONTREAL (CP) — Representatives of Quebec province's 25,000-plus university students gathered today at Quebec to attempt to work out a request to Premier Duplessis for more financial assistance.

Students at Laval, the old French-language university in the capital, are scheduled to stage a mass demonstration before the legislature buildings to point up their demands.

In a decision that may indicate the course of the joint six-university conference, Laval students said they will not ask the premier to accept the federal university grants he has rejected for five years running.

His last rejection came last week. In Ottawa Monday, Prime Minister St. Laurent indicated he plans to proceed regardless with plans to double the annual $50,000,000 federal grants to universities. They would be distributed through the National Conference of Canadian Universities if the conference agrees.

NO DANGER

The prime minister said he hopes the provincial universities realize there is "no danger to them in accepting them."

Premier Duplessis' rejection of the new federal proposal was on grounds that the grants still are a federal violation of provincial rights in education fields.

Quebec universities accepted the grants only in their first year—1951.

The six-university conference will follow the Laval demonstration. Delegates will be present all the province's universities.

"The students must get the federal grants," student president Jean Thibeault of the University of Montreal said Monday night. "If Mr. Duplessis is opposed to Quebec universities accepting the money, he should provide the institutions with an equivalent sum."

Mr. Thibeault will be one of 12 delegates. Six are from Laval's president Morris Shohet of McGill will lead 10 delegates.

The Laval student body decision was in the form of a resolution which deplored the lack of positive action by the Quebec government in universal financial aid.

It was passed 19 to 0 by the student council with three abstentions. All 2,000 students were urged to cut classes for the demonstration.

Spokesmen for the three Montreal institutions involved emphasized that they would not be joining in the Laval demonstration. But they said the one reason for this was the $100,000 tramway riots here a year ago in which a student protest demonstration against higher Montreal Transportation Commission fares blew into a wild attack on MTC vehicles.

Police investigation showed that hooligans and teen-agers took up the protest after the students had started to break off.

Judge Orders Restraint of Gold Cup Award

DETROIT (AP)—Circuit Judge Joseph Moynihan Monday signed an order restraining the American Power Boat Association from awarding the Gold Cup in the 1958 speedboat race next Sept. 1 on the Detroit River.

The court action was asked by Horace E. Dodge and Judge Moynihan said he will entertain a motion for a final decree Friday. The association has insisted the courts lack jurisdiction.

Dodge contends that Gold Cup racing rules were broken when boats were allowed to make qualifying runs the day of the race. His My Sweetie Dora was eliminated when boats qualifying the day of the race bettered the time my Sweetie Dora posted the day before.

The Gold Cup race ended in a dispute and the association's inboard committee hasn't yet come up with a decision.

Miss Thriftway of Seattle finished second but disqualified for race judges, who said it knocked down a buoy marking the race course on its final turn. Miss Pepsi of Detroit then was declared the winner.

Miss Thriftway's driver denied striking the buoy and said Miss Pepsi took it down. Race judges then withdrew their decision and sent the race to the association for a verdict.

The survey, arranged by the Toronto Building Centre and conducted among housewives, businessmen and college students, shows that 72 per cent of those surveyed are prepared to pay higher taxes for improvement in municipal services. Representatives of the six districts answered to the roll call, "Highlights of Guelph Officers' Conference." Their short reports of this conference, which took place last spring, described the various speakers addresses, community singing, and other events.

The districts and their representatives were, Northumberland East, Mrs. W. Hume, Cobourg; Northumberland West, Mrs. F. Macklin, Fenella; Hastings North, Mrs. R. Irwin, Gilmour Ford; Hastings East, Mrs. A. Bates, Roslin; Hastings West, Mrs. Le-H. Finkle, Foxboro, and Prince Edward, Mrs. R. Bush, Consecon.

GUEST SPEAKERS

Mrs. George Burkitt introduced the guest speakers, Mrs. James Haggerty, Napanee, vice-president for the eastern subdivision, and Miss Helen McKercher, director of home economics of the extension branch.

Mrs. Haggerty subtitled her address, "Mrs. MacPhatter, president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario, (FWIO), who was unable to attend as planned.

In her chairman's address, Miss Brickman welcomed those present. She reminded the group of the theme, describing how vision was necessary when the W.I. was first created in 1897. She spoke of the privileges which belong to the women in Ontario, but which are not part of the lives of women in many parts of the world. The speaker described what the W.I. does to help these less fortunate people. "We must accept our challenge to face the future with faith and courage," Miss Brickman said in closing.

In her report on Citizenship and Education, Mrs. Charles Jenks, Codrington, elaborated on the various types of activities performed by the W.I. in this area. Teaching methods employed many things, such as showing students films on Canada and other countries. In this manner they learn to become good, well-informed citizens. Mrs. Jenks pointed out the danger of television to education stating, "I feel we do everything possible to raise the level of television." She declared many people are becoming addicts instead of fans as far as television is concerned.

DISTRICT ANNUALS

GLEANINGS

"Gleanings from our District Annuals," an address presented by Mrs. G. Burkitt, Frankford, brought out helpful points for the members by describing activities completed by different branch clubs. One W.I. group helped in the building of a community hall.

Mrs. Burkitt warned the members not to allow meetings to become too domineering. "In these days of strenuous living," she declared, "we don't want to let the W.I. is making our lives too busy, so keep it simple."

She continued by telling the women about more accomplishments of the various groups. Many branches are aiding new Canadians to become settled in this country by sponsoring reading and speaking lessons. The cultural side of W.I. work was pointed out when she told of one club which chartered a bus to attend the Shakespearean Festival in Stratford. Many groups honored their hard-working members by sending them to the Institute Holiday which took place in Guelph and Kemptville last August. One branch placed a worthwhile book in every public library district.

"In order to exert efforts," she pointed out, "we must have enthusiasm." She closed by reading a poem, "Enthusiasm".

At the close of the morning session guests viewed the display tables which contained prize-winning exhibits from a competition held in Trenton. Good displays and the articles shown were a luncheon cloth and napkins, crocheted hooked rug, dainty aprons, samples of embroidery work, and crocheted table mats and pot holders.

The afternoon session was presided over by Mrs. M. Rutherford, Grafton.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME

An address of welcome was given by Mayor Jane Forrester. "You are making a great contribution to the well-being of your communities, your provinces, your country, and the world," she stated. She praised the women for their work dedication to the Institute.

Mrs. Kenneth Nicol, Madoc, made the reply, thanking the mayor.

The report on community activities and public relations was presented by Mrs. Grant Kerr, Plainfield. She opened her report by reading some of the 13 call subjects dealing with this topic which appeared in the W.I. branches. One such subject was "A Suitable Christmas Gift for the Aged." Mrs. Kerr listed topics which branches had chosen as activities in which the various groups participated. These include making of hospital calls, scholarship awards, pot-luck suppers, tours and bus trips, gift exchanges between branches, and money-raising projects. "Grasp the opportunity of doing good," she advised. The speaker concluded by saying that in working with a neighbor a member is striving for better public relations and a better world.

The next report, "Home Economics and Canadian Life" was discussed by Mrs. Wilfred Forestall, Madoc. She presented roll call ideas and motions which related to the subject of her report. Many club meetings have concentrated on mental health. Other medical topics used at club meetings were concerned with cancer, diabetes, high blood pressure, old age and mental hygiene.

Modern trends in home furnishings, first-aid in the home, safety in the home, etc., and the different uses of the electric mixer were other popular topics used at W.I. meetings. In her closing remarks Mrs. Forrest said, "Tomorrow is entitled "A Recipe for Today."

In place of Mrs. G. MacPhatter, FWIO president, who was absent, Mrs. James Haggerty read her report. Mrs. Haggerty, a W.I. worker herself, completed over the past years and that planned for the future.

"During my term of office," the report read, "many changes have been made in the form of office, in handling the business having to do with the constitution and policies."

NEW MEMBERS ADDED

The report went on to say, "... Mrs. Ray Furmidge, Port Hope, 1953, our organization was just going into a membership slump. Mrs. Furmidge solved the problem to the branch members and they acted accordingly. The result is seen in the present upward trend.

In 1955, groups contributed close to $10,000 for sewing machines for underprivileged widows, food relief fund of nearly $30,000 was collected. Institutes also labored hard to aid in financing delegates expenses to the conference in Ceylon.

But W. I. is primarily an education and this is further pointed out. Last year a scholarship fund brought a Canadian student to Canada for further education. A study was made of auxiliary classes work. This is used when a student needs specialized training.

Future plans were also considered. On February 19, 1957, the W.I. movement will be 80 years old. In that same year the 5th national convention will be held in Ottawa. Next year also the exhibit of goods will become national. It was provincial in scope in the late 1st 16 members from Ontario, including five delegates, will attend the Associated Country Women of the World Conference in Ceylon.

The report was concluded by describing a dozen ways to make the W.I. work succeed. Among these was the hint to attend all meetings, even if the weather is poor, and the importance of each member can make or break the organization."

The afternoon session closed with two readings. "My Land, My Land a Wedding", and "Why Worry" by Mrs. Pascoe, Melrose.

ANNIVERSARY DINNER

A 30th anniversary birthday cake was cut at the dinner which was held in the evening at Tabernacle United Church.

At this time, Mrs. C. Holmes, Bellrose, read highlights of the Belleville area. She reviewed the work of the Belleville area for the past years. In June, 1928, an organization meeting was held in Belleville for the district convention in Belleville. The speaker paid tribute to the charter members who made the organization a success.

She continued by giving an account of the first convention. Over 1,000 attended the event held in the city hall. The banquet was free, food being donated by various people. Bedrersville Boys' Band played various selections during the meal and served for different contests.

Reports from district members have been 14 convention chairmen. In describing the convention, Mrs. Holmes also summed up the W. I. ideal. "We treasure the past," she stated, "live in the present, future . . . and may we ever keep before us the ever great motto, 'For Home and Country'. This is a challenge — this is an opportunity."

Mrs. M. B. Weese, a woman who attended the very first convention, proposed a toast based on the convention theme to which Mrs. Haggerty replied.

Two solos, "I Love Life", and "Where My Caravan Has Rested" were sung by Mrs. Gordon Fox, Consecon.

The group then returned to the afternoon session when a duet was sung by Mrs. Weese and Mrs. Bert Bush.

Mrs. Beth Davidson, Belleville, rendered a clarinet solo, and following this the Institute choir from Institute groups in the three counties presented a review of their accomplishments. In these organizations for girls between 16 and 25 years, members discussed on hair styling, floral arrangements, corsages, party decorations and other topics. Joint meetings are often held with the Young Farmers' group.

The Prince Edward group presented a skit "Play Safe with Food, Health with Milk," in connection with their project of "Canada Day". Mrs. Grover Smith, Picton, home economist, discussed the skills acquired by girls in these clubs. The winter project will be "Cotton Can Be Smart".

Two members of Hastings County club, Quinte Gardeners, demonstrated ways to beautify home surroundings. They expressed their ideas by the use of a large poster showing a house, barn and surroundings. They "planted" evergreens and "painted" the buildings on the poster board.

The Northumberland group was represented by two girls who modelled "What Shall I Wear?" to describe a well-planned school costume.

EXTENSION WORK

Miss Helen McKercher, director of home economics extension branch, was introduced by Mrs. Burkitt.

It is a most challenging time for us to be connected with extension work," she said, adding the important thing is not that there are a "terrific number of people present at a short course; the important thing is that these people are receiving help — apply what they have learned. That is what the extension service is interested in accomplishing. This service wishes to help people help themselves."

The speaker discussed "Home and Country" and how efforts is received by all W.I. members. She advised subscribers to take their own copy of the women. This is a good public relations project and will be found to be interest other women in the Institute.

Mrs. Haggerty once more represented the absent F.W.I.O. president by reading the latter's address.

Before commencing the report, women of a hope chest contest were announced and cheques presented to Carrying Place branch, first prize; Wellington branch, second prize and Colborne branch, third prize.

FAREWELL MESSAGE

Mrs. McPhatter's address was in the form of a farewell and farewell message to the W.I. She is the retiring president, having served in that capacity for three years. In considering her retirement, Mrs. McPhatter regards it with mixed feelings—happy at the accomplishments made but sorrowful at the thought of leaving.

"But, above all these feelings, is the deep pride I have in the attitude has given me a chance to work with you, the people of Ontario." She thanked the members for the happiness and aid given her during the past seven years.

Her address closed with a message to all members. "The secret of success rests with you, the individual. It is your business responsibility — but one which has been accepted every year."

Mrs. Haggerty closed the reading of the president's address with two poems, "Yesterday, Today, tomorrow," the latter being written by the speaker herself.

Before the day's session was brought to a close, Mrs. Goodfellow, wife of the minister of the Department of Agriculture, spoke briefly.

Reception committee for the morning session included: Mrs. W. J. Tufts, and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, Belleville; Mrs. Max Burnside, Madoc and Mrs. Roy Badgley, Melrose, formed the afternoon committee. Mrs. Mac Shorey, Foxboro, and Mrs. Selden Morton, Corbyville, were in charge of registration.

Alpha'Lambda To Hold 'Ritual Of Jewels' Banquet

The regular meeting of the Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was held recently at the home of Mrs. W. Davidson, with Miss Earl Mountain assisting.

The manual was read by Mrs. J. Shenkenberg and Mrs. R. Laughlan. Mrs. B. Dowuman spoke on an interesting topic, "Speech," and later all the members answer roll call with a "gem of Jewels."

It has been decided to hold the annual "Ritual of Jewels" banquet at the Trenton Golf and Country Club. Three chapters will be guests of Alpha Lambda. They are Gamma Mu and Xi Alpha Beta from Belleville, and Delta Alpha from Trenton.

Miss Harriet Stevens will be the guest speaker and Mayor Jane Forrester will be the guest of honor.

It was decided that the doll draw will be held at Kuntze's Appliance Store in December. She is a beautiful doll and will have a bassinet and a layette.

Tempting refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. W. Davidson and co-hostess, Mrs. E. Kuntze.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

I DON'T THINK MUCH OF IT!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

What do you think of a friendship between a girl of 22 and a boy of 17?

The girl is myself, and the boy is Johnny. I like very much but am self-conscious about seeing because of the difference in our ages. He is always asking me to, and while I often accept, I also often refuse because my friends talk about it and don't seem to approve. They admit that he looks older than I do, but they still say he is too young for me.

Do you think five years makes so much difference? — Helen T.

Dear Helen:

Let's put it this way: five years ought — and the word "ought" should be underlined — make a big difference. If they don't, I think the chances are they are very immature for a young woman of 22.

It's quite true that sometimes a boy is mentally and emotionally older than his years, but there's not a lot he "looks older" doesn't necessarily prove it. Are this boy's interests older than his actual age, or do you find yourself more interested in the activities of his age than those normal to your own? Since this 17-year-old must still be in high school, and you either in college or at work in some position you haven't gone to work at all but are just drifting along amazing yourself as best you can—it would seem rather odd that you would be seriously interested in teenage pursuits.

Or suppose this young fellow actually is more mature than the average 17-year-old. Even so, adults are going to consider him merely an exceptionally bright boy. They're not going to accept him in their groups as they would another adult. Would you be further upset your time with him than with friends of the same age?

If you would, then, again, it looks as though you were very immature.

If you just want to go with this teenager to a movie, concert, lecture, concert or something else in which you are both interested, that's one thing. But if what you have in mind is a steady friendship in which you see the boy as often as you would a young man of your own age, then—in answer to the question you asked at the beginning of your letter—I think the whole thing is very inappropriate and that you had better give serious consideration to what your friends say.

And one more thing. If you haven't got a job, my advice is to get one and have something sound to occupy your mind.

THERE'S NO EASY WAY OUT OF THIS MESS

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

About a year ago, when my husband was away on a business trip, I was staying with a girl friend who lives in the same town we do, this girl friend introduced me to a young man who had recently moved to our city. The four of us—this young man and I and my girl friend and her friend—went out together a couple of times while my husband was gone, and I liked him so much that I never told him I was married and have gone out with him quite often since then. I know my girl friend didn't tell him I was married, either, because several months ago he asked me to marry him.

I put him off, telling him I wasn't ready to make up my mind, but of course the real reason I said that was because I didn't know what to do. He is an awfully fine fellow, and I just feel as though I can't hurt him by telling him the truth, but what can I do? He keeps pressing me for an answer and I've got to say something. — Maryanne

Dear Maryanne:

That kind of a girl are you anyhow?

I don't believe for a minute that the reason you don't want to tell this young man the truth is because you don't want to hurt him. It's because you don't want him to find out what a cheat you are—cheating on two men at once, your husband and this presumably decent young man. What you want is to find some miraculous way of getting out of the mess you've liberately got yourself into which will leave you a glamorous memory to the man you have so comfortably exploited.

Well, sister, if you've picked me to pass a miracle for you, you've picked the wrong gal. As I see it, you have just two convictions:

You can either make a clean breast of the whole thing, or you can simply turn down the marriage proposal and let it go at that. I'm not recommending either for the other. The choice is up to you.

Dessert Bridge Press Club Style

By Mary Moore

One of my biggest assignments of the year is the Press Club's Dessert Bridge Party.

It does my heart good to make all of those calorie-packed desserts, tote them off to the party on the back seat, floor, and in the trunk of the car, spread them on the long table with all the other girls' creations, and then watch as the bridge players line up for them, and just about beat trying to choose. Some don't bother to make choices—they take samples of 5 or 6. I don't wonder, for they all looked so good.

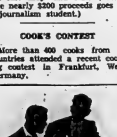
I know there are girls in this reading audience who are expecting me to tell the items that were most popular and that had eye appeal.

The piece de resistance and featured and photographed table centre was made by my precious Lillian, who is my righthand man, not a press club member, but a guardian angel. Lillian's triumph is Overnight Fruity Salad. I'll give you that recipe further down.

The pies went like hot cakes. They were lemon meringue, raisin and pumpkin. A business I made up went like a leafy tree before locusts. It was an angel food cake sliced into 16 neat slices with a knife, and arranged overlapping around the outside edge of an outsize glass plate. In the centre was a 9-inch bowl full of whipped cream (1 pint unwhipped) into which I had crushed slowly Brazil nuts, chopped candied ginger and chopped green maraschino cherries—about 1-2 cup each. Sort of a tutti-frutti cream to ladle over the slices of angel cake. The girls lapped it up and it was very easy to make and serve 16.

Our beloved president, Norma Sidwell, known as Hungarian Norma, who makes Hungarian tortes. We bought four (for $16.00) and they were very showy and curiosity-provoking and cut into 16 or 20 pieces each.

A pan of double decker brownies disappeared before I could see it go. It is a simple recipe which I will give you later. There were jellied creations, parfait and graham cracker pies, and of course five gallons of the lovely ice cream to top off anyone's plate who fell underfed.



LILLIAN'S OVERNIGHT FRUIT SALAD

In top of double boiler mix together 3 egg yolks, beaten, 2 tablespoons each sugar and vinegar, 2 tablespoons orange juice, 1 tablespoon butter and shake of salt. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until thick. Cool. Add 1 cup each drained canned, pitted white and black cherries, canned pineapple chunks, seedless green grapes, sour cream—whipped, the flesh from 1 medium fresh pineapple diced, chopped finely (save the shell with pine intact for it is to be the container), 1 tin drained mandarin orange sections, 2 cups miniature marshmallows. Stir the drained fruit and marshmallows into the cool custard and fold in the whipped cream. Chill 24 hours.

To serve spoon some of the fruit mixture into the pineapple shell with pine on, (Lillian quarrelled here and four of the lucky bridge players each had one of these masterpieces.) The remainder of the fruit custard went into a huge bowl with scalloped edges. In each scallop Lil tucked a garnish of sugar-frosted blue grape clusters, flanked by Mandarin orange sections. A beautiful and edible picture—eaten to the last drop—and fast. (P.S.—The nearly $2000 proceeds goes to a journalism student.)

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

TODAY'S GOOD HINT FOR GOOD TALK

I'm sure you'll agree that you are attracted to people who say "I like" more readily than to those who say "I don't like" or "I dislike." Liking is young, strong, constructive, can be a shining quality. Disliking is negative, very often destructive, and too often suggests crotchetiness. It's pleasanter to be known for your likes. If they are good likes . . . and to say "I like" is more becoming for your facial expression, and puts a lilt in your voice. Try it!

WONDERFUL NEW HOME ADDRESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Wonderful things are happening for my husband and me in our plans for this coming Christmas. For the past several years we have been living either with his parents or with my uncle and aunt (my parents are not living), first while he was in the Army for his two years of service, and then when he was sent to Europe for his company. Now he is back here permanently in the home office, and we have just bought a small ranch-style home in which we can move the first of December. Our first Christmas in our own home! My question, so important to us: Would it be proper to put our new address on the envelopes of our Christmas cards? — Edith.

Indeed it's proper to put his wonderful new address on the envelopes of your Christmas cards. It's most important and practical that you do everything to announce this new address, with relatives and friends, with neighbors and some acquaintances. If you wish, and your husband's co-workers, if he wishes.

You may write the name and address on the flap of the envelopes. Or you may (I suggest you do) have stickers printed with the same and new address:

Mr. and Mrs. John Clark
7 All-Star Drive
Haven 2, New York

And you may also add a little note on your Christmas card, perhaps on the page opposite the message: "We have wonderful news to share with you. We now have our own home, and we're to celebrate Christmas for the first time in our own home! Here's the address—." (Include the telephone number also, if you wish.)

PROPER FOR HER TO GIVE - HOUSEWARMING FOR HER SISTER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would like to ask you if it would be proper for me to give my sister a housewarming. I realize that it is not considered proper for a member of the bride's family or the groom's family to give a shower for the bride, and I am wondering if the same pertains to a housewarming. Please advise me about this, and explain if there are differences or exceptions. — B.A.

It is entirely proper for you to give a housewarming for your sister and her husband in their new home. The reason why it is not considered proper for a sister to give a bridal shower and is considered proper for a sister to give a housewarming is: guests invited to a shower must bring gifts, for this is in the nature of the occasion; while guests invited to a housewarming may or may not bring gifts, just as they prefer.

Ann Shipley Gives Club Ideas on Capital Punishment

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Ann Shipley, Liberal member of Parliament for Timiskaming who served for three years on a special committee studying amendments to the Criminal Code, says she favors capital punishment and execution by the injection of a deadly drug.

Mrs. Shipley spoke to the Ontario Business and Professional Women's Clubs Saturday about the committee, which tabled a report in the Commons and Senate June 27 urging retention of capital punishment but substitution of electrocution or the gas chamber for hanging. There was no parliamentary debate on the report but legislation based on its proposals is expected at the next session.

Mrs. Shipley said it was her own opinion that the injection of a deadly drug was the most humane method of execution, provided it was done by a doctor.

"But it would be unreasonable to expect a medical man to take a life," she said. "It is against his oath."

NOT UNANIMOUS

Mrs. Shipley said the committee's recommendation to retain capital punishment was not unanimous. Those who were opposed sympathized with the prisoner and ignored the victim and the victim's family. They also feared an innocent person might be hanged.

"I am concerned about the victim and potential victims," she said, "If the threat of capital punishment saves one life every five or 10 years it is worth retaining."

Although innocent persons had been executed elsewhere there was no record of it in Canada. "It would be dreadful," she said. "So is murder."

GROWTH COMMITTEE

Mrs. Shipley quoted a committee recommendation that wardens of provincial jails, who now decide whether a prisoner should be punished for misbehavior, be required to submit their decision to a higher authority as is done by federal penitentiary wardens. It might prevent unnecessary punishment.

"In 1854 eight prisoners were beaten in federal penitentiaries," Mrs. Shipley said. "In that same period 250 to 250 were lashed in jails of one province."

Regarding lotteries the committee recommended that any organization sponsoring bingo games cannot issue more than $5,000 in prizes a year and that door prizes for any occasion be restricted to $50 retail value.

It would prevent racketeers from making large profits from functions that are meant to promote charities.

ONLY FIVE PER CENT

Mrs. Shipley said that after deducting their expenses some organizers of lotteries contribute only five per cent to charities when they could have contributed 25 per cent.

J. W. Pickersgill, minister of citizenship and immigration, told the BPWC Sunday that he will recommend the government drop "immigration" from his title.

Important as immigration was to Canada's development citizenship needed to be emphasized more if the most desirable type of society was to be attained.

The Ontario BPWC's 1957 conference is to be in Ottawa Oct. 18-20.

BEAUTY

GOOD GROOMING STARTS WITH YOUR FOUNDATION

Frequent washing of the foundation is a grooming necessity. Clean and soften with dry detergent and a small, brush.

Just because your underthings don't see the bright light of day the way your outer clothes do, doesn't mean that you should neglect their soap-and-water care. The nightly sudsing of your lingerie is the first step toward complete grooming loveliness. Bra, panties and slip will wear infinitely longer, too, if perspiration and body oils are washed out of them nightly. If you have the kind that need to be ironed lightly, it's still a good idea to soak them out after each wearing and iron them later when you can. Perspiration left in a fine fabric such as silk, rayon or nylon has a deteriorating effect on their color and also on their durability.

Don't neglect your girdles. Elastic ones needn't be washed nightly, but they should be laundered frequently. We mention this especially because many women who are fastidious about lingerie sometimes slip up on girdle-washing. In laundering girdles there are a few things to keep in mind:

Close side fasteners, remove unwashable trimmings and detachable garters. Use enough detergent in lukewarm water (100 to 110 F.) for rich, active suds.

If hand-washed, squeeze suds through the garment. Spot-wash heavily soiled areas by rubbing with dry detergent and a soft brush. Rinse twice. In an automatic washer, use a warm temperature setting and a 3-to-5 minute washing cycle. In a conventional washer, use the same time setting but don't put the garment through the wringer.

Dry your girdle away from direct heat. You can place it flat on a Turkish towel and use an electric fan to speed drying. If you hang it to dry, don't clip clothespins over elastic areas.

If your girdle is a light nylon affair, you can suds it out nightly in less than a minute. This is better than using a lot of time, energy and water and bear to scrub it once it's had time to become really soiled. Furthermore, putting on a soiled girdle in the morning is a sure way to lower your morale.

The slightly heavier foundation garments certainly deserve a sudsing two or three times a week. If possible, have two foundations—one to wash and one to wear while the other's drying. Clean from the inside out is the goal of perfection in grooming—and, of course, a freshly laundered foundation snugs up to your body for maximum figure control wherp it counts most.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

MT. PLEASANT WMS-WA

RAWDON — Mrs. Roy Trashter was hostess on Wednesday afternoon for the postponed meeting of Mount Pleasant WMS and DA with 23 ladies in attendance.

Mrs. Will Jeffs officiated at the piano and played quiet music.

The W.A. president opened with a Thanksgiving message and all sang a Scottish Psalter.

In the business period the report of bazaar committees was read by Mrs. James Hoard and the fall rally at Carmel was announced.

The W.M.S. president took charge and read a message in "The World is a Field," all sang "Jesus Calls Us," followed by prayer.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen stated there were six life members and 22 paid annual members to date. 18 members answered the Thanksgiving roll call.

The October collection and the autumn Thankoffering was gathered by Mrs. James Howard, and dedicated by Mrs. Herbert Smith.

The nominating committee appointed last year will bring in a new slate of officers at the November meeting.

Mrs. Ross Jeffs, treasurer, reported $145 to date. She remitted $30 in September to Presbyterial treasurer.

Subscriptions are now due for "Missionary Monthly," and "World Friends" and should be handed in as soon as possible.

The report of the WMS rally held last week at St. Paul's, Stirling, was given by Mrs. Kenneth Weaver and Miss Ruth Linn. The October monthly has a story and a picture of Miss Maria Chela, who came to visit Canada as a representative of the women of the African church.

The stewardship secretary read a poem, and the Christian Citizenship secretary an article giving a descriptive account of "The Elizabeth Fry Society, and Its Aims."

The Community Friendship secretary recorded over 39 calls made in home and hospital.

Thanks were expressed for hospitality and program.

NEW ROADS IN BURMA

Mrs. Ross Jeffs outlined "New Roads in Burs." Burma has had a turbulent history from the days of Marco Polo, who wrote about it 200 years before Columbus started on his voyage eastward.

In 1837 Burma was separated from India, and became a Crown colony. In 1813 Adoniram Judson, pioneer American Baptist missionary, entered Burma and his wife, Ann Judson, was the founder of Christian schools in Burma.

In December, 1949, an international Christian conference met in Bagnoho, Thailand, to survey post war problems. They found Christian communities had grown, and that youth work was steadily developing. The need for medical service is always present, so a Christian medical association has been formed with headquarters in Rangoon.

In 1952, "The World Council for Christian Youth in India," is progressing and the work in Burma is hopeful for the future.

The Thanksgiving program, arranged by Mrs. F. Wrightman, opened with the rendition of "Come Ye Thankful People," and a prayer in unison of general thanksgiving. Mrs. Don Johnston read the Bible lesson and the meditation was read from ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S., L.A.

Mrs. J. J. Luffman read a most interesting report on the recent Hastings Deanery W.A. held in Trinity Church, Frankford. An article written by Bishop Renison on "Martha's" place of importance in the Bible, was well read by Mrs. Lois Chambers.

Several items of interest were discussed by the members. The first chapter of the new study book "East of Burma" was given by Mrs. Hawkes and Mrs. E. Dickenson.

The members were invited to hold their November meeting at home of Mrs. J. Luffman.

The closing prayers were taken by Miss Elizabeth Woodhouse.

A social half hour wes enjoyed.

"The Upper Room."

Mrs. Frank Jeffs read a paper, which she had prepared on the theme, "Thoughts on Thanksgiving." She enumerated many things for which to be thankful, especially "The Bible," "God's Love for All," and "Prayer." These three are most important in life.

At the close of her message she offered a prayer for the missionary, Miss Millicent House, and all others who serve in foreign fields.

Mrs. W. C. Fletcher sang "The Dutch National Anthem."

The president read a poem, "Autumn Thanksgiving," and after the service closed, the hostess served candy, assisted by Mrs. Ruth Linn.

Central Prison For Women Is Opposed

TORONTO (CP)—A resolution seeking abolition of a central penitentiary for women, suggesting that women federal prisoners be detained in provincial institutions, is to be presented to both the federal and Ontario governments by the Ontario Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

The group, holding its annual conference here during the week-end, said that confining women offenders in their own areas would enable relatives to visit them during their confinement. The association would facilitate rehabilitation after a prisoner's release.

The provincial BPWC, representing 2,500 women, Saturday agreed also to petition the Ontario government to establish juvenile and family courts where there are none, assuming the entire cost of their services, and to raise the age limit for juveniles to 18 from 16.

Another resolution will request the Ontario government repeal its law restricting the manufacture and sale of yellow-colored margarine.

Opposing a section of the Jurors Act which states that women may claim by application exemption from jury duty for a year, the BPWC decided to ask Premier Frost to delete the section, placing women on an equal footing with men for jury duty.

Jobs Remained At Record Level During September

OTTAWA (CP) — Employment in Canada remained at a record level in September with a general shortage of many kinds of workers continuing unrelieved, the government said Monday.

A monthly statement by the bureau of statistics and the labor department said manpower supplies tightened moderately in the month as the seasonal withdrawal of students and other short-term workers slightly exceeded the post-summer decline in labor requirements.

The number of persons with jobs was estimated at 5,676,000, a decline of 147,000 from the previous month's record of 5,823,000. The decline totalled 105,000 in agriculture and 42,000 in non-farm industries.

The statement said the number of persons without jobs and seeking work and the number registered for employment at National Employment Service offices eased moderately during the month.

FEWER SEEK JOBS

The bureau of statistics estimated that the number of persons without jobs and seeking work at Sept. 22 totalled 97,000, compared with 103,000 at Aug. 18 and 138,000 at Sept. 17, 1953.

Registrations for employment at NES offices totalled 158,000, a reduction of 11,300 from Aug. 16 and a drop of 27,200 from Sept. 15, 1953.

Unfilled NES job applications in Ontario at Sept. 20, with the figures for Aug. 16 and Sept. 15, 1955, in brackets: 68,825 (67,228 and 69,250).

Military Junta Seizes Control Of Honduras

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—A three-man military junta ruled this Central American republic today in the wake of what apparently was the first bloodless political coup in its history.

Julio Lozano, 71, was removed as chief of state by the junta led by Gen. Roque Rodriguez, leader of the Francisco Morazon Military Academy.

Other members of the junta are Col. Hector Carrasco, chief of the Honduras air force, which played a leading role in the revolt, and Maj. Roberto Galves, son of former President Juan Manuel Galvez.

A Honduras broadcast said one of the first acts of the junta was to proclaim illegal the election two weeks ago of a Constituent Assembly for this banana-growing country of slightly over 1,500,000 population. The broadcast called the election "a national shame" and said it did not represent the popular will.

There was no report of fighting in connection with Sunday's coup. Apparently air forces planes threatened to bomb the presidential palace, and Lozano submitted his resignation.

THREE MAJOR

A government shakeup, placing all the organs of the state firmly in the hands of the new party leaders, may be announced through Parliament in a few days.

Parliament also is expected to take other popular steps, including new economic measures aimed at raising the standard of living. Gomulka has indicated that private enterprise may be called on to help solve the critical housing shortage.

It also is expected to act on a new electoral law making the secret ballot obligatory.

Street demonstrations hailed the new course proclaimed by the 51-year-old Gomulka.

Students paraded with banners saying: "Polish-Soviet relations must be based on equality. . . The true friend of Poland helps her go her own way. . . Our soldiers will march with the nation."

Reports from other parts of the country told of similar pledges of support to Gomulka.

There had been fears that Rob-observers might resort to a coup d'etat to maintain pro-Moscow forces in the party leadership. Stalin sent him into Poland, his birthplace, to command the military forces just as Gomulka was being pushed out of the government on charges of Titoism.

There are many Soviet army officers in the Polish Army, but most Poles think, the rank and file of the army would not follow Rokossovsky against the new regime. The internal security forces an elite police organization, are commanded by a Gomulka backer.

Reliable sources reported Monday that Polish troops at Szczecin (Stettin) and Wroclaw were organizing demonstrations against high officers and adopting resolutions declaring their unity with the people.

Red Army troops are stationed in Poland ostensibly to guard Russia's supply lines to East Germany. In Berlin, Western sources passed on a report Monday night that "large numbers" of Soviet troops moving across the border from East Germany were ordered to keep away from the Polish border.

Another report circulating in Warsaw was that two or three Russian warships had been sighted off the port of Danzig.

(Reuters News Agency said it was "reliably learned" in Warsaw today that one Russian cruiser and three destroyers are anchored in harbor at Gdynia, Poland's Baltic seaport.)

But the reports did not necessarily represent anything unusual, even if confirmed. Soviet warships often pass through Polish ports. Soviet troop movements were frozen in Poland during the three - day meeting of the Communist central committee which elected Gomulka and his backers. With the meeting over, it would be natural for the Russians to renew their usual troop movements between the homeland and East Germany.

Exporters Study Resolution Urging Canada Trade Power For U.S. Tariff Concession

SKIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP) —The Canadian Exporters' Association, if it passes a resolution now before it, will try to tie Canadian - American negotiations on hydro-electric power to negotiations on trade.

The idea is to withhold from the United States something she may want in the way of power until she grants something that Canada wants in the way of trade. At the same time, Canada wouldn't surrender any power to which she may be entitled.

What Canada wants in the way of trade, as indicated in the resolution, is alleviation of a situation in which she is this year buying $1,000,000,000 more in goods from the United States than the United States is buying from her.

To this end, the resolution asks free entry into the United States of Canadian natural products and possibly others, and assurance that barriers won't be raised against them.

The Canadian government would be asked to refrain from approving power works which would flood Canadian territory and which would affect future generation of power in Canada, unless:

(1) The United States Congress agrees to remove permanently tariff or other import obstacles to Canadian primary metals, minerals, oil, gas, lumber, pulp and paper and agricultural products, as well as other products which can be produced efficiently for use or consumption in the United States;

(2) That an equitable portion of power generated in the United States as a result of such agreements be made available to Canadians wishing to use it.

The resolution was presented Monday to the opening session of the exporters' three-day annual meeting by its 24-man policy committee.

It was not discussed and decision on it won't be made until Wednesday.

Without saying so, it took cognizance of the fact that power matters, especially in British Columbia, rank high in current and probably future Canadian-American relations.

Just possibly the resolution may have a secondary, if not a primary aim, of drawing more widespread American public attention to the unbalanced Canadian-American trade picture.

Hydro Chairman Soon to Retire Says Newspaper

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says it "seems fairly certain" that Premier Frost soon will announce the retirement of Richard L. Hearn, 66-year-old chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

The newspaper says the announcement is expected after Mr. Hearn's return from Britain where he is consulting British nuclear contractors.

Several Canadians are mentioned as possible successors to Mr. Hearn. They include James H. Duncan, recently retired chairman of Massey-Harris-Ferguson Ltd.; Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, principal of Queen's University; James Stewart, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce; Henry Borden, president of Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Co. Ltd.; and H. Turner, chairman of the board of Canadian General Electric Co., Ltd.

The story also says the position of W. R. Warrender is expected to be clarified. He is Hydro vice-chairman after serving municipal affairs minister of Ontario.

Mr. Hearn's retirement would be in accord with his own expressed wishes. When he agreed to take the post following the death of Robert H. Saunders in January, 1953, he did so on the condition that he could relinquish it when the government found a suitable appointee. At that time he would normally have retired in May, 1955, when he reached the age of 65.

Cable Greetings To New Leaders Of Polish Party

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's Labor-Progressive party (Communist) Monday cabled greetings to the newly-elected leaders of the Polish Workers party and advised the Soviet Communist party central committee against interfering with the rights of the Polish people.

A cable addressed to Wladyslaw Gomulka, first secretary of the Polish organization, said the LPP's national executive council "hails the outcome of the Polish elections "a great contribution to the establishment of new and deeper fraternal relationships between Communist parties."

It added:

"We express our shock at the reported attacks by the Communist party of the Soviet Union to interfere with the independent course the Polish Workers party has taken."

A copy of the cable and another brief one were sent to Moscow. The second one said the LPP believes "the Polish people must have the full freedom to decide independently all matters that concern them."

Hemingway Last

GLASGOW (Reuters) — Novelist Ernest Hemingway received only 455 votes and finished last when the students chose a new rector at the University of Glasgow Monday night.

The four-way fight for the rectorship — an honorary, unsalaried post — went to R. A. Butler, government leader in the House of Commons, who polled 1,122 votes. Earl Attlee was second with 897 votes, and Lord Gibson, president of the Scottish Land Court, third with 759.

Retail Merchants Ask Garson To Ban Trading Stamp Plans

OTTAWA (CP) — The Retail Merchants' Association of Canada has come out strongly against trading stamp schemes and urged the government to outlaw them in Canada.

In a brief to Justice Minister Garson Monday the 40,000-member association described the stamp schemes as "a parasitic injection into the mercantile bloodstream." It urged an amendment to the Criminal Code to "eradicate" such plans which could only increase the cost of living.

David A. Gilbert of Winnipeg, general manager of the retailers' group, told a press conference later that the minister was highly interested in the association's brief. But Mr. Garson had suggested that "his task might be made easier with a court decision."

Mr. Gilbert said prosecution could be launched either through the Ontario attorney-general or through the association. The association was considering the latter step.

The association's brief said, however, that up to now it has been impossible for the organization to obtain a prosecution in any important trading stamp plan. Local and provincial law enforcement authorities had said the modern type of plan does not violate the Criminal Code.

Trading stamp plans are in wide use in the United States. About a year ago they were introduced in Ottawa through food chain stores. Authorities say the capital has been chosen as a testing ground for their legality in Canada.

Under the plans customers are given trading stamps with their purchases—the bigger the purchases the more trading stamps they get. The stamps can subsequently be exchanged for various goods such as electric irons, kettles and shavers, each of which carries its "price" of so many stamps.

"The big chain stores are not going to cut off business," Mr. Gilbert said. "They will add the cost of the schemes to the price of food."

Malting Barley Resistant to Rust

OTTAWA (CP) — Some 20,000 Canadian farmers will be able to plant next year the first malting barley resistant to rust ever developed in Canada.

Scientists say it will bring higher yields and savings of millions of dollars through reduction of crop losses.

The agriculture department announced Monday that the new barley variety, named Parkland, has been released for public sale after 20 years of effort by federal scientists, mainly at the department's experimental farm at Brandon, Man.

The department has about 200,000 bushels of the seed which it will sell in maximum lots of 10 bushels each to farmers and seed growers.

Scientists have described the discovery of Parkland as one of the great grain developments since the war.

'Ditching' Deliberate Downing Of Distressed Aircraft at Sea, A Most Hazardous Manoeuvre

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Seven casual but solemn men and women clustered about a table in Honolulu, idly clicking handsful of gambling chips.

"No, I" said the uniformed man in the centre.

A pretty brunette almost automatically placed a chip at a certain spot on the table.

Soon all the players were out of chips and the game was over.

It could have been roulette, but it wasn't. It was practice for the biggest game of all six hours later and 1,350 miles southwestward over the Pacific—a game in which the stakes were the lives of 31 people, including those same players. They were their wagers.

Flying people call it "ditching"—the deliberate downing of a distressed aircraft at sea. It's one of the most hazardous and unpredictable of all aviation manoeuvres.

On Oct. 16, an airplane worth $1,500,000 was lost beneath the sea, but the 31 persons aboard escaped, almost without getting their feet wet. It was one of the most successful emergency ocean operations in the history of flying.

Success was due in part to that game back in Honolulu, where each crew member put a chip on a model of the ship's emergency door that was his personal responsibility, and the chips became living symbolizes: plus the skill and guts of the U.S. Coast Guard. And, in the case of survivors, as one grateful passenger said, "to the help of God."

Capt. Richard N. Ogg, pilot of the stratocruiser Sovereign of the Seas, explained the use of the chip game which is played by Pan American crews "every month or before every overseas takeoff."

From 3:20 a.m. PST, Capt. Ogg flashed the first distress call, until all 24 passengers and 7 crew members were safe aboard the coast guard cutter Pontchartrain, the aircraft personnel gone their every move in advance: No one faltered.

The job was Capt. Ogg's — to pancake the plane on the rolling ocean with two of its four engines dead—but he had a lot of help from people he had never seen and little experience he did not know.

From their first day with Pan American—and this applies to all trans-ocean airlines — pilots are taught never to meet any emergency that might arise, including a "controlled crash" though it fortunately does not happen often.

The pilot must know the job of every other crew member plus a complete set of instructions which are standard flying procedure in "ditch."

Besides this, Capt. Ogg had digested reports of every ditching in airlines history. They're required reading" for all trans-ocean pilots.

Each time a flier ditches, he must write a detailed report outlining every step he took from the first warning to final evacuation. The reports are circulated throughout the aircraft industry to manufacturers, operators and pilots.

PAA crews also are trained in actual ditching procedures by the coast guard, which maintains a partly submerged airliner hulk at its seaplane station at San Francisco airport. It's not a theoretical training—the aircrews must don life jackets and practice getting into rafts from the plane.

When Capt. Ogg ditched the Clipper after deciding he had no alternative, the plan was firm. Two engines were gone and the excessive fuel consumption of the other two would use up too much to limp 1,150 miles to San Francisco. It was his first ditching and, as he himself said later, "There was a certain job to do, and it had to be done right, or else."

Passengers and crew climbed out of the bobbing double-decked airliner after it came down. They hopped into rafts and soon after were in the hands of the coast guard. The first survivor was hauled into a motor launch seven minutes after the landing—and the minister later said it bore the Pontchartrain.

There is no second chance in ditching. To hit the water nose down could be disastrous. Hit with the nose too high and the plane might flip on its back. Hit too fast or too slow for existing water and weather conditions and the ship could break apart or pummel nose first beneath the surface.

But luck, the coast guard and the long disaster training were on Ogg's side. And, perhaps most important, so were the passengers. All remained calm, doing everything the crew asked.

"They spent most of their time asking questions of the crew," said stewardess Mary Daniel of San Francisco. "They were continually thinking up questions."

Pan American crews thoroughly brief passengers at the start of every flight. So do other airlines that fly across oceans. It's required by the Civil Aeronautic administration.

A four-page brochure entitled Just in Case is distributed to each passenger before takeoff while the Clipper is warming up at the end of the runway. The purser explains over the loudspeaker:

"We are required by law to call your attention to the fact that in the highly remote possibility that there might be an emergency in an over-ocean flight."

The purser explains where life jackets, emergency exits and rafts are stored.

In each compartment, a stewardess demonstrates the proper way to don life jackets and to inflate them. A warning, "Don't inflate the jackets inside the plane," is repeated twice. A full-blown jacket might make it difficult to ship out emergency exits.

Passengers are shown how to brace themselves, sitting in their seats with safety belts fastened, hands clasped under their knees and heads bent over on their laps to reduce impact shock. The bottom deck on the plane is cleared and passengers are directed to seats upstairs.

The disaster brochure instructs passengers to "remove glasses, false teeth if you have them, fountain pens or any sharp objects from pockets . . . stay strapped in your seats until the aircraft stops. It may bounce more than once."

It concludes with the most important message of all: "Do what the crew tells you."

Capt. Ogg brought the crippled plane down on the sea, its tail dragging the water first. The wings slapped the three - foot swells and dug in. She first touched water at 8:13 a.m., bounced once and dived into the next swell.

So fast was the rescue that survivors watched from the deck of the Pontchartrain as the plane sank 21 minutes later.

PRECISION TRADE

The coast guard, acting with precision born of long practice, dropped water flares, laid fire lines, rigged searchlights and fire extinguishers along the fantail of a large motorboat. Life rafts were lashed ready for towing to the plane or for use as a platform alongside the ship. Foam cans were stacked on the fantail for use in a daylight landing.

The fire extinguisher foam, relatively new in ditching practice, outlines a "landing strip" and increases depth perception of the pilot. An oil slick often is laid on the surface to calm seas, but this wasn't necessary this time.

Convicted of Fraud

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Irene Nash, 42, owner of a dress shop here, was convicted of fraud Monday in general sessions court and sentenced to 18 months indefinite.

The charge arose out of a breakin at the dress shop in June, 1953. The prosecution alleged that the break-in was staged in order to collect $5,000 insurance. Fred Simmons, 39, of suburban Long Branch, a salesman, also was convicted of fraud in the same case and sentenced to 18 months indefinite.

Net Farm Income Dropping CCF'er Tells Radio Audience

GUELPH (CP) —Agriculture in Ontario represents a "pocket of depression" in an otherwise booming economy, Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario CCF leader, said Monday night.

Citing figures to back up his contention, Mr. MacDonald said net farm income in the province dropped by more than 30 per cent between 1951 and 1955, from $338,000,000 to $236,000,000. While it recovered somewhat in 1955, it had slipped again this year.

"While the over-all cash income in Canadian farmers increased 13 per cent in the first six months of 1956, Ontario's cash farm income actually dropped by three per cent in the same period."

Mr. MacDonald addressed the Ontario Farmers Union.

Excerpts from his speech were released to the press in advance of delivery.

"Basically, agriculture's difficulties arise from its inequitable relationship with the rest of the economy," he said. "Our economic life is dominated by industry, commerce and finance, all of which are hostile to agriculture's interests.

"The farmer therefore finds himself pinched between monopoly traders and processors who push down prices paid to the farmer, and the huge manufacturing corporations which maintain high prices for farm implements, building materials and fertilizers. . . . He has very little control over the prices of what he buys and sells; and he usually gets skinned both ways."

To achieve greater parity in prices, agriculture is entitled to assistance by government action, Mr. MacDonald said. In this connection he called for marketing legislation, vigorous action to reclaim lost "natural" markets overseas; forward pricing to "provide guaranteed minimum prices," and reduced costs of production.

"It becomes imperative that farmers seek political allies so that, in the short run, their pressure upon existing governments can be sufficient to meet their just needs; and in the long run, they can help in electing governments which have a genuine interest in agriculture. . . ."

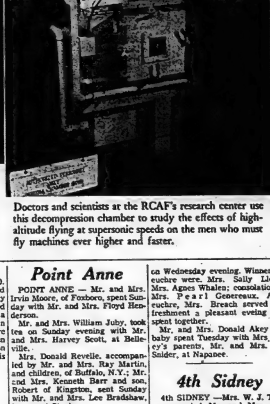
Suits Defy Gravity

Canada Fights to Stay on Top



To Canada's fighter squadron in Europe, life is a constant struggle to be high man in a jet plane, for in the battle for the skies, the man on top is the man with the edge. To keep RCAF fighter pilots flying at ever higher and higher altitudes is just one of a multitude of challenges which daily confront our country's air-minded research scientists and engineers. It was back in 1939 that the famous co-discoverer of insulin, Sir Frederick Banting, started investigations in the complex field of aviation medicine, thus laying the groundwork for present-day studies at the RCAF's Institute of Aviation Medicine in Toronto. The Institute's problem is a heavy one: as super-sonic planes probe further and further into the strato-sphere, can man be equipped to match the machine?

This month, high in the skies over Zweibrucken, Germany, sabre jets from Canada's No. 1 Air Division in Europe are testing the newest in G-suits—pressurized outfits to counteract gravity-force at high altitudes.

The new suit is actually an "international" outfit for it consists of a Canadian-developed pressure-vest, a Royal Air Force helmet and an American "G-suit". The 3 countries exchange technical information freely.

Doctors and scientists at the RCAF's research center use this decompression chamber to study the effects of high-altitude flying at supersonic speeds on the men who must fly machines ever higher and faster.

Previous "anti-gravity" suits developed by the RCAF enabled Canada's jet pilots to fight at 48,000 feet. The new suit will take them much higher—but just how much is still a secret. National Film Board of Canada Photos

Japan Faces Difficult Problem In Vast, Expanding Population

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese people, whose industry and ingenuity welded a chain of tiny, mountainous islands into a great nation, today face a difficult problem in the vast and expanding population.

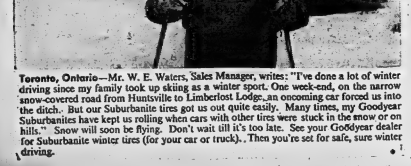
Japan might support 60,000,000 people. A few weeks ago the population topped 90,000,000, a figure which experts in years past have warned would be the "explosion" point. And government experts say the number of Japanese will increase every year until 1990 when the population will hit a peak of 108,475,000.

Experts around the world are watching Japan's efforts to trim its population to its geographic and economic limits while feeding and housing millions of "surplus" people. This country may be providing a test tube picture of what some scientists believe the whole world must ultimately face.

BIRTH RATE CUT

What is Japan doing to head off catastrophe? It has cut its birth rate in the years since the war. It has a five-year economic plan which could be projected over a longer period. And some progress is being made toward developing new sources of food supply.

Last year both birth and death rates hit new all-time lows, according to welfare ministry statistics. Births totalled 1,730,000, or 19.3 per 1,000 population, compared with 28 per 1,000 in Canada. Deaths totalled 690,000 or 7.8 per 1,000, well below Canada's 1953 average of 8.6 per 1,000.



Although there is a birth control movement in Japan, Dr. Ayanori Okasaki, director of the welfare ministry's institute of population problems, says "the sharp decline in the birth rate is due almost wholly to induced abortion permitted under Japan's eugenics protection law."

EXCEEDED BIRTHS

The ministry calculates that last year the number of abortions actually exceeded live births. Official records list 1,170,000 abortions and Dr. Okasaki says the figure would top 2,000,000 if all operations were reported.

Births in 1955 totalled 1,727,000.

Japan today is the world's third most densely populated country and even by 1990 the estimated concentration of 760 people a square mile would be less than Holland's present 822 a square mile. However, Japan's population is almost wholly concentrated on 14 per cent of the land which is flat enough to be cultivated.

Toronto, Ontario—Mr. W. E. Waters, Sales Manager, writes: "I've done a lot of winter driving since my family took up skiing as a winter sport. One week-end, on the narrow snow-covered road from Huntsville to Limberlost Lodge, an oncoming car forced us into the ditch. But our Suburbanite tires got us out quite easily. Many times, my Goodyear Suburbanites have kept us rolling when cars with other tires were stuck in the snow or on hills." Snow will soon be flying. Don't wait till it's too late. See your Goodyear dealer for Suburbanite winter tires (for your car or truck). Then you're set for safe, sure winter driving.

PROTECTIVE FOIL "WRAPS" 60,000-TON CARRIER

Any housewife would have thought of it! But credit goes to the builders of the U.S. Navy's mighty new carrier, U.S.S. Ranger, for using aluminum foil to keep their product "fresh".

During construction, a ship rests on wooden blocks, which absorb a lot of moisture. To protect their costly steel hull from rust and corrosion during the 18-month construction period, the Navy simply covered the blocks with ordinary household foil. This brainwave was a natural for a marine builder, since nowadays he uses shiny, non-corroding aluminum so widely for superstructures, lifeboats and other important shipbuilding components.

New Record for Home Runs Robin Roberts 'Gopher King'

NEW YORK (AP)—Home run production in the major leagues set only one record—an all-time high of 2,396 in 1956, but also resulted in the National League "gopher" ball record being broken and the American loop mark being tied.

Robin Roberts of Philadelphia Phils served up 46 home run pitches in 1956 to establish the National League in this department for the third straight season and also surpass his own record. In 1955 the hardworking righthander gave up 41 "gophers" in 365 innings.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press also show that Washington's Camillo Pascual allowed the most home runs in the junior circuit, 32 in 189 innings. That tied him with Frankie Hutchinson, who yielded 32 in 231 frames with Detroit in 1942.

WEIGHT TUSSLEFEST

Bill Wight of Baltimore proved to be the toughest American League pitcher to get to first at home run. The Orioles' southpaw was nolved for only seven in 175 innings.

In the senior circuit, Cincinnati's Hal Jeffcoat, a converted outfielder, was stingiest when it came to giving up "gophers." Jeffcoat, who made the transition to the mound in 1954, allowed just 12 homers in 171 frames.

Runner-up to Roberts was Brooklyn's Don Newcombe, who threw 30 home runs in 268 innings. Bob Rush of Chicago Cubs was third with 31 "gopher" serves, followed by teammate Warren Hacker, 28.

Kansas City Art Ditmar ranked second in the home-run-off listings in the American League with 30 in 252 innings. Chuck Stobbs of Washington was third with 29, followed by Steve Gromek and Paul Foytack of Detroit, tied for fourth with 25 each.

Industrial Loop Organized With Seven Teams

The entry deadline for the Industrial hockey league closed last night with seven teams ready to kick off the 1956-57 season on November 4th.

President Don Dolan chaired the meeting at his home last night and ironed out many problems before representatives from each club.

Teams returning from last season include Avon Jewellers, Bakelite and Corbin Lock. New entries are: Osterhout Shells, Holway's B.A., Don's Delivery and National Steel.

Each team will be allowed 18 players who are not playing hockey in any other league, except minor, this season. Any player who participated in O. H. A. play last season must sit out this year. Each club must turn in a list of players by December 1st.

The managers agreed last night to back the league rules with a strong hand. Any player who interferes with a referee will be suspended for the season. No player, other than the captain and assistant captains, may argue with an official. Any team dressing an ineligible player will lose the game automatically when the player appears on the ice.

The league will run its regular schedule until February with the top four clubs entering the playoffs. Teams finishing in first and fourth will meet in one half of the semi-finals with second and third in the other half. Any ties in the final standing will be settled via the goals for and against method. All playoff series will be two-of-three affairs.

Sunday Sport Ruled Illegal In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver's Sunday sport by-law was ruled illegal Monday by Mr. Justice A. E. Lord in British Columbia Supreme Court.

At the same time city council, sitting as legislative committee as the ruling was handed down, decided to ask the government to enact legislation legalizing Sunday sport here.

"If the legislature intended that a municipality was to have the power to enact legislation which would relax or be repugnant to existing laws then the legislature would have to express such intention in most explicit terms," Mr. Justice Lord said.

It is "beyond doubt that even if the legislature could delegate to the city the authority to enact such a by-law, it has not succeeded in doing so."

Under the Lord's Day Act of 1907, the ban on commercialized Sunday sport is Canada-wide but enforcement is left to provincial attorneys-general.

In a plebiscite last December, Vancouver voted by a narrow margin in favor of Sunday sport. No action was taken in the legislature last session, however, to make the vote effective.

Pulford Ready By Thursday

TORONTO (CP) — Rookie left-winger Bob Pulford, out of action for more than two weeks with pulled back muscles, probably will see National Hockey League action when Toronto Maple Leafs meet the Canadiens in Montreal Thursday.

He turned up at practice Monday and looked impressive.

Pulford, who graduated this year from Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, was on a line with Barry and Brian Cullen in pre-season training. It was the best line at camp, both defensively and offensively.

"It will be interesting to see what happens to that line with Pulford back," said Hap Day, Leaf general manager. "The Cullens haven't been the same without him."

Howie King Split-Decisions George Chuvalo

TORONTO (CP)—Howie King of Reno, Nev., used his speed and experience Monday night to punch out an eight-round split decision over George Chuvalo, Toronto's young heavyweight hope.

The American, a veteran of more than 30 professional fights, stayed close to his hard-punching 19-year-old opponent and never gave him a chance to use the power which won him his two bouts since turning professional.

Chuvalo, former Canadian amateur heavyweight king, put up a good show for the 2,500 hometown fans but managed to hurt the crowd-pucshed King only once. That was in the seventh round when he hit King with one of his power-packed hooks to the midsection, but King hung on and won the round.

In the other main bout, Pedro Antonio Jiminez, Spain's middleweight champion, scored a unanimous eight-round decision over Bobby Jackson of Cleveland, Ohio.

In the first of the preliminaries Dave Turnbull of Hamilton, 127, took a split decision over four rounds from 122-pound Jim Hurley of Brantford.

Ride 'Bold Ruler' to Victory And Teddy Will Get $17,000

By JOHN CHANDLER

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Teddy Atkinson, the little jockey from Toronto who usually handy when Eddie Arcaro gets in a jam with the stewards, has another chance to cut in for some heavy sugar Saturday when he rides Bold Ruler in the world's richest horse race.

The fourth running of the Garden State Stakes, in which 15 youngsters are expected to start, finds the best two-year-olds in training being pointed for fame and fortune. If 15 go, the swag will total a record $311,000, with the winner hauling down $176,665.

Bold Ruler, owned by the Wheatley Stable of Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps, trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, and usually ridden by Arcaro, will be the big favorite of a crowd that should hit around 45,000.

Arcaro was benched for 10 days effective today, by the stewards at Keeneland Race Course, Lexington, Ky., for careless riding in the Spinster Stakes last Friday. That means Atkinson can get a healthy 10-per-cent slice amounting to $17,666 if he can hustle Bold Ruler to the winner's circle.

A year ago last April, just before the Kentucky Derby, Nashua was to meet Summer Tan in the $111,700 Wood Memorial at Jamaica. Arcaro had incurred the displeasure of the stewards, and was serving time on the ground. So Sunny Jim put Atkinson aboard and he gave Nashua a gilt-edged ride to overhaul Summer Tan in the final jump, which was worth $71,350 to Teddy.

In addition to four supplementary nominations, named Monday at $1,000 each, other probable starters Saturday include Gen. W. W. Kreger's Nashaad, Rex Ellsworth's California Kid, Adele L. Rand's Clem, George D. Widener's Amarullah, the Llangollen Farm's Nashville and Iron Liege, another Calumet colt.

The supplementary nominations came Monday at the deadline for owners who failed to make the original payments for the big stakes race.

MAKES BRITISH TEAM

LONDON (CP) — Owen Reilly, 20-year-old Amateur Boxing Association bantamweight champion from Glasgow, Monday was added to Britain's Olympic boxing team thereby ending a simmering dispute between English and Scottish Games selectors.

Newcombe Hurt Arm in Final League Game

TOKYO (AP)—Righthander Don Newcombe, Brooklyn Dodgers' 27-game winner, said today he hurt his pitching elbow in the final game of the National League season but that "I'm sure it will be all right with a little rest."

"I've hurt it before," said Newk "and it always clears up if I give it a good rest—I sure hope it does this time."

The 30-year-old Dodger ace, who was beloved twice as New York Yankees defeated Brooklyn in the world series, said he didn't mention the injury before because "Well, I didn't see any point in telling everybody and I hoped it would get better."

Newcombe also has been rocked twice on the Dodgers' current tour of the Far East, lasting less than a inning here Sunday.

He said he will stay with the Dodgers for the remainder of the tour but doesn't know whether he'll be asked to pitch again.

Varsity Has Three Quarters

TORONTO (CP)—University of Toronto Blues will have three quarterbacks on call for their Senior Intercollegiate Football League game with University of Western Ontario Mustangs in London Saturday.

Eddie Skrzypek and Larry Joynt were back at practice Monday night and will be ready to play by the weekend.

Blues' coach Dait White said he will wait until later in the week to decide whether Skrzypek, Joynt or Harry Wilson, who turned in a steady game against Mustangs last Saturday, will pivot the team this weekend.

Meanwhile, halfback Tim Reid is being touted as a successor to Phil Muntz who graduated last spring and now is with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Conference. Reid, a halfback has averaged 106 yards ground-gaining in three league games this year. Muntz' best average was 90.7 set in 1953.

The 20-year-old, 175-pound Reid, a native of Ottawa, already has scored as many touchdowns as Muntz did in his best seasons and appears to be ready for more.

SUPPLE EARNS DECISION

MONTREAL (CP)—Pat Supple, Canadian bantamweight boxing champion, opened a deep cut over Gaby Pallotti's left eye Monday night and went on to earn a split decision over the Canadian featherweight champion in a 10-round non-title bout.

CANADIENS HERE SATURDAY . . . .

Belleville fandom already "bopped" up over the initial performances of McFarland senior hockey club will see their favorites face what will probably be the severest test of their winter campaign here next Saturday night.

One of the most colorful clubs in eastern Hockey, to say nothing of their power, will be here to meet the McFarlands in a puck duel. They are the Ottawa Canadiens, new to the Montreal Junior Canadiens of St. Laurent Trophy and Memorial Cup fame.

The beardless members of the former Montreal mighty mites will be augmented by players of senior calibre, puckchasers who bear the scars of many hockey battles and who know all the angles of the winter pastime.

The youthful Canadiens who have made Ottawa their headquarters this winter have been welded into a powerful unit by the master hand of that human dynamo Sam Pollock. Pollock was deprived of his supreme desire last winter, the Memorial Cup, but he has refined his sights, strengthened his artillery and mapped out a plan of pre-playoff campaigns that is unrivalled anywhere in the realm of hockery.

They meet the powerful Ontario junior "A" squads in league combat and with additional big guns augmenting their strength, will play in the Quebec Hockey League, a professional loop, no matter from what angle you view it. And in their spare time they will operate in a twenty-game schedule with the five clubs of the Eastern Ontario senior "A" loop.

And just to give the hockey habitues of Bytown a touch of National League color, the Ottawa youngsters will be in action against the Montreal Canadiens, Toronto Maple Leafs, Detroit Red Wings, Chicago Black Hawks, Boston Bruins, and New York Rangers.

If any Ottawa hockey fan kicks about that bill of puck fare, he should turn Conservative and leave us Toronto.

All in all, the Ottawa Canadiens will have marched through 76 hockey games before they gird their loins for the various playoffs.

Messrs. Franke Selke and his genial Sammy Pollock of the Montreal Canadiens' management has left nothing undone in their effort to lift Ottawa from the hockey doldrums.

One thing is sure. If Messrs. Selke and Pollock with their junior Canadiens spearheading the movement, do not; bring hockey back to Mayor Charlotte Whitton's bailiwick, nothing will, and the shell of old capital can roll over and play dead dog again as far as the game is concerned.

In what other city in Canada does the hockey faithful have such teams as those in the National Hockey League, the Ontario junior "A" loop, the Quebec Hockey League brought to their fresh door? The entire Canadian loop, however, won't be able to parade their wares before Ottawa eyes. They play the Ottawa Canadiens' home games in the Verdun, Quebec," arena—and in front of television cameras, at that.

The Canadiens make their Eastern League debut tomorrow night when they clash with the Whitby Dunlops in the latter's arena. They stop over here Saturday evening to make their bows to the McFarlands.

Meanwhile Coach Bep Guidolin won't lose any time readying his McFarlands for what should be a tough, rugged battle. These Canadiens play it the "parent" style and they've had lots of experience in exhibition tilts with with American League clubs and the Quebec League. They can hit and take it—and as far as that goes, so can the McFarlands. Should be a tidy tiff of a tussle.

Good news reached the McFarland camp yesterday when it was notified that the Amherst Ramblers of the Atlantic Senior League had given the club Henri Therrien's outright release. The starry winger has not seen competitive action with the McFarlands thus far due to this release business but he will be in uniform Saturday night against the Ottawa Canadiens.

Fandom heresabouts will get their first glimpse of the league-leading Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League on Wednesday, November 7, when they play the McFarlands in an exhibition tilt.

Have Three Men in Top Five With Lindsay Leading Parade; Rocket Seeking First Goal

MONTREAL (CP) — Detroit Red Wings, who got away to a slow start a year ago, are the sharpest team so far in the new National Hockey League season and their first-place position is reflected in the number of Detroit scorers in or near the top.

Although goal production generally is less than it was at the comparable stage a year ago, the Red Wings nevertheless have three men among the leading five.

In the early-season rush of the Wings, who haven't lost a game in five starts, Ted Lindsay heads the scoring parade with six points on two goals and four assists. He picked up three assists last week to take over from teammate Norm Ullman, who had only one assist and now is in a four-way tie for second place with five points.

SLOAN TOP SNIPER

Tod Sloan of Toronto Maple Leafs is tops in goal scoring because Sloan has four goals—highest among the scorers to his Ullman's two. Sloan counted one goal and one assist last week.

Gordie Howe of Detroit, counting his first goal of the season and also getting an assist, joined the five-point bracket for second place along with Doug Mohns of Boston Bruins. Howe's five points are all assists. He got three last week.

Crowding the leaders with four points are five players. Among them is Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens, second in goals last season. Beliveau gathered in one goal and two assists last week.

Next come 11 players tied at three points, in this group is Richard, still looking for his first goal.

DETROIT TWO POINTS UP

In the standings, Detroit is setting the pace with three wins and two ties for eight points. New York follows with three wins and two losses—for six points. A point back are Canadiens, Toronto and Boston with five each. Chicago Black Hawks have only one point, representing a tie against four losses.

Canadiens, who have played only four games compared with six for Boston and five for the others, get a chance this week to climb into first place but they face no tough schedule. The champs of last year play four games in five nights. Detroit and New York each have only two games scheduled, the same as Chicago. Toronto has three and Boston one.

Probably having a hand in the low scoring to date, the goalkeepers are revelling in low averages. Jacques Plante of Montreal and Lorne Worsley of New York have each come up with two shutouts. Plante's average for goals allowed is one a game; Worsley's is 1.00. Glenn Hall of Detroit follows with 1.80.

British Athletes Fly to Melbourne

MELBOURNE (AP) — Chris Chataway arrived in Melbourne Monday after a 12,000-mile flight from London and wanted to go straight out and start tuning up for the Olympic Games.

But his Austrian coach, Franz Stampfl, quickly scotched that idea.

Chataway, one of Britain's hopes for the 5,000 metres, said he had come to Australia at his own request earlier than the rest of the British team because he felt he needed time to acclimatize himself.

With him were three teammates Derek Johnson, Chris Brasher and jumper Thelma Hopkins.

Gordon Pirie, 5,000 and 10,000 metres star, was the first Englishman to reach Melbourne, arriving nearly three weeks ago. Brian Hewson and Ken Wood have been here for two weeks.

Hal Patterson Ran 105 Yards

MONTREAL (CP)—Joe Thompson, the Big Four Football Union's official scorer in Montreal, said Monday he is changing Alouette Hal Patterson's touchdown run-back of a kickoff to 105 yards instead of 104.

Patterson's gallop, a record in itself, was a highlight of Montreal Alouettes' record-shattering 52-14 plastering of Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday. Patterson also held the previous record of 95 yards.

Thompson's eagle eye caught Patterson taking the kickoff six yards out from his goal line. But, said Thompson, pictures of the game show Patterson making the catch on the five-yard stripe and the official scorer bows to the camera.

Pat Abbruzzi May Break All-Time Record

TORONTO (CP)—It's a safe bet to award Montreal Alouettes' Pat Abbruzzi the Big Four football scoring race this year. In the process he could become the all-time high scorer in Canadian big-time football.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the 24-year-old Abbruzzi with 102 points on 17 touchdowns, thanks to the inflated value of the touchdown to six points from five set this year by the Canadian Rugby Union. The all-time high of 110 was set by Bob Shaw of Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Union in 1953 when the touchdown was worth five points.

Abbruzzi added three touchdowns to his total last Saturday as the Als humiliated Hamilton Tiger-Cats 52-14 at Montreal. He now leads team-mate Hal Patterson by 36 points, in third place with 39 points is Ottawa's Don St. John.

Ron Stewart of Queen's, Frank Cosentino of University of Western Ontario Mustangs and Tim Reid of the University of Toronto Blues share the lead with 18 points each in the Senior Intercollegiate Union.

Three Ti-Cat Players Fined Following Saturday Debacle

HAMILTON (CP) — Three Hamilton Tiger-Cat players were fined Monday by coach Jim Trimble because he said they violated the basic rules of professional football in Saturday's Big Four debacle against Montreal Alouettes. Als smashed Ticats 52-14.

Canadian linebacker Ralph Teeby and import end Jack Bighead each were fined $100. Import guard Gene Donaldson was nicked for $50.

Trimble said the fine against Donaldson, formerly of Cleveland Browns of the National Football League, was for repeated offsides on kickoffs.

Tooby, 29-year-old lineman in his fifth season with Hamilton, was criticized for unnecessary roughness which resulted in his ejection from the game and a 25-yard penalty against Ticats. The offence occurred on a convert attempt and set Hamilton back to the 15-yard line on the following kickoff.

Bighead, 25-year-old end from the NFL's Los Angeles Rams, was fined for generally poor play and dropping five passes which, Trimble said, he had in his hands.

Trimble said he couldn't explain why Ticats were so badly beaten. It was the worst defeat of a pro team in Canadian football history.

Trimble said quarterback Tony Curcillo was decidedly handicapped by a cast on his sprained left wrist. When it was obvious Curcillo was having trouble, Trimble moved Bobby Dawson from halfback to quarter.

Dawson, 23-year-old graduate of Windsor High School and junior football, is Hamilton's reserve quarter. Trimble indicated Monday night he may use Dawson when Ticats take on Alouettes Saturday in their final league meeting.

Trimble also said centre Walt Nizarak, 22-year-old Hamilton native, is out for the season. Nizarak aggravated a knee injury Saturday. He is the third Canadian player lost to Hamilton this season. The others are guard Art Darch and half Ron Howell.

Riders' Coach 'Rubbing It in' In Ottawa Oust of Argonauts

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — When coach Frank Clair was hired by Ottawa Rough Riders last winter he made no promises, but said his No. 1 aim was to field a spirited team that would make the Big Four football playoffs.

Well, he's meet a cinch he will bring home the bacon—rubbing it in a little because Riders will be ousting Toronto Argonauts from the charmed circle. Argos fired Clair two years ago after he had led them to two Grey Cup championships in five seasons.

Right now, Ottawa is comfortably settled in third place and has a slim chance of finishing second, ahead of Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Montreal Alouettes have clinched first place for the fourth straight year.

FIVE-YEAR DROUGHT

For Ottawa it would be the first chance at the post-schedule games in five years—ever since Riders went all the way to the Grey Cup championship in 1951. Argos still have a mathematical chance of making the playoffs, but it's only a slim one.

Here's the way it works out: Riders in third place with 10 points are four points ahead of the last-place Argonauts, with both clubs having two games to play in the 14-game schedule.

They meet next Saturday in Toronto for the last encounter of the season—Riders have won the three previous meetings—then Argos meet Tiger-Cats here while Argos visit Montreal the following Saturday.

If Argos win both remaining games and Riders lose three, Argos will be tied with 10 points each in third place. But Toronto would have to beat Ottawa by 44 points in Saturday's game to dislodge them from third position and a playoff spot.

COULD DISPLACE TARRIES

Now, for Ottawa's chances of making second place. This could happen if both Ticats and Riders lose Saturday and Ottawa beats Hamilton in the final game of the season here. That would leave the teams tied for second place with 12 points each and Ottawa would have to beat Hamilton by 30 points in the last game against Ticats to finish second.

The playoffs this year include a sudden-death game Nov. 7 between the second- and third-place teams, Choice of grounds, Big Four secretary Wes Brown said, is left with the team finishing second.

The winner then meets Alouettes in a two-game, home-and-home series, Nov. 10 and 17 for the right to represent the East in the Grey Cup final against the Western champions in Toronto Nov. 24.

Boxer Hits Foe So Hard He Loses Bout

STELLARTON, N. S. (CP)—Doug Odo, 137, of Thorburn, N.S., hit Gordie MacDougall, 160, of Sydney, so hard Odo lost the fight Monday night.

Odo knocked MacDougall down in the fifth with a savage right to the chin. MacDougall recovered, but by the eighth round the referee and ship doctor stopped the fight because Odo's right was useless.

Odo said it was the knockdown punch that injured his hand.

Quackery at Football Game

WINNIPEG (CP) — Timekeeper Jimmy Dunn pulled his pistol to sound the end of the third quarter of a Western Interprovincial Football Union game here Saturday night.

Bang! Down came a duck.

A wag took a dead bird to the game and tossed it over Dunn's head as he pulled the trigger.

Touchline Chat

By LES DIGBY

Oshawa Kickers captured the Eastern Ontario championship on Saturday when they beat Peterborough MEW by four goals to two in Oshawa. This was the first year that an Oshawa club had entered the competition. The Peterborough squad put on a very mediocre display and in fact it was one of the poorest games they have played. The Kickers were playing strongly from the start and although UEW got the first goal it was on a breakaway and definitely against the run of the play.

Bill Simpson, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Football Association and Les Digby, the competition convenors presented the Norman J. Howard Memorial Trophy to Oshawa and the winning team after the match.

In Belleville on Saturday afternoon Belleville Northern played host to Campbellford in an exhibition game and won by the only goal of the match scored by John DeGrouve. It appears that Campbellford are strong prospects for entry into the Bay of Quinte football association next year and should increase the interest in the local league with Wellington also being another possible new entry.

In the Belleville Bantam League the league schedule was completed except for one game. Legion beat the Athletics by three goals to two. United and Wanderers played to a one all tie at the Cricket Field with Royal Canadian and Thompson for Wanderers being the winners. Arsenal took Athletic by the odd goal in five whilst Legion and Royals played to another tie as each scored two apiece. Everett 'Kellar was responsible for both Legion tallies whilst Rutherford and Royal were the Rovers' marksmen.

Next week the league schedule will be completed when United and Athletics meet up at the Cricket Field at 10.30 a.m. Legion have already won the league having dropped only one point throughout the schedule. The standing to date is:

	Played	Points
Legion	9	5
United	4	4
Athletics	4	4
Rovers	4	3
Arsenal	4	3
Wanderers	4	1

Next Saturday the play-offs commence. Arsenal meet Rovers in the first round at the Cricket Grounds at 9.30 with the winners meeting United in one semi-final on the following Saturday. In the other first round game Legion play Wanderers at the Cricket Field at 9.30 with the winners united to meet Athletics on the following Saturday in the other semi-final.

Frankie Ryff Starts Comeback

NEW YORK (AP)—New York's Frankie Ryff, a leading lightweight contender until he was knocked out four months ago, started a comeback Monday night by outclassing Frankie Apollino, a Bronx rival, in a 10-round bout at St. Nicholas Arena. For a while Ryff planned to retire but decided to give the game one more try.

The votes, all for Ryff, were: Judge Leo Birnbaum 8-1, judge Joe Agnello 8-2 and referee George Walsh, 7-3.

It was Ryff's first start since he was flattened for the first time in his career June 2 by Kid Gavilan. Four days later, however, Ryff planned to retire but decided to give the game one more try.

Aussie Swim Stars Predict New World Marks

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Australia's two female swimming record-shatterers splashed into final Olympic training at the new Olympic pool in Melbourne Monday.

With the Games just one month off, the pair of attractive 15-year-olds, Lorraine Crapp and Dawn Fraser, predict they will break two world figures before the Games are open.

Lorraine and Dawn trained with the rest of Australia's young squad of men and girls at tropical Townsville during the winter. The men set times that would send even the world's top swimmer Olympics but the girls were not fast they overshadowed them.

There were Australian cheers Aug. 25 when Lorraine, then 17, smashed world records in the 440-yard freestyle swim in the long course pool.

Her times: 200 metres, 2 minutes, 19.3 seconds; 400 yards, 4:50.3; 400 metres, 4:50.8; 440 yards, 4:52.4. The swim made Lorraine the first girl in the world to break five minutes for quarter-mile.

The same night Dawn set world times of 58.9 seconds for the 100 yards and 65.3 seconds for the 100 metres.

But last Saturday night at a swimming carnival in Sydney's long course pool, Lorraine slashed world records relegate to the greatest swim ever made by a woman against the clock.

Lorraine set these times in that swim, hailed as one of the greatest distance feats of Australian sport: 200 metres, 2:18.5; 220 yards, 2:19.1; 400 metres, 4:47.2; 440 yards, 4:48.6.

The same night, swimming for the first leg of a relay, she clocked 1 minute, 3.2 seconds for the 100 metres—1/10th of a second faster than teammate Dawn Fraser's world record set by Lorraine. Dawn, swimming the last leg in the relay, was clocked in 1:03.3 for the 100 metres, 1:02.9 for 100 metres.

Officials, however, said Dawn's time could not be recognized as a record because Dawn, swimming last, had a "flying start."

In the girls relay team, Lorraine and Dawn with Margaret Gibson and Barbara Jackson, swam the 440 yards in 4:22.2, clipping 16.5 seconds off the world record.

Westerners Feel Hard Knox Stamps Lick Bombers, Riders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

From Edmonton Eskimos' standpoint, Calgary Stampeders couldn't have picked a better time to put together two victories in a row for the first time in the Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

Led by quarterback Ronnie Knox, the Stamps defeated Winnipeg Blue Bombers 25-17 Saturday and took the measure of Saskatchewan Roughriders 28-18 in home Monday night to ease the way for the Eskimos to clinch first place for the third straight season.

With Calgary knocking off any threat to the Eskimos' lead, all Edmonton had to do was beat British Columbia Lions in Monday night's other game.

The Grey Cup champions did that easily, crushing the Lions 34-13 before 15,000 at Edmonton. It was the last game of the season for B.C.

ENDS SATURDAY

The schedule winds up Saturday night with Calgary at Winnipeg and Stampeders at Regina against Riders again.

Eskimos now have an 11-4 record, Riders 9-6 and Bombers 8-7 and only one playoff spot in the final standings is second place. Another Saskatchewan loss to Calgary and a Bomber win could put Winnipeg into second place on points-for-and-against average.

Stampeders, with a 4-11 mark, are doomed to last place, unable to catch Lions' 4-10 record even with a third successive win Saturday.

The two-game total-points WIFU setup: Calgary 53, Saskatchewan against Winnipeg for a third straight year no matter the outcome Saturday. The games are scheduled Nov. 3 and 5.

At Edmonton Monday night, the powerful ground attack of the split-T Eskimos and an occasional pass play by Jackie Parker were honest were too much for the weakened Lions, who played without Americans Al Pollard and Steve Palmer.

Quarterback Jackie Parker was brilliant, stepping around end on option play for two touchdowns, one 29-yards and another 21, and passes to Rollie Miles.

SCORED 3 MAJORS

Fullback Johnny Bright, who with record-setting Normie Kwong led the Edmonton ground gaining, scored three touchdowns. Kwong got one as did halfback Earl Lindley.

Bright bulled through the line from the British Columbia six, two and one for his touchdowns. Kwong broke through from the one, Lindley's score came on a pass interception by Miles, who picked off an attempt by Gerry Gustafson at the Edmonton 30, ran it 55 yards and then flipped a lateral to Lindley, who went another 10 yards to score.

Lions got all their points in the second quarter, Gustafson breaking out of a swarm of tacklers on a pass play to run six yards to the goal line for one touchdown and passing 40 yards to Ed Vereb in the end for the other. Vereb made a brilliant, diving catch on the play. Tony Teresa was successful on one of his convert attempts.

TWO-WAY JOB

At Calgary, the Cowboys put on a brilliant two-way performance. Fullback Earl Lunsford led the scoring with two touchdowns while Knox got a touchdown, three converts and two singles. Lynn Bottoms got the other Calgary major. Ken Carpenter, Frank Tripoden and Ron Adam scored the Saskatchewan touchdowns, with Reggie Whitehouse converting one.

Knox was the big cog in Calgary's win, as he was in the contest at Winnipeg. The first time Stampeders got possession, he passed them to the Rider 25, then sent Lunsford through the middle to score. He then counted a single when a 39-yard field goal attempt went wide and before the first quarter ended had directed another touchdown march, culminated by Bottoms' five-yard end run.

Lopez Speaking Tells Why Tribe Let Maglie Go

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Al Lopez, recently resigned manager of Cleveland Indians, said Monday Cleveland let Sal Maglie go last season because he needed four days rest between starts and didn't know the American League hitters.

Brooklyn Dodgers picked up the 39-year-old hurler and he became the National League champions' ace in the hole, winning 13 and losing five.

Lopez spoke to the Tampa Quarterback Club.

"Maglie is the type of pitcher that needs four days rest before he can start a game," he said. "With the type of pitching staff we had at Cleveland we couldn't afford to carry another man that had to have that much rest.

"He also had to learn the hitters in the American League after being a National League hurler all his career," Lopez added.

Mantle, Robinson Were Top Clutch-Clouters

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees and Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn came through with leading clutch-hitting performances during the 1956 baseball season.

Mantle, certain for consideration as the American League's most valuable player, and Robinson, a top National League rookie led the major leagues in game-winning blows. Each had eight, figures compiled by The Associated Press showed today.

Credit for a game-winning blow was given to each player who put his club ahead to stay in the sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth or an extra inning.

Mexico Tops Jumping Field

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Mexico topped the field Monday night to win its second International jumping class in two tries at the 11th annual Pennsylvania National Horse Show.

The United States, which has won the over-all trophy five of the last six years, placed second with four faults.

The event was scored on the total faults for the three riders of each of the five countries entered.

The U.S. took runner-up honors on total elapsed time since both Canada and Ireland also scored four faults. The times: U.S. 107.0 seconds, Ireland 112.0 and Canada 129.0. The Irish Army finished last with eight faults.

The second leg of the competition, first of the night, ended with the final section set for Friday.

Weill Dreams Of Second World Champion

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Pfisting a fighter in the world's heavyweight title is the dream of every fight manager, Al Weill did it with Rocky Marciano and he says that the Rock has retired, the veteran manager hopes to strike it rich again with Solomon McTier.

McTier, a muscular, six-foot, 200-pound Negro from Montgomery, Ala., scored his second knockout in as many pro starts Monday night when he stowed away Leroy Spivey, 185½, Brooklyn, in 1:33 of the last round of a preliminary four - rounder on the Frankie Ryff - Frankie Apollino card at St. Nicholas Arena. A powerful right hand to the chops did the trick.

When Weill puffed up the ring lace for the four-round prelim fight, you got an idea of the reason he's high for McTier. The round and sixty-ish manager has not given any prelim kid that honor in many years.

McTier's explosive wallop took the play away from the main event in which comebacking Ryff outclassed his Bronx lightweight rival, Apollino, in the 10-round television feature.

MUST LEARN MUCH

"Solly is big and strong and he can punch," said Weill. "He's got a lot to learn and so did Rocky. He has a good chance to make it if he learns from Archie Moore, who won the Olympic tryouts, is the Golden Gloves and he ain't been fighting long."

McTier, 24, said he started boxing in 1953 when he was discharged from the army.

"I had 30 amateur fights, won 29, 26 by knockouts," he said, "I won the national and international Golden Gloves this year and had some tough scraps, including three with Ramsbacker. I figure that I liked boxing and I hope to make big money."

With Weill and Charley Goldman, the trainer who handled Marciano, in the corner, he's off to a flying start.

Kingston Rated Top Contender On Strength of First Games

By DON SOUTTER

KINGSTON (Special) — On the strength of the first two games in the newly organized Ontario Hockey Association senior A, Eastern Division, it looks as if Les Douglas quietly put together a top contender.

In the opener the Kingston CKLCs bowed to the Whitby Dunlops 5-4 in overtime and then surprised by whipping the Pembroke Lumber Kings — expatriates from the strong Northern Ontario Hockey League, by a 7-3 count.

Douglas has moulded one team like which has carried the burden for the Kingston squad; returning veterans Don Senior and Don Murray and newcomer Gerry Moore, have been the surprise of the circuit, slamming in four goals in the two games pitching in two assists and seemingly relishing the heavy going.

Centre Don Murray, sliding back a little as the years affect his speed, still has more than ample operator," setting up five scoring plays as well as scoring once.

Another member of the trio, Gerry Moore has scored twice and added three assists. Rounding out the scoring spree for Wembley Lions were Kingfish Hockey League.

Two former Junior A performers combine with a returning player to cast season to give the locals their "youth" or hustling line.

At centre is Frank Brown, a former with St. Michael's College Majors last season. Flanking him is two-time-pro Al Arbour and either Ted Toppazzini or Jack White, two members of last season's squad.

Larose was rated a top prospect by the Toronto Canadiens while playing with the Kitchener Canucks last season with whom he left in January. He was off skates until he reported to the Canadiens' camp this fall. He ended up at Kingston in a bid to restore him as a professional prospect.

Centering the third line is Hub Mercey, the old pro who knows all the angles. Teaming with him are Don Bellringer, a 24-goal man with the locals last season but overweight this year and Frank Chiarelli, a 40-goal scorer with Wembley Lions.

On defence Douglas has teamed Gerry Lewandoski and Don Thompson, the former Brockville Maroons and was one pair and Ted Nicholson and Gerry O'Reilly, Kingston Frontenac juniors of the locals with his blueline performance, particularly with his ability to carry the puck. The Frenchcanadian was converted a year-and-a-half ago from a forward by the junior Canadiens coaching board and came to Kingston on the recommendation of the Montreal Canadiens' Kenny Reardon.

Playing in goal in the first two games has been Bert Brooks and at times the Fort William native has bordered on the sensational.

Against Whitby Brooks handled 49 shots, allowing five goals, while his mates had but 23 on Jack Bionda. Brooks was the third 40 shots his way in the second game, only three of them sluding him. Seven of the 37 aimed at Jack Kevin Bionda blinked the light.

Entries Boost State Stakes To $300,000

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Four supplementary nominations at $10,000 each Monday lifted the probable value of the Garden State Stakes Saturday to more than $300,000.

Mister Jive, owned by John L. Applebaum of Toronto, also was to have been a $10,000 supplementary, but he came out of Saturday's trial with bucked (sore) shins and will take a vacation for the while. Mister Jive, won the Cowdin Stakes at Belmont, Park.

The supplementary nominees are Clifford Lussky's Federal Hill, who won the Garden State trial, the Calumet Farm's Arbiter, who was second, Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Bold Note, and Frank Nally's Melson, the latter the winner of the Mayflower Stakes Saturday at Suffolk Downs.

It is expected that 15 two-year-olds will start in the 1 1-16-mile gallop, being raced for the fourth time. Entries will be made Friday morning at $1,000 apiece, with another $1,000 due for each starter Saturday, afternoon.

If 15 start, the Garden State will have a gross value of $313,000, compared to last year's record purse of $282,370. The winner will collect $176,655, with $62,242 for second, $41,581 for third and $15,560 for fourth place.

IMPERIAL FOR 1957 HAS CLASSIC LINES

In the sculptured beauty of the 1957 Imperial by Chrysler of Canada the "new shape of motion" reaches its highest levels. From distinctive headlight and grille treatment, through new swept-back windshield, to high-flung tail assembly, this new Imperial typifies forward motion in metal. The Imperial line features a much more powerful Firepower V-8 engine and the all-new Chrysler "Torsion-Aire" ride. This year, for the first time, Imperial is offering three series: the Imperial, which is a four-door sedan; the Imperial Crown, which includes a convertible coupe and a two and four-door hardtop; and the Le Baron, which is a four-door sedan.

CHRYSLER FOR 1957 OFFERS WINDSOR AND NEW YORKER MODELS

Nine body styles in two series are offered in Chrysler automobiles for 1957, including the smart Windsor four-door sedan shown above. The new "Torque-Flite" automatic transmission features, gear ranges adjustable to driving conditions, and dual-hydraulic starting. Under the hood are such features as increased power and efficiency and a revolutionary new air filter. Tested on stock car tracks, this new filter is cleaned by tapping it against any solid object, and need be replaced only after 15,000 miles of driving. An all-new suspension system known as "Torsion-Aire" ride places Chrysler in a "ride class" by itself.

Chrysler 1957 Cars Offer Many New Features

WINDSOR, — The new fully automatic 3-speed Torque-Flite transmission is now standard equipment on all 1957 Chrysler New Yorker and Windsor models.

"Torque-Flite", says C. O. Hurly, Chrysler Corporation of Canada's Vice-President, Sales, "not only gives better performance, but also better economy. Since low-speed performance is improved, higher rear axle ratios reduce engine speeds in direct drive, for greater economy."

The neutral or "N" button in the smart cluster of five Torque-Flite control buttons also starts the automobile. With the gear shift switch turned on, the neutral button is pushed in to disengage the transmission and then further depressed, with a slight extra pressure to start the car.

The 1957 cars are a direct projection of the Forward Look with lower, longer-appearing lines, sweeping tail fins, aluminum grilles, and increased glass area. Optional dual headlights are a pioneering offer in the New Yorker models.

Larger displacements and higher compression ratios in the 1957 Fire-Power and Spitfire V-8 engines have increased Chrysler horsepower. Superior engine performance has been effected by design changes in the cylinder head intake passages and by the engineering of the intake valves.

All 1957 Chrysler models have the newly designed, recessed for safety, door handles which operate with an easy lift - and - pull motion.

The rear silhouette of the 1957 Chrysler owes much to the engineering of a completely new suspension system. The rear-end overhang of the foot-high vertical coil springs with the more efficient torsion - bar front-end spring enabled Chrysler to combine a smoother ride and easier steering with a drastic lowering in the height of the car. Longer rear springs mounted on the outside of the frame greatly reduce rear end roll.

Low pressure tires designed for 22 pounds (cold), and the new 14 inch wheel both combine to reduce road shock and noise, while wider wheel rims are a splendid safety feature. Despite the small car wheels the internal diameter of the brake drum is not reduced. These Total-Contact brakes enjoy exceptionally long life and provide for much quicker and smoother stopping than do conventional brakes.

The microonic air cleaner, first pioneered in automobiles by Chrysler, has been adapted to the 1957 models to fit the reduced engine compartment space. The new paper cartridge is water and flame resistant and is easily cleaned.

The Windsor line offers four body styles for 1957, including a four-door sedan, two and four-door hardtops, plus a Town and Country estate wagon. This year's line of four-door hardtops has a concealed door window which retains the open impression of the hardtop.

The luxurious New Yorker has five body styles; a four-door sedan; two and four-door hardtops; a convertible with a "bubble canopy" windshield which wraps back at the top as well as at the sides; and a two-seat station wagon. Among the many standard equipment features of the New Yorker line is a new console - type inside door handle with a pull-back control knob.

"Interior decorating in the new Chryslers is keyed to the exterior colours. A wide variety of cloth and saddle-grained vinyl, singly and in combination, is employed with artful effect by the top interior stylists in the industry.

Other features of the 1957 Chrysler models include a new safety-recessed steering wheel, two-tailing defroster ducts, two convenient map lights, a new unified temperature system, and a new safety - styled rear view mirror mounted on the instrument panel.

At The Belle

Bing Crosby, Grace Kelly, and Frank Sinatra in M.G.M.'s 'High Society'

Bing Crosby, Grace Kelly and Frank Sinatra, an Academy Award winner, topping the year's outstanding cast. Cole Porter's all-new original score for a motion picture in ten years. Louis Armstrong and his band. Crosby and Sinatra singing together on the screen for the first time. Grace Kelly making her debut in a musical.

That's the unbeatable entertainment in Sol. C. Siegel's production of "High Society". The big attraction, filmed in Color and VistaVision, held over for Today, Wednesday and Thursday at the Belle Theatre, matinee daily.

Laid against a glittering background of Newport's social world and its summer Jazz festival, the story of "High Society" has a full quota of laughs in a plot revolving around a beautiful society girl who can't make up her mind about which husband she wants, the respective happy-go-lucky sportsman and stuffy careerman who vie for her affections, and the snoopy magazine reported who appears on the scene in quest of scandal but ends up in arranging for the right romantic parties to get together.

The Cole Porter tunes sung and danced by the film's stellar trio and by Celeste Holm, playing Sinatra's amusing photographer sidekick, comprise nine numbers, ranging from romantic ballads to hot Jazz. They include "You're Sensational," "Mind if I Make Love to You", "True, Love", "I Love You Samantha", "High Society", "Calypso", "Now You Has Jazz", "Little One", "Who Wants to be a Millionaire" and "Well Did You Evah".

Together with Celeste Holm, the cast co-stars John Lund, Louis Calhern and Sydney Blackmer.

"High Society" was directed by Charles (Tender Trap) Walters. It marks a new high in star-studded screen entertainment.

Once-Famous Matinee Idol Seeks Gold on 'Big Surprise'

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Meet Francis X. Bushman, once the idol of millions of women, twice a multi-millionaire, thrice renowned as one of the world's great actors. At the age of 72, Bushman has survived the vicissitudes of great success and sudden failure to achieve serenity.

Tonight on The Big Surprise (NBC-TV) the man who once made $6,000,000 in five years as a movie actor adds a climb that could lead him to $100,000.

And the category of his questions? Love poetry.

"It's appropriate," said Bushman with a wry smile. "After all, didn't I once have the reputation of being one of the world's great lovers? Furthermore, I like poetry and read a lot of it. When you're lonely, you read poetry. And I was very lonely after I retired.

DISAPPOINTS MILLIONS

In 1918, he recalled, his first wife divorced him—and the resultant publicity dashed the affections of millions of women. His public did not know he was married—let alone that he had five children. He smiled reflectively.

"They stoned me off the pedestal and then they threw mud on me. I had had 18 secretaries answering my fan mail from women. You cannot understand it. You are too young. I'm about the only one alive who remembers it. We were gods in those days . . . Well, after the news broke I suddenly had no mail. And the next I knew I was broke."

But he went on to earn another fortune as an actor—and lost it all again in the crash of 1929. "Everybody else committed suicide. I went into radio."

At 72 Bushman still is handsome, his eyes clear, his carriage jaunty. As he and his wife of two months left a restaurant a woman no longer young looked up at him in wild surprise and lisped to her companion, "Now that's Francis X. Bushman!"

Lead Part for Frank Sinatra In Joe E. Lewis Biography

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Sinatra, to whom nothing seems impossible, is taking a crack at his first film biography.

Not only that—he's also doing the life of a performer who is well identified with a large segment of the American public—comedian Joe E. Lewis. Sinatra is starring in The Joker is Wild, the story of the fabulous entertainer.

No attempt is being made for a physical resemblance of Lewis, but Sinatra said he will size the comic's singing and joke-delivery style.

"I do a couple of numbers in the early part of Joe's career," Sinatra explained. "They'll be done straight, but with the delivery of the 1928 - 30 era when every singer was making with the arms like Jolson. Also, I sing the songs a little higher than I usually do.

COMPLETE WITH GRAVEL

"Later in the picture I'll do some of Joe's parody songs, and I'll have a gravelly effect on the high notes, the way Joe does when he can't reach them."

This is the first time Frank has been back working in Hollywood since early in the year. So I had to catch up on his various activities. Such as:

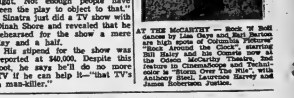
Johnny Cancho, his first independent production: "It did all right, considering it was only a fair picture. United Artists says it will gross $2,500,000 which is just considering we made it for $365,000.

"It was an experiment; I wanted to see if we could take a television play and make it into a movie without too great expense. A lot of people said we couldn't do it, but we did."

PAL JOEY NEXT

His next picture is Pal Joey and he said it was all ready to go. "They had some trouble with the script, but that is all fixed now," he explained. "They didn't know whether to keep Joey a bad after the Rita character brushes him off or to give him some redeeming qualities.

They decided to give him a chance, and I think that'll be all right. Not enough people have seen the play to object to that."



Sinatra just did a TV show with Dinah Shore and revealed that he rehearsed for the show a mere day and a half.

His stipend for the show was reported at $40,000. Despite this loot, he says he'll do no more TV if he can help it—"that TV's a man-killer."

6TH SIDNEY

'Korean Culture' Address at WMS-WA Meet

6TH SIDNEY. — Mrs. Edison Sine was hostess for the monthly dinner of the W.A. in Scott's United church dining hall on Wednesday with a good crowd attending.

In the afternoon, the ladies convened in the church for the W.M.S. meeting. Mrs. Ross Hall, Mrs. M. Sine, called the meeting to order with a call to worship and prayer. The scripture reading was from Ephesians.

The thank-offering was received and the treasurer instructed to send in the 3rd quarter's givings.

Attention was called to the grand temperance conclave to be held in Bridge Street church, Belleville on December 3 and 4.

Mrs. W. McMullin, the minister's wife, gave a talk on "Korea" as to its history and what it was like when they were missionaries there from 1926-1935.

"Culture of Korea—China and Korea appreciated literature and belonged to the mystics. Today we in the west, take things as they come without taking time to think much about them. In the east they take time to think things out.

In 1393 they built a wall 13 miles long 20 ft. wide and 40 ft high to protect the city of Seoul.

In 1647, the Queen of Korea ran an observatory built to study the stars. She also started the silk industry.

There was a well built about the time of King Arthur. At the time of Abraham an altar was built on an island near Seoul and the king introduced civilization to Korea.

The people were taught to build houses and roofs and the written language was brought from China. Even though they paid tribute to China and hated Japan, they have attained a superior people for 3,000 years. Up to the 16th century, the Japs pirated on the coasts of Korea but in 1590 they were defeated near Seoul by the first iron clad ship, that was ever built.

FIRST SUSPENSION BRIDGE

Korea has a lot to be proud of in her invention of the first suspension bridge and her improvement on the Chinese printed blocks. In 1446 they formed the phonetic script of forty-five letters Korea is noted for its hammered brass ornaments, but they had to sell much of this to pay their taxes. They also had lacquered wood ornaments trimmed with inset mother-of-pearl and wood polished with the use of oil has been an art for years and years.

For 4000 years they had nothing to do with any other country but China. In 1784 R.C. missionaries came over, 50 years later were driven out. Later they came back disguised as Koreans and 60,000 Christians were made by these R.C. priests. However, 38,000 were killed by edict and Christianity was driven underground.

In 1884, Protestant missionaries came to Korea. They were Presbyterian till 1923 when they became United church. The first missionaries came from the Maritimes.

The religion of Korea was the worship of spirits, most of them evil. They lived in fear and superstition. This was a good reason for them taking over Christianity."

Mrs. McMullin showed relics she had brought home from Korea exhibiting much of their handiwork. Mrs. Sine thanked her for her wonderful talk and expressed the wish to hear from her many times in the future.

Mrs. George Pollard conducted the business for the W.A., and closed the meeting.

"Oh I see—the magazine section too."

"Yes and that's not all, they tell me the Star Weekly is going to be new in many ways. New and modern make-up—New type that's easier to read—exciting and colorful."

Liberal Leader Says Govt. Broke Education Promise

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition leader Oliver of Ontario said Monday night a broken Progressive Conservative government promise to pay half Ontario's education expenses was the most unnoticed tax-payers $30,000,000 this year.

He said in a free-time political address over the CBC provincial network that in the next 10 years the cost of education in Ontario will become so great the burden on municipal taxpayers will be intolerable unless the government assumes its fair share.

His remarks were in a text released to the press before delivery.

In no sphere of public service has the government fallen so far short of its rightful obligation as in the field of grants for educational purposes, the Liberal leader said.

GRANTS HAVE FALLEN

Grants paid by the government to municipalities toward education costs had fallen and were continuing to fall in relation to total cost.

In 1943, the Conservatives promised to pay 50 per cent of education costs, but in 1954—the last year for which figures were available—grants represented only 35 per cent of the cost, Mr. Oliver said.

In 1945, 32 cents of every municipal tax dollar was spent on education. Today, more than 46 cents was used. Ten years ago, the Ontario government spent 21 cents of every revenue dollar for educational purposes, but today was spending only 16.

Little Guys and Dolls Start Club to Promote Interest

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The little guys and dolls are trying to get into the big time with help from tall people.

The long and short of it is: the American Affiliation of Tall Clubs is sponsoring a campaign to organize clubs of little people.

Sparkping of the drive is the Little Guys and Dolls of California, which thinks it's the first club limited exclusively to the little fellow. Maximum heights for club members are 5 feet 6 for men and 5 feet 2 for women, a far cry from tall club members who tower over 6 feet.

The strange Mutt and Jeff relationship seems quite logical to Albert Addy, chunky little 27-year-old San Francisco mail carrier and the driving force of the little group.

Both the talls and shorts have the same basic problems—physical inconvenience because most things are made to fit the height of the average person, and social discomfiture because they are the wrong height for the institution. The clubs, both the big ones and the little ones, are aimed at solving these problems.

HARD TO TAKE

As a mail carrier, 5-foot-2 Addy works alongside 6-foot-3 Bill Cook. That's been something of a pain in the neck to Addy, he spends so much time looking up at his friend.

When Cook was elected president last year of the San Francisco Tip Toppers (6-foot women and 5-foot men), Addy decided the little people should have a club of their own, too.

Cook thought it was a fine idea. He and other Tip Toppers helped Addy organize the Little Guys and Dolls of California in August 1955. The little guys now number 100 members by half a dozen San Francisco Bay area cities, in their heavy social program, twice a year they sandwich in a joint party with the Tip Toppers.

The tall people became national sponsors of the little fellows as a result of speeches Addy made to their international convention last July in Vancouver, B.C. He went to talk of his dream at the invitation of Don Koontz of Kansas City, Mo., then president of the American Affiliation of Tall Clubs.

Addy says it's a natural alliance. "All tall people have very short friends."

Romantically the Little Guys and Dolls' top achievement is the forthcoming marriage set for January of club members Mario Ricci and Carmen Barcelli, 4-foot-10 San Franciscans. They met in the club. Addy says "they were the shyest members of the club" until their romance suddenly blossomed forth.

Tiniest club member is 4-foot-8 Maureen Cook, appropriately, she teaches kindergarten. Perhaps not quite appropriately she likes to charleston with 6-foot-3 Bill Cook.

Addy has a great fondness for tall people, particularly Cook, but he thinks there's definitely an in-pare with the little guy. He points proudly to the club motto: "It's the little things that make people big."

Runs Road Race In Bare Feet

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Marathon runner Gerry Burke of Dartmouth covered a six-mile road race route in 41 minutes Sunday—in his bare feet.

He challenged others to join him on the barefoot run but none accepted. His best time with shoes was 39 minutes in a 1955 track competition here. Burke, 28, participated in this year's Boston Marathon.

Heavy traffic and gasoline fumes bothered him more than the hard pavement, he said after Sunday's effort.

PLANES, TANKS FIGHT BUDAPEST RIOTERS

Poles Win Fight As Khrushchev Disperses Troops

Gives Gomulka Apology For Bitter Pravda Attack

Supreme Court Orders Further Hearing on Case

OTTAWA (CP) — A further hearing before the Supreme Court of Canada on the validity of Ontario's system of farm marketing programs will open Nov. 19.

The court today ordered the hearing, which probably will be the last legal step before a decision is given on whether provincial marketing boards have power to levy charges on their farmer-members.

The issue to be settled is whether the charges are general licence fees, or whether they are indirect taxes and thus beyond the provincial powers. Under the Canadian constitution, the federal government has the sole right to levy indirect taxes.

The case was argued before the court for three days last April, centred on the operations of the Ontario hog producers' marketing board. But the Ontario legislation also covers marketing boards for peaches and certain vegetables.

Thousands of farmers will be affected by the decision on the Ontario legislation. The final ruling could have a bearing on marketing plans in other provinces.

Princess Takes Shot of Lion, Mate in Forest

AMBOSELI, Kenya (Reuters)—A powerful lion and his mate stared Princess Margaret square in the eye Tuesday night while she climbed away with her camera—four feet away.

"This is marvelous I must photograph them," Margaret exclaimed as her jeep came upon the lion and lioness in the Amboseli game reserve at the foot of Mount Kilimanjaro.

The princess, wearing a white, sand-pink floral skirt and a white blouse, almost as camera as the beasts lay quietly. Mervyn Cowie, director of Kenya's national parks slowly moved the jeep closer so as to give her a better shot.

Then the 13 shots of the lioness before she moved off and more of the lion.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Tuesday night the ocast of Tuesday night the coast of Labrador will be followed by a short spell of Indian summer. The winds originated from the first snowfall of cold air which was formed this morning over south-ern Hudson Bay and lay sprawled across all of Ontario. In the American midwest, strong gusty southerly winds are bringing warm air as far north as the Dakotas and the interaction of warm and cold air is producing snow over the Canadian Prairies.

For Thursday, cloudy skies and cool weather is forecast for the entire province with a likelihood of scattered showers in the north country.

WARSAW (AP) — Authoritative Polish sources say Nikita Khrushchev has accepted the idea of a freer Poland and that the two countries will patch up their quarrel.

Khrushchev was reported to have apologized for a bitter Soviet attack on the Polish press and called off Soviet military pressure that had been placed on the new Polish regime.

The Soviet Communist boss apparently yielded with only minor reservations to the demand of Poland's new leaders for socialism without Soviet domination. Polish - Soviet relations immediately improved.

Sources said the Russian leader backed down completely from his demand that Moscow-picked men retain a voice in Poland's Communist leadership.

The informants said the surrender came in a telephone call from Khrushchev to Wladyslaw Gomulka, new boss of the Polish Communist party, Tuesday afternoon. It was made in the midst of waves of bitter anti - Soviet demonstrations inside Poland.

RIP FLAGS DOWN

Thousands of Poles had been demonstrating in three major cities against Russia's attempt to hold off the independence promised by Gomulka. They tore down and trampled Soviet flags and red banners. Also the removal to Siberia of Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, the Moscow - appointed commander of the Polish military forces.

The sources said Soviet troop concentrations in Poland were ordered dispersed in line with Khrushchev's telephone call and that a Russian naval squadron off Poland's Baltic coast was withdrawn.

The informants gave this account of the dramatic events:

Khrushchev flew from the Kremlin.

He told Gomulka that with Polish flight reservations he accepted the new Polish Socialist policy line Gomulka announced last weekend.

Khrushchev apologized for an attack in Pravda, the Soviet Communist organ, on articles in the Polish press backing Poland's hard-won freedom. The Pravda attack was highly resented in Warsaw.

Within the next day or so, Khrushchev was quoted as saying, Pravda will publish a virtual retraction in the form of reprinting articles from Polish newspaper articles that denounced the Pravda attack as "clumsy interference."

The Polish sources said Gomulka and Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz will go to Moscow later this week for discussions with the Soviet Communist leadership.

TROUBLESOME TOTS

HALIFAX (CP) — Police say there has been a growing number of complaints about property damage caused by children. The damage ranged from breaking windows to denting car fenders and destroying flowers.

Executed as Spies Five Years Ago, 19 Polish Officers 'Rehabilitated'

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Prosecutor-General Marian Rybicki disclosed Tuesday that 19 Polish Army officers executed in 1951 on espionage charges have been posthumously rehabilitated.

The disclosure brought immediate demands by one paper that the full story of what it calls "gross injustice" be made public.

The Polish Evening Express, in an article signed by Henryk Holland, indicates that the prosecutor's statement to the trial in August, 1951, on espionage charges.

Rybicki said the secret shortly after the arrest of Deputy Premier Wladyslaw Gomulka on Titoism charges, "Gomulka" now has surged back into power.

CRUSHED BODIES OF SEVEN WORKERS ARE RECOVERED

Men Buried Alive In Huge Sewer Ditch

VARENNES, Que. (CP) — The bodies of seven men entombed in a huge sewer trench were recovered early today by grim-faced workmen who moved many tons of fallen mud with shovels, buckets and bare hands.

The mud-caked, exhausted men who had slaved for about 34 hours removed their tin hats and bowed their heads in prayer as the last of the victims was hoisted from the ditch at 1 a.m.

A priest who stood by throughout the heart-breaking rescue attempt administered the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church over the bodies as they lay side by side in a temporary construction office near the brink of the excavation.

The dead men were taken to the morgue in this community near Montreal where an inquest was scheduled to be opened today for official identification purposes. Identity of the victims already was known to reporters but not to fellow-workers of the entombed men.

CAUSE SOUGHT

The construction company superintendent said a committee of seven men has been appointed to investigate the accident which occurred near the end of the workday Tuesday.

The snap of splintering timber as the wall caving before the sides of the ditch collapsed with a sudden roar, dropping thousands of tons of earth over the doomed men.

A doctor and a priest tried to reach the underground disaster victims crawling 30 feet in a sewer pipe, and were able to see the feet of two victims who were caught while standing upright.

There was little hope that any would be found alive after the first cave-in.

But oxygen was pumped underground as the would-be rescuers toiled in rain and subsequent chill winds. More than half a mile of the huge sewer was dug before a rescuer came only 200 feet from the river shore.

Govt. Under Fire Over Call-Ups

LONDON (Reuters)—The government Tuesday was accused of "deliberately undermining" in the call-up of reserve soldiers ordered by the time of the Suez crisis.

Labor member Stephen Swingler said in the House of Commons he had been a "shocking muddle" in paying grants to reservists' families.

Another Laborite, Norman Dodd (Barnsley), said he had heard of "worst series of bureaucratic blunders of modern times." He added that the situation was an injury by the promotion of the responsible ministers. Anthony Eden, repliet that he was satisfied the department was working with due attention for money grants quickly.

53, Mostly Europeans, Killed As French Ruse Angers Arabs

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — At least 53 persons, mostly European, today were reported killed in Morocco in rioting touched off by France's seizure of five Algerian rebel leaders.

French and Moroccan armed patrols uncovered more and more burned and mutilated bodies in the city of Meknes, where angry Arab nationalists struck Tuesday.

Moroccan troops and French Legionnaires mounted guard in the European section of Meknes while the search went on in the native quarters for more bodies.

In addition to Tuesday's rioting in the town, French sources said 26 farms, mostly European, in the surrounding countryside were wholly or partly burned by ranging Moroccans.

The actual cause of the rioting in Meknes appeared to be the accidental shot fired by a Moroccan trooper who wounded himself. The shot enraged demonstrators and the bloodshed was on.

TUNIS (AP)—Morocco's Sultan Mohammed V gloomily ordered a state of mourning today. He and Tunisian leaders broke off talks interrupted when France seized five Algerian rebel leaders and arrested the Arab world's No. 1 rebel.

Mindful of the ruse France used to capture the leaders of the Algerian revolt, the Sultan ordered his household made clear he would not travel in a French plane.

The sultan came to Tunisia to confer on a purported plan to bring peace to Algeria and set it up into a new union of North Africa. The French trick which diverted the planeload of rebel chiefs to French-run Algiers and waiting French troops instead of their destination in independent Tunis kicked up a storm on both sides of the Mediterranean. The action touched off riots and protest strikes in both Tunisia and Morocco. Arab mobs killed nine persons—eight of them French—in the Moroccan city of Fez Monday.

In Paris, the National Assembly cheered Mollet's exultant recital of the capture of the rebel chiefs. The Communists—applauded the move. Opposition came from the action by French civil and military authorities in Algiers.

Three other factors emerged from the somewhat confused situation:

1. French sources in Algiers said the rebel chiefs had divulged in great detail all activities of the national liberation front headquarters in Cairo. They talked at length of the aid the organization received from Egypt and Syria.

2. A general protest strike in Tunis virtually closed down the city. Many Europeans were thought air transport out of Tunis was over spread that the army had taken over the airport and no airline planes would be allowed to land or take off.

3. Strikes and sympathy demonstrations for the captured rebels flared in Casablanca and Rabat where strong Moroccan police and Arab crowds began approaching the French Embassy.

Officials Beginning to Believe Satellite System Is Cracking

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials are creeping around to the belief that Russia's Eastern European satellite system is beginning to crack up.

This view apparently was reflected by President Eisenhower yesterday in his statement on the revolt against Soviet domination in Poland.

"The evils of imperialism," Eisenhower said in a speech at Labor Department, "are discontent, unrest, riots in one place and demonstrations in another to cut the tyranny exercised over them either dissolves or is exploded."

Eisenhower implied American readiness to aid the Poles or any other people who would successfully assert their independence of Moscow and of Communist help.

The implication was strong that the administration is ready to develop toward Poland a policy comparable to that which it has followed in the case of assistance to Yugoslavia, which broke with Moscow in 1948.

Administration authorities are known to believe they have let it be between Warsaw and Moscow will go. They do not know for certain whether it will mean a lessening of Poland's commerce with Russia and a really new political orientation of Poland.

The Polish revolt has broken entirely different circumstances developed a neutral position as between the Soviet and Western power blocs. Some informed officials are inclined to think Poland can shift their policies to that degree since they have a common border with Russia.

In these conditions of uncertainty, the American defense position, the attitude of the state department is to go slow in formulating any policies. The Eisenhower-looking into the possibilities of communication and broadly asserting American support for securing and expanding Poland's independence of action.

Says She Saw Sister Hitting Man With Shoe

SUDBURY (CP) — Florence Guay of North Bay testified Tuesday that she saw her sister hold Wilfred Snider on the head with a shoe last June 22.

She was giving evidence at the trial of her brother and sister-in-law, Ell and Christina Guay of Espanola, who are charged with the murder of the 76-year-old Snider.

She said that on the evening of June 22 she went with Ell, 37, and Christina, 35, to a small isolated shack, beside the Spanish River four miles from Espanola.

She said Mrs. Guay went to Snider, who was sitting on his bed, and hit him on the head "in my way."

The girl said Mrs. Guay then held his hands up, my brother had his hands out. . . I saw the man going down on the bed. My brother was right up to him. My sister-in-law was standing close to him, hitting him on the head with her shoe."

Florence Guay said at that point she ran out of the shack.

Snider was found dead in his shack June 29.

The trial is continuing.

Believe Deaths Case of Murder And Suicide

TILLSONBURG (CP)—The bodies of John Heimgartner, 38, and his 29-year-old wife, Cornelia, were found today in their farmhouse home at Salford near here, police said.

They said Heimgartner had shot through the forehead. His wife had two bullet wounds in the chest.

Police said they believe it is a case of murder and suicide.

A couple's four children also were in the house. The youngest, age two, was found lying across the bodies. The other three, two others, whose ages range up to seven, were sleeping upstairs, apparently unaware of the tragedy.

The dead couple moved into the house only two weeks ago. They were found by the owner, Peter Vanhoff.

150 Die As Russian Troops Fire On Crowd Of 250,000 Massed Around Parliament

Rebel-Supported Nagy Named Premier But Government Then Seeks Russian Aid

VIENNA (Reuters) — Budapest radio said tonight the armed uprising against the government "seems to be over" and many youths are depositing their arms in parks and streets.

Earlier it was announced Communist planes had joined tanks and machine-gunners in a fierce battle to crush an anti-Soviet rebellion gripping the Hungarian capital, Budapest.

Sending of planes into the fighting was reported late today by the Budapest radio.

Direct telephone communication with the city was cut off, but it was evident that casualties in the fighting were mounting by the score. A Westerner who reached Warsaw after travelling from Budapest said 150 persons were reported to have been killed when Russian tanks were brought into fighting outside the Hungarian parliament building.

He said a crowd of 250,000 demonstrators massed around the parliament Tuesday night demanding changes in the government.

Finally, tanks were brought out to disperse the crowd. The demonstrators swarmed over the vehicles and tried to capture them. The tanks opened fire.

(Reuters news agency also quoted a traveller arriving in Vienna from Budapest as saying were estimated to have been killed in Tuesday's fighting. This report also referred to the clash near the parliament building.)

The Budapest radio did not identify the nationality of the warplanes engaged in the desperate struggle. But eyewitnesses arriving in Vienna said the tanks blazing through the streets ahead of the Danubian capital were Russian.

CALL FOR HELP

A desperate Hungarian Communist government, unable to smash the revolt, had called for help from the thousands of Russian soldiers stationed in the country.

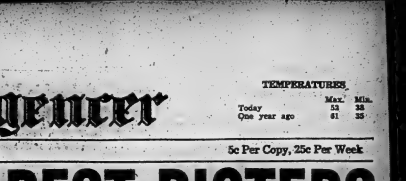
The fighting swirled through downtown streets, through apartment houses and public buildings and through huge factories.

But despite the Russian Army's help hours passed without the surrender Communist leaders demanded.

Indicating the fighting still was raging in the Hungarian city of Pecs, more than 1,000,000, the new government of Premier Imre Nagy announced an ultimatum zero hour for surrender of the rebels was 6 p.m. Budapest time (noon EST).

It is a apparent gesture of appeasement to the rebels, Communist leaders had removed Andras Hegedus from the post of premier. Nagy, who was purged in 1955.

NOT ENOUGH



All through the night students, workers, officials, military and others shouted for Nagy as premier and demanded the expulsion of Soviet troops from Hungary. But when the Communist government gave in to the demands for Nagy, apparently the rebels were not to be appeased and the fighting continued as the Russians would get out.

The cry "Russians go home" mingled with machine-gun fire near a statue of Stalin that young workers tried to pull down.

Today's accounts of the fighting came from the official Budapest radio and from travellers who reached the Austrian frontier. Earlier, all communications with Budapest was cut off after Endre Marton, AP correspondent there, gave a detailed account of the early hours of the uprisings. The rebellion was far more violent than that in Poland, where Communists won independence of the Communist party from Kremlin domination.

THE FORCE

In Hungary, the Russians apparently fighting to keep Nagy in power. Soviet troops joined Hungarian units against the rebels, in response to NICKELSDORF, Austro-Hungarian Frontier (AP)—Two German businessmen arriving here today said they saw dozens of Russian tanks rolling through Budapest, firing at buildings in the midst of heavy street fighting.

These witnesses said some buildings in the centre of the Hungarian capital were in flames.

They hurried out of Budapest when the fighting flared in the night, passing several control points manned by scared youths.

The Germans refused to give their names because, they said, they want to return to Budapest for business purposes and fear the rebels would harm their prospects.

The men said they were staying at the Duna Hotel, on the banks of the Danube just below the Hungarian parliament building.

"We were awakened in the early morning hours by the ever-increasing thunder of machine-gun fire," they related.

BUILDINGS BURN

"When we packed out of the hotel we saw dozens of Russian tanks rolling through the city, fire from the buildings. Many of the buildings were already in flames."

The Germans related that on their way out of Budapest they saw a soldier dead in the street and they believed from his uniform that he might have been a Russian.

"Ambulances rushed through the capital streets in great numbers, many of them bloodstained," the eyewitnesses related.

They said the city appeared "completely deserted save for a few people who were watching events in the streets from their doorways."

This was explained by the fact that the government ordered people to stay indoors while the fighting lasted.

terms. But still there was no indication that the rebellion was ended.

Earlier Budapest Radio said the Hungarian government had appealed for help from Soviet troops "to suppress the counter-revolution."

It appealed to reorganize the government and leadership of the ruling Communist party was made at an emergeny session of the party's central committee which met after the radio broadcasting got out of hand.

The meeting decided to retain Erno Gero as first secretary of the Communist party central committee—Shots said.

Official Organ of Czech Communists Promises Eternal Friendship to Russia

PRAGUE (Reuter) — Rude Pravo, official organ of the Czechoslovak Communist party, today pledged Czechoslovakia's eternal friendship to Russia.

In the first-though Indirect—Czech comment on events in Poland and Hungary, the newspaper said Czechs are keeping a watchful eye on developments in foreign countries.

Rude Pravo said the Czech people "show interest in developments in friendly nations, in fraternal brotherly Communist parties, but they have never developed anything that could be detrimental to the building of socialism."

It added that any attempt to spread "chaos" in Czechoslovakia would fail from the start.

BELLEVILLE OFFICER RETURNS OFF COURSE

F/LC. Chuck Wilcox of Belleville, recreational staff officer at 1 Air Division, Metz, France, was one of 40 officers from 10 of the 15 member nations of NATO returning to their respective countries after completing a 10-day information course at NATO headquarters in Paris.

The five-day course was designed to familiarize public relations and information officers with the detailed operations of NATO. Lectures, films, and open discussions augmented visits to SHAPE near Paris and AFCENT at Fontainebleau.

Lord Ismay, vice-chairman and secretary-general, also spoke to the group which included 10 Canadians from London, France and Germany.

Board Members Choose New Site For High School

Members of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board have chosen a new site for the proposed third high school which will be constructed east of the city in Thurlow township.

The new site on which an option has been taken is property owned by Mrs. Barbara MacDonnell, the location being bounded by Victoria, Churchill, Farley and Ketcheson Avenues. The site is north of Victoria Ave. and slightly farther east than the Ellis property.

School board members met twice last week in special meetings to discuss the site of the proposed new high school with result that the board solicitor was directed to take proceedings in connection with expropriation of the George Ellis property and no further action will be taken in this connection.

Nearly 300,000,000 acres of land were given away under the American Homestead Act of 1863.

14,000 Names On Voters' List

The 1956 Belleville voters' list, posted early last week contains the names slightly over 14,000 city residents who will be entitled to cast ballots at the December municipal elections.

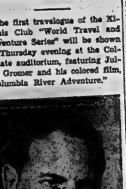
The lists are posted at the office of Mrs. A. M. Haggerty, city clerk; at all public and separate schools, at the crown attorney's office; the post office and at the office of the Thurlow township clerk.

Mrs. Haggerty asks that residents entitled to a municipal vote check the list to make certain that their names are included. If not they are asked to write or call the city clerk's office or the assessor's office at city hall, the last day for making appeals being 14 days after the lists were posted on Oct. 11th.

The number of voters on the voter's list qualified to serve as jurors is listed as being 3681.

Police Blotter

City and provincial police reported a very quiet night watch with no accidents of any nature and with few occurrences of a routine nature.



Police assistance was asked to locate an east hill high school girl who failed to return home from school, but by the time a search by a young Wellington boy missing from his home, the missing high school girl returned home later and the Wellington boy was located at Cannonque.

A pet dog owned by David Feeney, 94 Dundas street, east, was struck by a passing car and was injured so badly the dog had to be shot by a police constable.

Safety can be attained by education, by cultivating an attitude of enlightened self-interest, and by forcing the ignorant habit of thinking safely. It is difficult to understand why a man should be indifferent to getting hurt. Many accidents happen because of utter disregard for the possible consequences of a careless act. If more people realized that it's smart to be safe a greater effort would be made to develop this skill.

Columbia River Film Opens Travel Series

The first travelogue of the Kiwanis Club "World Travel and Adventure Series" will be shown on Thursday evening at the Collegiate auditorium, featuring Julian Gromer and his colored film, "Columbia River Adventure."

JULIAN GROMER

Mr. Gromer offers a film of sheer adventure and beauty, photographed in one of the most scenic sections of the world. In his own motorboat, he travels down the great Columbia River, from its source, in Canada, to its mouth, in the Pacific Ocean. New views in the Canadian Rockies, including Banff, Lake Louise, the Columbia Icefields and Jasper, Radium, Hot Springs, Kicking Horse River, the Big Bend, and many other beautiful spots in Canada. Then into the United States where he will show the Grand Coulee Dam — the largest in the world; Celilo Falls, where the Indians dip for salmon; Bonneville Dam, where the salmon go up the "fish ladder," a climb up Mt. Hood, making bathing suits (and modelling them) at Jantzen's in Portland, Lambert's Garden is a paradise of flowers including Japanese plum blossoms so that the visitor can watch the flowers grow. A visit to Vancouver and the largest sawmill in the world, and the canning of salmon, the end. This is but a brief outline of a fine travelogue.

A total of six travelogues will be featured in the current series, which started in Italy, Sweden, Greece and southern U.S. Colonel John Craig's best seller "Danger Is My Business" will be brought to the travelogue screen. Complete seating details will be available at the auditorium Thursday.

Proceeds of the travelogue will assist the Kiwanis Club welfare work in this community.

Kingston Wishes To Construct Two Expressways

KINGSTON (CP)—A Kingston civic official proposed Tuesday that Ontario municipalities be allowed to finance urban expressways by charging tolls.

T. J. McKibbon, clerk-controller of Kingston, told the Ontario select committee on toll roads the tolls would be based on the weight of vehicles using the roads.

He said Kingston wished to build two expressways, each about four miles long, to connect the city with Highway 401 when it is completed.

The committee is touring Eastern Ontario to get opinions on the advisability of completing the highway itself as a toll road.

Kingston officials say they cannot build the expressways under ordinary local improvement laws since adjoining properties would not have access to them and thus could not be charged for their construction. Alternatively, they do not wish to raise the money by a general levy.

THREE RATES

Plans call for one rate for passenger vehicles, a second for light trucks and a third for heavy trucks.

Committee Chairman John Robarts said such a scheme might be the solution to the problem of urban expressway construction. The Ontario Municipal Act would have to be amended to permit it, he said. Yarmoke, Progressive Conservative member for Bellwoods, Toronto, said it might be hard to collect on such short roads and proposed a gasoline act a eight-mile tax with some portion earmarked for urban expressway construction.

United Nations Day Observed In Quinte School

Two guest speakers addressed the assembly at Quinte Secondary School this morning on the occasion of United Nations Day. Mr. David Adams, principal and dancer with the National Ballet Company, told his youthful audience that through the medium of ballet, performed by Canadian artists, a feeling of goodwill is springing up each place the company plays and the general friendly feeling of Canadian people is being extended to citizens of the free world.

The United Church chaplain of Queen's University, Rev. Cecil Goyder, claimed people who say the United Nations is merely a talk shop at which nothing is accomplished are those who have never realized the horrors of war nor have they heard a short fired in anger. It is because the majority of people appreciate the death and destruction created in world conflict that the U.N. is of great success.

"Small wars throughout the world which are being predistically could easily develop into a world conflict without the prediction of the United Nations," said Mr. Laverty. When the U.N. charter was drawn up it was hoped East and West would get along in harmony and that the resurgence of smaller countries desiring independence these smaller countries could act as a buffer while negotiations were being carried on, as a result, wars broke out.

Although the world has known several small wars since the end of the Second World War, the U.N. has succeeded in preventing a third major conflagration.

"Canada," said the speaker, "has little if anything to fear from the rest of people in the free countries of the world. Canada is looked upon as a friendly place to live." Canada has great resources which are being developed to a higher degree; but no government is going to do anything about developing these resources until her people give some concrete indication that they wish the government to do so.

Mr. Laverty said, "we must be willing to share with those who have nothing". If the Canadian people are to continue to be held in high esteem by smaller countries across the sea.

In conclusion the chaplain urged students to remember their freedom was bought at the price of thousands of lives. Furthermore, to maintain the peace all must share in defending the forces for peace or there is no hope in the future.

Mr. Laverty was introduced by school principal Mr. R. Hall. Mr. Adams was introduced by Mrs. R. H. Tanner, president of the Belleville Ballet Guild and director of the National Ballet Company.

$59,517,000 Spent To Build Schools

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Ontario elementary schools spent $39,300,000 and secondary school boards $20,217,000 in 1955 building programs, Dr. John C. Mills, executive secretary of the Public Trustees of Ontario said Tuesday.

He told the trustees' annual convention that elementary school building had involved 425 projects, providing space for 16,000 more pupils, while the secondary schools completed 56 projects, providing for 14,100 more.

Elementary school enrolment at 803,615 last year, is expected to jump by 48,000 this year. Secondary schools also had increases, with 14,000 newcomers joining 1955's total of 174,562.

"Transportation of pupils by school buses now is a well established feature of our Ontario school system," he said. Transportation was provided for 97,700 elementary and secondary school pupils during the last school year.

Mr. Mills said that from September, 1956, the number is expected to exceed 100,000, and 80 per cent of those students are expected to be living more than two miles from the schools.

22 Whoopers Seen in Nebraska On Way South

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Twenty-two of the 27 whooping cranes known to be alive in the world are believed to have stopped in Nebraska during the last few days.

State game commissioner Mel Ryder said the sightings of the rare birds are accepted as authentic only after convincing investigations, circumstances and interrogation of the bird watchers.

The huge white cranes are travelling from summer haunts in Canada's Northwest Territories to winter nesting grounds at the Arkansas natural refuge in Texas.

No casualties among the cranes have been reported in Nebraska although a wounded whooper was sighted Oct. 11, near Dunning, Neb., Steen said. The same crane was seen again Oct. 18 near Loup and it appears the bird "may make it all right."

Three-Pound Potato Grown In Wellington

This could be it. The "King of the Spuds" may have been located. In any event until a bigger one comes along Donald Baltzey, Wellington farmer can lay claim to production of the largest potato yet exhibited to newspaper eyes.

The "humpty" was flatfish oval in shape.

It tipped the scales at three pounds one ounce more than the largest bronze largest brought to this newspaper to date.

But he said 'we are still investigating to see if any action against the Canada (owners of the Queen May) is warranted."

U. S. officials let the liner sail from New York Oct. 3 although having good reason to believe that Alexei Chwastov had 24-year-old American-born Juliana aboard, without a passport for her and with intent to take her to Russia.

Chwastov's efforts to take Juliana from London to Russia have been blocked at least temporarily by a custody suit filed in the Bronx County by the child's mother.

Hennessy said U. S. law provides that "any vehicle, vessel or aircraft . . . shall be forfeited to the United States" if its owners knowingly allow its use for the illegal departure of an American citizen from the U. S.

The club members were chosen on the basis club participation. The selectees were interviewed by a committee of Ontario agricultural College, Guelph, on Friday.

Douglas Detlor and Robert Williams have been outstanding 4-H club members in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties.

Canadian Hits High U.S. Tariff In Toledo Talk

TOLEDO (CP) — American businessmen were told today by a Canadian trade official that Canadians find it hard to understand why "we are sometimes pictured as unscrupulously and unfairly taking the bread out of your mouths."

Guy Smith, commercial counsellor at the Canadian Embassy in Washington, said Canadians also are puzzled when certain U.S. industries go to "such incredible lengths" to obtain tariff protection, especially when those industries enjoy unprecedented prosperity and imports hold only a small share of the market.

Addressing the Canadian-United States business conference here, he stressed the importance of the U.S. market to Canada and suggested Americans must forgive Canadians if they "object strenuously and subject you to outspoken criticism" when the move is made to restrict Canadian imports.

He pointed out that Canada's adverse balance of trade with the U.S. and said there is "a limit to how far Canada can carry the trade deficit "or how far we can finance it by capital investments from this country."

Since the war, Canada has bought some $5,500,000,000 worth of goods more from the United States than the U.S. has bought from Canada. By the end of this year, the imbalance for 1956 alone would "almost certainly be the staggering deficit of more than $1,000,000,000."

Smith's remarks were contained in the text of a speech released to the press before delivery.

British Liner May Be Subject To Seizure

WASHINGTON (AP)—An immigration official said today the British liner Queen Mary may be subject to seizure by the U. S. government as a result of the Juliana Chwastov case.

James Hennessy, executive assistant to the commissioner of Immigration Commissioner J. M. Swing, indicated this is a technical situation, and that there is no actual thought of such action.

But he said 'we are still investigating to see if any action against the Canada (owners of the Queen Mary) is warranted."

U. S. officials let the liner sail from New York Oct. 3 although having good reason to believe that Alexei Chwastov had 24-year-old American-born Juliana aboard, without a passport for her and with intent to take her to Russia.

Chwastov's efforts to take Juliana from London to Russia have been blocked at least temporarily by a custody suit filed in the Bronx County by the child's mother.

Hennessy said U. S. law provides that "any vehicle, vessel or aircraft . . . shall be forfeited to the United States" if its owners knowingly allow its use for the illegal departure of an American citizen from the U. S.

Will Try to Breed Whooping Cranes In Captivity

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian and American wildlife experts will meet in Washington next week to discuss the possibility of breeding whooping cranes in captivity.

The big white birds with the black wing tips are threatened with extinction because they apparently have not been able to increase their population in the wild. The flock now is believed to number 20 adults and eight young ones, but the exact number will not be known until they arrive later this month at the Arkansas national wildlife refuge in Texas.

Breeding of whooping cranes in captivity has never been attempted but it is worth a try, says W. E. F. Solman, assistant chief of the Canadian Wildlife Service. There has been an increase in the flock number in 20 years.

Experts with considerable literature on the breeding of other species of cranes, especially from Europe where it once was a popular hobby among large estate owners.

At present, the known flock of whooping cranes is heading south to Arkansas from their summering in Northern Canada.

Extend Deadline To Sell Uranium By One Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Deadline for deliveries of uranium by companies with special premium price contracts has been extended by one year to March 31, 1963, Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd. announced today.

The crown-owned company said in a statement that the modification will affect only those producers which will not obtain a full write-off of capital and pre-production expenditure under the existing arrangement.

The statement said the price in all special price contracts with producers includes an element calculated to amortize pre-production and capital expenditures, as approved by Eldorado, over five years' production at full-rated mill capacity.

The special price contracts are negotiated with individual producers at rates above Eldorado's published price schedule. The premium prices have not been disclosed.

Originally, the termination date for deliveries by producers with special price contracts was March 31, 1962.

However, the statement said that certain producers, due to unavoidable delays in getting into production, would be unable to obtain a full five years' production at full-rated mill capacity.

Stairs and steps account for nearly as many fatalities as all other types of falls combined, although many accidents are sustained by men and women merely walking around a room. Loose rugs, highly polished floors and objects left carelessly around, are responsible for many deaths.

Nagy Tough Red But Seeks Better Life for Masses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The man who came back to power in Hungary today at the demand of the people is a hard-bitten Communist revolutionary, banished in 1949.

But in the ordinary Hungarian's eyes Imre Nagy, the newly named premier, stands for a better life for the masses.

Some Hungarians see a parallel between Nagy's career and that of Wladyslaw Gomulka, the Polish Communist who returned to power Sunday. Both men are popular with Communist party liberals, and their support is needed to provide stable governments in Warsaw and Budapest.

But there are differences between the two men, Gomulka, the first Communist party chief in Poland after the Second World War, fell from Stalin's favor at the same time as President Tito of Yugoslavia for refusing to go as far as other Polish Communist bigwigs in giving his native land into a Soviet colony. He later spent three years in prison.

Nagy, Hungarian premier from July 1953 to April 1955, was not imprisoned after his downfall but was purged from the Communist party. His term of office paralleled the reign of Georgi Malenkov as No. 1 man in Russia. Like Malenkov, Nagy promised the people better living conditions. He shifted emphasis from production of heavy industry to production of consumer goods. Nagy fell in Hungary just after Malenkov was toppled in Russia by Nikita Khrushchev and Nikolai Bulganin.

NAGY FRONT MAN

Nagy was always considered the No. 1 leader of Hungary, but only a front man for Matyas Rakosi, the tough first secretary of the Hungarian Communist party, Rakosi now is in virtual exile in Russia.

Like Gomulka, Nagy is not a democrat in the Western sense.

Now 59, he has been a Communist since 1918, when he fought in Russia at the outbreak of the revolution. Between the wars he worked his way up in Hungary's Communist party. He returned to Russia during the Second World War as a Hungarian language broadcaster.

The Red Army brought him back to Hungary in 1944 and he rose rapidly in the new Red regime. After serving as agriculture minister, interior minister and Parliament speaker, he was named one of five vice-premiers under Rakosi.

Rakosi, known as a Stalin henchman, resigned the premiership after Stalin's death but remained the party head. Nagy became premier and launched the Malenkov line in Hungary.

Nagy was restored to party membership Oct. 14 in the midst of a campaign by the Hungarian Communists to liquidate the remnants of Stalinism.

Indians Want Right to Buy Liquor in Stores

VICTORIA (CP)—Wearing the full regalia of the Capilano tribe, aged Chief Matthias led a delegation of 27 British Columbia Indians into the provincial cabinet chamber at the legislative buildings Tuesday, seeking support in their campaign for the right of Indians to buy liquor.

Red feathers nodded and the bells on his moccasins jingled as Chief Matthias plodded into the chamber and saluted Premier Bennett and members of his cabinet. Then, without uttering a word, he pointed to Andy Paul, president of the North American Indian Brotherhood, as spokesman for the delegates.

Mr. Paul presented neatly typed brief asking the cabinet to "cause to be repealed" Section 75 of the B.C. Liquor Act which prohibits Indians from entering a liquor store.

CRUSHED BODIES

Encased in the sticky, "blue" clay of this St. Lawrence River area, the bodies were held in vice-like grip. Workmen had to abandon tools and use their bare hands as they came close to the bodies.

A driving rain, ending in a brief downpour, drenched the excavation during the rescue efforts Tuesday night, adding to the danger and hardships of the some 300 men who worked without respite.

The men were employed by United Engineering and Construction (Canada) Ltd.; which was digging the half-mile ditch for a new plant of Canadian Titanium Pigments Ltd. near this village 15 miles from Montreal.

It was not known immediately what caused the cave-in, and company officials Tuesday night urged a crowd of onlookers to stand back to prevent danger of another slide.

Victims were identified as: Paul Dupre, 36, of nearby Contrecoeur; Roland Deschenes, 33, and Richard Lambert, 23, both of St. Cuthbert; and Henri Viau, 34, Jacques Fluet, 26 and Romeo Blaise, 31, all of Montreal.

ONE ESCAPES

An eighth man, Georges Fenland, 45-year-old foreman of pipefitters, managed to leap clear. He told a reporter: "It happened in a matter of seconds . . . it was a horrifying sight. I only thank God knows how I got out alive."

Tuesday night's rain gave way to a chill, moaning wind early today and this, with the sing-song chools of the French-Canadian workmen, made the sound of a requiem over the excavation.

Rev. Rene Deschenes, vicar of Varennes parish, stood for hours in the rain as the would-be rescuers toiled. The presence of the priest, with onlookers standing with bowed heads at the edge of the excavation, produced a grave side effect.

"I was here 20 minutes after the accident and gave conditional absolution" to the victims, the priest said.

"It is strange, but they seemed to have had a premonition of danger. Other workmen told me they didn't like to go into the ditch. Then one went along . . . and the others followed."

Hundreds of automobiles brought crowds of men, women and a few children from Montreal to the site.

Workmen formed a sort of vertical bucket brigade to raise earth from the ditch. When the bodies were reached, they were forced to use their hands in place of shovels to avoid mutilation.

Robert Fitton To Hang Nov. 21

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today restored the conviction of Robert Fitton, convicted of the sex slaying of a young girl, and set Nov. 21 as the execution date.

The 21-year-old Toronto mail truck driver was convicted last April of the January slaying of 13-year-old Linda Lampkin of Toronto and was sentenced to be hanged. However the Ontario Court of Appeal ordered a new trial.

French Cabinet Again Studies African Crisis

PARIS (Reuters) — The French cabinet today held its second emergency session within 24 hours to discuss the tense situation in North Africa.

Foreign Minister Christian Pineau returned today from a flying visit to London where he conferred with Prime Minister Eden and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

British and French statesmen are understood to have discussed the Suez crisis and matters arising from the recent French seizure of an arms ship off the Algerian coast.

France claimed that an inquiry showed the arms were headed to Egypt. She recalled her ambassador from Cairo, ordered her navy to search any ship suspected of carrying such arms and said she was taking this "flagrant violation of the rule of non-intervention in the internal affairs of another state" to the United Nations Security Council.

The Moroccan prime minister, Si Mbarek el Bekkai, flew to Paris from Tunis to protest against the arrest of the Algerian National Liberation Front leaders.

Large Number Of New Arrivals Have Training

OTTAWA (CP) — Individuals with some training in a profession or trade made up about half the immigrants, excluding dependents, who arrived in Canada in the first eight months of 1956.

Immigration department figures released Tuesday showed that large numbers of the new arrivals had qualifications in fields in which there are labor shortages in this country.

During the six-month period a total of 98,761 immigrants landed in Canada, including 36,894 workers and 41,957 dependents. This compared with the 1955 eight-month total entry of 79,240 immigrants.

Of the 36,804 workers, a total of 5,805 were professional people. 8,092 were classified in semi-professional occupations and 18,610 were listed as skilled workers or people with some training in a craft. Most of those in the latter category were skilled.

The professional arrivals with professional training included 275 accountants, 126 architects, 156 chemists, 18 dentists, 218 draughtsmen, 1,516 engineers, 246 laboratory technicians, 178 graduate nurses, 240 doctors, 684 teachers and professors and 1,426 other professional workers.

However, not all these professional people were free to practise their profession in Canada immediately. The bulk of them must first satisfy provincial authorities that they have the required qualifications.

The 1,046 engineers who arrived in the first eight months compared with an estimated 1,700 engineers expected to graduate from Canadian universities this year. In 1955, Canadian universities graduated 1,600 engineers.

Other groups included 5,496 farmers and farm workers, 8,934 service workers such as domestic servants, 580 miners and oil field workers, 217 trappers and loggers and 7,211 laborers.

THE COMMUNIST REFORMATION?

In recent years it has become fashionable to liken Communism to a religion. Perhaps on the theory that nothing could so infuriate a Communist as to be told that his atheistic creed resembled all that he denounced.

If it is permissible to think of Communism in this way, then what are the interesting developments in Poland, and the other Iron Curtain nations in Europe, may be a Reformation.

The Communist Party made no smooth arrangements for the transfer of the mantle of infallibility upon the death of the high priest and this led the hierarchy in the Kremlin to attack the theory of infallibility itself. It is doubtful, though, if they foresaw the enthusiasm with which their assault would be echoed in the form with which their assault would be echoed in the provinces, leading lesser priests to foment schisms the true natures of which are yet obscure.

The confusion amongst the faithful in the Communist world may be as great as in the days of the reformers, when men were called to follow many paths, all in the name of the same Master. For it is noteworthy that neither in Yugoslavia nor in Poland are the new prophets pronouncing one verse of the Communist gospel and denouncing another. It is in their interpretation of it that they differ.

That Stalin distorted this gospel there can be little doubt. The internationalism which Marx preached he translated into nationalism in one nation. Racial equality was paid lip service but, in the dying years of the Stalin regime, little more.

Sparring the revival in the satellite countries appears to be a resurgence of nationalism. There is no assurance that this will make the road to peace on earth any shorter or smoother than Stalin's distorted international-ism. It may, however, shorten the non-Communist lands' pressure. While the Red sects quarrel amongst themselves. While that might lift the shadow of a blind fear from over the Western world it can hardly be said to offer any positive solution to the world's problems.

It would be easy to continue this simile, but it is doubtful whether any profitable discussion can be based on fallacy and it is extremely doubtful whether Communism, even more than any religion, can be reformed from within. Nor is there any hope in the all-knowing one wishes to misinterpret religion as being a force for peace, it is apparent that merciless hounding of that insistence on conformity which has been a feature of heretics which have all too often marred the history of many of the world's religions in time past.

The future of Communism, in Russia, in Poland and the other Iron Curtain satellites, in Yugoslavia and in China, is much more likely to be shaped by practical expediency than by theoretical doctrines.

For instance, it was Khrushchev who first ripped the mantle of infallibility off Stalin's corpse, yet reports indicate that it was this same Khrushchev who endeavored to prevent the Polish Communist party from freeing themselves from domination by the Russian Communist party. Now from domination by the Russian Communist party. Now Khrushchev's attack on Stalin may have been prompted merely by a desire to replace him as the all-knowing dictator, or it may have had its birth in a sincere conviction in the superiority of collective leadership. If the latter be the true explanation, then that did not prevent Khrushchev from consigning the grave threat which Mao Tse Tung held to his own position in the ruling clique in Russia.

Similarly, what the Russian leaders do now about Poland will be determined by what they believe to be politically expedient, not by what they would like to do. Perhaps there are some men in the Russian Communist party who will even go so far as the establishment of independent Communist regimes in other lands as the essential pre-requisite to the establishment of true internationalism. Quite certainly there will be many in few in number. Quite certainly there will be many in the Kremlin who will be deeply alarmed by the show of independence in the satellites, but the Russian leaders will not necessarily take ruthless steps to crush the rebels. It may be that they will judge such measures as certain to provoke an even more dangerous situation for them than that which already exists.

Similarly in the satellite lands, there is no certainty what form the future will take. Developments may vary widely in different countries.

By the present, it would appear that the prestige of Tito has been enhanced at the expense of the prestige of Communists. By the very nature of Titoism, though, with its stress on national independence within the framework of the Communist creed, he cannot emerge as the claimant to infallibility.

One thing only appears certain. To date there is no evidence that any of the cliques fighting for power envisage an abandonment of Communism, any more than the leaders of the Reformation sought to abandon Christianity.

OWNERS OF CANADA

Canadians are still far and away the major owners of investment in their country. They are cautious—so cautious that a Montreal investment economist complained the other day that, "We are a conservative people . . . I wish we had as much confidence in our future as our American neighbors seem to have."

It may not be a black mark against Canadians that they prefer safety in investment (and indeed they save their money more carefully than do Americans) but it is vital at this time not to be startled away by a vague fear that people who dig oil wells and develop iron fields and use their ingenuity and money to build factories inside our border, are robbers and not partners. THE WIDE OUTDOORS

The grass is greener over there,
And this is so from year to year;
No doubt the woods are anywhere
Where one may kill a legal deer.

The wide outdoors has well-filled creels
At distant lakes the mallards
But whatso'er the sport it seems
There's never any game

I've talked with hunters down the years,
I know what anglers have to
The best stocked places, it appears,
Are always somewhere far away.

The home may be a cozy spot,
Well filled with most expensive goods,
But man would quit that pleasant
To share a cabin in the woods.

Dreams, by the way, appear

"If you're short of a tip, sir - - - let me add up that bill again."

Sleep, the Great Leveler

Milwaukee Journal

O, sleep! It is a gentle thing,
Beloved from pole to pole
To mariners it spells some lines the ancient mariner was suffering from lack of food, water and heaven."

An ugly dead albatross dangled from his neck. But as the curse lifted, this bird of ill omen fell into the sea, and the ancient mariner could pray again. One might have expected that he would ask first for the equivalent of a juicy steak, and a stein of pilsener. But he defined only "gentle sleep from heaven."

Sleep is one of the most perplexing and urgent of all human needs. Our bodies revolt sooner from sleeplessness than from hunger. The longest any normal person has ever stayed awake is four and one-half days.

Sleep is the great leveler, making all men brothers, for the rich and the wise man equals. Shakespeare called it the "chief nourisher in life's feast."

But sleep can also be fickle. Nightly it deserts millions by withholding its soothing benison. Among civilized nations the United States suffers more than any other country from sleeplessness and its "cures."

Most of these observations come from a new book, "Sleep the Way to Sound and Healthful Slumber," by Dr. Marie Jonas (Philosophical Library).

"What is sleep?" she asks. Nobody knows, not even modern experimental physiologists and psychiatrists, the old-est, dating back to the Greek Sage Alcmaeon, is still widely believed. Sleep, he said, was due to anemia of the brain. Tests have shown that the brain does not contain less blood during sleep than in the waking state.

Another theory is that toxins accumulate in the system as waste products of exertion and need to be cleaned out during slumber. But we can sleep without being tired and also benefit greatly from catnaps far too short to rid the body of toxins.

A third view, toward which, Dr. Stone believes, is that there is a sleep centre — some prefer to speak of a waking centre — located in the brain and that sleep is a conditioned reflex brought into play when the centre is fatigued.

First you feel an irresistable urge to yawn; your eyelids droop and you want to stay out of dreamland a little longer. Then you do come back until some time after you wake.

If you go to bed you will pass through an interval called the "hypnagogic state," during which from a few moments to an hour as the various muscles and nerves go off duty one by one until the brain cortex is impervious to stimulation.

The heart and lungs, and to a lesser extent the alimentary canal, and the kidneys, keep on working, but more slowly. Temperature and blood pressure drop slightly. Of the sense organs, the eyes and the nose go off duty first, and ears most soundly. Hearing and the sense of touch are the last senses we lose but the ears remain alert to sounds, a discon-certing circumstance in our noisy modern age, though city people become accustomed to noises and often cannot sleep in quiet places.

Slumber is deepest during the first hours of the night up to about 3 o'clock. Bodily movements become much more frequent after that.

An old saying defines the number of hours sleep as six for a man, seven for a woman and eight for a fool. Most authorities say that eight are necessary for adults of either children. Genius usually however, men like Napoleon or Edison get along on only four or six with only four.

One ought to waken naturally. Children, ideally, should never be roused. The alarm clock is the bane of civilization, particularly if it makes the sleeper jump out of bed and rush across the room to turn it off.

only at the threshold of slumber, before a person goes into sound sleep, or, more often, just before waking. They are usually of short duration though they may seem to cover a long time. Many people have had experiences similar to the following:

After he was in bed, a man blew out his candle, put his head on the pillow and slept at once. He had a long evening dream and in the dream he travelled all around the world. On his return home he awoke. The wick of the candle beside him still glowed with the live, red spark of the flame he had blown out.

This was beating Shakespeare's Puck, who "put a girdle round the earth in 40 minutes."

Insomnia has plagued human beings since ancient times, but it seems to be more and more widespread today. In our time the manufacture of soporifics has developed into a big industry.

Here are a few suggestions that may help to induce sleep without drugs:

First, a light sleeper should have his own bed and, preferably his own room. The latter should be well ventilated, whether too warm nor too cold. It should be dark and quiet, and light and under sleep. The bed should be soft, low and warm, with cotton or linen sheets and light, fluffy woolen blankets or an eiderdown quilt. All sheets and blankets should be large enough for the ends and sides to be tucked in, since "kept smooth" shifts the whole 'bed." The feet should always be kept warm. But getting out of a warm bed and chilling oneself, then crawling back in again often induces sleep. A soft quilt between the mattress and lower sheet adds to comfort.

Dr. Stopes also believes that people experience "suggestions" which she defines as a "sharp, intense sensation of the mental." This reason, she feels sleepers are more at ease if the head of the bed is to the north.

Some people can read themselves to sleep. Dr. Stopes thinks it a bad practice. Yet Plato, at 81, was reading a play by Aristophanes in bed when he died.

Don't go to bed on an empty or on a very full stomach. A light lunch of hot milk, and crackers, would better that kind of whiskey by drawing blood away from the brain. A cup of coffee or strong tea keep you awake, avoid drinking them late in the day.

Lack of physical exercise is a disturber of sleep. The natural fatigue of exercised muscles is one of the best nightcaps. A warm bath before retiring helps Physical pain, grief, worry, fears and guilty complex, unsatisfied sex needs and taking one's work problems to bed are detrimental to sleep and should be eliminated if possible. Happily married people, incidentally, sleep better than those who are single.

The engine should be mature with head on pillow, legs stretched out, and each muscle relaxed lightly in other and hands resting limply at the sides in a comfortable and most restful position for sleeping.

Trying to will yourself asleep usually results in your becoming more wide awakes. It is best to pretend one do desire to sleep, think of something far away or long ago or to imagine a situation in which you can do someone a kindness. "It isn't these thoughts that send you to sleep but the warmth of emotion that is woven into them, writes Dr. Stopes.

Laughter

Christian Science Monitor

Human laughter, at its best, at its most musical, we are often told, "chimes." Or it "peals." A beautiful woman's laughter, the novelist-like insist, must be "bell-like." A fine man's "rings" through the hall. "Silvery" laughter, yet, we find, has the sheen of silver bells in it.

A good deal of what is called temper is nothing of the kind, but a form of nervous debility. Men and men both who are credited with getting into a temper are merely neurotically impatient and ought to take a dose of salts, or, if they prefer it, a dose of quinine. Most of these new tranquillizing pills. To be in a temper is a terrible thing. It is ill-natured, chronically bilious, cranky and irritable personality. It is allowed to put the universe by pretending to temper.

Steel is temperer with ammonium iron and a few ingredients are converted by fire into something immeasurably stronger and tougher, more durable and serviceable than the original crude mixture with Sir Winston Churchill in a temper, and it was as if a volcano had erupted. He walked up with him, converting a good, solid iron man into something strong and full of steel. I have watched stages fighting, and seen one of them flare suddenly into a temper and throw the other one to fight or let his death in battle.

The foreman of a busy electrical service shop of a small business, such as having electric irons repaired for my wife, had a habit of losing staff to be a very hot-tempered man when crossed. When the shop recently when he was demonstrating his temper. When a young girl at the switchboard in the front of the shop was extremely nervous and on the verge of tears. I asked to see the foreman. She whispered that he was in a "terrible temper." Then I heard the voice of the foreman at my back behind the partition. I decided to wait.

The next customer to enter was a small, elderly lady carrying a parcel and an umbrella. She stood with me a minute or two, then, as the foreman's voice roared, she suddenly lifted the counter gate and walked in to the inner office. There was an instant of silence. Then a bellow. Then a curious sound which I could not identify, the sound of the old lady whacking the foreman on the head with her umbrella.

She came back out and through the gate, the picture of rage.

The foreman followed and stood meekly behind the counter while the old lady opened her purse, unwrapping her package, which was a fresh umbrella, placed it on the counter, and, without a word, left the shop.

"I'll bet you've never seen me what a temper is," stated the old lady to me. "I'll show you. Now, pay attention to this."

And she proceeded to explain what was wrong with her bent warmer.

What the foreman had wasn't temper at all. It was that he had decided a good kick in the pants, if anybody had the temper to give it to him.

Tractors On Highways

Toronto Telegram

At an intersection on No. 4 Highway and a Huron county road, a collision with a farm tractor collided. Driver of the automobile suffered a fractured leg. The tractor operator, though thrown 40 feet, was less serious hurt. This is the usual indication in the news report that the tractor man was at fault, but it does not mention that the accident happened when the tractor turned out to pass the slow-moving tractor.

A farm tractor is not a motor vehicle under the Highway Traffic Act; in fact, it is expressly excluded from the definition. The Ontario legislators have seen fit to set a minimum age for a driver of a tractor on a highway, other than "directly across." No licence is issued, however, for tractors operated along the highway. As the law now demands that a man who has lost his ear operator's permit for drunken driving must pay a fee to town on his unlicensed tractor.

Increasing traffic used on the highways has been proposed from time to time. Perhaps the legislature should consider whether there is strong farm opposition to the licensing of tractors. Provided for in resolutions passed by most municipal councils, licensing would also pay for the construction of the tractor as a motor vehicle would at least give motorists recourse under the Unsatisfied Judgments Act.

Tobacco and Cancer

At the outset I assure readers that I'm no authority, but just a writing doctor. Furthermore I'm a moderate smoker and a fairly inveterate. I say moderate smoker, meaning that when I'm at work, I don't smoke at all and not to, until after the day's work is done. Then, after dinner in the evening, I enjoy my pipe supplied in lieu of payments on my home, by a few of my former boyhood breakfast to bedtime and never did learn to enjoy it.

Nowadays we hear a good deal about the alarming increase in cancer of the throat, larynx, bronchial, or lungs of automatic heavy smokers. Tobacco hogs. People who can't breathe except through cigarets, they let themselves go and smoke to excess.

As already mentioned, I am no authority about smoking, cancer, or other subject. I have no statistics to substantiate my opinion, but at the moment I can recall one among the numerous reports in current medical literature that described a new cure for moderate pipe smoking.

The experts seem confident that cancer in tobacco smoke account for the irritation of the throat, larynx (voice box), bronchial tubes, and lungs. Nicotine doesn't figure any more in investigations of the cause of cancer.

What the role of "tars" may be is difficult to estimate. But from the information I have garnered from the study of current medical literature, I infer that the harmful potentiality of tobacco is greatest in cigaret smoking, cigar smoking is less harmful, pipe smoking still less harmful, tobacco chewing and snuff taking least harmful.

Furthermore, I am convinced—remember, I'm just an ordinary doctor—that the injurious factor of tobacco smoke is not "tars," not nicoline, but carbon monoxide.

Remember, air containing 1 or 2 parts of C-O per thousand may cause unpleasant symptoms such as headache, dizziness, sense of constriction across the forehead, weakness, nausea, even fainting or unconsciousness. In every puff of cigaret smoke there is a wee bit of carbon monoxide.

C-O in tobacco smoke accounts for the fact that some people get a little sick the first few times they smoke before the ill effects of smoking have become established. A person who smokes in a poorly ventilated room where one or more persons are smoking, and who has small frail women are particularly susceptible to such irritants as cigarette smoke and pain-killers are dangerous. The first aid treatment is either carry the victim out into the open air or open wide doors and windows to give the victim a good draft of fresh cold air.

GREAT MEN AND WOMEN

A nation can well be measured by the number and quality of great men and women it has produced. Select half a dozen nations at random and you will find a denser great men or women in that nation. Few of us are entitled to be entitled and pay very little attention to what makes a nation great. If it isn't the quality of its great men and women, what then?

When freedom recedes from a nation, the great are usually among the first to go. It is the great men and women who make a nation great. But they must have room for their full freedom. They want room for their full freedom. They want room of their thoughts caged or jailed. We are all born worshippers. Why do hundreds of thousands of human beings turn out to see a President or a home-coming hero? We worship success and achievement, as examples often in the lives of the great. Thomas Carlyle wrote a famous book on "Heroes and Hero Worship." This is one of the most inspiring books I

NEW USES OF OLD POWERS

We switch on the radio or the television set—words come out of the loud speaker, pictures appear on the screen. What is the cause? Man has learned to utilize wave power. In these recent years he has come to learn the secret of the atom. One process splits it and another fuses its forces. Man has at his command the release of immeasurable power. Yet this is no new power. It has always been here. Within the past few decades man has learned how to use this power.

Scientists tell us that there are probably other powers even more stupendious than atomic power. Yet there is nothing new about all of these that man has learned or is learning to use new powers. But they have always been here.

This is supremely true regarding spiritual power. God's infinite capacity to create has left untouched great spiritual powers and possibilities to man, as man was created in the image of God. He set up a Man upon the earth and directed Him so to speak and to live that He could reveal see this power being set forth in the midst of human circumstances.

The power Christ revealed had always existed and is constantly available to us still. Men's lives grow in glory as they learn to use the spiritual forces in the Bible God has given us a book of instructions—as to how to use this power.

Kiwanians Hear Outline of Ballet Coming to City

The National Ballet Company is gradually becoming a goodwill ambassador, indicated Mr. David Adams to Belleville Kiwanians yesterday. Mr. Adams is the principal male soloist of the N.B.C.

Many people have the idea that ballet is a massed confusion of "long hair" music and silly movements toward which a normal male would shy clear. "This, asserted Mr. Adams, "is not true." Ballet is a combination of music, painting and movement which when blended to the right degree provide unsurpassable entertainment for all ranks of people. The male counterpart of the prima donna is becoming a necessary figure in many of the ballets being designed today.

The National Ballet Company, which is not government subsidized, is, presenting three ballets in Belleville soon. The company will present the Fourth Act of the Nutcracker Suite, a new ballet written by an Englishman, and finally a jazz ballet. This latter performance is a new trend in ballet. It is designed to show the public that ballet does not confine its works to serious choreographies. Mr. Adams said that the National Ballet Company is planning to present more of the modern concepts of ballet.

"Ballet," said the speaker, "is designed to entertain an audience." And it does so in the combination of beautiful costumes, pleasing music and graceful movements on the part of the dancers. Such a dance is a "universal language." It needs no translation anywhere in the world.

Mr. Adams indicated that Canadian people are not appreciative of ballet or, in general, any other of the serious arts. European people welcome all stage performances ! they ballet, comedy, drama or musical.

FORMED IN 1950

The National Ballet Company was formed in 1950 by a group of Toronto professionals who saw the need for an outlet for Canadian talent. Prior to the organization of the company Canadians interested in ballet as a career went to the United States or Great Britain. Now, however, there is no need for dancers to emigrate.

Another reason for the setting up of the National Ballet Company was to provide out-of-the-way communities with top ranking ballet. Many Canadian towns are near enough to the American border that U.S. and British professional actors, dancers and singers are able to put on a "live" show. Other places, as in the interior of British Columbia, are not so fortunate.

To show the change in peoples' minds concerning the acceptance or refusal of ballet as an entertainment, Mr. Adams cited an instance in a small lumber community of the British Columbia interior. A few years ago the National Ballet Company walked into the town completely blind as to their welcome. From doorways and from the edge of the timber line, curious, some hostile, glances followed the group as it made its way to one of the community's three hotels. That night the dancers staged their performance before a capacity crowd. They remained in the lair of hard bitten lumberjacks for another two weeks. Their stay proved very successful among people who had not seen a "live" stage performance since the Flora Dora girls haunted the hall 30 years ago.

In conclusion Mr. Adams said he hoped soon to set out on a campaign to tell Canadian youth the place for males in ballet.

Introduced by Ralph Graham, the speaker was thanked by Rev. S. E. Larman.

Disabled Person Takes Over Home

The first low rental unit in the project that calls for eight bungalows to be built on South Ramsay Street, Trenton, has been rented to Mrs. Bessie Whitman of the Quinte Disabled Persons Club in Trenton. She moves in to her new place a week from this Saturday.

In a formal presentation at the front door to the unique, well constructed cottage club officer Mrs. Dickson handed the key to Mrs. Whitman. The ceremony with club director ex-mayor Roly Whitley attending took place Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Whitman in thanking the club president and directors said: "I wish to offer thanks and appreciate the honor of being the one to rent the first Disabled Persons' house. Also to thank everybody concerned for the hard work and time spent to bring about this successful opening." She expressed gratitude to the people who donated and installed the fixtures and furnishings. She voiced hope that the club will build more houses for disabled people.

The club is renting the first house, comprising two bedrooms, a combination living room-kitchen and bathroom for $10 a month.

William Macready chalks up two benefits from progress

High school teacher William Macready speaks with authority about progress in the vitally important field of education.

"Today's improved schools," says Mr. Macready, "are the result of years of planning, research and experiment. Modern buildings and equipment make for more effective instruction. New teaching methods help students develop new skills and extra-curricular interests. Today, the teacher's task is more gratifying than ever."

In another field, men like William Macready also benefit from progress in a way vitally important to their families . . . life insurance. Family men are making greater use of its services than ever before.

In proportion to the national income, Canadians own more life insurance than any other people in the world. Today, life insurance representatives are better trained to help you. Group insurance has brought new security to millions. And many restrictions on obtaining life insurance have been removed.

In these and other ways the life insurance companies keep pace with the march of progress.

A star in the fashion firmament is vivid red jersey. It appears in smart separates, in sheaths, in casual numbers and also for informal evening wear. Bright red jersey comes through nicely in a street dress that should see plenty of service. The dress features a squared-off yoke with cowl drape that terminates in a narrow, high V in back above the zipped back fastening. The effect is repeated in front below the waist. There covered buttons at the peplum balance those at the neckline.

This --- and That

Going Shopping?

How often a contrast will register on the consciousness of the mind. The other day as we sauntered down Front Street, we hesitated to look in one window displaying bulbs to be planted now for next spring's and summer's delight. There, we thought, who can say man isn't eternally optimistic. A few steps along, we paused before another window displaying figure skates for the aspiring ballet dancer on ice. Hmmm we reminded ourselves, between autumn's hopeful planting and spring's or summer's delight comes the reality of a Canadian winter. Oh well, there we are, and make the best of it we must.

On the way, we are told, is a new inexpensive cold water soap for precious woollens. The new soap is on the market now in some places and it is reported that it dissolves perfectly in cool water. Fear of shrinking your precious woollen garments is dispelled then.

And speaking of woollens, have you seen the new wool especially for knitting gloves, which is also on the way? This wool has racoon hairs added for extra warmth. There appears to be a rash of new products, but this is progress. We are going to be able to season gravy, soup, stews and casserole mixtures with powdered mushrooms. Also a cornmeal mix will appear soon which will cut down on dish washing. Milk is poured into the cellophane bag of dry ingredients and an egg is added. These are combined by squeezing the bag with the hands. The batter is then baked in an aluminum foil pan which comes with the package.

An another new gadget soon to be shown is a small electric oven, suitable for casseroles, and excellent for baking a dessert. When things are rushed and crowded, the table model will provide a wonderful second oven.

In case you are looking for a new coat, you will discover that the coats are roomier, yet slim. They have straight seams with the fullness in the back which makes them look extra slim and feminine. In order of preference, the colors seem to be black, red, taupe, bisque and purples. Fabrics are rough-textured woolens, basket weaves, bouclés, and blends that look like fur. If there is anything of significance to report on the food counters, we failed to detect it. Choices and prices remain pretty much the same with fresh vegetables gradually disappearing which is natural for the season.

Belleville is very fortunate to be close enough to a great Canadian university to draw from its faculty for instructive and eloquent speakers. Professor Isabel Laird of the department of psychology at Queen's is becoming more and more in demand as a guest speaker in our city. Recently she addressed the graduating class at Quinte Secondary School and last week the University Women's Club. We overheard one of the graduating class remark, "boy, can't she speak!" and the adult at the latter meeting felt exactly the same way. T & T was fortunate enough to hear both addresses.

Miss Laird was asked during the question period at the UWC her views on the problem of the bright child. She believes that there is not enough research for having any child skip grades. She believes further that the extra activity of which the bright child is capable might more properly be carried out in the home under the guidance of the parents. Such extra activities may take various forms — good conversation, well selected books for instance. The position of the bright child in our educational system is a subject receiving more attention and we hope to see a start being made. There are many who agree that Miss Laird's conclusions are her profound opinions deserve our considered approach. It is a difficult problem and one deserving much thought.

Everybody is talking prosperity even the President of the United and his campaign is approaching election, and all of us are touched by the prosperity of our communities because of expansion. T & T wondered if the following record statistics would be interesting. One hundred and twenty years ago Belleville's population was 1,700 and ten years later, in 1846 it was 3,000. By 1876 Belleville had grown to a population of 11,120 and seventy years later, or in 1946, there were 15,982 persons accredited to Belleville. This year of 1956 finds Belleville crowded for space and talking annexation, so we thought the following comparison of the past as indicative of the passing parade.

Women's Study Guild Hears Fine Talk on Suez Canal Situation

The Women's Study Guild met at the home of Mrs. J. L. Lambert, Hastings Drive, for the October meeting when a brief business session was conducted by Miss J. Thrall, president.

Mrs. A. Wells chose Isaiah 2:1-5 as the Scriptural setting for her theme on "Mt. Sinai the Immortal Mountain," and read from an article by Bishop Rennison. This service closed with a prayer for peace and morality in nations and individuals.

The topic of study for the evening was the "Suez Canal," and was led by Mrs. George Mayhew, and Mrs. H. Mills. Mrs. Mayhew introduced the program with a concise history of the attempts to use the Suez route dating from 2300 B.C. with failure and success alternating throughout the ages.

The present canal was the realization of a dream of world cooperation through easy communication with East and EWest by a French group headed by Ferdinand de Lesseps. At the time of construction, it was jointly owned by France and Egypt, but Egypt's share was bought by England, five years later through Disraeli's astute statesmanship.

There are no locks, and its length is approximately 100 miles of drifting, sandy country. The depth, now, is 35 feet, and is trained and experienced. Approximately 10,000 to 14,000 ships a year pass through, and there is room to pass a stationary ship in most of the canal's length.

Under the original commission, a board of directors composed of seven members, both British and 21 French, set up the dues. There was no partiality as to shipping—no distinction of flag. The lease was to run for 99 years.

CANAL NATIONALIZED

In 1956, ten years previous to the set date, Col. Nasser announced the nationalization of the canal, and several of the pilots have left the job. New pilots recruited from anywhere in the world are now employed and are keeping the ships moving. The only ships which have been refused passage thus farsell vessels as Nasser claims a state of war to exist.

Mrs. Mayhew gave a summary of Col. Nasser's background and interests.

U.S. REFUSES AID

Mrs. Mills began her part of the study with a number of suppositions regarding the reasons for the refusal of U.S. aid to the building of the promised Aswan Dam in Egypt. This is needed for the irrigation which could provide food for more of Egypt's population. Col. Nasser has said he may be forced to use the canal tolls for this project. These would not be adequate and might be detrimental to the canal's upkeep.

There have been four plans set up to try to settle the dispute arising from Col. Nasser's moves.

First—The International plan suggested at the London Conference attended by 22 nations which was rejected by Col. Nasser.

Second—The Suez Canal Users' Association which would operate the canal independently from association funds. Also refused.

Third—The Krishna Menon plan whereby Egypt would operate her canal and be governed by a body set up by users to protect their interests. Refused.

Fourth—Dispute before the United Nations ended in a stalemate which was able only to decide on six principles of discussion for further meeting.

Some facts which were pointed out by Mrs. Mills are that this is the main centre of the Modern world where 350 millions are united in a religion which goes beyond color. The Arab world is working for national recognition and though few Moslems are Communist, the Arab countries will deal with Communist countries if it is to their benefit, or if commerce is denied them elsewhere. Ninety percent of the West's oil is supplied through the Middle East, and the Suez route is vital to the present standard of consumption.

In closing, Mrs. Mills read from the "Christian Century" to the effect that people cannot live without hope, and hope is a dwindling commodity.

Mrs. Meades and Mrs. Williamson were hostesses for the social hour following and there was much discussion over the teacups.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHOW YOUR DAUGHTER YOU CAN SOLVE YOUR OWN PROBLEMS.

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I had been married 20 years when my husband died, about a year ago. We had four daughters, three of whom are married and the youngest, who is 18, is still at home.

Every time I ask this daughter to go out with : in the evening she seems most unwilling, and often asks me why I don't find someone my own age to go out with. Since most of the friends my age have husbands, there is really no one who is free to go out with me and I feel my daughter is most unsympathetic and selfish. She seems to feel that people will think it strange for her to be seen going so much with her mother.

Do you think there is anything wrong in this? — Mrs. L.B.

Dear Mrs. L.B.:

Of course there is nothing wrong with you and your daughter going out to the movies or any other place once in a while. But there would be everything wrong with your trying to monopolize most of her free time. Perhaps you've been insisting on her going out with you so much that she may feel people will think she's not desirable company unless you're with her. Or she may feel that others are assuming she never is asked out or that she is not wanted by go unless you take her along with you.

After all, you must consider her viewpoint as well as your own, and realize that it is only natural for a teenager to want to spend most of her time with her own friends.

I suggest that you limit your requests for her company to no more than once every two weeks or so and leave her free at other times to do and go where she likes. I think she has a point, too, when she suggests you ought to make more friends in your own age group so that you won't be in such a lore for congenial company to share various activities with you.

You say that most of your friends are married and not free to go out with you much in the evening. So why don't you try to make new friends, among whom there would very likely be some who are not tied down by home obligations. Visit your local YWCA and see what they have to offer older women there. Offer your services to one or two local organizations that are busy with various types of community work. Any woman who gives time to work of this sort will always find other public-spirited women who are doing the same thing, and it's one of the best ways in the world to make new friends.

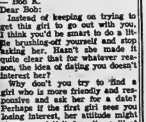
To start with these two suggestions and then let me know how you get along. I'm quite sure that, if you will do so, you will not only find your loneliness disappearing but your daughter will be proud of you for having the initiative to solve your own problem.

Then your times together will be a lot more companionable.

HOW ABOUT YOUR BRUSHING HER OFF?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

There is a girl I'm been trying to date for two months, but so far I haven't been successful. Every time I call her up and ask her to go out with me, she brushes me off with some sort of excuse.



What do you think I could do to get her to go out with me?

— Bob K.

Dear Bob:

Instead of keeping on trying to get this girl to go out with you, I think you'd be smart to do a little thinking about her and stop asking her. Hasn't she made it quite clear that for whatever reason, the idea of dating you doesn't interest her?

Why don't you try to find a girl who is more friendly and responsive and ask her for a date? Perhaps if the first girl sees you losing interest, her attitude might change, and if it doesn't, you'll at least have made a start toward a more satisfactory friendship with someone else.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

SCIENCE DISCOVERS THE ANSWER TO A MYSTERIOUS "FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH"

From the distant Pyrenees comes "magic" ingredients for beauty creams and lotions said to keep skin flawlessly youthful.

During Caesar's time, Roman beauties often made long, difficult journeys to the little French town of Molitg-les-Baine, near the Spanish border, just to bathe in so-called "magic waters." And, when after a sojourn there, they found their skins in flawlessly beautiful condition, they ascribed the miracle to "nymphs who live in the springs."

Hundreds of years later such renowned beautiful women as Marie Antoinette, Madame de Pompadour and the Empress Josephine made pilgrimages to these baths and, while not crediting the nymph theory, they recorded in letters and diaries the "miraculous effects" these waters had on their complexions. Today, women living near these springs are famed for their complexion; skin problems are said to be unknown and grandmothers to have the skins of young girls.

After 2,000 years of praise for this "fountain of youth" as it has been called, modern scientists, working under the direction of the French Academy of Medicine, have found the answer. It is neither the nymphs nor any form of magic that make these waters so beneficial to the skin. It is a rare form of plankton, vegetable and animal life which lives in water, found in these springs and which contain the minerals and chemicals which duplicate essential elements in the skin. Here in their remote corner of the world, Nature is said to produce a unique, natural skin conditioning substance which normally dry or oily complexions and brings a new glow of youth to aging skin.

Using this plankton of Molig as a base, French dermatologists have developed an entirely new line of skin conditioning products made only with natural essences, extracts of fruit oils, Alpine wild flowers, herbs and the like. No basic synthetic ingredients, such as paraffin, potash, mineral oil or petroleum are used. With their rare Molitg plankton base and their natural ingredients, these preparations are entirely different from any other skin-conditioning lotions or creams.

Thousands of French women, now following this beauty schedule report that at the end of the Second World War, insurance companies say.

Frances W. writes thus: "I have been trying to write to you for your "bricks without straw" Wednesday articles. . . I find them stuffed full of meat and which they call "Colonial Goose" or New Zealand, a delicious and reasonably cheap substitute for a roast joint. Ask a butcher to bone out a breast of lamb (or two if they are small), make your favorite stuffing with breadcrumbs, onions, sage, milk, a little butter . . . I add some ground dried sage or a pinch of thyme. Put the stuffing on the meat and roll it up like a Swiss roll. Tie firmly with string. Bake on top rack in oven, starting at 400 deg. for first 20 minutes, then 350 deg. for 30 minutes per lb. plus an extra 30 minutes. Potatoes may be placed in the pan under the roll and baked, and are basted with the dripping from the roll. Theater Drama

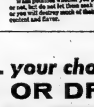
By ALICE ALDEN



Individual handling gives interest and variety to the various devices and strategems used to bring an easing or change to the sheath.

New York's own Pauline Trigere shows her version of the slim and the full with her "birdcage" silhouette for a wrap of peau de soie which points up superbly the long, slinky line in black chiffon weight broadcloth. It is a beautiful side attraction for the theatre, dramatic and individual.

GOES TO CHINA

RANGOON (AP)—Former Premier U Nu, leader of the governing anti-Fascist Peoples Freedom League, left Burma Monday for Peiping at the invitation of Premier Chou En-lai to discuss border problems. Recent reports said Red Chinese troops, who infiltrated Burma from the north in August, now have penetrated farther south and established permanent camps.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

INVITATION TO WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I have a problem, and I would so much appreciate your advice. This past summer my husband and I received several invitations to weddings, and each time they were addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. —and family." These were from friends, and even they included "and family." But very recently we received an invitation from my husband's brother and his wife to their daughter's wedding, this invitation addressed just to "Mr. and Mrs.," no "family" included. We have five children, three by their early twenties, and these older children were particularly put out at not being invited. My husband was speaking to his brother about this, and his excuse was that they just overlooked writing "and family" on the invitation, there was a debate about inviting the three older children. But to date they haven't done so. Most of the other cousins are married, and I know each will receive an invitation. I think it is proper for my sister-in-law to call me and explain what she really wants to have come, also if the omission of "and family" on the invitation was an oversight or intentional. I don't feel like going to the wedding if our children aren't recognized as cousins. However, I told my husband he could go. What do you think I should do? — Perplexed

JACK O'LANTERN time is rapidly approaching, and here's a good use for the heads of seeds scooped out of these pumpkins. Remove as many pulp as you can, then spread the seeds in a shallow pan. Bake them at 225° for a half an hour, and save them for feeding wild birds.

Mother's Helper

My advice is that you and your husband should go to the wedding. You were invited, and for the important reasons of relationship, and so that you and your husband will not be rude to the bride when you should go together. This is the proper procedure, mature, dignified. If in the meantime the older children are invited, they would go with you; if not, neither you nor your husband have the right to question or to direct what the bride's mother and or father should do. They are the hosts of the wedding, and it is their privilege, naturally, to decide whom they wish to invite. If they decide against inviting children to the wedding (today this is very, very often the decision) you and your husband must abide by that decision.

Textile Tycoon Launches New Fabrics in Frivolous Way

PLAY-SUIT

Black and white poodle is used for this daring play-suit displayed in a London fashion show along with other frivolous fashions made of fabrics developed by British textile tycoon Cyril Lord. In checker-board design, the three-quarter-length pants and a camisole top are made in half - black, half-white. A mortar-board hat with tassels completes the outfit. (CP Photo).

LONDON (CP)—British textile tycoon Cyril Lord believes in launching new fabrics in a frivolous way—and the monkeyshines seem to pay off.

When he introduced "tailbo" last year, the millionaire flew a group of newspaper women to the north of England for a lightning tour of his cotton mills, then to Ireland for tea at his lavish home, rounded off with supper at his restaurant in Belfast. The trip lasted 24 hours.

To introduce his latest fabric "tiara," Lord employed a baby chimpanzee called Candy to open his fashion show in London.

DIGNIFIED CHIMP

Wearing a diamond tiara and white lace-up boots, Candy demonstrated with dignity how attractive chimps can look in party dresses.

In a yellow frilly number of tiara with matching pants, the monkey pirouetted and posed before an audience and photographers squealing with delight. Almost as an anti-climax, model girls wearing glittering tiaras and dresses made of the fabric with the same name followed Candy's performance.

The fabric, available in 45 colors, resembles pure silk. At Lord's show, several leading couturiers showed outfits made of the material.

Teddy Tinling, designer of tennis clothes, showed a play-deck suit in black and orange. A black mandarin - type jacket trimmed with pineapple motifs, topped tight three-quarter - length pants. An orange turban completes the suit.

GRECIAN-STYLE GOWN

Michael Sherard showed a Grecian-style evening dress of tiara with a tucked bodice and a swirling pleated skirt. He combines two shades of pink and amethyst for flowing stoles which are attached to the strapless top.

Zircon-colored tiara is used for a sheath-fitting dress embroidered with braid and sea-shells. There is also a matching hat and gloves.

Gowns in taibo, poplin and "stain-shy" cotton are also shown. One model house claims that ink actually rolls off stain-shy cotton due to the special process in the weaving.

Black and white poplin is used for a daring play-suit that gives a checker - board appearance. Three-quarter-length pants and a camisole top are made in half-black-half-white. And if you can wear one comfortably, a mortar-board hat with tassels completes this outfit.

Ronald Paterson, shows a dress and jacket in line-green taibo. The jacket has a big patch collar, short sleeves and a tie-effect below the bustline. The dress has a square neckline and finely pleated skirt.

which was much enjoyed by all.

Miss Thompson thanked Mr. Grenke for coming.

A social time of contests and refreshments followed. Mrs. Daniel closed a very enjoyable evening with prayer.

Back Interest

By ALICE ALDEN

The newest suit jacket is slightly bloused and slightly shaped —an excellent line for almost every figure type. Arthur Jablow does one of his beautiful suits in tissue-weight wool and gives back interest to the jacket, which just reaches the hipbone. A double collar that stands away from the neck is layered in black and brown satin to point up the inky brown fabric. The skirt subscribes to the slim line.

UNIONDALE W.I.

The October meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. A. Sine, 6th Concession of Sidney with fair attendance of members and three visitors. Meeting opened in usual method.

Literature on "Mental Health" by J. D. Parks, and the "Litter Bug Bug Project", by Marion McDonald was read by the secretary, Mrs. G. Striker.

Delegates for area convention were chosen.

The purchasing of trays was discussed by the members. A poem, "Keep The Purest Green", was read by Mrs. Morris, also a reading by Mrs. A. Sine, "You cannot win a race".

A radio and television survey was made by Mrs. A. Sine and Mrs. George Striker, community singing, "How Thank We All", was led by Mrs. Grills, who also gave a reading, "Lest We Forget." Mrs. Manley favored with several violin selections, sacred and dance tunes.

Mrs. Rodgers spoke on a trip to Toronto where she had attended a special program sponsored by "Salada Tea". This was interesting as she gave the full history of the making and using of tea bags. 50% of the people now use these convenient bags of tea and she also wished the Institute the best of everything for the coming year.

Mrs. George Pollard thanked Mrs. Rogers for her educational address.

Mrs. M. Sine gave a reading, "This is my neighbor."

WHITE'S W.A.

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mrs. Kenwyn Palmer opened her home as president, Mrs. Albert Hockaday, presiding over the October meeting of the White's District Women's Association.

Mrs. James Palmer gave a reading on, "The Narrowness of Christianity," followed by prayer.

The roll call was answered with a verse of Scripture by 14 members with two visitors present. A free paid $1. to the parsonage board and Mrs. E. Nicolson, Mrs. A. Hockaday, Mrs. J. Glyndon and Mrs. C. Ketcheson, each made donations to the centenary fund.

On November 27th there will be a rally at Allen's Church. In 1857 the 25th anniversary of the W.A. will be celebrated and each society is to give a report of the origin of their society.

Donations of plastic received will be made into gifts for sale. It was moved by Mrs. W. Jeffrey and seconded by Mrs. J. Palmer that gifts be taken to the November meeting at the home of Mrs. L. Dafoe. There will be sold during the meeting. It was decided to donate $10 to Missionary Week.

It was announced that there would be a temperance meeting for teen-agers at Quinte Secondary School on Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. on November 3rd, with entertainment and food. There will also be a panel discussion and poster display at 8. Bridge Street United Church on Saturday, November 3rd, at 8 p.m. On Sunday, November 4th., Dr. Douglas Wilson will speak on the "Alcoholic Problem" at 11 Bridge Street United Church at 7:30.

The hostess served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Liberal Assoc. Branch Elects New Officers

TWEED — The annual meeting of the Tweed branch of the Liberal Association was held in the Municipal hall on Wednesday evening with a good attendance.

Mr. Frank Follwell, federal Member of Parliament for East Hastings, was the guest speaker. He spoke briefly and outlined some of the undertakings that have been achieved during his term of office.

Two years ago the new Tweed post office was approved and built by the Department of Public Works. Mr. Follwell expressed his thanks for the support and assistance he had received at all elections from the Tweed Association.

Election of officers took place with Mr. Jack Rashotte elected as president. Other officers elected are as follows: 1st vice-president, Anthony Creigan; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Oscar LaValley; secretary, Simon Merway; treasurer, Guy Hughes.

Poll chairmen were named as follows: No. 1 poll, Dorian Bosley; No. 2 poll, Jack Merway and No. 3 poll, Mrs. Norman Champagne.

Fire is a prolific cause of death and injury. By far the greater number of fire accidents occur in and around the home. Leading causes are: careless smoking, particularly smoking in bed; clothing catching fire from grate or stove; children playing with matches; upsetting vessels containing grease, or the foolhardy practice of pouring gasoline or kerosene on fires to kindle or hasten them.

STIRLING

Masonic Centennial Service Held in St. Andrew's Church

STIRLING — On Sunday afternoon Stirling Lodge No. 69 A.F. & A.M. held their centennial service in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, with a large attendance of Masons and friends.

The day was ideal with a bright sun and a beautiful countryside. The church was decorated with a basket of yellow and white mums.

Approximately 125 members of the order were seated with the centre aisles filled to capacity.

Bro. Rev. W. H. V. Walker, district Chaplain and minister of St. Andrew's, graciously welcomed the audience and presided for the special service.

Mrs. Harry Morrow, organist, played "Haynes in F" as a prelude; as an offertory; interlude, "Schubert's Serenade," and "Toccata" as postlude.

The choir rendered, "I Will Worship in Thy Temple," with Mrs. Don Rodgers taking the solo part and Mrs. Roy Eggleton and Mrs. Percy McGee the duet part.

Bro. William Reynolds sang effectively, "The Twenty - Third Psalm."

The service opened with "O Worship the King, All Glorious Above."

Bro. Rev. W. G. Fleicher, of Rawdon circuit, led in the responsive selection, Psalm 122, "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord."

Wor. Bro. John L. Good, D.D. G.M., read the scripture lesson found in Ecclesiastes 12 and Wor. Bro. H. R. Tompkins read the New Testament lesson in Mathew 7.

The Rev. Bro. H. C. Secher, minister of St. John's Anglican Church, offered a special prayer, followed by the congregation singing that old favorite marching hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The offering was gathered by Messrs Douglas McIntosh, S. Boyce, Clarke Rodgers and Charles Fargey.

SPECIAL ADDRESS

The guest speaker was Rt. Wor. Bro. Rev. D. M. Guest, Grand Chaplain of Ontario, and minister of Wyoming, Ontario United Church. He is spending the week-end in Stirling and in his opening remarks he congratulated the lodge on their activities from 1856-1956 and said, "who can estimate how much has been accomplished in 100 years of Masonry?" He challenged the members of today to always carry the high standards of the order that were set by their predecessors in the years gone by.

The audience gave rapt attention as he gave the story of Solomon as found in First Kings and chose as his theme, "Building Unto God," Mr. Guest outlined the historical background as found in the Bible, and linked it with the symbolism of Masonry. Human life is a building, and each day his individual places a brick, quoting the poet who said: "Our todays and yesterdays are the bricks with which we build." He reminded his audience of the wise man who built his house upon a rock and urged everyone to have worthwhile lives, both moral and spiritual, and thus lay daily a good foundation.

Each person owns it to himself to be the best person possible; to do his day's work properly; and thus hold high the banner of the dignity of labor, for each must build a stumbling block or a stepping stone.

The speaker gave a descriptive account of how the symbols of the Masonic Order are built on the theme, "Service to God and service to fellowmen." He graphically pictured Jesus in the upper room, using the towel to wash the disciples' feet, and this badge has come down through the ages and is still most important. Any lodge or any church is only as strong as its weakest member, and he challenged his audience to go out and build their lives as never before.

Mr. Guest read a message from Grand Master Woods, which stated that the faithful churchman will be a better Mason. A true Mason is noted for his regular church attendance as he needs the spiritual background to assist him in his lodge work.

In his closing message to all the members and all the worshippers in the audience, he quoted an old song, "Somebody up there cares for the likes of you and the likes of me."

Rev. Walker graciously voiced thanks for the inspirational message, and the service closed with "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee."

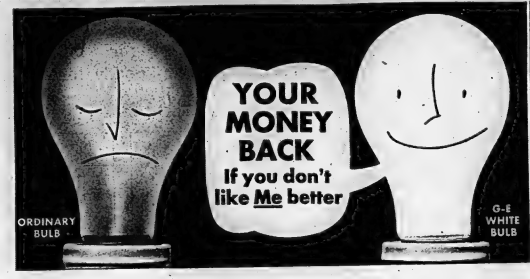
Bringing Up Baby

NOTES COLLECTED BY Mrs. Helen Sinclair

Mothers with "near-a-year" babies frequently write me to ask why their children are losing interest in food. In some cases an appetite lag may be caused by teething. But with most babies it's due to a slow-down in the rate of growth, and a natural variation in the desire for food. If your little one is going through a "picky" period it's helpful to remember that, when baby is hungry enough, he'll let you know soon enough. Rotating protein and kinds of food helps Service with a smile (instead of a frown) often works wonders. New dishes also spur appetite interest.



Variety galore for toddlers! When sparkling little teeth are ready to chew, Gerber Junior Foods are just the thing. They have a tender, evenly textured texture that lets even a few teeth can manage so easily. Wonderful variety, for continued mealtime magic. 8 Fruits—3 Vegetables—7 Vegetable and Meat Dinners—3 Desserts—3 Meats. All have the true-flavor appeal baby's been used to in Gerber Strained Foods.

Interesting menu offerings for your toddler are to be found in "Gerber's Recipes for Toddlers."

For your free copy, just write the, Mrs. Dan Gerber, Dept. B, Box 4027, Terminal A, Toronto, Ont.

Closed tops. When you wash baby's zippered togs, it helps to close the zippers before dunking. This keeps them from getting bent—keeps garments in better shape.

More that's new! Toddlers dearly love "grown-up" foods and here's a new main dish with a real "grown-up" quality. Gerber Junior Beef and Noodles with Vegetables is a happy and flavorful combination of lean beef, tender egg noodles and carrot morsels for good protein content and high vitamin-A value. Gerber Beef and Noodles with Vegetables makes an ideal transition dish between Junior Foods and regular family foods.

C.G.E. MAKES A BULB FOR EVERY LIGHTING FIXTURE

The Better to See You With

By PEGGY LIDSTONE

Home Lighting Specialist

The charm and comfort of your home depend, to a large extent, on the way that it is lighted.

The simplest room may appear luxurious if your lamps are well chosen and well placed. But bad lighting can make the most furnished room seem unsatisfying.

There are two main types of illumination—

The general lighting of a room should produce a softly diffused light. This should be augmented by local lights distributed where they will be of most use—at those places in a room where reading, writing or sewing is to be done.

It is quite beautiful and healthful to look into a light that glares. No local light should be more than ten times as bright as the general illumination of the room.

Lamps should be low enough to group with your furniture, yet above your line of vision. They will be most attractive if they are all at the same height.

What are the best bulbs?

Use the best bulbs you can buy and your only thought is to sink into a favourite armchair, thankful for a little time to enjoy the soft, rosy glow of a G-E Deluxe Pink Bulb. These new bulbs supply a warmer glow light that flatters both faces and furnishings. They throw new light on the whole subject of how best to light your home!

You can buy G-E Deluxe Pink Bulbs in 60, 100 or 150 watts. They are also available in Tri-Light and Decorator shapes.

QUEBEC STUDENTS STAGE PROTEST MARCH ON DUPLESSIS

Hundreds of Laval University students marched on the Quebec provincial buildings to protest that province accept educational grants outlined by Prime Minister St. Laurent and turned down by Premier Duplessis. The signs here read: "We Want Hay." Dozens of police were called and stationed in the doorways. (Central Press Canadian).

DRINKING CULMINATES IN SHOOTING

Mrs. Jean Middleton is dead and her husband, James, is in hospital in critical condition with a bullet still embedded in his brain. The couple had separated after a long series of heavy drinking bouts by the husband, and he had returned to their home in North York, Ont., disobeying a court order not to enter the house. A neighbor entering the home saw Mrs. Middleton wounded on the floor and saying to her husband: "Jim, I love you. Don't." The neighbor said he had a rifle in his hands. She called police, who found the couple's three children, ranging in age from eight, six, five and two years.

Husband Kills Wife, Then Turns Gun on Self

TORONTO (CP) — A husband heard his wife shot her and then put a bullet into his own brain in suburban North York Tuesday.

James Middleton, 39, died six hours later in hospital. His wife, Joan, 33, was killed instantly.

The couple, separated for seven weeks, had four children.

The slaying and suicide occurred at 9:05 a.m. after a coffee session in Mrs. Middleton's kitchen attended by two women neighbors.

Police said Middleton, armed with a .25-calibre rifle, apparently entered the house through a side door and hid in the living room while the women drank coffee. When the visitors were leaving, he stepped out and after a brief argument, pumped two bullets into his wife.

SHOT HIMSELF

Then he turned the gun on himself.

"I love you, Jim," were the last words uttered by Mrs. Middleton.

They were overheard by Mrs. Clarisse Orvis when she reached her basement apartment after leaving Mrs. Middleton.

"He said she didn't love him and that he heard a man. Mrs. Middleton cried she was in pain, then there was another shot and a thump as if something had fallen to the floor.

The other woman, Mrs. Carole Colbert, said she was painting the house when she heard the shots. She turned back and saw Middleton at the door, still pointing the rifle at her.

"He had a crazy look in his eyes. I ran out."

HEARD SHOT

A few seconds later she heard the third shot.

Police found Middleton lying beside his wife.

The four children, Evon, 8, Douglas, 7, Richard, 4, and Judith, 2, were taken to a boarding home in nearby Maple last week and were there at the time of the shooting.

Mrs. George Payton, mother of the slain woman, said the couple married when her daughter was 17. Middleton had separated between the two because Middleton began to drink heavily.

Highland Creekers Do Not Take Report of Sociologist Lightly

TORONTO (CP) — A sociologist who wrote a report questioning the moral standards of residents of suburban Highland Creek said Tuesday he'd known it was going to be made public. I wouldn't have written the report.

Prof. S. D. Clark of the University of Toronto penned the 23-page report on economic and social developments in Scarborough Township for a research group which is to make a study of the area.

It described the Highland Creek resident as a man who could set up housekeeping with a common law wife without inviting the censure of his neighbors; a man whose heavy expenditures in beer parlors kept him poor.

Highland Creekers didn't take it lightly.

Richard E. Sutton, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for York-Scarborough, said the report was "mean, contemptible, filthy slander of 99 per cent of typical fast-growing Ontario community."

Prof. Clark said Tuesday night he did not have an opportunity to edit his report for the press.

"It was written in long hand, and it was my understanding it was purely personal. It was written with no thought on my part that all the statements were necessarily true, but to provoke discussion among the group."

He said he was not referring to the whole population of Highland Creek, but only to a certain type of individual who is more readily found in that part of Scarborough than in other parts.

JUST A TYPE

"I wouldn't venture to say there was even one per cent of residents who are like this. The term I used was re-stated. I was asked about a sociological type, rather than a whole population. That type may be found anywhere."

"The term Highland Creek resident, which I defined as one particular sociological type as opposed to the general Scarborough resident, was an unfortunate tag.

"I only meant that I had found more of this type in Highland Creek than in Scarborough generally. If I'd known the report was to be released to the press, I would have chosen the name more carefully. Some of my colleagues live in Highland Creek."

Mr. Sutton said "slandering an individual is nothing new, but slandering a whole representative Ontario community hits a new low."

"It's all very silly," said Rev. G. W. B. Wheeler of St. Simon's Anglican Church. "It shows just how silly some of these experts can be. I don't think people are spending all their time in the pubs," he said. "I'm getting some of it."

Referring to suggestions the report may have been referring to the area known as the Willows in Highland Creek valley, Mr. Wheeler said: "There are some very good people in the valley. I don't think there is any significance to the report if it boils down to a unity among that used to be there several years ago."

Highland Creek has felt the industrial boom that has hit Scarborough Township. Six groups are to study the industrial and economic aspects of areas in Ontario. They are sponsored by the School of Social Science of the University of Toronto.

Brockville Urges Road Completed Fast as Possible

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Brockville residents want Highway 401 finished as quickly as possible, but like Belleville, they don't want it made into a toll road.

To impress on members of the Ontario legislature's select committee on toll roads just how badly they need the highway completed, James Auld, Progressive Conservative member for Leeds, arranged to have them sleep over the night in rooms facing No. 2 Highway so that they can hear the trucks pass through Brockville.

Judge D. E. Lewis of the Brockville and Elizabeth Town joint planning board said a recent survey showed that an average of 1,000 tractor-trailer trucks pass through Brockville every 24 hours.

However, both he and Reeve George Brown of Cardinal favored raising revenue for the project by an increased gasoline tax rather than through tolls.

Belleville representatives told the committee much the same story Monday.

CHATHAM (CP)—Lorne Chase, 21, Tuesday was charged with murder in the rifle death Monday night of Jerry Thibeault, 20, of Chatham in the Chase farm home, six miles southwest of here.

Also in the house at the time were Mrs. Chase and another woman identified as Mrs. Irene Rhue, 41, of Chatham. Mrs. Chase phoned police.

There was evidence of drinking in the home, police said.

CCF Leader Offers Program To Improve Lot of Farmers

GUELPH (CP) — Representatives of two Canadian political parties Tuesday told delegates of the Ontario Farmers' Union of steps that could be taken to improve the lot of the farmer.

Donald C. MacDonald, provincial CCF leader and John Charlton, chairman of the Progressive Conservative agricultural committee, outlined programs of their parties to a meeting of the union at the Ontario Agricultural College.

Mr. MacDonald said agriculture is a pocket of depression in a prosperous economy and that farmers are negotiating increasingly, from year to year, from a growing position of weakness.

Farmers made up only 13 per cent of the population of the province and represented only 7½ per cent of the productive wealth.

Mr. MacDonald offered a four-point program of suggestions of what could be done by government to improve the lot of agriculture. The government could aid farmers through:

1. Marketing legislation.

2. Marketing arrangements to reclaim lost natural markets overseas and a willingness to take the lead in economic action at the international level to establish a world food bank to dump surpluses on without wrecking world price levels.

3. Forward pricing — provide guaranteed minimum prices to assure farmers of their cost of production plus a fair return on their investment.

4. Reduced costs of production—through co-operatives and other forms of public assistance.

Mr. Charlton said the federal government let farmers down by not living up to the promise of maintaining floor prices after the Second World War as a return for the ceilings that were maintained in wartime, when farmers enjoyed something of a boom.

He said farmers must have a government that recognizes their needs. Depressed conditions for all industry would result if the farmer's buying power continued to dwindle.

Mr. Charlton recommended a system of flexible floor prices, to be set each year after consultation with producers. Such a system would be "all the control necessary to provide farmers with a fair return for their produce."

As much as 70 per cent of the meat sold in Canadian butcher shops is not properly graded, said Mr. W. B. Harvey of London, a director of the Canadian Cooperative Association.

He said that a lot of Canadian meat is carefully graded, but in a great deal of it is "dressed by mail which can stumble or stagger into the slaughter house is accepted and sold to me as meat."

She also suggested that farmers dispose of their produce at the lower prices. Questioned from the floor on this proposal, she said it would benefit farmers as well as consumers by encouraging an orderly flow of product and by clearing the market and making way for future sales at higher prices.

Stevenson Says Big Corporations Squeezing Small

NEW YORK (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson said today the Eisenhower administration has "confused genuine friendship for business with unsparing intimacy toward a few of its giants."

"We Democrats . . . reject the idea of an America in which the citizenry is on the payroll of a few giant corporations," he said in a speech prepared for a luncheon of businessmen supporters.

The Democratic presidential nominee contended, at the start of a 12-hour schedule of rallies in the city and surrounding counties, that because of Republican policies small business is being "squeezed by the growing giants, buffeted by the therger movement, strangled by high interest rates. . . ."

"And meanwhile, the big have gotten bigger and the small are disappearing."

HIT POLICIES

Stevenson's shift to discussion of Republican economic actions came after an assault on President Eisenhower's foreign policies. He said Secretary Dulles and Vice-President Richard Nixon, before a cheering throng in Madison Square Garden Tuesday night,

"have shown a shocked resentment" that he should be held accountable for actions of his administration.

When he called Nixon Eisenhower's "stand-picked heel" who had been "subjected to a remarkable process of face-lifting and handlaundering", the crowd broke in with a thunderous "boo."

Stevenson suggested that Eisenhower was offering the country "a press agent's peace." He accused Dulles of "blundering vacillation" in the Middle East, contending it resulted in the Suez Canal crisis.

MENTIONS ISRAEL

He said Israel's was a cause "cynically remembered by the administration late in October." Then he asked the crowd: "Do we want four more years of John Foster Dulles?" A thunderous "No" rolled back to him.

Stevenson made no mention of Eisenhower's statement Tuesday that his Democratic opponent's proposal for ending H-bomb tests offered only the "illusion" of peace and progress toward peace and that field.

Asserting that "the transcendent question" was not political, but whether there will be any tomorrow, Stevenson said the H-bomb discussion "is not a political controversy." He said the world must curb "this ghastly killer."

National Dairy Council Head Predicts Milk Price Increase

QUEBEC (CP)—Grant M. Carlyle, president of the National Dairy Council, said today the time is approaching when a rise in price necessary for milk "will be unavoidable." He predicted the rise will likely come during the winter in some areas.

The Calgary dairy processor touched on the price issue in a presidential address to the council's three-day annual convention.

Many on arrival agreed privately with Mr. Carlyle that a milk price boost is inevitable. Some suggested an increase of one cent a quart. Milk control is controlled by provincial boards which would have to authorize any proposed rise.

The council chieftain, as he looked over the dairy situation, blamed milk price pressures on higher wage and other production costs. These pressures will find their roots in Canada's general prosperity. But this prosperity also had brought greater consumption of fluid milk and butter.

However, Mr. Carlyle added:

"The wage-price spiral will be likely to bring increases in fluid milk prices in some areas this winter. Dairy prices have been remarkably stable for several years in view of steadily increasing costs, particularly wages, and we are surely approaching the time when an increase in price will be unavoidable."

He suggested the dairy industry need not be too worried about the impact of a price rise on sales. Living costs had risen only by 19.1 per cent since 1949 while wages had climbed by 33 per cent.

Mr. Carlyle was far more concerned with consumer reaction over the medical controversy as to whether fats in butter and other products contributed to heart and other diseases. He was worried, too, about reports of shoddy lack of sanitation in some cheese and milk factories.

The fats controversy was "confusing." There was no clear-cut indication what proportion of the diet should consist of fats, he said.

"No single issue facing our industry today is more pregnant with implications for us. Only no single issue is more difficult to discuss in public because as much evidence is inconclusive."

But it was "perfectly obvious" that fat consumption had dropped drastically. Mr. Carlyle suggested the industry should not "participate in promoting "the indisputable values" of whole milk for children and adults in the diet. He had no quote amounts at all ages of life, however. He urged a "drive to meet statements by various research people which are put forth in general terms.

The council now was developing a minimum dairy code for cheese processors and producers, he said. He said it was "amply demonstrated recently by the disastrous publicity given on a national scale to conditions on milk producing farms in British Columbia and to the quality of milk and conditions in cheese factories in Eastern Canada."

Eisenhower Says U.S. Could Suffer Disadvantage if It Stopped Nuclear Weapon Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower says the United States could "suffer a serious military disadvantage" if it stopped its tests of nuclear weapons and then found that Russia was continuing here.

Without naming his Democratic opponent, Adlai E. Stevenson, Eisenhower said that one of Stevenson's contentions in the presidential election campaign debate over continued bomb testing "is based upon apparent unawareness of the facts."

Eisenhower Tuesday night issued his second formal reply to Stevenson's repeated calls for the U.S. to take the lead in working toward an end to hydrogen bomb tests.

While rejecting Stevenson's arguments, the president said he remains "profoundly hopeful" that a properly safeguarded system of world disarmament will come to pass. But until that comes, he said:

"We must continue . . . to develop our strength in the most advanced weapons—for the sake of our own national safety, for the sake of all free nations, for the sake of peace itself. . . .

"There is nothing in post-war history to justify the belief that we should—or even that we could safely—forego anything less than sound safeguards and controls for any disarmament arrangements."

Eisenhower's latest statement on nuclear tests made no reference to Russian Premier Bulganin's renewal last week of his proposal for an agreement to ban all testing of both atomic and hydrogen bombs.

But Eisenhower said, as he had done in sharply rejecting that proposal, that the record of the Soviet Union to accept any dependable system of mutual safeguards" is the only thing which has stumbled international agreement on disarmament.

He said that in the last two years Russia has rejected 14 specific U.S. disarmament proposals.

Stevenson has contended that if Russia did, set up along with any move to halt H-bomb tests, the U.S. would detect any such explosions and the world resume its own test program. Bulganin has argued against this.

Eisenhower termed it "an unverified assumption that such tests can instantly and surely be detected," although he said it is true that "tests of very large weapons would probably be detected at great distance." He also said it would take time to determine the "size and character" of any weapon tested.

In any event, Eisenhower said, costly tests might be cut if the U.S. suspended its tests and then found that Russia was continuing here.

Eisenhower had directed the Atomic Energy Commission, the defence department and other agencies to co-operate in preparation of accompanying documents.

One disclosure was that about 80 per cent of the test blasts set off by the U.S. since 1945 have been conventional atomic weapons and about 20 per cent "of high yield thermonuclear designs"—commonly called H-bombs.

The memo said also that the tests have resulted in development of smaller and lighter bombs using less material, and of weapons having a relatively low throwoff of radioactivity.

Bank Employees Form Union

TORONTO (CP) — Nearly 100 Toronto bank employees became members of the new Bank Office Employees International Union (CLC), Tuesday night in what an official of the Canadian Labor Congress called the first step in a west-country organization program.

He said Claude Jodoin, national president of the CLC, is promised that once Toronto's bank employees start to organize, the CLC will greet any request for machinery to carry through a simultaneous drive to unionize every bank employee in Canada."

Public Hungarian Meeting Demands Russians Depart

BUDAPEST (AP) — People of Hungary, testing a new era of relatively free speech, are demanding that Russia withdraw its troops from Hungary and that the once-imprisoned Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty be restored as head of the Roman Catholic Church in that country.

These demands—which were unimaginable only a few weeks ago—were made at a public meeting in the industry city of Gyoer, in northwest Hungary near the Austrian frontier.

They were reported in the Oct. 19 edition of the newspaper Gyoer Hilap which reached here Tues.

The newspaper reported that about 1,600 Gyoer citizens assembled to meet a delegation of Hungarian writers, including Gyula Hay, the Communist novelist who recently headed the authors revolt against the Hungarian version of Stalinism.

NOTORIOUS TRIAL

Permitted to ask questions, one member of the audience immediately demanded that Mindszenty should be restored as head of the Catholic Church and that a multi-party system should replace the single-party ticket through which the Communists have ruled this country.

Cardinal Mindszenty was sentenced to life imprisonment in February, 1949, in one of the most notorious trials of the Stalin era. He was accused by the Communist government of espionage, treason and illegal foreign exchange transactions. He was released from prison in early December, 1954, and is reported confined at the small village of Felsopeteny, near Neograd in northern Hungary.

According to reliable sources in Budapest, some of the highest ranking non-Communist Hungarian politicians made contact with Mindszenty during the last week, trying to persuade him that it would be possible to return to his former see if he would agree to co-operate with the "patriotic people's front." The cardinal is reported to have rejected these overtures. There have been other reports that he rejected previous offers, insisting that he has been head of the church in Hungary all the time and he would make no compromise in this issue.

NO LONGER MINDSZENTY

Another inquisitive member of the Gyoer audience asked for the abolition of Russian military bases in Hungary. The Gyoer newspaper reported that the answer to this question was given by a journalist who said: "Our Soviet friends were welcome guests in Hungary, but the presence of Soviet military units here is no longer considered necessary."

When another person in the audience remonstrated that the presence of Russian troops was "as absolute necessity" he was promptly booed and hissed by the remainder of the audience, the Gyoer paper reported.

Hay said he is hopeful that "Hungary will follow the example of Yugoslavia, Poland and China in finding a special way of building socialism."

Greater Protection For Jet Airliner Pilots Needed

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Administration said Monday research with the Boeing 707 indicates something will have to be done for greater protection of pilots from flying glass, when birds strike the windshield, before jet airliners can operate safely.

Robert Schroers, chief of the structures branch of the CAA technical development centre here told reporters it might even be necessary to require jet pilots to wear face masks or use some other protection.

Schroers said CAA studies show that incidents of birds being smashed against aircraft windshields average one a day. He said that, while the shatterproof windshields on current jet liners are adequate for the speeds at which those planes fly, this is not true for the high-speed jet craft scheduled to start airline operations in 1959 and 1960.

STRANGE CANNON

Schroers spoke at the first public demonstration of a strange new cannon, developed by the CAA centre, to hurl dead chickens against airplane windshields and into the air scoops of jet engines.

The grotesque weapon, boasting a gun barrel 42 feet long and nine inches thick, is capable of shooting birds at speeds up to 900 miles an hour.

Schroers said 75 dead chickens have been used to date, at speeds up to 450 miles an hour. The force in some cases has been sufficient to dent a one-inch sheet of steel.

Condemned to Die In Gas Chamber

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — John Gilbert Graham, 24, Monday was condemned to die in the Colorado gas chamber the week ending Jan. 12 for the murder of his mother in the dynamiting of a commercial airliner.

Fifty-four persons including Mrs. Alma Winsor of St. John's, Nfld., died when the plane aboard which Graham planted 25 sticks dynamite exploded in flight and crashed in a sugar beet field minutes after takeoff from Denver, Nov. 1, 1955.

"I expected it," said the sullen-faced Graham calmly when told the Colorado Supreme Court had upheld his first-degree murder conviction and set the date for his death.

"He didn't even change expression," warden Harry Tinsley said in a telephone interview from the prison at Canon City, where Graham is confined to Death Row.

The pale, moody slayer, father of two small children, had said he wanted no appeals of his conviction, that he wants to die.

Graham was arrested Nov. 14, 1955. He had taken out six flight insurance policies on his mother's life, one of which named him beneficiary of $37,500 in event of her death. There has been no disposition of the policies.

Metro Chairman Speaks for Municipalities

TORONTO (CP)—Municipalities are being crucified by the federal government's credit restrictions, the chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto council said Monday night.

Fred Gardiner told the Toronto Metropolitan Home Builders' Association that municipalities should be allowed to issue income tax free municipal bonds, thus permitting an interest rate of three per cent or less instead of the present five-per-cent.

He said Metro, which provides certain essential services to Toronto and 12 adjacent communities may be forced to give up expressway construction if restrictions are not eased.

Under present conditions, he said, it costs Metro $20,000,000 to finance a $100,000,000 project.

The federal government did not realize that municipalities have a duty to perform on behalf of their citizens.

"The federal government may know how to cool out inflation, but may not know what to do if the economy goes into a deep-freeze."

Egyptian Papers See Jordan Vote As Blow to West

CAIRO (AP) — Cairo papers have hailed the outcome of Jordan's election as a "blow" to supporters of the Western-sponsored Baghdad pact and "a trend toward a pro-Egypt front."

Comments Al Akhbar: "There is no doubt that Western circles as well as advocates of the Baghdad pact will regard the result of these elections a blow shattering all their hopes in winning Jordan to the Baghdad pact side."

"he government - backed Al Gumhuriya praised the Jordanians for "their brave and firm stand in support of the cause of Arab liberation and world peace."

Egypt has strenuously opposed the Baghdad pact, formed as a defence against communism, and has been critical of Iraq, Jordan's Arab neighbor, for joining it.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop unbitched a hole in his belt after dinner, saying to me, They dont make belts the way they used to. I dont know what they put in them, but they have a tendency to shrink, he said.

That's more than you have, at least around the waist, ma said, and pop said, By golies that may have something to do with it. I suppose I could walk to the office every morning like Ned Clipper, but nobody feels so self conscious as a man walking briskly by himself.

Besides, you've have to get up early, and that's a heart rending idea, ma said, and pop said, I envy the men whose occupations keep them slim and supple. A golf pro feeds the really happy life. He's compelled to make a comfortable living just by striding on soft grass all day swatting golf balls that go where he intended, pop said.

Oh boy, pop, just pretend you're a grate ballplayer, I said. Every day when you come home from your office I'll be waiting for you and we'll go to the back yard and you can throw me balls and I'll throw them back, and before every throw you can wind up like a pitcher. Even if you dont throw them all very strate; I wont mind, pop, and just think how all that winding and unwinding will work your gimmick, I said.

Willard, I think that's a splendid idea, ma said, and I said, Sure it is pop. Will you, pop? I said.

There's just one argewment against it. It would be just an excuse to lose weight, and not an absolute necessity, as in the case of a golf pro. So it might seem a little like cheating. But as I say, I'll think it over, he said.

Probably being all he will do about it.

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both— Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In case hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such caustic statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue in all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for it by name. Sold at toilet goods counters. Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

RUSSIAN TROOPS

It recommended also that Gerce be reappointed a member of the party central committee and also the Politburo.

Bergolts was retained as a first deputy premier.

The crowds tried in vain to topple a giant statue of the dead Soviet dictator Stalin and succeeded in hauling down a red star on top a trade union building.

WARNED RESIDENTS

Radio Budapest broadcast warnings throughout the night to more than 1,750,000 residents of Budapest to stay off the streets this morning because "operations against rebellious elements are still going on."

"Plundering elements are still at large," the radio declared.

All public assembly was forbidden "until order is re-established."

The Western world was cut off from telephone communication with Budapest and other cities of Hungary.

It was clear that Hungary was caught up in the move against Soviet domination that has swept Poland and which could spread into the other Soviet satellite nations of Eastern Europe.

SURPRISE BROADCAST

Earlier Gerce, successor to Matyas Rakosi as party chief, made a surprise broadcast denouncing as lies any statement that Hungary wants to loosen its ties with the Soviet Union.

Budapest radio blamed the violence on "Fascist reactionary elements."

It said the government decreed that "until order is re-established all assembly and gathering of groups is forbidden."

Gerce had just returned to Budapest from talks in Belgrade with President Tito. The Yugoslav and Hungarian Communist parties pledged nonInterference in each other's internal affairs and called for independent development of communism "without any imposition, freely and voluntarily."

SPARKED DRIVE

This has been in the forefront of the move that has sparked the drive for "independent communism."

A centre of Tuesday night's violence was in the area of the Budapest radio station and some demonstrators succeeded in getting inside.

They were prevented from leaving the station and a crowd surged to their rescue. Uniformed police used tear gas bombs to break up the assembly.

By nightfall the number of demonstrators were estimated at possibly 100,000.

Police and soldiers armed with rifles were moved into trouble areas.

Young workers who brought trucks with mounted winches tried to bring down the 36-foot statue of Stalin.

The youths scaled the statue on ropes and fastened cables to its neck. But the cable snapped several times and the statue did no budge.

Then he demonstrators brought up acetylene torches. The big statue swayed but did not tumble.

It was in the area of the radio station that police fired into the crowds. An eyewitness said one man was hit in the face by a bullet and killed. Another was reported seriously wounded and there were rumors of other casualties.

PLYMOUTH FOR 1957 IS LONG, LOW AND WIDE

The Belvedere two-door hardtop (shown above), with an overall height under normal load of 54 inches, is the style leader in the completely new 1957 Plymouth line. The 1957 Belvedere is a full 5 inches lower than the Belvedere for 1956. Featured in the new Plymouth are such style features as distinctive headlight treatment, greatly increased glass areas, new thin support posts, high-swept tail fins and a startling new low side-silhouette. The 1957 Plymouth also features the all-new "Torsion-Aire" ride which gives it a "limousine" feel. A choice of six or V-8 engine is available for 1957, with PowerFlite available as an option. In the Belvedere series the new Torque-Flite transmission is also available as optional equipment.

Plymouth Features "Torsion-Aire Ride"

WINDSOR — Canadian auto buyers are offered a dramatically styled 1957 Plymouth that is longer-looking, four to five inches lower in height, with a lower centre of gravity. This improvement in Forward Look styling is made possible largely by a completely new front and rear suspension system which utilizes chrome steel torsion-bar front springs instead of the former coil-and-strut coil springs. Because torsion-bar springs save space and permit better placement of engine accessories, they help make Plymouth's new low profile possible. Thus Plymouth engineers have achieved a styling triumph and an even more comfortable ride.

The new Plymouth has a graceful line rearward from the forward-thrusting headlights to the sweeping high-flung rear fins. The full-width aluminum grille and side-by-side lighting arrangement accent the width and stability of the front end. Prospective owners can choose from 32 different models with both six and V-8 cylinder engines in 4 series, Plaza, Savoy, Belvedere and Suburban.

The Plaza, Savoy, Belvedere and Suburban line-up, in a wide range of exterior and interior colors, is on display at all Chrysler-Plymouth-Fargo dealers, announced Mr. John C. McGuire, a director of the company and general sales manager of the Chrysler-Plymouth-Fargo division.

The push-button control that made Plymouth Powerflite models so popular, is continued along with other optional power features such as power steering, power brakes, and two-way power seats. The new three-speed Torque-Flite transmission will be offered in the Belvedere and Sport Suburban models.

Plymouth's 1957 driving thrill is the "Torsion-Aire" ride which results from the completely new suspension system and a new frame that is a foot longer and 55 pounds heavier than last year's frame.

CUSHIONED RIDE

Incorporated in the new suspension system are a multitude of outstanding features that truly "cushion" the ride. Included in these are newly designed ball joints which replace kingpins to reduce steering effort and to quicken steering wheel "return" after cornering; special rubber bushings in the suspension and steering systems which minimize the noise and vibration, and cushion against jolts and noise. These bushings are frictionless and, as a result, need no lubrication. Lubrication points in the entire front end have been reduced from 30 to 8 for six cylinder models and from 33 to 8 for the V8 models. There is a longer, 118 inch wheelbase, and new 14 inch tubeless tires which have wider treads for better traction and control.

The wheelbase on the Suburban is 122". This low-pressure tire puts more air, at reduced pressure, between the body and the road thereby greatly reducing road shock and noise. In addition the wider tread provides greater surfaces for smoother, quicker stopping. Also featured in the new ride is the rear spring design and axle mounting. Springs are mounted on the outside of the frame for body stability and ride control, and improved Oriflow shock absorbers control the springs for a better ride. The Oriflow shock absorber will cushion 2½ times more spring impact than will an ordinary shock absorber.

Plymouth provides additional safety with the new floating-shoe Total-Contact brake which gives 20 per cent more brake lining wear than do ordinary brakes.

Seat-type and Suburban windshield glass area has been increased by 45 per cent, while on hardtops the increase is 44 per cent. The windshields on the 1957 convertibles not only wrap around the corners but curve into the roof itself.

The heating and defrosting system has been greatly improved and a two-speed switch operates the blower at high or low speeds to control the quantity of air to be heated. The defrosters can be rotated to direct air to any portion of the windshield.

Special equipment, available at extra cost, includes electric window lifts, transistorized radio, rear seat speaker, and solex tinted glass.

KELLY THE RED—

Probably no one connected with the National Hockey League welcomed the Detroit Red Wings announcement more than we say that Leonard Patrick Kelly ("Red" to youse guys) has replaced the fiery Ted Lindsay as captain of the team, than the boys of the whistle brigade.

The beak-room platoons had it right off the bat that the change of skippers from the thunderous, dynamic Lindsay to the soft-spoken tobacco grower from Simcoe, meant that Ted was on the block, the skids, or the general way out.

"RED" KELLY

The arm-chair critics, as usual, were so wrong. Ted has but a year to go in the big time—and he knows it. He will quit before he would play with another club than his beloved Detroiters.

"Red" Kelly on one of his annual jaunts to Larry Eggert's Rosemore cottage last summer, told us that Lindsay has a beautiful home in an exclusive residential centre, a flourishing business in the city and intentions of remaining in the Windsor suburb.

FARMED OUT

He battled Plante for Montreal's regular goaltending chores in pre-season training last year. Plante had a year's experience in the NHL and McNeil wound up with Royals, Canadiens' farm team.

Many critics said coach Toe Blake had blundered in his selection at that time but Plante settled on to the Vezina Trophy as the league's best goalkeeper.

Plante likes to discuss bronchial attack ate a practice session. He was rushed to stop Gus Bodnar, who was expected to remain in hospital overnight.

When word of Plante's illness reached Montreal, McNeil packed from a train minutes before it left for Chicoutimi, Que., where Royals played the Saguenenns Tuesday night. Claude Pronovost tended goal for Royals.

While Canadiens were picking up McNeil, Rangers were carrying out their own little operation. New York coach Phil Watson says he wants his players to cut Montreal centre Jean Beliveau down to size.

Rangers, particularly Watson, are sore about what they call his "unsportsmanlike" conduct before Montreal fans in last Saturday's game. Rangers lost 5-0 but that's not what miffs Watson.

Says Canadien Centre's Attack On Red Sullivan 'Dirty Trick'; Teams Clash in N.Y. Tonight

Gerry McNeil, once the regular goaltender for Montreal Canadiens is slapping back into his old National Hockey League job.

Canadiens Tuesday called up McNeil from Montreal Royals of the Quebec League, a few hours after Jacques Plante was taken to hospital for diagnosis of a bronchial attack.

McNeil, who hasn't been under NHL fire in two years, will be in the nets tonight when Habs meet second-place Rangers in New York. It's the only game scheduled.

The 30-year-old McNeil decided to call it quits in the big time during the 1953-54 playoffs after a case of nervous tension. He remained out of action for the 1954-55 campaign and then tried a comeback.

He battled Plante for Montreal's regular goaltending chores in pre-season training last year. Plante had a year's experience in the NHL and McNeil wound up with Royals, Canadiens' farm team.

Newcombe Gets Little Sympathy From 'Bum' Brass

BROOKLYN (AP) — The news that Don Newcombe blames his poor world series pitching performances on a sore arm brought little sympathy Tuesday from Brooklyn Dodgers' brass.

"He says he has a bad arm," observed vice-president Buzzy Bavasi, "and that he also had one during the series. All I know is that April is a long way off and this should make him easier to sign."

Newcombe said in Japan Monday that he hurt the arm in the final game of the National League race. In addition to being battered and in both his world series starts against New York Yankees, Newcombe has failed to last in two starts during the Brooks' current tour of the Orient.

When he was shelled from the mound the other day in Tokyo, Newcombe left the park. Just as he did in the series. This also didn't stand well with Bavasi.

"I see Newk is still leaving the park as soon as he is knocked out of a game," he said, "I'm just a little surprised he didn't ride back to the hotel in a jinrikisha instead of a taxicab."

Plante Tops NHL Goalies

TORONTO (CP) — Montreal Canadiens' Jacques Plante was beaten only once in three games last week as he moved to the top of the efficiency ratings for National League goaltenders.

Plante, last year's Vezina Trophy winner, stopped 57 of the 58 shots fired at him for a .983 average. That bettered his season's total by .01. Boston's Terry Sawchuk, with .910, and Ed Chadwick of Toronto, .902, follow.

The best way to avoid accidents is to take no chances. In the jungle it is wise to assume that everything bites or stings and that when a creature looks dead it is merely Meanwhile, Glenn Hall of Detroit Wings was knocked from first to third place as his average dropped to .855. Lorne Worsley of New York Rangers managed to hold on to his second-place rating. His mark is .870.

Al Rollins' fourth-place season's total is .851. Boston's Terry Sawchuk, with .910, and Ed Chadwick of Toronto, .902, follow.

Cincinnati's Birdie Tebbetts National Manager of Year

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — George (Birdie) Tebbetts, who almost steered the underdog Cincinnati Redlegs into the world series, today was named National League manager-of-the-year in The Associated Press annual poll.

Tebbetts won easily. He received 160 of the 207 votes cast by members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Fred Haney of Milwaukee was named on 34 ballots. Walt Alston, who guided Brooklyn Dodgers to the league title, received only six votes. Bobby Bragan of Pittsburgh had five and Fred Hutchinson of St. Louis and Mayo Smith of Philadelphia got one each.

A patient, although sometimes fiery, manager, Tebbetts molded the Redlegs into a leading pennant contender in one year. They were not eliminated from the race until the next-to-last day of the season and finished in third place only two games behind Brooklyn and one behind second-place Milwaukee.

NO 20-WINNERS

Birdie had no 20-game winning pitcher in his third season at the Cincinnati helm. He had no Don Newcombe or Joe Nuxhall but . . . no Johnny Antonelli. His top victory man was Brooks Lawrence with 19 and with help from Hershell Freeman, who had 14 victories in relief, Tebbetts manoeuvred and improvised, getting 91 triumphs from an admittedly-weak staff.

It was the first time since 1944 that Cincinnati finished in the first division. In the other seasons under Tebbetts' direction, they wound up in fifth place each time —with a 74.80 record in 1954 and 75- 79 in 1955.

Haney took over the Milwaukee reins from Charley Grimm in mid-June. Less than a month later, the Braves were in first place. Only a driving finish by the Dodgers and their own slump in the last three days of the season prevented them from bringing the pennant to the Wisconsin metropolis.

Greatest Field in Canada Faces Starter at Woodbine

TORONTO (CP)—The greatest field of horses to face the starter in Canada is assembled at Toronto Woodbine Park here to prepare for Saturday's running of the $50,000 Canadian championship stakes. The race will have a gross value of $62,250 and the winner will receive $45,300 if 16 horses go to the post.

A van arrived from New York Tuesday with Paper Tiger, owned by Canada's second Prime Minister, Louis St. Laurent, and Prince Morvi, Australian horse owned by Frank C. Rand, Arizona mining magnate. The two entries were accompanied by Jacobs' two-year-old Nasrun Money, which will be a starter in the $7,500 Grey Stakes Saturday.

Paper Tiger finished second to Park Dandy in last year's renewal of the Canadian championship. Prince Morvi is regarded as probably the best all-round performer in North America.

Meanwhile, Wm. Margin, owned by Samuel Tufano, tested the Woodbine course for the first time today. The son of Market Wise has won more than $500,000 and is regarded as one of the principal contenders in Saturday's race.

W. R. Beasley of Toronto announced that his Canadian Champ is a certain starter.

The Canadian championship will be contested over a mile and five furlongs and the horses are expected to go to the post at approximately 4:35 p.m. EST.

Ottawa Puts Float in Cup Parade

OTTAWA (CP)—After rejecting the idea for years, the Ottawa civic administration Tuesday decided to be represented for the first time by float at the Grey Cup parade in Toronto, Nov. 24.

But it will not dip into city coffers for funds—unless a public campaign for funds doesn't cover the entire cost of the float.

Mayor Charlotte Whitton and four members of board of control kicked off the campaign by donating $5 of their own money and appealed to Ottawa at the Grey "anything from a dime to a dollar." The city's 16 aldermen likely will be asked to contribute a similar amount.

Mayor Whitton proposed a "dignified" float representative of Ottawa and the national capital and a special committee named by board of control plans to seek the advice of the national gallery's design centre and the trade department's exhibition branch for ideas.

Scout Charges Alston Has 'No Guts'

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Globe quotes Brooklyn scout A.R. (Turk) Karam as saying Walt Alston, manager of the National League champion Dodgers, has "no guts."

The Globe says Karam criticized Alston for his world series managing in an interview with reporter Charley Laubenstein at Karam's Monday.

"We had good replacements," Karam was quoted as telling Laubenstein. "I noticed Casey Stengel (New York Yankee manager) pulled Enos Slaughter out in the last game. Why didn't Walt pull some of our boys out of there when the chips were down?

"He's got no guts . . . that's all."

In Brooklyn, E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, vice-president of the Brooklyn club, when informed of the Karam statement, said:

"If Mr. Karam was not misquoted, then he is an ex-Dodger scout."

Providence Reds Hang Collar On All-Stars'

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Providence Reds, defending American Hockey League champions, defeated the circuit's all-stars 4-0 Tuesday night, added the brilliant goaltending of Johnny Bower.

The victory was the first by a championship club over the all-stars in the AHL competition started three years ago.

Bower made 47 stops, 22 in the second period to blanking the all-stars, whose cast included 10 forwards who averaged 30 goals a man in league competition last year. His shutout also marked the first in the series.

The Reds, unleashing a high-powered attack that struck for two goals in the first period and added singles in the next two. Jim Bartlett, Ray Cyr, Camille Henry and George Blair were the scorers.

Cockrell Throws Muscles Over Wife, Wife-O

SEVENOAKS, England (AP)—Don Cockell, retired former British heavyweight boxing champ, pushed, lunged and threw a few punches again Tuesday night this time in a fight over his wife Irene.

Earlier in the day he had reported his wife missing. Then he located her in this London suburb. Trouble came to a head per in a pub with another man. The guy was small, maybe a welterweight.

The tussle between the two was short. One round to a draw, with both men rolling in a clinch on the floor at the end. Cockell stood up, invited the younger guy outside.

Outside they went, with Mrs. Cockell screaming "Stop it! Stop it everybody. You will kill him!"

The outside bout was verbal, setting off a three-hour argument among the three participants which eventually wound up in Mrs. Cockell's auto trailer a half mile from the pub.

Finally Don and his missus came out, "We are taking Irene home," said Cockell. There were no dissenters.

"It's a matter between husband and wife," was the little guy.

Mrs. Cockell said nothing, but got into a car with Cockell as he told a gathering of newspaper men "We're going back to the farm together."

Don said his wife was angry with him because "I drank more than she liked." Adding she also thought he had been seeing other women. "But there's been nothing like that."

Mrs. Cockell, 28, left Don and their two children at the farm 10 days ago.

Athletic Body Ousts New Javelin Style

LONDON (AP) — The world's javelin throwers get a test easy today—they won't have to develop a new style for the Olympic Games next month.

By the simple method of adding one sentence to the rules, the International Amateur Athletic Federation Tuesday killed the revolutionary Spanish style of tossing the javelin.

Here is what was added to the regulations:

"At no time after preparing to throw will the javelin has been discharged into the air may the competitor turn completely around so that his back is toward the throwing arc. This will come into effect forthwith."

The Spanish style of throwing the spear was started only last month by Felix Erauquin of Spain who decided to avoid running—something like a discus thrower—before letting go.

He just missed matching the recognized world record of 274 feet 9¾ inches and was winning throughout the track and field world were rated. Several of the best throwers are Eri and Egil Danielsen of Norway, the Olympic favorite, got off a breathtaking flip of 307-4½.

In the last couple of weeks Spanish style" never had been heard of before came close to 300 feet. On the other hand, some of the better-known tossers who tried the Spanish style had difficulty mastering it.

Not only was the style change radical, but the thrower, after spinning, had no idea where the javelin would land. It constituted a threat to life and limb of spectators, officials and athletes alike.

'Start Fight You're Out' Says Coach

TORONTO (CP) — Rev. D. Crowley, coach of St. Michael's College Majors, said Tuesday night any of his players who instigates a fight will be dropped from the team.

Father Crowley told the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Council he has warned the players of the stiff penalty as a result of a brawl which erupted in an exhibition game here last week.

St. Thomas Catholic priest said he had been told by superiors of the Basilian Order, which operates the Toronto college and many other schools in Canada, that the publicity from the game "wasn't in good taste with the standards of the school" and that any repeat performance would mean withdrawal of the Majors from the OHA Junior ranks.

"We can't take a chance on being thrown out of the league," Father Crowley said.

PENALTIES GALORE

Majors won the game 5-1 over St. Michael's College Jrs. also of the OHA Junior A, Oct. 18. There were 73 minutes in penalties handed out, including nine five-minute majors for fighting. St. Michael's had 11 majors and seven minors during the contest.

Father Crowley asked the council whether it would be possible for each team to have a district referee to get between the combatants in a fight instead of leaving it to players on the opposing another battle.

Harold Ballard, president of Toronto Marlboros, suggested that the OHA executive suspend players for the rest of the game and another engagement should they begin fighting. He said two other players come to blow.

This was protested by Hap Emms, coach of Barrie Flyers, who said: "We can overdo this cleaning-up business to the point that the boys won't need shoulder pads or much of any other protective equipment. We don't want hockey into a game of ping-pong on skates."

Emms said officials and coaches could prevent much of the brawling by ordering the players to their respective benches. He agreed that big battles should be stopped but didn't know of an immediate cure.

The council decided to let the matter stand until the next meeting in November.

The following starting times for games were announced:

Junior A involving either St. Michael's or Marlboros, 8 p.m. EST every night at 7:30 p.m. for mid-week doubleheaders and 3 p.m. for Sunday afternoon double-headers.

Guelph, 8 p.m. EST Tuesdays and 8:30 p.m. Fridays; Barrie, 8:15 p.m. for all games; St. Catharines, 8 p.m. Tuesdays and 8:30 p.m. Saturdays. Peterborough, the league's new entry this season, was not represented at the meeting and the team's home starting time was not known.

Pembroke Lumber Kings Look For Good Season in New Loop

By Al Sheehan

Pembroke (Special) — With three expensive winters in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Southern Group to forget, the Pembroke Lumber Kings look to a brighter, more prosperous chance in the Eastern Ontario Senior A League under a new coach and management.

Last season the Kings ended up the red an estimated $30,000 and this year the new dollar conscious executive has adopted a "take a pay cut or else" policy which has resulted in several of the 1955-56 edition of the team shifting to other leagues.

Just six members of last year's club have returned in the persons of Bert, Jack and Bruce Glesebrecht, Bob Campbell, Jim Maxwell and Charlie Marshall.

Not around when training camp opened were Larry Hagan, Bob Maxwell, Carroll Bloom, Eddie Marineau, Don Brown, Ron Stone, Johnny Bobenic, Johnny Bailey, Rheal Savard, Jack Douglas and Cliff Hicks.

Hicks, outstanding in goal for the Kings for four seasons, couldn't come to terms with the club this year and will see action with Indianapolis in the International League, Jack Douglas, stalwart defenceman, went with Hicks and also earned a berth with the Indianapolis team.

Balance of those who did not return are now playing for the following teams: centre Larry Regan, Boston Bruins; defencemen Bob Maxwell, Charlotte Clippers; defencemen Carroll Bloom, Campbellton, N.B.; defencemen Eddie Marineau, Campbellton, N.B.; rightwinger Johnny Bobenic, Soo Indians; leftwinger Johnny Bailey, Soo Greyhounds; centre Rheal Savard, Cornwall Chevies.

Forward Ron Brown was lured to Pembroke Grary for the first practice before the season opener. Defencemen Don Hayes is now in hockey this winter.

Step by step the new management has worked to rebuild the Kings into what is believed will be a strong contender for the league championship this season.

Former NHLer performer Les Hildebrand, a fiery rightwinger with Cleveland Barons last winter, was signed as playing-coach succeeding Cully Simon.

The first problem he faced was finding a netminder capable of replacing Hicks. Lorne Anderson, a Renfrew product who starred with North Bay Trappers and Sudbury Wolves in the NOHA Southern Group, was approached and eventually signed to play with the team.

Anderson informed the executive he would not be able to play all games for the first couple of months of the schedule. Rollie Sarault, an unknown with Pembroke last winter, was also signed. Sarault has looked impressive in workouts and will be in goal when the Kings meet Kingston CKLC's on Wednesday night. Both signed on a game basis.

Hildebrand's next chief worry was the defence. With the exception of Ken Campbell, who stepped back to the blueline this winter in training, the club had no defencemen. Newcomers brought in included Lorne Woods, captain of Ottawa Shamrocks of the Junior city league last season; Jackie Hess, Gilles Laperriere, Harry Scott and Tony Ciesielski.

Laperriere was with Rouyn Flashes last winter, Scott performed with Indianapolis; Hess, formerly with Soo Indians, and Ciesielski with Black Hawks in 1952-53, played intermediate hockey at Sault Ste. Marie.

Coach Hildebrand wasn't too worried about his forward lines, but is still attempting to land an experienced centreman. In addition to the three Glesebrecht brothers, Jim Maxwell and Charlie Marshall and himself, Nobby Clark, Joe Drader and Wally Anderson have signed with the club. Also out with the club are Ron Rowe, Lionel Barbeer, Ron O'Neill and Ray Simoneau.

Bob Blackburn, a defenceman, and forwards Darryl McMillan and Don Mousseau were cut by team.

Last season Bert and Bruce Glesebrecht finished one-two in scoring in the NOHA Southern Group. Hildebrand had Bert centring brother Jack and Charlie Marshall on one line. Bruce between himself and Nobby Clark on another and Joe Drader at the point. Jim Maxwell for the first game of the schedule.

Ninety per cent conditioning and 10 per cent had players was the way Hildebrand summed up the Kings 7-3 loss to Kingston in the season opener. The team had had no exhibition games.

He reports there will be several changes made in the next couple of weeks.

A crowd of 2,193 paid watched the Kingston team perform and was slightly surprised at the brand of hockey that the new Eastern Senior "A" League will produce this winter.

It is the feeling here that the league was somewhat underrated and steps are being taken to strengthen the club.

Metras to Use New Quarter Against Blues

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Backed against the wall in the Intercollegiate football race, coach Johnny Metras of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs may send a Toronto hometowner against the University of Toronto Blues in the important game here Saturday.

Art Turner, the signal-caller formerly with Toronto Danforth Tech, proved last Saturday, when Western lost a 21-15 decision at Toronto, that he could "throw the long one." He pitched one big touchdown pass to Frank Loftus, and just failed to connect on another to Bill Britton.

The guessers say Metras will tell his quarter to throw more long ones and try and put Toronto off the track early in the contest.

The Mustangs came through the game in Toronto without serious injuries. Tackle Ray Jamieson suffered a recurrence of a charley horse, while Quarterback Bill Britton banged his bad knee again, but both will be in action Saturday.

Metras said it was uncertain whether freshman halfback Don Miller, injured in the Queen's game in Kingston, would be available for Saturday. In addition to the three Glesebrecht brothers, Jim Maxwell and Charlie Marshall and himself, Nobby Clark, Joe Drader and Wally Anderson have signed with the club. Also out with the club are Ron Rowe, Lionel Barbeer, Ron O'Neill and Ray Simoneau.

Bob Blackburn, a defenceman, and forwards Darryl McMillan and Don Mousseau were cut by team.

Last season Bert and Bruce Glesebrecht finished one-two in scoring in the NOHA Southern Group. Hildebrand had Bert centring brother Jack and Charlie Marshall on one line. Bruce between himself and Nobby Clark on another and Joe Drader at the point. Jim Maxwell for the first game of the schedule.

Sasky Prexy Amazed at Vancouver Fans

REGINA (CP)—Don MacPherson, president of the Saskatchewan Roughriders football club, says there must be "liability in Canadian football or things will be worse instead of better."

Back from Vancouver where he saw his club defeat British Columbia Lions 22-22 Saturday, he said Monday that he was amazed at the attitude of some Vancouver fans who want to turn out Lions' president Don MacKenzie, some of the directors and coach Clem Crowe.

"Here in Saskatchewan we went through that stage years ago and it doesn't help football a bit," MacPherson said. "I know how hard MacKenzie has worked for the welfare of the club and I know its cost him plenty in time and money.

"Lions haven't been in the league long and their record this year is as good as could be expected."

Ontario Senior A Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Staying power is proving the margin of victory in Ontario's Senior A hockey leagues.

Windsor Bulldogs moved into a first-place tie with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the Ontario Hockey Association "A" East of the Western Group Tuesday night on the strength of three overtimes goals for a 7-6 win over Dutchmen.

North Bay Trappers defeated Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 4-3 in a Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Southern Group game after holding off a Greyhound third-period flurry.

SLEAVER SAVES DAY

Nearly 2,000 fans at Windsor saw John Sleaver score 31 seconds before the final whistle to tie the score 4-4 for Bulldogs. In overtime Windsor's Frank Battigale and Lou Bendo scored within 18 seconds.

George Scholes put Kitchener back into competition with a goal at 3:37 but after the Dutchmen yanked goalie Bob Senior Bendo banged in the second overtime goal for the win.

Other Bulldog goalgetters were Bendo, Wally Pavlyshyn, and Joe Klukay. Jerry Theberge notched two for Dutchmen with Don Rope and Ken Laulman picked up singles.

Chez Roseceny, Jerry Cabana, Stan Maxwell and George Gosselin were North Bay marksmen. Mike Ratchford, Don McLean and Steve Brklacich scored for the Hounds.

Trappers now have a four-point lead over other teams in the NOHA group.

Senior hockey action tonight sees Sudbury playing at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., in a NOHA game and Pembroke at Kingston and Ottawa at Whitby in OHA Eastern Group activity.

Students Demand Positive Action By Govt. on Grants

QUEBEC (CP)—Milling university students pelted Quebec's legislature building with eggs, tomatoes and oranges Tuesday and demanded a "positive and concrete attitude of any type" by the provincial government on the question of financial aid to universities.

Some 1,000 students, most of them from Laval University here, staged day-long demonstrations in front of the legislature and on Quebec streets. They had come there originally in the morning to back requests by a 13-student group for an interview with Premier Duplessis.

Mr. Duplessis refused to see the students. Spokesmen at his office explained he did not know what they wanted.

RETURN AGAIN

The morning demonstration broke up about noon but students were told to return later in the day. They did so after assembled Hebert Huard, president of the General Association of Laval Students, said Mr. Duplessis had agreed to a meeting "at a later date" and asked them to disperse.

The students refused, shouting "No, no, we want a hearing today." They set off firecrackers, beat on pots and pans, and tossed eggs and vegetables at the building and cops at police guarding the entrance.

Student representatives of Laval, McGill University, Sir George Williams College and the universities of Montreal and Sherbrooke got together later in the evening and adopted a motion calling for a "positive and concrete attitude" by the Quebec government.

The motion pointed out that the federal government has offered grants to universities to be distributed by the National Conference of Canadian Universities and that Mr. Duplessis has announced his opposition to the plan.

The students said the motion will be submitted to the Duplessis at a meeting about Oct. 31.

Federal grants were accepted in the province during the 1951-52 school term but have been turned down in each succeeding year. Premier Duplessis claims the grants are a violation of the province's exclusive rights in the education field.

Between morning and afternoon demonstrations at the legislature the students marched through city streets, waving placards with slogans and dollar signs and singing songs in the tune of Roman Catholic hymns with words about Mr. Duplessis and his government.

POLICE ON SCENE

City police put five radio patrol cars on the scene to control rush hour traffic tied up by the marchers. Some 100 provincial police constables were on duty around the legislature.

Demonstrations ceased early in the evening. Scattered groups of students continued to march through streets slowing traffic during the evening rush hour, but broke up shortly afterward.

One window was broken at the legislature and the front of the building was littered with debris after the students left. Police said no arrests were made and no injuries reported.

SPORT IN BRIEF

TEEPS DOWN BILTS

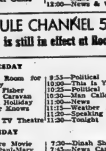
GUELPH (CP) — St. Catharines Teepees edged Guelph Biltmores 4-3 Tuesday night in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A exhibition contest. It was the first exhibition loss for the Biltmores who had previously defeated Toronto Marlboros and Teepees.

BRUINS TOP OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP) — Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League scored four first-period goals and then coasted to a 6-2 victory over Ottawa Senators Canadians in an exhibition hockey game before about 2,000 fans Tuesday night.

INJURED IN FOOTBALL

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Robert Christiansen, 16-year-old quarterback of Collegiate Boys' football team, was brought to hospital here Tuesday with fluid in his lungs following a game at Forest, which Forest won 16-5. Pending x-rays, his condition was reported satisfactory.



THEY'RE WITH CROWE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Coach Clem Crowe of British Columbia Lions was given a vote of confidence by team directors Tuesday night and was granted full powers to select assistant coaches for next season.

SELL FILLY FOR $29,000

The session average on 79 head was $2,228, compared to last fall's opening average of $1,975 on the same number.

The world champion teams in January used enough conventions to fill the biggest hotels. And a player who prefers partials or some odd signal that he changes when partnered with another.

Some of the Swedish pairs used an opening two bid regular. Some used two clubs to show two hearts as regular; two diamonds or two clubs irreg. Two clubs showed certain sign-offs to two bids.

Of the American pairs, Becker-Lightner use two bids in regular form. Schenken-Crawford and Rapee-Sharples use only two clubs as forcing to game. All other suit openings of two are weak two bids with 5½m.

This may help you understand the bidding in deal three here:

	NORTH
	♠ K Q 10 7 4
	♣ K Q J 2
WEST		EAST
♠ 9 3		♠ A 8 2
♥ 8 2		♥ A
♦ 8 5 4 2		♦ 10 9 7 3
♣ A 7 5		♣ 10 6 5 4
	SOUTH
	♠ J 6
	♥ A K Q J 7
	♦ A K Q J 6

In room one the Swedish pair sat south and north. Their bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
6 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

The fourth diamond bid by north was a cue bid to show control of that suit with hearts as trumps. The Swedish pair partscored at least one sure trick in the regrettable auction.

In room two the American south and north pair bid like this:

South	West	North	East
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
6 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

This pair used two clubs as game force. Times are when it gets the bidding too high to show established suits is needed. Not here.

The Swedish pair was defeated one trick. The American team made the slam. So, hear how the play went in each room.

AT THE McCARTHY — Leigh Snowden realizes that her fiance, Jock Mahoney, actually believes he can recall details of a previous existence in this scene from "I've Lived Before", Universal-International picture in which they co-star with Ann Harding and John McIntire. Opens Thursday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre along with the Technicolor-action hit "Raw Edge" starring Rory Calhoun and Yvonne DeCarlo.

Three TV Networks Offering 10 Hours of Variety Program

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — In this present week the three major American networks are all offering 10 hours of evening "variety" programs.

What is a "variety" program anyway? Obviously it's a variety of entertainment—a little music, a little dance, a little talk. It's a series of acts strung together by one person, the master of ceremonies. (That's an awkward term; it's time somebody thought up a good synonym for it—something besides "host.")

Now, it seems, television shows not only have reached a new high in numbers. They have also entered the age of fission. The split is each show are constantly flying off to help form the whole of another variety show. For instance, do not worry if you miss Gisele MacKenzie on one show; she'll shortly appear on another. Multiply Miss MacKenzie by dozens of other entertainers, and by a process of geometric progression you have the age of atomic fission in variety shows.

RATHER WEARING

Even the hardy neutrons themselves, the masters of ceremonies, are developing a tendency to fly off to other variety programs. Walter Winchell to Perry Como and Como to Winchell. Bob Hope is ubiquitous. George Gobel, ignoring the network walls, appears with Eddie Fisher. So it goes, nearly everybody appearing with everybody—except Steve Allen with Ed Sullivan or Sullivan with Allen.

All this atomic action was rather heady in the beginning. But as the number of variety programs increases, as the reciprocal plug pops up more frequently, as the pool of available entertainers grows, I personally confess to a mild weariness. Ten hours of variety is a week's dulls the senses.

The answer, of course, is that all of them have to watch all of those hours. Well, who does? But try as you will to shake off weariness and apathy, the force of perception from this surfeit, it becomes increasingly difficult to pick the better from the 'good in these variety shows.

Indian Army Can't Afford Athlete's Grub

NEW DELHI (AP) — India's leading entry in the Olympic wrestling is a soldier with an appetite so large that even the Indian Army can't afford him.

He's Grenadier Havildar Lila Ram—not just Lila Ram, as his friends at the Grenadiers regimental training centre call him.

Lila is one of the few Indian athletes given a chance to win a medal at the Melbourne Games. He has been the Indian heavyweight champion for the last two years.

The Grenadiers love Lila, who has been with them for the regiment, and they all contribute to a special supplemental fund to pay for his food. If they didn't, Lila might starve.

An official army press release says that each day he consumes six quarts of milk, a pound of butter, half a pound of almonds, a six-pound quantity of vegetables and between 45 to 60 "chapatis," a North Indian bread shaped like a pancake but bigger and heavier.

In addition, he goes through three to four pounds of meat and eggs every other day. On the odd days he gets by mainly on vegetables, milk and chapatis.

The normal Indian Army ration is about one-sixth this quantity.

Despite his appetite, Lila, who is 25, has kept himself in a trim 200 pounds by exercising daily.

AT THE BELLE — Hy Hirsh Erving entertainment in "High Society" with Bing Crosby, Grace Kelly, Frank Sinatra and Celeste Holm, the start of this MGM musical and romantic frolic, with a score of new song hits by Cole Porter and hot jazz from Louis Armstrong and His All Stars. Also in the cast are Sidney Blackmer, John Lund and Louis Calhern. Tonight and Thursday, matinee daily.

'Globe Trotters' Play in Kingston

The "trottingest and winningest" team in sports history, Globe Saperstein's fabulous Harlem Globetrotters, will appear at Kingston's Community Centre, Monday Nov. 12 as they start their 30th successive year of basketball action.

To celebrate the anniversary, Owner-Coach Abe Saperstein has launched three separate units of the Trotters around the world in relay fashion.

One of them has toured Europe and the Middle East, winning all 98 games played in 21 countries. Another, at the same time, every through 17 countries of South America, winning all 63 starts.

A third unit will complete the swing this fall and winter, taking in Australia and New Zealand before moving into the far East.

Throughout Canada and the United States, Saperstein wins use what he calls "one of the finest teams in Globetrotter history." Travelling with the team are supporting acts rated tops as a night club attraction.

New faces, new stunts in the players' nightly repertoire and new artists in the floor show are one of the secret contributions to the Trotters long success.

Opposing them will be the Philadelphia Spas, one of the top touring professional teams in the United States.

REACHES OBJECTIVE

STRATFORD (CP) — Stratford became the first Ontario city to reach its current Community Chest campaign objective Tuesday when donations passed the $40,000-mark. The campaign, opened Sept. 24 and lasting to Oct. 31, provides for 10 charitable agencies.

Michel Ray Hailed as Brightest Young Find in Movies in Years

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ordinarily, I would rather interview a horse than a child actor.

Their conversational range is limited. While they may be good company at marbles or hopscotch, they aren't much help to a reporter in search of copy. You get more yeps and nopes out of them than you do from Gary Cooper.

I am happy to report that Michel Ray is the exception. I approached him with the same misgivings I have had with other film moppets, but I found he could converse as well as Clifton Webb—and in five languages!

Michel is now being hailed as the brightest young find in years because of his role as the Mexican boy in The Brave One. That part won him co-starring status in Thin Star with Henry Fonda, Betsy Palmer and Anthony Perkins.

BRITISH-BORN

I was surprised that he could not only act, but spoke with a slight British accent. It appears that he was born near London, the only son of a leather merchant, Henry Hooper, and his wife. Then taking lessons so I'll be able to talk Western in the picture," Michel explained. "It was not too difficult. I speak English, French and German fluently. I speak Spanish rather well, but with some grammatical errors, and my Italian is fairly good."

All this from a lad of 10! His mother, a lovely brunette who once studied dramatics at the Reinhardt school in Vienna, explained that her husband travels a great deal, and Michel picks up the language wherever he goes.

Mrs. Popper added that Michel's film career came about by accident. His first acting job developed when a friend was looking for a boy to play Robert Alda's part in a brief scene in a television series being made in Ireland. Then he was sought to play in The Divided Heart, a British film from a real-life story of a boy with two mothers—one who adopted him in Germany and his real mother in Yugoslavia.

"At first my husband held out," the mother said. "He argued that there must be 30 boys in London who could speak German and English and could do the role. But they wanted Michel, and we decided that it was an opportunity he perhaps should not miss."

Michel is an athletic lad with a handsome face and a large shock of light brown hair that has once again been dyed black for his film role. He wants to be an actor when he grows up, but if that doesn't work out, he'd like to run a restaurant. Yep he cooks, too.

Canadian Woman Tells Court of Extortion Move

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The daughter of a Canadian mining executive appeared in court Tuesday and accused four men of trying to extort $18,000 from her and her husband.

Mrs. Louis Allan Molnar, 21, the former Rita Ann LaBine of Toronto, identified the men, three of whom are former secret service agents.

Through an interpreter she repeated the charges: That the men entered the Molnar apartment Oct. 4 and at gunpoint tried to extort $10,000 on threats of deportation. They said the Molnars' papers were not in order.

She said she and her husband were unable to raise that much cash, but paid some and then gave the men jewels, radios and watches with a promise to pay more cash later.

The Molnars then contacted lawyers and police, who trapped the extortioners four days later.

FOUR HELD

The four men are held in prison without bond. The case is continuing.

Molnar is on the most-wanted list of the RCMP and crown attorney R. P. Milligan of Cornwall, Ont., has announced he plans to seek extradition of Molnar to face a charge of armed robbery in the holdup of a Cornwall supermarket. The holdup occurred Nov. 23, 1955, and two men escaped with $16,794.

However, a long-standing extradition treaty signed by British and Mexico applies to Canadians.

Mexican officials said Molnar has done nothing here to warrant extradition on Mexico's initiative.

Molnar, 33, and his wife were married in Mexico last July 27. Mrs. Molnar's father is mining executive Charles LaBine.

SOVIETS, BERLINERS MIX

BERLIN (Reuters)—Officials of the Soviet Embassy in East Berlin mingled informally Monday night with West Berliners for the first time since the Second World War. They met at a reception given by the West Berlin Social-Democratic newspaper Telegraf.

Sidewheeler Goes To Boneyard

WINDSOR (CP)—A grand old lady, fit as a fiddle and raring to go, has been handed over to the boneyard because she was too expensive to operate.

The sidewheel steamer Greater Detroit, a Great Lakes luxury ship from 1924 until five years ago, was sent this week to the wreckers across the river in Detroit.

Once the pride of the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation Company, she could have been made serviceable in little time and at little cost. But her 518.7 feet and 7,735 tons were too expensive to push.

STRIP CABINS

The wreckers started slowly, stripping brass and other metal fittings from the luxurious cabins. Soon woodworkers will move in to take out the expensive panelling and wood carvings. Metal cutting torches will complete the job of stripping the ship to her hull.

The ship is too large for economical operation in the dwindling Great Lakes passenger trade. Her sidewheels are too wasteful of power, her huge crew list too costly.

The ship's new owners investigated the possibility of towing her to the sea down the Mississippi waterway. But this would be too costly an undertaking, involving stripping the vessel of much of her upper structures and building pontoons to make her float higher.

NAGY PROMISES 'NEW DEAL' IF ROTS END

NEW COMMITTEE RULES HUNGARY

Shown in Warsaw swaling a meeting with the Polish Workers' (Communist) party are some of the top figures in the new Politburo set up by the Central Committee after Wladyslaw Gomulka became the First Secretary. Among the first to be removed was Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, a Soviet war leader installed by Stalin. Standing, left to right, are: Edward Ochab, former First Secretary; Gomulka, who replaced him; Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz, and Alexander Zawadski, president of Poland. (Central Press Canadian).

Western Papers Are Cautious In Judging Satellite Revolts

LONDON (Reuters) — British and West European newspapers are generally aware of rebellions in Hungary and Poland with a note of caution.

"The fortunes of Eastern Europe hang by a thread," says the Manchester Guardian. "The choice is real, also, between total liberation and total repression: it is between a partially guarded, tricky improvement—a political tightrope walk—and a Russian blood bath."

At the same time the London Daily Telegraph warns against a "premature jubilations." All that has happened, says the paper in its lead editorial, is that "leadership has been acquired by nationalist Communists at the expense of Russian stooges."

The London Daily Mail remarks: "So Europe changes and the balance swings back and forth. No sooner was the Hungarian peril conquered than Russia loomed. Now, the moment the threat shows slight signs of receding, the resurgence of the German danger is foreshadowed."

Nonetheless, such papers as The Guardian hail the overthrow of Stalinism as "what has happened in both countries," says the Manchester paper, "is the same: a rising by people starved of two things that everyone must have a little of in the end if he is not to die—bread and liberty."

LITTLE HOPE

But, asks the paper, "What next? A land like Hungary, its frontiers sealed, its communications cut off, its population under martial law with Soviet troops in their midst, can have little room to manoeuvre, cannot hope to do other than fall in such a revolution."

The London Communist paper, The Daily Worker, hails the new Soviet view, blames the armed revolution in Hungary on "powerful forces of reaction" that once made Hungary "one of the main European supports of Hitler throughout the greater part of the war."

In Rome, the Italian Communist party newspaper, Unita, says "We are keenly distressed" that Soviet troops were called in.

All Moscow newspapers carry dispatches from Budapest about the failure of "the anti-popular venture" in the Hungarian capital.

THE WEATHER

Seven Are Killed As Civilian Plane And Jet Collide

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—A flaming collision of a United States Air Force jet and a civilian plane exploded wreckage and bodies over a residential district Wednesday.

Seven bodies, including that of a baby girl, fell with the wreckage. The jet plunged flaming into an empty home. The engine of the civilian plane crashed into the kitchen of another home where a mother had just taken her children into the living room.

Canadian Arms Found on Boat

OTTAWA (CP) — The external affairs department is investigating reports that Canadian arms were among those destined for Algerian rebels in North Africa.

A department spokesman said today that Canadian Embassy in Paris has been asked to obtain information on the origin of the arms from French authorities.

Arms were found aboard the ship Athos Oct. 16 when it was seized by the French Navy. The ship was en route from Egypt with military supplies for the rebels in Algeria.

Reports from Algeria have said the supplies included nearly 2,000 Canadian .303-calibre Lee-Enfield rifles and about 2,000 Canadian-made mortar shells.

Machines Getting Smarter All Time Hard to Find People to Match Them

MONTREAL (CP) — Machines are getting smarter all the time and industry will be hard pressed to find the personnel to keep up with them.

J. H. Aitchison of International Business Machines predicted Wednesday that North America will need 1,000,000 programmers in the next 10 years to cope with automation.

Programmers draw up procedures for electronic computers. These are assimilated and passed on to automatic machines.

This one facet of the automation program was brought to a near halt by a one-day conference on automation, sponsored here by the Quebec division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. Nearly 2,000 persons attended.

They left with these views to ponder:

Small industrial plants must start introducing automation where possible if they want to keep abreast of competition.

Whole factories run by electronic brains may be a lifetime away, but manless electronic assembly lines are "very real."

Automation, by freeing man of repetitive tasks, will give him new "dignity," but the new era will raise serious economic problems in the labor force, increase the gap between skilled and unskilled labor and face man with the problem of what to do with unprecedented leisure time.

Dr. Fred W. Leaver of the Toronto firm, Electronic Associates, said that contrary to popular belief automation was not to offer small plants.

Though on a whole plant be reorganized at once, but there are many things open to automation in the most unlikely fields.

"It is going to be more and more difficult to keep abreast from the technological environment and this environment will continue to change rapidly."

Mr. Aitchison, from Toronto, said North American rentals for large and medium-sized electronic computing machines now developed or on order will amount to $150,000,000 annually.

The computer system developed in Canada would virtually eliminate the work formerly done by 35 persons in seven weeks. The task would be pared to 36 hours.

GOMULKA ASSAILS DEMONSTRATIONS AGAINST RUSSIA

Red Army Will Remain While NATO in Reich

WARSAW (AP)—Young Poles ignored appeals Wednesday night to end anti-Soviet demonstrations, and displayed their sympathy for Hungarians fighting Russian domination in Budapest.

Wladyslaw Gomulka, Poland's new Communist party boss, made clear meanwhile that the Poles cannot expect any withdrawal of Soviet troops from their country in the immediate future.

A crowd of 250,000 received his address in the centre of Soviet troops from Gomulka, who left Polish Communists in their revolt last week for "freedom and sovereignty."

Gomulka declared that the Soviet troops would remain as long as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has bases in Western Germany.

He attacked anti-Soviet sentiment as displayed in demonstrations in several Polish cities earlier in the week and declared Communist authorities would tolerate no action against the Polish state.

The crowd included factory and farm workers, office clerks, villagers and students who gathered in front of the Polish Academy of culture and science, formerly known as Stalin Palace, to hear Gomulka.

CHEERS, THEN SILENCE

The crowd cheered when he said: "We are convinced that the long Soviet troops may remain here." But there was only stony silence when he said the Polish government policy required that the Soviet troops stay in the part of West had military installations in West Germany.

The students, ignoring appeals to end demonstrations, paraded from the university of Warsaw crying "Rokossovsky go home."

They were assailing Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, the Polish-born former Soviet marshal who directed the Russian army of West had military installations in West Germany.

The students, ignoring appeals to end demonstrations, paraded from the university of Warsaw crying "Rokossovsky go home."

They were assailing Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, the Polish-born former Soviet marshal who directed the Russian army of occupation. He was elected to the Polish government Monday.

Rokossovsky, who speaks Polish fluently, arrived briefly when a group of young demonstrators paraded outside the Soviet Hungarian legation to declare their "solidarity with the Hungarian people."

Young Communists, some armed with clubs, came to force them back. First fights broke out, but order was restored in a short time.

A cordon was thrown around the Soviet legation, but there was no activity by demonstrators in that area.

50,000 Frenchmen Call Strike To Protest Arabs' Terrorism

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—Nearly 50,000 French employees of the Moroccan government called a 24 - hour strike today protesting Arab revenge killings which have claimed at least 60 lives in Morocco.

The employees struck as anti-French demonstrations spread across North Africa and Arab governments demanded the release of five leading Algerian rebels seized by the French.

Moroccan authorities warned the protesting employees that if they walked out they would lose government protection in their posts.

Such a strike could paralyze public services in Morocco. The newly independent government still depends in large measure on French help to run the different departments.

In Paris, Premier Guy Mollet was expected to win a vote of confidence today from the National Assembly after his government's handling of the Algerian rebellion and the Suez Canal crisis.

All assembly deputies but the Communists hailed the French ruse that tricked the rebels into landing in Algiers instead of their destination in independent Tunisia.

The rebels were flying from Rabat in a French-operated plane Monday when the pilot set them down in French - controlled Algiers, where they were placed under arrest.

The action inflamed the Arab world in a wave of rioting swept Morocco. A general strike hit Tunisia and demonstrators stoned the British Embassy and European cars in Tripoli and Libya.

French troops were called out in Morocco as the French Embassy in Rabat said that the Moroccan government safeguard the French people in Meknes, scene of much of the violence.

Most of the 60 dead were European. Seven were French soldiers. They were killed and 24 wounded in two ambushes in Eastern Morocco.

Outside Meknes, French informers said 36 Arabs, mostly European, were put to the torch.

Some Arab leaders, waving the green flag of the Algerian nationalist movement, began a march on the Rabat Palace Wednesday. But they stopped when a helicopter touched down in the name of Sultan Mohammed V that they disperse.

Dairy Industry Told Value Of Milk in Solids Not in Fat

QUEBEC (CP) — Canada's $1,000,000,000 dairy industry was told by a top federal nutritionist today to modify the age-old emphasis on the fat content in milk and direct more attention to the value of milk solids.

Dr. L. B. Pett, chief of the health department's nutrition division, told the National Dairy Council that in his opinion the medical profession has not yet fully established its case linking fats to arteriosclerosis.

In nutrition, milk was still tops among foods, but the real value was in milk solids and not the fat.

"This is a hard fact for the dairy industry to accept because the false idea that the fat content of milk indicates its value is such a long history.

"It has influenced breeding habits on dairy farms and methods of payment and even legislation in a way that will be hard to change. But I believe this emphasis on fat content must be changed. . . ."

Dr. Pett spoke against a backdrop of deepening dairy concern over the way the scientists have been attacking the health value of milk. Many of the attacks have gone into the development of dairy herds producing milk with high butterfat content.

Grant M. Carlyle of Calgary, council president, said the annual sessions Wednesday that the butterfat controversy was more "pregnant with harmful possibilities" than other single issue facing the industry.

"Such a single issue is more difficult to discuss in public because so much evidence is inconclusive," he said.

Dr. Pett agreed the situation was confusing to physician who for the end the full fact will not be as tad for the dairy industry as they fear.

Milk still was tops among foods. It produced nearly about 20 per cent of all the calories Canadians obtained in food. They supplied more than 25 per cent of all protein and more than 80 per cent of all calcium. Milk had other great values, such as in the supply of vitamin B, but the values were mostly in skim milk.

Salk Vaccine Now Available For All Under 19

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Phillips of Ontario said Wednesday Salk polio vaccine should be available to every child and youth in Ontario under 19 before the start of the 1957 polio season.

The group includes almost 2,000,000 children and youths, but of these more than half have already received at least two doses either this year or last year.

Dr. Phillips said the plan is dependent on supplies, which are expected to come chiefly from Connaught Laboratories in Toronto.

"We had hoped last fall that by June of this year we would have all children in Grade 2 vaccinated, but because of production difficulties we did not quite attain it," he said.

"It's understood that production problems now are pretty well licked, and we hope to be able to complete our program of making two doses available for everyone under 19 by Aug. 1, 1957."

About 368,000 children in Grades 1, 2 and 3 received two doses in 1955. This year, they received their third shots, and pupils of kindergarten and other primary school grades received two doses.

Some supplies from Connaught, which Ontario had been counting on to carry out this year's program, had to be diverted to other parts of Canada to fill requirements there.

Taxes Cause Of High Prices Association Told

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP) Taxes, often cited as a weapon against ascending prices themselves a cause of high prices, the annual meeting of the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association has been told.

The statement was contained in an introduction Wednesday to a resolution on the impact of taxation on the economy.

"Certainly, it was said, tax relief on sales of goods to other countries was not inflationary.

"The inflationary influence of higher taxes is rarely perceived," the statement said, "when it is applied to the proceeds of taxes on the line from raw-materials producer to retailer."

The best thing to do would be to reduce domestic taxes but, in the light of present trends, felt something should be done to see that taxes were cut down Canada's sales abroad.

CITIES MOUNTING COSTS

The resolution, as adopted, said municipal costs exceeded the control of the manufacturing exporter and placed a burden on Canadian products out of foreign markets, and direct and indirect taxes form an important part of the cost of Canadian exported products.

Accordingly, the government was asked to give immediate consideration to measures that would reduce the impact of the taxation factor so as to place the Canadian exporter on a more competitive footing with suppliers in other countries.

NORTH ONTARIO WOMAN SLAIN BY CRAZED GUNMAN

60 Shots Fired During 2-Hour Siege of House

ESPANOLA (CP)—Mrs. Charles Antonen, 60, was shot to death Wednesday when a crazed gunman opened fire on the lonely farmhouse where she lived with her husband, keeping it under siege for two hours.

Police said they picked up a 26-year-old youth at his parents' home nearby, and seized a .22-calibre rifle.

Nello Mackels, who was visiting the Antonen farm at Webbwood when bullets started thudding against the house, was wounded in the right shoulder but managed to run a mile through bush country for aid.

He collapsed at the farm of Oscar Gille and was taken to Espanola hospital, where his condition was rated critical. He was to be taken from his bed today to view a police lineup.

Gills told police a few shots had stopped at his farm for a glass of water, and walked off toward the Antonen farm with a rifle under his arm.

Police estimated about 60 shots were fired by the assailant. Antonen returned the fire with a rifle, but after a lull in the shooting Mrs. Antonen went to a door. She was shot in the head and the abdomen.

When police and ambulances arrived the gunman had fled.

Life in Poland Back to Normal Says News Agency

LONDON (Reuters) — Soviet Army units in Poland "have either already withdrawn to their bases or are in the course of doing so," the Polish news agency Pap reported in a special announcement today.

"Life throughout the country is back to normal," the agency said.

Ross Thatcher Liberal Choice

BENGOUGH, Sask. (CP)—Ross Thatcher was nominated Wednesday as Liberal candidate in the Assiniboia riding in the next federal election. Mr. Thatcher, a Moose Jaw hardware merchant who represented Moose Jaw-Lake Centre as a CCF member for 10 years, was the unanimous choice of the convention in this town 100 miles south of Regina.

He left the CCF a year ago to sit as an independent member after quarrels with party leaders, and to sit with the Liberals.

Ross Argue, CCF, was elected in Assiniboia in the 1953 federal general election.

Show of Reds' Iron Fist in Hungary May Explode Myth Peddled in Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's show of the iron fist in Hungary could explode the myth, held by Asian officials, to dauge severely Soviet efforts to win friends and build influence in such areas as South Asia and the Middle East.

For what some United States officials think will be destroyed by this kind of action is a myth which has been carefully long nourished: That the people who live under Communist rule are there by happy acceptance of their lot.

A part of the myth is that there are voluntarily friendly relationships between the central power at Moscow and the capitals of the Red satellite countries.

Such a show of propaganda piece has been offered to countries in the African-Asian belt for years as the alternative to Western colonialism.

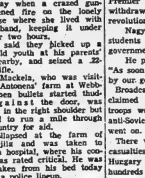
By contrast, the Western Allies have established that while they have increasingly been granting self-government to former empire possessions, Russia has been imperialism upon vast areas. They have pointed particularly to the satellites in Eastern Europe.

These conflicting arguments over the meaning of events in Hungary are being watched closely by Asian officials.

Students, Workers Still Resisting Russian Troops

Communist Party Secretary Replaced by Freed 'Titoist'

VIENNA (AP) — The Hungarian ruling continued today, and Premier Imre Nagy promised he will negotiate with Moscow to withdraw Russian occupation troops if the rebels will end their revolution.



Nagy went on the radio to appeal for the rebellious forces of students and workers to lay down their arms and help his new government.

He promised if they did so the country would get a new deal.

"As soon as order is re-established those troops which were called by our government to help will be withdrawn," he said.

Broadcasters in Budapest claimed Soviet and Hungarian troops were slowly crushing the anti-Soviet rebellion—but fighting went on.

There were no late figures on casualties, but travellers from Hungary Wednesday night said hundreds had been reported killed in Budapest alone.

IMRE NAGY

Radio Budapest announced today that Ernoe Gerne, the first secretary of the Hungarian Communist party, has been ousted from his post and Janos Kadar named to succeed him.

Nagy also offered clemency to the anti-Soviet rebels who were still fighting in the streets of Budapest even as he broadcast.

Those who insist on continuing the rebellion "will feel the full strength of the law," he declared.

Nagy promised that in future relations with Russia Hungary will insist on "complete national independence and friendly equality."

In Vienna today Western diplomatic sources said they had heard that four regiments of Hungarian soldiers had gone over to the side of the rebels.

This would explain how the revolutionaries believed first to be composed of only students and workers, were able to hold out against Russian and Hungarian army tanks, jet planes, machine guns and grenades. It would also explain where the rebels got their weapons.

Kadar is a former interior minister who spent four years in prison on charges of "Titoism" and then was again made a leading personality in the Hungarian Communist party.

He was a member of the Hungarian delegation headed by Geroe which visited President Tito in Yugoslavia earlier this month.

It was the second shakeup in the Communist party hierarchy since rebellion flared in Hungary on Tuesday. Imre Nagy, another of the purged Communist party leaders, was named premier succeeding Andras Hegedus.

Geroe's ouster was decided upon by the Hungarian Communist party Politburo, the radio announced. It added that after the Politburo session Kadar and Nagy would broadcast to the people.

NAGY PROMISES 'NEW DEAL' IF RIOTS END

NEW COMMITTEE RULES POLAND

Shown in Warsaw awaiting a meeting with the Polish Workers' (Communist) party are some of the top figures in the new Politburo set up by the Central Committee after Wladyslaw Gomulka became the First Secretary. Among the first to be removed was Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, a Soviet war leader installed by Stalin. Standing, left to right, are: Edward Ochab, former Trade Secretary; Gomulka, who replaced him; Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz, and Alexander Zawadzki, president of Poland. (Central Press Canadian).

GOMULKA ASSAILS DEMONSTRATIONS AGAINST RUSSIA

Red Army Will Remain While NATO in Reich

WARSAW (AP)—Young Poles ignored appeals Wednesday night to end anti-Soviet demonstrations, and displayed fierce hostility to Hungarians fighting Russian domination in Budapest.

Wladyslaw Gomulka, Poland's new Communist party boss, made clear meanwhile that the Poles cannot expect any withdrawal of Soviet troops from their country in the foreseeable future.

A crowd of 250,000 received in silence a statement on Soviet troops Wednesday, who led Polish Communists in their revolt last week for "freedom and sovereignty."

Gomulka declared that the Soviet troops would remain for as long as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization keeps its armed forces in Germany.

He attacked anti-Soviet sentiment as displayed in demonstrations in several Polish cities earlier in the week, and asserted that Communist authorities would tolerate no action against the Polish Soviet.

The crowd included factory and farm workers, students, village elders and women who gathered in front of the factory palace of culture and science, formerly known as Stalin Palace, to hear Gomulka.

CHEERS, THEN SILENCE

The crowd cheered when he said "it depends only on us how long Soviet troops must remain here." But there was only stony silence when he added that government policy required that the Russian troops stay as long as the U.S. troops remain in Germany.

The students, ignoring appeals to end demonstrations, paraded from the university of Warsaw crying "Hungarians we go home."

They were assailing Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, the Polish-born former Soviet marshal who remains as defence minister in the Polish government.

The students marched to the headquarters of the Polish United Workers (Communist) party. A delegation went inside briefly and the students returned to Warsaw University, where hastily prepared banners read "Hungarians we go home."

Others marched briefly when a group of young demonstrators started marching toward the Russian embassy, but police broke up the "Solidarity with the Hungarian people."

Young Communists, some armed with clubs, sought to force their way into the Polish radio but order was restored in a short time.

A cordon was thrown around the Soviet Embassy, but there was no attack by demonstrators in that area.

ESPANOLA (CP)—Mrs. Charles Antonen, 60, was shot to death Wednesday when a crazed gunman opened fire on the lonely farmhouse where she lived with her husband, keeping it under siege for two hours.

Western Papers Are Cautious In Judging Satellite Revolts

LONDON (Reuters) — British and West European newspapers are greeting news of rebellion in Hungary and Poland with a note of caution.

The fortunes of Eastern Europe hang by a thread," says the Manchester Guardian. "The choice is not, alas, between total liberation and total coercion: It is between a partial, guarded, tricky improvement in political tightrope walk—and a Russian blood bath."

At the same time the London Daily Telegraph warns against "premature jubilation." All that has happened, says the paper in its lead editorial, is that "leadership has been acquired by nationalist Communists at the expense of Russian stooges."

The London Daily Mail remarks: "So Europe changes and the balance swings back and forth. No sooner was the German peril conquered than Russia loomed. Now, the moment this threat shows slight signs of receding, the resurgence of the German danger is foreshadowed."

Nonetheless, such papers as The Guardian hail the outbreak "What has happened in both countries," says the Manchester paper, "is the same: a rising by people starved of two things that everyone must have a little of in the end if he is not to die—bread and liberty."

LITTLE HOPE

But, asks the paper, "what next? At least in Hungary, its frontiers sealed, its communications cut off, its population under martial law with Soviet troops in their midst and over their eastern borders, cannot hope to do other than fail in such a revolution."

The London Communist paper, The Daily Worker, taking the pro-Soviet view, says the armed revolution in Hungary on "powerful forces of reaction" that once made Hungary "one of the main European supports of Hitler throughout the greater part of the war."

In Rome, the Italian Communist party newspaper, Unita, says "We are keenly distressed" that Soviet troops were called in.

All Moscow newspapers carry stories about the Hungarian revolt, the failure of "the anti-popular venture" in the Hungarian capital.

Seven Are Killed As Civilian Plane And Jet Collide

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—A flaming collision of a United States Air Force jet and a civilian plane exploded wreckage and bodies over a residential district Wednesday.

Seven bodies, including that of a baby girl, fell with the wreckage. The jet plunged flaming into an empty home. The engine of the civilian plane crashed into the kitchen of another home where a mother had just taken her children into the living room.

Canadian Arms Found on Boat

OTTAWA (CP) — The external affairs department is investigating reports that Canadian arms were among those destined for Algerian rebels in North Africa.

A department spokesman said today the Canadian Embassy in Paris has been asked to obtain information on the origin of the arms from French authorities.

Arms were found aboard the ship Athos Oct. 18 when it was seized by the French Navy. The ship was en route from Egypt with military supplies for the rebels in Algeria.

Reports from Algeria have said the supplies included nearly 2,000 Canadian .303-calibre Lee-Enfield rifles and about 500 Canadian-made mortar shells.

Machines Getting Smarter All Time Hard to Find People to Match Them

MONTREAL (CP) — Machines are getting smarter all the time and industry will be hard pressed to find the personnel to keep up with them.

J. H. Aitchison of International Business Machines predicted Wednesday that North America will need 1,000,000 "programmers" in the next 10 years to cope with automation.

Programmers draw up procedures for electronic computers. These are assimilated and passed on to automatic machines.

This one facet of the automation system was among a number bar raised at a one-day conference on automation, sponsored here by the Quebec division of the Canadian Manufacturer's Association. Nearly 300 persons attended.

They left with these views to ponder:

Small industrial plants must start introducing automation where possible if they want to keep abreast of competition.

Wooden factories run by electronic brains may be a lifetime away, but machines—electronic assembly lines are "very real."

Automation, by freeing man of repetitive tasks, will give him more "dignity," but the new era will raise serious economic problems in the labor force, increase the rate of change rapidly, make unskilled labor and face man with the problem of what to do with unprecedented leisure time.

President E. W. Leaver of the Canadian Electronic Associates, said that contrary to popular belief automation has yet to offer small plants.

Rarely can a whole plant be automated overnight, but there are many things open to streamlining in most plants, he said.

"It is going to be more and more difficult to remain isolated from the technological environment and this 'environment will continue to change rapidly."

Mr. Aitchison, from Toronto, said North American results for large and medium-sized electronic computing machines now delivered or on order will amount to $150,000,000 annually.

One computing system developed in Canada would virtually eliminate the work formerly done by 35 persons in seven days. The task would be pared to 30 hours.

Dairy Industry Told Value Of Milk in Solids Not in Fat

QUEBEC (CP) — Canada's $1,000,000,000 dairy industry was told by a top federal nutritionist today to modify the age-old emphasis on the fat content in milk and direct more attention to the value of milk solids.

Dr. L. B. Pett, chief of the health department's nutrition division, told the National Dairy Council that in his opinion the medical profession has not carefully established its case linking fats to arteries and heart disease.

In nutrition, milk was still tops among foods, but the real value in milk solids and not the fat.

"This is a hard fact for the dairy industry to accept because the false idea that the fat content of milk indicates the value has such a long history.

"It has influenced breeding habits on dairy farms and payment for payment and even legislation in a way that will be hard to change. But I believe this emphasis on fat content must be changed. . . ."

Dr. Pett spoke against a back-drop of deepening dairy concern over the way the consumer have been attacking the health value of fats. Years of struggle have gone into developing strains of cattle herds producing milk with high butterfat content.

Grant M. Carlyle of Calgary, council president, told the annual sessions Wednesday that the butterfat controversy was more "pregnant with harmful possibilities" than any single issue facing the industry.

"And yet no single issue is more difficult to discuss in public because so much evidence is inconclusive," he said.

Dr. Pett agreed the situation was discouraging. Physicians who are trying to advise the consumers of the dairy industry now were telling people to use milk, ice cream or other dairy products.

"I am bound to say," he added, "that their words of praise for products are likely to continue for some time as more atomic certain to influence consumption unfavorably, although I believe that in the end the truth will not be as bad for the dairy industry as they now think."

Milk still was tops among foods. Milk products supplied about 20 per cent of all the calories Canadians obtained in food. They supplied 30 per cent of all the animal protein and more than 80 per cent of the calcium, riboflavin and other great values, such as in the supply of vitamins. But the values were mostly in skim milk.

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Phillips of Ontario announced today Salk polio vaccine should be available to every child and youth in Ontario under 19 before the start of the 1957 polio season.

The group includes almost 2,000,000 children and youths, but of these more than 600,000 have received at least two doses either this year or last year.

Dr. Phillips said the plan is dependent on supplies, which are expected to come chiefly from Connaught Laboratories in Toronto.

"We had hoped last fall that by June of this year we would have all children up to Grade 10 protected, but because of production difficulties we could not meet that aim," he said.

"We understand that production difficulties have been ironed out licked, and we hope to be able to complete our program and making more doses available for everyone under 19 by Aug. 1, 1957."

About 360,000 children in Grades 1, 2 and 3 received two doses in 1955. This year, they received their third shots, and pupils of kindergarten and other primary school grades received two doses.

Some supplies from Connaught, which Ottawa has been spending on to carry out this year's program, had to be diverted to other parts of Canada to fill requirements there.

Taxes Cause Of High Prices Association Told

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Taxes, often cited as a reason against ascending prices, were not responsible for high prices, the annual meeting of the Canadian Importers' Association has been told.

The statement was contained in the introductory remarks of a resolution on the impact of taxation on imports.

Certainly, it was said, tax relief on sales of goods to other countries was not justified.

"The inflationary influence of higher taxes is rightly perceived," the statement said, "when it is realized that it pyramids at many stages from raw materials producer to retailer."

It is logical to do would be to reduce domestic taxes but, in any case, to avoid increasing it, something should be done to see that taxes did not cut down Canada's exports.

CITES MOUNTING COSTS

The resolution, as adopted, said that taxes beyond the control of the manufacturing exporter have priced a number of Canadian products out of foreign markets, and direct and indirect taxes form an important part of the cost of Canadian exported products.

Accordingly, the government was asked to give immediate consideration to measures that would reduce the impact of the taxation factor so as to place the Canadian exporter on a more competitive footing with suppliers in other countries.

Show of Reds' Iron Fist in Hungary May Explode Myth Peddled in Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's show of the iron fist in Hungary seems likely in the view of top U.S. officials, to dauage severely her ability to win friends and build influence in such areas as South Asia and the Middle East.

The entrance of Soviet troops into the struggle against Hungarian students and workers, even at the bidding of Hungary's Communist government, is regarded here as something Moscow must have wanted desperately to avoid.

For what some United States officials call the Kremlin's approved by this kind of action is a myth which the Russians have long nourished: That the people who live under Communist rule mostly like it, happy acceptance of their lot.

A part of the myth is that there is voluntarily friendly relationships between the central power at Moscow and the capitals of the satellite countries.

Such a Soviet propaganda picture has been offered to countries in the African-Asian belt for years as the alternative to Western colonialism.

By contrast, the Western Allies have maintained that while they have increasingly been granting self-government to former empire possessions, Russia has been imposing new imperialism upon small areas. They have pointed particularly to the satellites in Eastern Europe.

These conflicting arguments over the meaning of what has happened in Hungary, coming since the war have been imported into factors in the "battle for men's minds" which has been going on in countries avowing neutrality such as India and Communism.

The picture presented to the world is one of Russian soldiers, tanks and jet planes rubbing, blasting the desperate attempt of Hungarian revolutionaries to resist the might of Soviet imperialism. And diplomats here are convinced this will do tremendous damage to Russia's fundamental foreign policy and propaganda line.

Students, Workers Still Resisting Russian Troops

Communist Party Secretary Replaced by Freed 'Titoist'

VIENNA (AP) — The Hungarian rioting continued today, and Premier Imre Nagy promised he will negotiate with Moscow to withdraw Russian occupation troops if the rebels will end their revolution.

Nagy went on the radio to appeal for the rebellious forces of students and workers to lay down their arms and help his new government.

He promised if they did so the country would get a new deal. "As soon as order is re-established those troops which were called by our government to help will be withdrawn," he said.

Broadcasters in Budapest claimed Soviet and Hungarian troops were already crushing the anti-Soviet rebellion—but fighting went on.

There were no late figures on casualties, but travellers from Hungary Wednesday night said hundreds had been reported killed in Budapest alone.

prison on charges of "Titoism" and then was again made a leading personality in the Hungarian Communist party.

He was a member of the Hungarian delegation headed by Gerce which visited President Tito in Yugoslavia earlier this month.

It was the second shakeup in the Communist party hierarchy since rebellion flared in Hungary on Tuesday. Imre Nagy, another of the purged Communist party leaders, was named premier succeeding Andras Hegedus.

Gerce's ouster was decided upon by the Hungarian Communist party Politburo, radio also announced. It added that after the Politburo session Nagy and Kadar would broadcast to the people.

Computist Party Secretary Replaced by Freed 'Titoist'

IMRE NAGY

Radio Budapest announced today that Ferenc Gerce, the first secretary of the Hungarian Communist party, has been ousted from his post and Janos Kadar named to succeed him.

Nagy again offered clemency to the anti-Soviet rebels who were still fighting in the streets of Budapest even as he broadcast. Those who insist on continuing the rebellion "will feel the full strength of the law," he declared.

Nagy promised that in future relations with Russia Hungary will insist on "complete national independence and friendly equality."

In Vienna today Western diplomatic sources said they had heard that four regiments of Hungarian soldiers had gone over to the side of the rebels.

This would explain how the revolutionaries—believed first to be composed of only students and workers—had been able to withstand Russian and Hungarian army tanks, jet planes, machine guns and grenades. It would also explain where the rebels got their weapons.

Kadar is a former interior minister who spent four years in

Dogs Lost Food While Thinking About Playing

Temporary lack of kennels for the new dog pound at the exhibition grounds is causing a bit of extra work for volunteer pound attendants but the lack of facilities nevertheless makes for some amusing sidelights.

During the day the dogs in pound are tied out so they may enjoy the warm autumn weather.

This was the case yesterday as two dogs in custody had been tied out at the corner of the building. Came one time for the food along with a big soup bone was placed out for the dogs in custody.

But the dogs apparently were not interested in food at the moment — they would rather play.

As the two dogs were playing a big Collie sneaked around the corner of the dog pound building, grabbed the big soup bone and went off across the fair grounds.

"I never laughed much in my life," stated volunteer pound attendant Mrs. W. Gardiner.

George Stafford, Doug Stapley, Campbellford, Killed When Light Plane Crashes in Field

CAMPBELLFORD (Special) — Two Campbellford men, one of them an 18-year-old student pilot who was to take his pilot's test today, were killed late Wednesday afternoon when their light Cub plane crashed into a field two miles north of here.

Instantly killed in the crash as the plane soared into a farmer's field and then slammed into a wire fence and small tree, was George Stafford, 30, Campbellford builders' supply merchant.

Fatally injured was Garry Stapley, son of Douglas Stapley, who died two-and-a-half hours later shortly after being admitted to hospital at Peterborough. The youth suffered severe head injuries.

Mr. Stafford, former member of the RCAF with service as observer and air gunner, had, for the past two years, the plane which crashed being the second of two he had owned.

It was believed that Mr. Stafford had been piloting the plane when the accident occurred with Garry riding in the rear seat as passenger.

NO WITNESSES

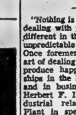
There were no witnesses to the crash which occurred on the Mrs. Howard Clark farm, although a Dutch woman living on the farm heard the crash but did not know what it was.

The wrecked plane was spotted by Graydon Bell, school bus driver, as he drove past taking children home from school. He saw the crumpled plane against the fence and investigated. He assisted Provincial Police Corporal Archie Ealy and Constable George Louth to take Garry Stapley from the plane.

The injured youth was taken by ambulance to Campbellford Memorial Hospital and then on to Peterborough.

Garry had been taking flying lessons at Trenton airport. His father had bought him a plane last winter.

Mr. Stafford leaves: his wife Dorothy and a son Ronald, age 9.



Cats, Kittens Running Ahead of Dogs in Pound

Cats and kittens are running ahead of dogs as inmates at the new city dog pound.

City dog catcher Charles Thorn reports the current ratio of cats versus dogs at the pound is four cats to one. Currently in pound are a big black Persian tom cat; a tiger kitten and two white kittens. The dog population is represented by one lone black female Retriever pup.

Comfortable homes for the animals in pound would be appreciated.

To Admit Doctor

DR. D. M. SCOTT

A medical specialist from Belleville will be presented as a newly-admitted fellow of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada in Toronto, October 27.

The presentation will take place at special convocation ceremonies during the Royal College's annual meeting.

The local doctor, who is now a Fellow of the College's Division of Surgery, is Dr. D. M. Scott.

Fellowship in the Royal College is the highest mark of competency in a special branch of medicine or surgery. It is awarded only after a searching series of examinations following at least five years of post-graduate training in approved hospitals and research.

Mother Love Stronger Than Arm of Law

Mother love is stronger than the long arm of the law.

This was proven conclusively yesterday after a six-hour woodland chase staged by police and the city pound keeper failed to corral a four-months-old heifer which had escaped from a farmer's truck while on the way to market.

Mr. E. Minaker, Ameliasburg, said the heifer had escaped from his truck. Efforts of police to round up the animal proved fruitless, then city pound keeper Charles Thorn was called in on the chase, also without success.

Finally the heifer's mother was brought from the owner's farm and the close tie between mother and daughter did the trick. Soon the two were together and the heifer was back in custody.

Public Relations Subject of Talk At Foremen's Club

"Nothing is more interesting than dealing with people. They are so different in their make-ups and so unpredictable in their actions. Once foremen have mastered the art of dealing with people they will produce happier human relationships in the home, school, church and in business and industry," said Herbert F. Irwin, director of Industrial relations at the Toronto Plant in speaking to Foremen's Club.

"Many people are not successful because of a "fear". They fear that they will lose in competition with others. They worry about their own position or station in life," he continued.

One of the most efficient ways of getting work out of an employee is to "pat him on the back" and encourage him to keep up the good work. However, he said, the back the foreman can use a bit of psychology by giving him suggestions in a nice tone so as not to make the worker inferior. One of the basic desires of all men is to get recognition particularly when it is felt that a job well done or a contribution has been made to the benefit and welfare of the organization. Praise is essential foremen should not merely speak to a man when something "bawling him out" or expressing blame or disapproval but he should also make sure that such words or expressions are balanced by an equal amount of commendation and praise.

The speaker said that one of the tried tools of a foreman has to perform is pointing out criticisms to the workers. Many employees learns by his mistakes no one likes to be reminded of them. It is essential to be tactful, diplomatic when pointing out errors to employees if good relations on the shop are to be maintained.

"A person does not like to be considered some cog in a machine," said Mr. Irwin. Foremen should take pains to show that they show a genuine interest in their subordinates.

RE CARELUL OF WORDS

"Before we speak, it is well for us to consider what our words will do to the feelings of others. Every person has feelings and a hasty word can sometimes ruin a business or social relationship to such an extent that it may take months or years to repair the damage," said the guest.

Another of man's desires which ranks near the top is that of a feeling of importance. All men want to be accepted by other people. Mr. Irwin suggested that instead of forever trying to look prominent they should wait for the opportunity to have their employees look important. "I am not suggesting that you pat your subordinate on the new title of Director of Dust Removal but I do suggest that it is very important to give careful study to our vocational necessities.

There are no two individuals alike. They are different in ability, emotional life, interests, motivations and general attitudes. They don't behave the same or think about things in the same way. Therefore, it is important to always consider each individual's makeup rather than to attempt to treat all people alike. Each person demands special treatment tailored to the peculiarities of each individual.

Mr. Irwin advised his audience against making snap judgements about other people because first impressions are frequently not reliable. Argument is a poor technique for the reason that if the foreman wins he usually loses the goodwill of the loser. "Head – on collisions are indications of failure to deal intelligently with other people," he concluded.

Quinte Blanks Albert 16-0 In Senior Rugby

By MAC HAIG

In a clean but hard fought game, Quinte Seniors defeated Albert College Seniors 16-0 on the King George playing field. It was probably the finest football that the Quinte team has played all year. There was some surprise expressed at the outcome of the game because Albert had been B.C.I. while Quinte had twice lost to B.C.I.

It is difficult to single out anyone in particular, as it was a team effort all the way. However, halfback Dean Kemp deserves special mention. He covered several runs of over 20 yards and repeatedly pulled Quinte out of a hole and into short periods.

Touchdowns went to Dick Cassidy and Jim Phillips both in that order. The line played exceptionally well and they threw Albert backfield into confusion McCuaig for losses on several occasions.

Albert College has a fine team but neither team was able to get an offensive march underway and the game developed into a kicking duel. However, in the early minutes of the second quarter, Quinte took possession of the ball on their own nine yard line and in four plays Kemp had moved the first scrimmage to the 50 yard line. Kemp tore through the line for 30 yards on the first play. There was no gain on the next play, but then Walmsley threw a beautiful 40 yard pass to Jim Green who made an equally beautiful catch on his fingertips and ran to the eight yard line.

Pearce went around the end to score standing up. Walmsley converted to make the score 6-0 in favor of Quinte. The first half ended this way.

Quinte was added to their score with Kemp going over on third down from the three yard line. The convert was missed. Kemp and MacLaurin continued to pick up valuable yardage but neither hit pay dirt. Then in the dying minutes of the game Walmsley hit Phillips out in the flats with a pass and Jim galloped over for the T.D. This completed the scoring.

Fumbles once again proved harmful to Quinte and they lost possession of the ball three times. Albert was very alert in pouncing on loose balls.

George Musgrove and Ross Walmsley shared the quarterbacking duties and each one was carrying the plays the other played left halfback.

The only casualty in the game was wing back B. Elliott, who was kicked in the head and did not return to action.

Police Blotter

Two young girls, ages 14 and 16 years respectively, were caught shoplifting at a Front street groceteria Wednesday and were held by the manager for arrival of police.

Police warned the girls and took them to their homes where parents promised they would look after their offspring.

A break-in attempt at the Bishop Seed Store on Front street was interrupted by police. A back warehouse window had been forced with what was described as a feeble attempt. Nothing was missing in the main store being made. Nothing was missing from the warehouse, it was stated.

Home-School Assoc. Holds Regional Conference in Lindsay Collegiate

The regional conference of the Home and School Association was held in Lindsay collegiate, last Saturday.

Delegates from district No. 10 included the following from Belleville: Mrs. C. Powell, Mrs. N. O'Neil from Central Council; Mrs. R. Jones, Mrs. Stenson, Queen Alexandra; Mrs. K. Chambers, Mrs. G. Ling, Mrs. Skinner, Mrs. Hall, Queen Elizabeth; Mrs. Charles; Mrs. Garlepy, Mrs. Langshaw, King George; Mrs. McKing and Mrs. Cook, Prince of Wales; Mrs. R. Knowlton, Mrs. C. Ling, Bayside; from Avondale Home and School Association and Mrs. J. Winstanley from Queen Victoria.

The president of Ontario Federation was present to welcome some 200 delegates. Mrs. A. Stephenson, district organizer, introduced Mrs. E. Weatherhead, vice-president, who spoke on "Citizenship—Good and Bad."

These may be planned on one theme for the day, but are quite flexible that if an important subject comes along, it may be discussed between conferences with the one planned. Copies of film discussion guides may be had from the offices of the parent education committee.

GUIDANCE FOR DISCUSSION

Films are a good source of material for discussion on "buzz sessions"—which were used too frequently.

A council is a meeting place for discussions and problems, where Home and School and community may find a ready outlet and for mutual help for the representative who attends.

Dr. Eldon Ray, director of Education for Peterborough, gave a talk on "Growing Modern and Education."

"Your modern is our old-timer," he said. "These children must cope with a fast moving world; cope with problems at fast speed of acceleration. Parents must keep up with and help them. They are experts at everything else but study, but with all this fancy do-think."

He remarked that unfavorable accelerated or late for students' Marks and percentages should be regarded as signs of the sullen-face for passing Marks and grades.

"Teachers are unsatisfied with methods of teaching and are continually striving for better techniques. Home and School Associations should be ready to study these and help to be the aids to plan programs where parents may study together these aims and how they can read. Pictures books become a source of knowledge and should be used; each picture tells a story to young minds. Take the children to the library and let them see movies, come steady visitors. Books become part of their lives."

EXECUTIVE LIKE BODY, PARTS

Mrs. L. Raper, chairman of Lindsay Home and School, described the Home and School executive as related to parts of the body; the president is the head of the association; the vice-presidents are the veins and arteries; the treasurer, the lungs; secretaries are the backbone of each executive before convenors; the right arm; program convener, the left arm.

The publication convenors with their books are the legs on which one stands and visual aids, the eyes and ears, svrr ready to give and receive knowledge.

She felt that the type of movies made for school showings were of high calibre and were a part of school training.

A lively question and answer period followed with a wide variety of questions showing the desire of the delegates for detail-

Barbershoppers Enjoy Evening

"Barbershoppers" struck a major chord at their regular meeting at Prince of Wales School on Wednesday with a turnout of 33 members and guests.

Tom Hart, area counsellor of Oshawa, paid a surprise visit, and in answer to a tribute, said how encouraging it was to see so many new faces, and how comforting to see the old ones. "Barbershopping," he said, "is like the 'flu,' only much more pleasant, when you have it, you've got it."

Past President Dick Brettingham spoke sincerely on "What is S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A.?" It's not just a chorus or quartet, it's the fellowship and harmony of purpose, only good can come out of it.

A lot of fun with "Brad Bradford's quartet. Promotion and a new chorus with new songs and boys are good.

Belleville's "Quinte Harmonizers" rendered a good account of themselves with two numbers and chorus work under the direction of Alf Evans pulled all the guests on the stage for a spontaneous "Sweet Adeline" which was heartily enjoyed.

Secretary Bill Taylor reminded members of the District Quartet and Chorus Competitions to be held in Hamilton Nov. 3 and 4. Ross Schryver as chairman of membership welcomed the guests and the visitors and spoke briefly. This section of the chapter is living up to the pace these days.

Refreshments were served to all under the able direction of Mrs. R. Hancock. Next meeting Nov. 14th, 7.30 p.m., same place.

Program was devised by Bill Gander and his group.

Praying for Reprieve

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Robert Pitton, wife of a Toronto truck driver who was refused a new trial for murder by the Supreme Court of Canada Wednesday, said she will "pray for his reprieve until the very end."

Pitton was convicted of the slaying of Linda Lampkin, 13-year-old Toronto girl, last January.

"This is the news I have been dreading," Mrs. Pitton said.

ed replies.

The conference was conducted with split-second timing allowing a minimum of time for each speaker or activity, which was much appreciated and should be an incentive for all program conveners when planning future meetings.

Another Big Potato Shown Office Staff

Anybody who is perplexed by the comings and goings of champions in various sports, may be more than amused by the up and down aspects of the big potato contest, which has been waging throughout this district for several months.

The contest, which started off with the spectacle of a 25 pound brown beauty, has seen one mark after another not only to be shattered by bigger and bigger submissions.

Latest to start on the scene was Dave Scott of 34 Valleyview Cres. who placed his choice specimen on the staff of this newspaper into early morning action with a balking expression on the countenance of his father W. J. Scott of Moira.

The triumphant owner said his three-year-old offshoot of the Sebago variety weighed four pounds at birth, a normal potato after crowns him the owner of the hot. test potato in this district for 1956.

Man Ordered To Keep Peace

A Scarboro, Ont., man was fined five dollars and costs this morning for "speeding" through a 30 mile per hour zone at Foxboro at the rate of 35 miles per hour in September. The man sped across the provincial police speed trap and was stopped further along the highway by the police interceptor car.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills entered a plea of not guilty in absentia but the speeder was found guilty on the evidence.

"I hope I don't see any more of those. If I do I'll be forced to re-examine the law," said the magistrate. He said police officers on duty clocking speeders should allow them a few miles per hour leeway before a charge was laid.

Convicted of impaired driving a Belleville man was fined $75 and $19.50 costs.

An argument which developed early Saturday morning in a house a few miles east of Belleville on Highway 2 resulted in the man of the house being taken into custody and booked on a charge of causing a disturbance. This morning the man said he had disputed his common-law wife's right to hide three bottles of wine he had purchased. Provincial police were called and when they arrived they were invited to enter the house. Swearing and cursing was being used by the accused who, when police could not settle the argument, followed them outside using a great deal of profanity. Once outside his house and becoming tired of being sworn at the two law men invited the man to be guest of the county.

This morning he was fined $25 and ordered to keep the peace.

STUDENTS,

Gerce, a frail long-time Communist and one-time Moscow international agent, became first secretary of the Hungarian Workers (Communist) party last July 19 when the central committee fired long-time dictator Matyas Rakosi.

His ouster today indicated that the Hungarian Communist party leadership is bent upon appeasing the rebellious people and the party rank and file.

FIGHT GOES ON

News of the new shakeup came as the radio admitted that scattered rebel forces were still battling desperately in Budapest against Russian and Hungarian troops seeking to crush them.

Warnings were broadcast to the 1,250,000 residents of Budapest to remain off the streets except in case of urgent necessity. The all night curfew—from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m.—was ordered continued.

Budapest radio announced widespread arrests of rebels and suspected sympathizers.

Hungarians were warned not to give shelter to insurgents. They were told to place guards on doors to their homes.

Hungary's interior ministry broadcast that all persons illegally in possession of arms or ammunition must hand them over to police within 24 hours. Those failing to comply with the order faced the death penalty.

Subsequent broadcasts reported mass surrenders of insurgents in almost all resistance centres but declared that a number of fanatic cadres remained in several of the city's streets.

Many rebels were trying to escape over the border to Austria. Troops and police were out to halt them.

There was no direct communication with Budapest from the West. The radio was the main source of information on events in the capital.

REBELS FIRE BUILDINGS

In a brief account of the rebellion, the newscast communique said the rebels set many buildings ablaze. It added that fires were still raging in many buildings, including Budapest's National Gallery.

Rebel attempts to seize the Budapest radio station failed after bloody fighting, the broadcast said. It gave these details:

Seven soldiers and one officer lost their lives defending the building against the first onslaught of students and workers. Soon afterward, rebels armed with pistols and grenades launched a second attack. But they were beaten back by raking fire from government troops placed on rooftops surrounding the radio station. Many of the attackers were killed.

While the fighting was going on, personnel in the station continued with a program trying to quiet the population.

Budapest's central post office and several railway stations were also attacked by rioters.

There were indications Wednesday that the fighting which started in Budapest had spread to the provinces.

Austrian travellers crossing the border from Hungary said Hungarians had told them that fighting had broken out in the cities of Debrecen, Szolnok and Szeged.

AUSTRIA HEARS SHOTS

The Austrian interior ministry said shooting had been heard at the St. Gotthard railway station just across the Austrian-Hungarian border. Steps were being taken to protect the Austrian border population, the ministry added.

The revolt, which grew out of an orderly street demonstration, mushroomed into the biggest armed uprising against Soviet domination and domestic Red leadership since the East Germans revolted in June, 1953, and were quelled by Soviet tanks.

Returning Austrians said hundreds had died in Budapest alone as Soviet tanks, jet planes, machine-guns and grenades were unleashed on rebel groups composed mostly of students and workers.

The Budapest broadcast Wednesday night said the capital's ambulance services had been working around the clock bringing wounded to aid stations.

An Interior source in Warsaw said Budapest was an "occupied city" with Russian troops in control of the official radio and patrolling the streets.

NEW STAFF ON AIR

Those monitoring Budapest Radio from surrounding countries said the regular broadcasters appeared to have been replaced.

It was not clear how the rebels obtained enough guns to take on Russian and Hungarian troops in the revolt.

Budapest Radio said the insurgents used hand grenades and machine-guns in an attempt to smash the Budapest military barracks.

"Using all the force at their command the garrison repulsed the attackers," the broadcast said.

In the early stages of the revolt the Hungarian government had radiated confidence that it would hold by 2 p.m. Wednesday—time of the first ultimatum promising amnesty.

Later the amnesty was extended four hours, but still the rebels defied the call.

As the fighting passed the 24-hour mark at 9 p.m., the radio began to alternate with threats and promises.

After one of its amnesty offers had been brushed aside, the government decreed the death penalty for those who fought on. Later this was eased to mercy under "all existing circumstances" for rebels who gave up after the 6 p.m. deadline.

First hint that the revolution was spreading came from Janus Kadar, Communist leader who had been jailed in a recent purge but was later restored to the politburo.

Kadar broadcast a warning to the rebels to "capitulate or we will crush you." Then he issued an appeal for civilian help in the provinces.

GOMULKA

Gomulka stressed that Soviet-Polish friendship remains a firm policy of the government, and that Nikita Khrushchev, the Soviet Communist party boss, had agreed that Poland would control its own affairs, then Gomulka added:

"We want whole-hearted friendship with the Soviet Union and I can assure you that, so far as this is concerned, there is no difference between the opinion of the Polish Communist party and the Soviet Union's Communist party."

He said Khrushchev had promised that Soviet troops, who had appeared to be threatening Warsaw, would be back at their bases in 48 hours.

"Russian officers in the Polish Army will retire," he said. "All the Russian advisers in our army will be relieved if our general staff so decides."

HYDRO POWER — A KEY TO WEALTH

In a world which is becoming even more highly industrialized, sources of electrical power are keys to continued growth and progress.

As a leader of phenomenal industrial expansions, Ontario is fortunate in its natural endowment of water or hydro power derived from great rivers.

When the Ontario Hydro Commission, which is celebrating its 50th anniversary, produced its first power in 1910, it appeared that the potential power to be derived from the harnessed flow of Ontario's rivers would be more than enough to meet all demands long into the future.

However, hundreds of unanticipated new uses for electricity, and the sudden realization that Canada is launched on a period of unprecedented expansion, emphasize that the full power now available from the few rivers with the required volume and speed of water flow must be supplemented by other power sources.

Most of Ontario's 4,500,000 kilowatt electrical power from water sources is now derived from such hydro developments as the two Sir Adam Beck generating stations on the Niagara River, and the Otto Holden, Des Joachims and Chenaux plants on the Ottawa River. When the second Sir Adam Beck station comes into full capacity in the years future, the Niagara River will be generating 2,000,000 kilowatts.

Comparable to Niagara but on a smaller scale is the St. Lawrence Power Project now being carried out jointly by Ontario Hydro and the Power Authority of the State of New York. The partners are sharing the construction cost and division of power giving Ontario half of the 1,640,000 kilowatt total.

While the St. Lawrence Power Project will be an invaluable addition, its contribution falls short of meeting increasing requirements estimated at 10,000,000 kilowatts by 1970.

The gap between present demand and power available from rivers is being filled by major coal-fueled stations at Toronto and Hamilton.

While rivers are the cheapest form of power, the ability to build thermal plants strategically located near centres of industry, such as Hamilton, Hearn station in Toronto, is proving an invaluable supplement.

The Hearn plant uses more than 200 tons of coal per hour to produce 400,000 kilowatts. An addition this spring will increase the output by fifty per cent.

More of these steam plants will be built near metropolitan centres to supplant water as the major source of motive power during the interim period of nuclear-electric development.

A 20,000-kilowatt nuclear-electric plant now under construction on the Ottawa River will be in operation by 1958. It will serve as a pilot or experimental unit for others of more significant capacity.

In all parts of the world, nations are turning to the atom as a source of electrical power.

Information being made available by British scientists on the results achieved by the first operating nuclear plant in England will serve as a practical pattern for hundreds of other plants now in the planning stage throughout the world.

STILL ROOM FOR EXPANSION

Canadians own more life insurance in relation to national income than the persons in any other country, declares the Life Insurance Agency Officers Association. Canadians bought more life insurance in 1955 than ever before. Their purchases totalled $3,400,000,000. By the end of 1955 Canadians owned $26,600,000,000 of life insurance, double the amount held only seven years earlier.

These are impressive figures. One might even wonder whether insurance salesmen were working themselves out of a job. Then one learns that the average amount of life insurance owned per policyholder had risen by the end of 1955 to $4,100. Take one look at the family budget and you will see that this figure falls something short of offering financial security for the beneficiaries. And that amount, mind you, was the average per policyholder. There are still some Canadians who do not own any life insurance at all. ' It may be argued that there are many policyholders who have other property or securities, but in many cases the greatest part of their insurance is by far his most valuable asset, aside, perhaps, from his home.

If there is any bar to further increases in life insurance sales it is not saturation of the market but the average man's problem of finding enough money to meet all his needs.

OLD-FASHIONED WINTERS RETURNING?

Mourning for those old-fashioned winters?

If so, then Prof. C. L. Hosler of the Department of Meteorology, Pennsylvania State University, has good news for you.

He predicts ten chilling years, "with a rapid return to the snows that grandpa recalls."

Prof. Hosler says that he makes this prediction with tongue in cheek.

We have ours in the same place as we cheer the prospect of a return of the old-fashioned winters.

Prof. Hosler's prediction, by the way, was made at the concluding dinner of a two-day technical and scientific forum on hard coal.

Now, if you please, a weather forecast by a meteorologist accessing a national convention of ice cream manufacturers.

WRONG NUMBER

At midnight, I'm not pleased aroused to be
From peaceful slumber
Upon the phone to have it said to me:
"Sorry, wrong number."

To err is common. Human are we all
But still I wonder
Why strangers, when they make midnight call,
So often blunder.

The figures on the dial all can see.
Both age and duller.
Mistakes occur, but why am I to be
The one to suffer?

Take care! Take care! Before your fingers
Letters and figures sweeping.
Make sure the number perfectly
you know,
And leave me sleeping.

Dance at Leprosy Clinic

By S. M. Keeny in UNESCO Features.

A few weeks ago, 250 delegates from 31 countries met in Rome, Italy, to study the problem of leprosy, which there is still 10 to 12 million cases in the world today, according to World Health Organization statistics. Nowadays, however, much of the terror has been taken out of the word "leprosy". The disease can be cured relatively easily in its early stages, and recovery is possible even in more serious cases. The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) is contributing nearly $500,000 to provide drugs and equipment in support of leprosy program in Ethiopia, French Equatorial Africa, Gambia, Nigeria, Paraguay, Burma, Malaya, Philippines, the Solomon Islands and Thailand. And the governments of these countries and territories are also contributing a further $1,300,000 in the fight against the disease. Early this year, Mr. S. M. Keeny, UNICEF's Regional Director for Asia, visited Burma, where the Fund's assistance will provide drugs for the treatment of 185,000 cases by the end of 1958. Here is an account of his visit to a leper colony in the north central part bt the country.

If you are one of those people who shudder at the very thought of approaching a leper, you should have been with me when I visited the rural clinic at Turunku, 25 miles from Kaduna in Northern Nigeria.

We had been warned that it was nothing fancy. That was the understatement. It consisted of a one-room hut with a thatched roof, standing on stilts, with no sides and nothing on the fourth. The furniture: two benches and a table set out on if you leaned in the right direction, and a couple of slabelambers. Richard Hearn station with a smaller gourd for a cup.

The hut had been built by the lepers at a "cross-roads" — or rather at a point where a number of paths from the villages converged on the road. The spot had been probably chosen because there were two fine shady trees nearby—one for the men, another for the women.

Ordinarily, the weekly clinic is run by a young Nigerian. He is called, without irony, Mallam (the learned one), for he is one of the very few thousands with two years of high school education. Besides that he has taken a special three months training course. Relatively, he is learned and wise. He has a fountain pen, wrist watch, dark glasses and registers, he makes a brave figure among the villagers.

The first villagers to arrive were those who had something to sell. Cheerful women (carrying their babies strapped on their backs) and young girls with trays of cooked yams, cakes and candy to the crowd that was gathering.

Under the trees by the barber, who turns up at all such clinics, lepers were busy at work shaving faces and heads as well. He used a blade for shaving the skulls clean—though not all over, leaving a fringe of hair, as he was instructed by the customer but apparently according to his own artistic taste.

Then came the musicians—two of them, with tambourines and wood with hide stretched over the ends, that are played with a ring around him. He sets the flat of the left hand.—They took up their positions in the ground under a third shady tree.

By this time the crowd gathered. The head musician tried a few beats to test his drum—and to let the crowd know he was present. Immediately, every young girl who was not busy gathered in a ring around him. The boys formed a circle around the girls. Ever some of the men left the shade of the tree.

There was a bit of shyness at first because a white man was present; but soon a youngster of nine or ten was pushed into the centre. She caught the rhythm and began to dance, slowly at first but with an increasing tempo. After that there was no hesitation as each girl tried to outdo all her village. They danced singly at first, then in pairs, with each exhibition getting wilder and crazier. When the drummer flagged, a shilling restored their vital force. Altogether, as jolly a party as you can imagine; yet every one of the dancers had leprosy.

Promptly at noon the roll-call for treatment began. The drummers entered their strokes but the people miss hearing their names. The women came first because they needed to get back home to their children and their cooking. The first name called was Halida. The Chief's assistant repeated, loud and clear, her name and village. The register showed that her drug pound, her age, and the dosage she had been receiving before. (Patients begin with one pill weekly, rising slowly to four, with severe cases getting as many as six).

Halida came forward, a handsome young woman of 25. She kept solemn baby tied to her back. Her dose for today was four, and the inspector deftly dropped them into her cupped hands. Next came a little girl of about 12 who had been five miles with a neighbor. She got one pill. And so it went, right past the Mellan, four or five a minute unless he paused to ask a question.

In half an hour the women were finished and had gone back home. Then came the men and boys: Yaro, age 10; Hailve, 6; Haruna, 8, and many others. If you had thought of leprosy only as a disease of grayness, then the men of Turunku would have quickly made you change your mind. By one o'clock the job was finished except for a few new cases that were to come in for examination, and for the doctor to check the history of the centre. It was time for lunch. The Chief had wanted one for some time before, but he had been told that he must provide a meeting place. The thatched hut would be called, rather ironically, Mallam (the learned one), for he is one of the very few thousands with two years of high school education. Besides that he has taken a special three months training course. Relatively, he is learned and wise. He has a fountain pen, wrist watch, dark glasses and registers, he makes a brave figure among the villagers.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THINKING THINGS OVER

How very few ever know, or even learn, how to empathize with themselves! Thoreau mastered this art when he went into the earth about Walden Pond and the farms and villages about Concord that he could make of any place his own and sit right down there — and think!

Whitman did the same thing, though he selected park benches, Fifth Avenue buses, and the rolling acres of Long Island over which to roam and meditate.

We all need to meditate more; like those churches that are open all day and every day, for people to go in or a quiet period of prayer and meditation. The poet Longfellow once wrote that "into each life some rain must fall." How much better if an idea or so would fall into the mind during a period of reverie or meditation. That's when ideas are ripening.

I note that many of the savings banks just recently constructed in New York City have inviting reception spaces with comfortable chairs and a welcome for each one of their depositors. Women come from shopping to take a brief rest and think things over. I noted a large TV in one. An excellent idea.

Vacations are always a good investment, both for the employer and employee, for they are a time for meditation as well as for fun and adventure. Anything that will change us from the doing of the usual is a good change. Variety of occupation is the stimulus. People who claim they have trouble sleeping should have more variety of thinking things over after retiring. Let them think on anything, but preferably something which they are most interested. Sleep will follow!

Use of Tools Reveals Mood

The Times of London

A memorandum on notes in Post Office buildings issued by the Post Office and the Ministry of Works declares that noise from hand-stamping could be cut down by not hitting the stamp harder than is necessary to get a clear impression.

It adds "Parcels date - stamps should be rolled over the parcels, not used to hit them." Yes, indeed, but it must be remembered that the use of date-stamps is not always limited to the dating of stamps.

The manner in which a date-stamp is applied to a parcel often indeed, provides a valuable clue to disposition of the applier and the state of his emotions at the moment.

A placid, contented date - stamp will deliver thudding blow after blow and that, of holidays past and to come and of cups of tea in the office. Not find any difficulty in conforming to the memorandum's recommendations.

His date-stamp will, as it were, caress the parcel and peace in his particular corner of the office will reign supreme.

Far otherwise, however, will it be with his colleague who has a grievance and whose liver is out of order. In his hands the date stamp will become a weapon to be wielded as a thunderbolt in the hands of an avenging god, while parcels labelled with pathetic optimism, "Fragile", symbolize the abominable unfairness and contrariness of things.

If they cannot be kicked, as they deserve, they can at least be stamped in a way many will not forget in a hurry.

Personal Health Talks

By Dr. WM. BRADY

Are Your Joints Wearing Well or Out?

A New Jersey correspondent says:

"I take a scant teaspoonful of cod liver oil daily for my arthritis, or "rheumatis" as you call it.

I do not call arthritis rheumatiz.

I do not advise anyone with arthritis to take cod liver oil.

Evidently this correspondent regards me as a quaint old character spouting power notions and, who knows, maybe offering good advice in rare instances. So she patronizes me with pseudonyms.

Arth-itis means joint inflammation.

Rheumatis (not rheumatism) is a familiar word. Unless no one cures it, I use it to identify physical degeneration of joint tissues.

Physical degeneration is deterioration of cells and tissues in consequence of which function is impaired. In most instances of insidiously developing chronic joint disability, the trouble is physical degeneration, not inflammation. And so it is not "arthritis."

Although I have searched and researched current medical literature and studied intensively the works of nineteenth century medical authorities, I have not found a straightforward definition or description of "chronic disease."

While dismissing "modern drug therapy" and the "miracle" or miracle drugs as a delusion the Foundation relies on the value of "conservative treatment of arthritis," which means bed rest, regular daily exercises, splints, casts, adequate diet and "aspirin in maximum tolerable doses."

Strength for The Day

By DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

UNDERGIRDING LIFE

A bridge over which I have driven so many years is being repaired. The other day as I drove across it, I noticed that new supports were being built under it. The bridge is old, but it carries modern traffic and to the fact that practically all traffic today is heavier than it was a decade ago and very much heavier than it was a generation ago.

It seems sometimes as life goes along, that the things we have to bear get heavier. It may be that we are worn down slightly, or that the years may be taking their toll, but it does seem sometimes that it is harder to bear up than in former years. So we have to take a page out of the bridge builder's book and put under the supports under life's structure.

The course of the greatest supports we can have is memory. We all have sorrowful memories, but there is not a person who does not have joyful memories also. In the hours we can set down for ourselves memories, but the joyful memories can be recalled in the hours of need.

We should all ask ourselves, if we are past middle age, whether we have really ever done anything to strengthen and cultivate that spiritual part of our lives which will live for all eternity. If it is harder to bear up than in former years, so we have to take up the supports under life's structure.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is a wonder more of us have not found ways of turning Hallowe'en to more hallowed uses than the somewhat aimless evening wandering of little children, the conclusion of which is a tummy ache, a collection of cheap candy expensively made for the occasion, some broken windows and a great weariness. It is true some parents stage parties; but this is not as common as it once was. Yet the eve of All Saints Day might, in view of the state of the world today, be very imaginatively employed. And UNICEF, which for the United Nations Children's Fund, the world's largest international child welfare organization concerned solely with childhood, has found the way.

Last year was the first year the "shakeout for UNICEF" campaign was held in Canada, in the United States, and on Hallowe'en last year the children of the United States took $800,000 cash, roving the streets of their home cities with their little boxes. Small-coin for the millions of children all over the world, in Africa, Asia, South America, for whom there are no such festive traditions as Hallowe'en, and no bright homes upon which to call in the name of all the saints.

This will be the second Hallowe'en in Canada for the UNICEF shake-out, and in Montreal, Toronto and many other cities and towns, the special UNICEF collection boxes for UNICEF instead of the familiar baskets and paper bags in which to collect their usual Hallowe'en loot.

The Toronto office of UNICEF at 112 St. George Street, supplies the pamphlets and card-badges the children carry to identify them. Parents and each city office may help to provide its own collection boxes by sending a request to us to get the collection. There is something still magical about Hallowe'en, and there is such a big problem the idea has taken root, there have popped up many voluntary organizations to help with the provision of boxes. For instance, in Toronto a committee of the Kiwanis Clubs plans its cans for collecting. The CBC Junior Times has given it some invaluable publicity to the shell-out.

And what a wonderful thing it would be if Hallowe'en could still be the mysterious, the enriched and communal revel of old, with, instead of candles and apples for bait, a new rescue of childhood from disease, poverty and war in the really dire plight of the earth be its meaning to us all?

Cornwall-Ottawa Toll Road Asked By Trade Board

CORNWALL (CP)—The Cornwall Board of Trade proposed Wednesday that a Cornwall-Ottawa toll road be built on the soon-to-be vacated New York Central right-of-way.

The plan was one of the few pro-toll road suggestions put before the Ontario legislature's select committee on toll roads during its three-day swing through Eastern Ontario communities.

J. G. Rowe, board secretary, said 60,000 tourists entered the area from the United States this year. The number was expected to double next year and a first-class highway was needed north to the capital city.

To reach Ottawa now, he said, tourists must use secondary roads or go in or out of their way to reach a highway.

The Eastern Ontario Development Association also presented a brief favoring toll roads. The group proposed a toll road authority be formed similar to the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, and that all existing four-lane highways be made into toll roads as well as future construction of tolled super highways.

New Oats Catch Eye of Russian

AILSA CRAIG, Ont. (CP)—Garry oats caught the eye Wednesday of Prof. Alexander Smirnov, a top man in Russia's agriculture, as he visited the Alex M. Stewart and Son seed plant in this Middlesex County village.

After tasting the variety he said it was one of the best he had ever seen, "and one I think I will recommend to our department of agriculture."

Mr. Stewart Sr., won the title of world oat king back in 1927 when he showed Garry oats at Chicago. He started shipping seed to the United States, and last year filled orders for 500,000 bushels.

On his district tour Wednesday, Prof. Smirnov was accompanied by Dr. W. E. Reek, former president of Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Cost of Dying Has Gone Up

TORONTO (CP)—City council's welfare department agreed Wednesday that the cost of dying, like the cost of living, has gone up.

After listening to a delegation of funeral directors, the department said it will pay $180 instead of the present $135 for the burial of indigents.

Board Reserves Decision on Freight Rates

OTTAWA (CP)—A $50,000,000-a-year general freight rate increase is under consideration by the board of transport commissioners.

The board is to decide whether the railways are to get authority for a 15-per-cent boost over the objections of all the provinces except Ontario and Quebec, and such organizations as the 400,000-member Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

The commissioners reserved decision Wednesday after a series of off-and-on hearings that began in June. Railway lawyers Wednesday closed out their final defence of the increase.

Meanwhile, a temporary seven-per-cent increase, granted in June as a "first aid" measure for the railways, remains in effect until Oct. 31.

BY ABSTANCE

Board officials said action on whether or not this is to continue is in abeyance for the moment. The over-all case of the railways calls for continuing this and adding another eight per cent to it. The final decision, it was expected will not be delivered for several weeks.

Apart from the complexities of the rate case, a reason for possible delay in getting the judgment out is the fact that many key members of the transport board now are sidelined by illness.

They are Mr. Justice J. D. Kearney, chief commissioner, and commissioner Leonard J. Knowles the board's freight rate specialist. Both suffered heart attacks recently.

Career of Crime And Free Love Abruptly Halted

MOSCOW (AP)—The "jazz age" career in crime and free love of three daughters of high-ranking Soviet officers were curbed Wednesday with one-year sentences for burglary.

The three girls are Elena Konsetova, 21, whose father is an army major general; Alla Maximova, 19, daughter of a secret police colonel; and Tanya Andreyeva, 18, daughter of an air force colonel.

According to the original published account of their escapades in Komsomol Pravda, they had been running around with the sons of Soviet cabinet ministers.

Wednesday's verdict made no mention of the boys.

At the trial the girls admitted to financing wild drinking parties and weekend trips by auto to such distant points as Leningrad with their pay from bowling spare, figments—including that of Stalin's favorite movie actress, Mariya Ledinina.

Belleville Man Given 15 Months

SIMCOE (CP) — Two transient tobacco workers Wednesday were sentenced for possession of goods stolen from exhibits and stores during Norfolk County Fair two weeks ago. James Gilpin, 29, of Toronto received a reformatory term of 12 months definite, while John Edward Gaffney, 27, of Belleville was sentenced to 15 months definite.

GETS RECORD SNOW

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Unseasonably cold weather spread across the Rocky Mountain area Wednesday night after a storm piled six inches of snow here. The weather bureau said it was the heaviest snowfall ever reported in Salt Lake City so early in the season. Temperatures down to zero were predicted in most of Wyoming and western Colorado.

Sales Tax Paid By Government

TORONTO (CP)—News that the federal government pays itself sales tax on goods it purchases was pronounced "a gem for one Toronto controller Wednesday.

That was controller Leslie Saunders' reaction to a letter from Revenue Minister McCann regarding the city's query on exemption from sales tax for municipalities.

"You appear to have the impression that exemptions from sales tax are granted by the federal government, but this is not the case," the minister wrote. "The government pays the sales tax on goods it purchases in the same way as any other user."

"That's like paying taxes to ourselves," said Mayor Nathan Phillips.

Dr. McCann explained that it has always been government policy to collect the tax from municipalities, and that any other procedure would be discriminatory.

The board voted to send a copy of the letter to all Toronto members of Parliament and Finance Minister Harris.

Greener Thumbs

BY JOYCE SMITH

Look for a "heel," the horticultural variety that is, for the best cutting from dormant trees and shrubs as well as evergreens. These are taken during fall and winter. Dormant cuttings are kept in moist sand and then placed until spring, then set out. Those from evergreens set roots sooner. The "heel" is a small section of parent branch taken as part of cutting.

After Five Years And Nine Trials Man Will Hang

OTTAWA. (CP) —The cabinet decided today not to interfere with the death sentence against Orvia Boucher, scheduled to be hanged for the axe murder of an elderly merchant more than five years ago.

Boucher will mount the gallows at Montreal's Bordeaux Jail early Friday after a series of trials and appeals that have stretched over more than five years.

The 38-year-old blacksmith will pay with his life for the murder of George Farjour, an elderly Syrian merchant who was slain in St. Henri, in Levis County near Quebec City.

Boucher's case is considered unique in Quebec, and possibly in Canada, both for the length of time it was before the courts and the number of times it was heard. It was heard four times by the lower courts; three appeals were lodged with the Quebec Court of Appeals; and twice the case has gone before the Supreme Court of Canada.

Boucher has been granted 13 stays of execution, also believed a record number in Quebec.

Farjour was hacked to death June 3, 1951. The body of the 77-year-old merchant was found in the tiny living quarters above his store.

Mr. J. D. Bankier, 341 Albert Street, left Montreal this morning for Buenos Aires, Brazil to visit his brother, Alec, at Sleppe, Glasgow, whom he has not seen since his immigration to Canada 50 years ago. Mr. Bankier will be away from his Belleville residence for about two or three weeks.

Mental Health Talk Given at Coronation Club

A joint meeting of the Senior Women's Auxiliary and Coronation club members was held Monday evening in Bridge Street United church.

Following devotional readings given by Members J. McKay, L. Lockyer and J. Taylor, a business session was held with both groups endeavoring to complete arrangements for the forthcoming bazaar.

Mrs. M. Baron introduced the speaker for the evening, Dr. Edith Williamson, who gave a most enlightening talk on mental hospitals and their work.

Briefly summarizing, Dr. Williamson explained that although a vast number of people were now being cured with the help of new and improved drugs, after-discharge a patient needed the understanding of an intelligent public in his or her goal to live a fuller and happier life.

The second part of this fine talk was conveyed to Dr. K. Williamson by Mrs. M. Edwards.

Refreshments served by Members J. Colden and R. Lindsay, brought this evening to a close.

Christ Church C.C. Plans Future Functions

Monday evening was a work night for the Contact Club of Christ Church.

It was fascinating to watch puppets take shape from squeaky toys, beads from straws, and colored paper, crochet spoils from empty spools, doll clothes from any bits of material, and numerous other articles, for the Moose Factory Christmas parcel.

While the girls worked, president Colleen Doulin held a business meeting. The rummage sale was a success and Catherine thanked all who helped. A letter from the Men's Club confirmed a combined party next year, between the Men's Club and the Contact Club.

Since buses are no longer working Sunday morning, cars are needed to bring people to Church who lack means, and members were asked to help in this worthy project.

A gay evening of games and dancing is planned for the "Husband and Wife" party next Monday, October 29th. It will be a hard time party, so wives and husbands wear your old slacks, jeans and shirts and plaid blouses, come on out and enjoy a carefree evening.

Hostesses for the evening were Alice Wonnacott, Betty Ling and Margaret Shappee.

Queen Elizabeth H-S Association Holds Fall Meet

The Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association holds its first meeting of the fall term in the school auditorium on Tuesday.

The auditorium was filled to capacity. It was most pleasing to see so many fathers in attendance.

The meeting was short and the president, Mrs. Marion Paradis, covered briefly the business on hand and turned the meeting over to Mr. Anderson, the principal, who introduced the teachers to the gathering.

At the close of the meeting the parents visited the classrooms and talked to the teachers personally, after which they returned to the auditorium for refreshments before leaving for home.

Holloway United Church W.A. Sponsors Autumn Tea, Bazaar

Autumn in all her colorful beauty invaded the Sunday School auditorium of Holloway Street United church, Bayside on Wednesday afternoon for the annual tea and bazaar sponsored by the Women's Association.

Sprays of saffron-colored leaves adorned the entrance way, the walls, the tall pillars, and on the platform, young beech trees with their beige-yellow leaves, and flaming sumacs held sway, along with potted gold, vintage-red and white chrysanthemums, and here and there more quietly hung could be seen spreading their beauty from strategic points.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. S. E. Larman, wife of the pastor, and Mrs. N. Brown, president of the Association, who most graciously welcomed the many guests who thronged the various booths which were so attractively displayed.

TEMPTING CENTERPIECE

Inside the quadrangle formed by the tall pillars, the long tea table was delightfully appointed with a Scotch lace cloth in grape design, and centred by a lovely and most unusual centerpiece consisting of an oblong reflector, upon which were placed huge bunches of red emperor grapes, in pretty figurine at one end, while at the other were the tri-branched silver candelabra holding aloft their maroon and golden colored candles, and a partial wreath of wine-red and yellow tiny 'mums. Encircling all, were cream-colored gladioli florets interspersed with sprays of dark green foliage.

The tea room hostesses who escorted the never-ending line of guests to the tea room included: Mrs. Frederick, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Smith.

Those who presided at the silver service were: Mrs. Oliphant and Mrs. Campbell; Mrs. Moorman and Mrs. Townsend, while those who served included: Jean Bateman, Grace McAuley, Ruth Verdun Vader, Myron Doxsee, Ruth Bailey, Ethel Knight, Ruth Lowther, Marcie Richardson, Helen McRibbon, Reta Hartland, Ellen Wager, Kitty Rhodson, Dorothy Bowen, Mary Hutt, Laura Martin, Barbara Campbell, Jean Digby, Audrey Treasurer, Elisabeth Bailey, Helen Joblin, Donna Vickers, Jean Townsend, Carolyn Cosens, Marion Armstrong, Thelma Rogers, Joyce Arbutnott and Grace Wallace.

Replenishing: Mrs. Rayfield, Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Denyes, Mrs. Johns, Mrs. Bush, Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Lough and Mrs. Joss.

The treasurers for the afternoon were: Mrs. McMurray, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Smale and Mrs. Twiddy.

The homecooking booth, situated in the sleeve adjoining the S.S. room, was replete with all kinds of confectionery and thronged three deep with eager purchasers, satisfying patronage; fancy cup cakes; coconut cheese; chocolate fudge; angel cakes, plain and fancy; date breads; pies, mince, apple, raisin, cherry and lemon; tarts, taffy and sugar-fruited. In charge of these were, Mrs. H. Cuttingham, assisted by Mesdames L. Harvey, H. Cunningham, J. Cordes, F. Harrison, E. Laughlin, E. C. Moynes, L. Alyea, Twiddy, L. Hendricks, R. Andrews, Cpl. Smith, and Mrs. Ricketts, Sr., and Mrs. E. Ricketts Jr.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

The Mission Band and the Explorers Group had a fine showing of boxed Christmas cards, and stationery, containing cookies depicting animals, clowns and what-have-you, which were conveyed by Mrs. J. Ketcheson and Mrs. G. Gulliver.

The pantry shelf, which occupied the adjacent corner, was a host of canned goods both fruit and vegetable; packages jello; red apples; sweet peppers; packages of breakfast cereals, cranberries, again resembling the glass Christmas was but eight weeks away; jams, marmalades. This was conveyed by Mrs. C. Sinfield and Mrs. W. Anderson, assisted by members of the group.

The apron booth, with its multitude of pretty half and all-over aprons in colorful cotton prints, printed borders and frilled edges, and Christmas aprons in red organdy, and aprons of factory cotton, some with cretonne pockets, and others embroidered, did a rushing trade. On the wall behind was an eye-catching placard enhanced with a spray of tawny leaves and bearing the slogan: "An apron can do for the housewife what make-up can do for the beauteous girl," which was borne out in the fine display beneath. Convening here were, Mrs. Coulter, Mrs. Kilbank, Mrs. Bonter, Mrs. Welbourn, Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Hutchinson.

DELICIOUS CANDY

The candy booth was convened by Mrs. E. Vader, assisted by Mrs. J. Wright and Miss Dorothy Craighead, who were kept busy packaging the assorted candies of fruit flavors, cocoanut balls, chocolate fudge, peanut brittle, maple creams, and divinity fudge, as well as vanilla candy. These were attractively arranged in little cups, boxes, cellophane bags. Large containers of popcorn met with ready sale.

PLAIN SEWING

The plain sewing and fancy work was convened by Mrs. Ted Poste, Mrs. A. McMillan and Mrs. K. Parks, assisted by Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. C. Brethour, Mrs. L. Townsend, Mrs. R. Walton and Mrs. J. Rapinoe. Here were fancy tea cloths, children's dresses, dresser sets, white flannelette baby nighties, nicely smocked; house dresses, children's overalls, lace-edged bath towels, stuffed dolls, fancy dressed dolls with billowing skirts, dolls' dresses, mitts and pyjama suits.

The novelties completed the booths, with its heterogeneous assortment of what-have-you, including fancy lamp shades, cermics of roses, vases, billfolds, guest books with wooden covers, potted plants, bunches of trailing bittersweet, cups and saucers, handmade earrings, pictures, pillow slips, snapshot albums, waste paper baskets, Christmas candles and a family of bridsie bulldogs. These were conveyed by Hazel Smith and Doris Daniels, assisted by Gladys Templer, Phyllis Lowe, Irene Brown, Mrs. Ida Scriven, Darrell Cavers and Rena Robertson.

KITCHEN HELPERS

Those who had charge of the kitchen were Mrs. R. F. Bowden and Mrs. M. E. Hicks, assisted by Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Bartlett, Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Peter Johns, Mrs. Canning, Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Hitchon, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Shorey, Mrs. Bedell, Mrs. Billamy, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Symons, Mrs. Parks, Mrs. White, Mrs. Lucas and Mrs. Kingston and Mrs. Reid.

The conveners of the bazaar were Mrs. M. A. Hall and Mrs. A. Outingdyke.

A most successful bazaar and tea, splendidly convened.

Presbyterians Admit Women To Ministry

SYRACUSE, N.Y (AP)—A 31-year-old woman has become the first woman to be ordained into the ministry of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

About 350 persons witnessed the bestowal of the traditional rights upon Miss Margaret E. Towner.

Rev. Walter H. Eastwood, minister of the First Presbyterian Church at Allentown, Pa., where Miss Towner has been serving in educational department, delivered the sermon to the congregation and welcomed Miss Towner to his church staff as an ordained minister.

Miss Towner commented:

"I feel privileged that God has chosen me to follow in this calling. It's not becoming the first woman minister that thrills me, but the fact that I'll be able to serve the church in a greater capacity."

Her ordination was under a decision of the general assembly of the church last May in Philadelphia, which decided to open the ministry to women.

Quinte Field Naturalists Enjoy Colored Slides of Nature's Beauty

A large group was in attendance at the first indoor meeting of the Quinte Field Naturalists held in the Entomology Laboratory on Monday evening. Miss Ella Mastin presided in the absence of the president, Miss Frances Young.

Mr. Hedley James gave a brief report of a meeting of representatives from the clubs of eastern Ontario held at Willow Beach, Port Hope. At this time plans were drawn up for the annual meeting to be held next February. The Belleville club is expected to take some part in this.

Miss Mary McIntosh, Mrs. Neville Anderson and Dr. Morris Smith were appointed a nominating committee to draw up a slate of officers for the coming year.

Last August the 10th International conference of Entomology was held in Montreal. This is the first time that Canada has acted as host to such an important gathering. There were about 1,500 delegates from all parts of the world. Mr. James and Dr. Smith gave brief reports on the conference.

FALL PLANNED MEETINGS

Mr. Smith said that the meetings were well planned and successfully carried out. Sixteen different sections were running at different times. It was a great opportunity to see, hear and be inspired by leading entomologists all over the world. There was a informal garden party and plenty of interpreters to help the delegates in getting acquainted. Bus tours to Ottawa, Quebec City, Belleville's Laboratory, Guelph Agricultural College, Niagara Falls and the Toronto Islands ferry gave them a chance to see some of Canada and the work being done here. They were greatly impressed by the work being done at Belleville's big new laboratory.

Dr. Smith spoke of the great interest shown in the new field of biological control. Seventy-five papers were given in this section. Dr. Smith has done a great deal of research work in British Columbia on the St. John's worm. A million acres of California have been cleared of this weed by importing it from Australia.

He also mentioned the Pamakani, a relative of boneset, which is a bad weed in Hawaii. Seed eating insects brought in first from Argentina, and now from Australia, are being used in an effort to control this weed. Also the most effective is the weevil to control the cactus plant.

BEAUTIFUL COLORED PICTURES

The remainder of the evening was spent in enjoying the beautiful colored pictures shown by Mrs. F. W. Wallis, whose home is on the Trent Road. Mrs. Wallis has not had her camera very long but a love of nature and hours of patient waiting have produced pictures some people have been trying to get for years. There were nests of the white-faced black hornet; skilfully woven nests of red-winged blackbirds with their pretty splotched eggs (one showing three blackbird and two cowbird eggs); brilliantly colored orioles; bluejays; baby screech owls peeking out of their doorway; and baby great horned owls (Peepers and Olive Oyl); mourning doves and their filmsy nest; baby kingbirds; beautiful wood ducks; 15 shiny eggs in a black duck's nest; a crow's nest lined with the inner bark of a cedar tree; a crested flycatcher's nest lined with duck feathers, and the tiny yellow babies perched on a limb nearby; gull and cormorant nests with spotted eggs and newly-hatched spotted babies; Bay of Quinte carp; fisherman fishing through the ice; winter ice scenes along Lake Ontario; Manly MacDonald pointing his beautiful scenes on cold winter days; a red fox eating a jack rabbit; a weasel against a dark brush pile on the snow; flowering arbutus; apple blossoms and the full grown fruit; morells; black swallow tail and monarch butterflies; a golden garden spider; a swarm of bees taken at night by flashlight; deer in the Algonquin Park; a gorgeous flaming maple tree and its finish, Indian artifacts found by Bowen C. Squire on his farm, at Consecon Lake; different bits of pottery bone fish hooks; a necklace; stone axe heads; carved stone heads and pipes.

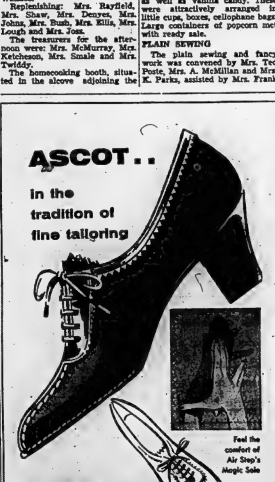
Nicholas thanked Mrs. Wallis, Mr. James and Dr. Smith for a most enjoyable evening.

New Churchill Home-School Group Meets

The first meeting of the new Sir Winston Churchill Home and School Association was held on Monday in Sir Winston Churchill school.

Mrs. A. Wilson received the unanimous necessary for a separate Home and School Association. She expressed her regret at not being able to continue as president, and a committee was selected to appoint a new president who will be installed with the new executive next month.

Mr. F. Fairman, principal of Sir Winston Churchill School, after welcoming the parents, presented Mrs. Wilson with a past-president's pin, in recognition of her untiring work and interest in the joint Queen Victoria and Sir Winston Churchill Home and School Association last year.



Mrs. Wilson expressed her regret at having to resign and, although she is leaving the city, she will continue her interest in Home and School work.

Mr. Fairman introduced the teaching staff and Mrs. A. Brown introduced the grade mothers, who were seated in a group.

Registration was in charge of Mrs. Brown, who was busy receiving charter memberships, 500 or so were busy before the meeting paying the fee.

"Open house" was the theme, when parents could become acquainted with their child's teacher, inspect the classroom and chat with other parents in the various rooms of the bright new school.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. M. Rigby and her committee.

Fine enough to complement an imported British tweed ... a flexible, cushioned ... with stitched detailing to add a custom-made touch.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

COME RIGHT OUT AND ASK

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 24, and have been engaged for two years to a fellow, 29, who is divorced. He has two children with his former wife, who has married again and living in another city.

He married when he was only 19 and the girl was 18, and he has told me that they never did get along from the moment they married. He says he knows now that they were much too young to realize the responsibility of marriage.

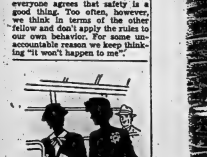
Do you think I'll be happy with this man? We've been going together for three years, and seem to get along wonderfully well. The only real question in my mind is why he never brings up the matter of his wife, and I would feel it very logical for you to bring it up yourself. If he really loves you and wants to marry you, what is he waiting for? You've a right to know and you've a right to ask.

DON'T INSIST ON AN EXPLANATION

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

What do you think of a young man who would talk to a girl a time for six months, seeing her nearly every night, and then suddenly stop coming around without even a letter or a phone call by way of explanation? This has happened to me and I just can't understand it, particularly when everything was as usual the last time I saw him and there was no quarrel or disagreement of any kind.

Don't you think a fellow should tell a girl if he isn't coming to see her any more and say just exactly why? — Priscilla.



Dear Priscilla:

It always seems to me rather silly for a girl to talk about a man "taking up her time." No man can, or should, be "taken" unless she wants him to. It's understandable, certainly that she should be disappointed and feel badly when he suddenly stops coming around after they have apparently been close friends. But I think you would make a mistake to ask for an explanation if you get the chance.

No man who loses interest in a girl wants to have a scene over their parting, which often does happens if he does as you suggest and tells the girl he is breaking off with her. Most men believe that if they simply stop calling, the girl will get the point without having to say anything. This may be highly unsatisfactory to the girl but it is the way the average man operates and it is wiser to let it go at that.

My advice is not to let this young man have the satisfaction of knowing that you're giving him another thought. If he shows up later on and gives you a satisfactory explanation, and you still like him enough to want to resume your friendship, accept the explanation at its face value and don't get into any discussion about it.

As with many virtues — morals and courtesy for example — everyone agrees that safety is a good thing. Too often, however, we think in terms of the other fellow and don't apply the rules to our own behavior. For some unaccountable reason we keep thinking "it won't happen to me".

THAT'S WHAT THE AD SAID

"Yes, I know—Joe and I were reading it. He called my attention to the big headline: "Going like fire in all Canada—the NEW—NEW—NEW STAR WEEKLY."

"I like the idea of the whole paper being the same good, tabloid size—don't you?

"Yes—and the part where they say the Star Weekly is going to be new in many other ways."

"I remember that—they say a new and modern make-up and new type and extra beautiful coloring and arrangement in the Picture section."

"I forget now but when is it coming out?"

"Oh—definitely on October 29th."

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

NEW PORTABLE "WIPE" KEEPS HAIR NEAT ALL DAY

A quick application of your pocket-size "stick" tames unruly wisps of hair.

As indispensable to your cosmetic case as your lipstick is a new portable hair groomer to keep your coiffure neat and smooth. No matter how careful you may be about the rest of your grooming, your appearance is ruined if your hair looks untidy, with short ends and wisps sticking out all over. And especially during these blustery fall days, when the wind is liable to make the worst of flyaway strands. It's a wise and pretty gal who carries the means to hair repair with her.

In addition to your faithful comb and brush, therefore, we suggest that you carry a little "wipe stick", a pure and fragrant hair cosmetic in a plastic push-up case, no more bulky than your lipstick —and as easy to use. All you do is stroke this wax-like stick over those stand-out strands, comb and brush, and they will fall nicely, neatly back into place.

This stick is not a pomade, lacquer, or brilliantine, so it will not leave your hair greasy, gummy or plastered-down looking. But it will add body to fine hair, and go a long way in taming a wiry permanent. It is wonderful for adding body to the new chic bouffant hairdos, and it will keep the neckline of your French twist white clean and sleek. Carry your stick with you wherever you carry your lipstick, for quick touch-ups after active sports, dancing, or a busy day of shopping, trying on new hats and dresses.

And by the way, the "wipe stick" can do as much for the men and children in your family as it does for you. Try it to truly a difficult cowlick, or to make wispy bangs stay down, or a fallen crew cut stay up. Just stroke the stick upward on the short strands, comb and brush, and the hair will stand right on end.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP

Very pleasant and heart-warming is the person who, when we meet him or her, always remembers to send "greetings" or "remembrances" or "love" to members of our family, or is lavish with most kind solicitude about one who is ill or away from home. A charming amenity, this, the careful but not cadaverous habit of thoughtful people.

IMPORTANT QUESTION ABOUT TELEPHONE COURTESY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Several times I have had occasion to call on the telephone a young woman who is socially important in our town. She has been to a good school and is a college graduate. But it seems to me such a breach of manners that every time I call, she terminates the conversation quickly, with an abrupt "Good-by," and when she calls me, she states her business and then dangles, saying, for example, "I really have to go" or "Gee, I'm late," apparently waiting for me to say good-by. I hesitate to go against my training, even if she seems to know better. So many I please have your word about this? — Puzzled

You are right in your thought that telephone-courtesy suggests that generally the person who makes the call is responsible for bringing it to a close. And apparently this young woman when you occasionally call on the telephone has just the reverse, the incorrect idea. When you call her she should give you the opportunity to bring the conversation to a close, perhaps just by your saying, Thank you, Miss Davis, Good-by." And when she calls you, she should, after stating her business, not "dangle" or give her "have-to-go" excuses, but just say her thanks for the information or message you have given her, and her "Good-by, Mrs. Clark." That "Thank you" is always a gracious lead into the polite closing of a telephone call.

WHO PAYS FOR FLORAL HEADDRESSES FOR BRIDAL ATTENDANTS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to have my attendants, maid of honor and matron of honor and four bridesmaids, wear an especially designed headdress of very small flowers and miniature ivy. My florist is an artist at this kind of designing, and he will make these "floral coronets." When I order them should I have them charged to my father's account, or to the groom's account with the flowers he is to pay for. Or should each bridal attendant pay for her own? — K.W.H.

By TRACY ADRIAN

This darling blouse was designed for teen-agers to wear for dating and holiday occasions and it is a perfect topper over full skirts, as shown, or with slightly flared or slender styles.

It is made of a new fabric that is a blend of cotton and rayon which gives the material a very rich look. The shirt features baby doll sleeves, a tucked dicky front and a tiny turned-down collar with two-toned ties that give a pert, feminine touch.

These floral headdresses should be considered as part of the attendants' flowers, like their bouquets, and so should be charged to your father's account. There would be no reason why they should be charged to the groom's account (customarily the groom does not even pay for the bridal attendants' flowers). And when the headdresses are such special items, which would not have any future use to the attendants, they should not be expected to pay for them.

SIGNATURE ON CHRISTMAS CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother and my sister and I were discussing how to sign Christmas cards. They say that when a child's name is to be included in the signature, the wife's name should be first, then the husband's name, and then the child's name. I say that the husband's name should be first. As, for example, for our family: Robert, Virginia, and Phillip. Who is right about this? — V.M.

You are right . . . when a child's name is included in the signature, the father's name comes first. . .

made the best pastry I knew how to make and fitted it into the pie plates making high fluted sides and poured in the filling. I baked them at 425 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes and 350 deg. for about 30 to 35 minutes longer or until the filling was almost set in centre. After they were taken from the oven the heat they retained finished cooking the filling.

A Press Club friend who is a reader mother-professor all rolled into one gave me this tip: If you buy a pumpkin for the children's window lantern for Hallowe'en carve it at the last minute. This way it is fresh enough to use for pies the following day, and does not have to decorate the garbage pail along with the others in your block.

Pumpkin Pie-A Smash Hit

By Mary Moore

Mrs. Hunter invited me to tea last Spring and the talk got around to the cost of pie fillings. Some of the girls agreed that lemon pies cost the least and at the same time taste the best.

But one practical girl with a large family maintained that for nourishment, economy and popularity you could not beat a good pumpkin pie.

Before Thanksgiving Day I asked Pete what he wanted for dessert for Thanksgiving dinner. "Pumpkin pie with whipped cream and honey on top." Well, by the time I reached the stores on the Saturday afternoon before Thanksgiving the canned pumpkin was sold out. After enquiring for it at four of them I settled on a little pie pumpkin for 20 cents. Will you pardon me if I say that the pies were better than pies made from canned pumpkin? I'll tell you what to do. Try this recipe and make your own decisions about the flavor and cost of them.

PUMPKIN PIE—HOME STYLE

Stand at the back door, smash the pumpkin by throwing it on the driveway, go out and pick up the pieces and wash them, remove the seeds and throw them out to the birds! Put the pumpkin pieces in the pressure cooker with about 3-4 cup water and cook them about 10 minutes at 15 lbs. pressure. Scrape flesh from skin, force through coarse sieve. I had 5 cups pumpkin puree. Because the pumpkin puree was not "cooked down" to evaporate off some of the moisture I used 1 cup of evaporated milk as part of the milk. I also added 3 cups homogenized milk, 3 cups dark brown sugar, 6 eggs, 1 teaspoon each salt and ginger, and 2 teaspoons cinnamon.

This amount makes enough filling for three 8 or 9 inch pies or two 10-inchers and eight tarts. I

Forms of City Government Discussed at B.P.W.

Mr. Dennis Herring, city manager, was the guest speaker at the Business and Professional Women's Club monthly dinner meeting held in Lattimer's Tower Room, on Monday last. Mr. Herring compared the council-committee system and the council-manager form of city government, stating that the continuity of the manager system lies together changing councils and diminishes the amount of changes in council policy, but emphasized that no city manager is a cure-all.

Mr. Herring believes that council should be relieved of the many petty decisions such as buying stationery, etc., and devote its time to the more serious problems with which the city is faced.

Introduced by Miss Ruth Nightingale, Mrs. M. McCaw expressed the club's appreciation to the speaker and presented him with a memento of his visit.

U.N. DAY

Honoring United Nations' Day, October 24th, Mrs. Irene Rainey spoke on the observance by 96 countries of this event, stressing the importance of the work done by the United Nations and the individual's contribution by keeping informed of its great accomplishments.

Mrs. Simone McFadden, president, announced that the winner of the B. and P.W. scholarship is Miss Patricia Rowland. This is presented to a girl graduating from ECVS and entering the nursing profession at Belleville General Hospital.

A brief resume of the recent Ontario Conference was given by the president, who was the club delegate. The meeting closed after a lively business discussion.

GOES THROUGH BRIDGE

WOODSTOCK (CP) — A truck hauling a transport float loaded with a 35-ton crane crashed through a bridge at nearby Plattsville, Wednesday, blocking Highway 97 between Woodstock and Galt. Driver William Beasley, 54, was unhurt as his transport slid down into a few feet of water in the Nith River. The bridge had a reported 18-ton capacity for weight.

Kiwanis Ladies Auxilary Tea, Bazaar Attractively Successful

The Kiwanis Centre yesterday afternoon was colorfully gay with its autumn motif in gold and bronze, highlighted by splashes of wine-red chrysanthemums, and burnished oak leaves, for the annual bazaar and tea held under the auspices of the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary.

Receiving the thronging patrons at the door, were Mrs. Ed Logan, president of the Auxiliary and Mrs. A. Drysdale, wife of the president of the Kiwanis Club.

The tea room, which was in the upper auditorium, was prettily appointed with potted chrysanthemums in deep yellow, and wine red; while the tea table, with its eggshell cutwork linen cloth again bore out the autumn tints with a lovely arrangement of yellow mums, fragrant sprays of cedar, and tall spikes of brown bulrush heads. Tall yellow candles in tri-branched silver candelabra gently flickered a warm and cheerful welcome. Each guest table was centred by a dainty tray of cakes and sandwiches, divided by a lacy doily, centred by a wine-red baby mum.

Mrs. S. Robb and Mrs. H. Emerson, tea hostess and co-convener, added their gracious welcomes while Mrs. N. Edwards and Mrs. C. Sargent; Mrs. E. Hamilton and Mrs. C. Mott presided at the silver services.

Serving were: Mesdames James Allan, W. Brewery, C. Archer, C. Link, F. Rawson, A. Rustin, J. Trudeau, V. White, J. Stock, A. J. Wolfenden, H. Reed, R. Neil, H. The refreshment committee comprised Mesdames A. Duffy, convener; R. Quinney, co-convener; C. Argue, G. Tripp, L. Kells and W. Wonnacott.

MART OF MERCHANDISE

The lower auditorium had been transformed into a veritable mart of merchandise with the several booths which ran along the three walls, each one trimmed with russet, bronze, green and yellow, and centred by autumn flowers.

The white elephant table with its plenteous array of costume jewellery; odd dishes in china; string holders, one a green ant hill, and the other black Chloe Little-Fruit plaques of cherries, grapes, and pears; nail polish; necklaces reminding one of the far-off Egyptian beauties; aluminum crumb trays; cups and saucers; corsages; earrings; a host of soft and hard back books, among which was noticed "Wild Animals I Have Known," by Ernest Thompson Seaton; silhouette pictures, and salts and peppers. These were convened by Mrs. A. Dalrymple, Mrs. Charles Mott, Mrs. W. J. Cook, Mrs. H. Fox and Mrs. R. McCallum.

On the fancy work table were pretty knit suits in several colors; stuffed toys; doll carriage cushion; fancy, crochet hot plate mats; gloves; place mats in green mesh in blue; and many others. Mrs. K. Burkitt was convener, with Mrs. F. Domenico, Mrs. G. Hume, Mrs. J. Black and Mrs. H. Floyd, assisting.

The apron booth under the convenorship of Mrs. James Cowan, assisted by Mrs. Les Fuzard, Mrs. E. Fairman and Mrs. G. Wallbridge, had a fine assortment of aprons in various materials, prints, ginghams and organdy, fashioned in the ever popular half styles, with some in the all-purpose and all-over patterns, each one pretty in itself and greatly to be desired.

TEMPTING FARE—LUSCIOUS CAKES

As usual the homecooking was a spot of great attraction with its fine display of tempting apple, berry, mince, and lemon pies; orange and date loaves; fragrant home made bread; tarts; taffy and berry; loaf cakes, short breads, cherry-studded and delicious chocolate and angel cakes. Mrs. G. Lee, Mrs. W. E. Sandercock, Mrs. Wooten and Mrs. Charles Hyde were the sales ladies.

On the candy booth one could choose between cellophane bags of cream, fudges, chocolates, peanut fudge, and boxes of assorted sweetmeats. All were delicious looking, and in charge of Mrs. R. Dulmage as convener, with Mrs. A. McConnell and Mrs. D. Stanton, assisting.

Jams and jellies, and mixed pickles, and relishes had a booth all to themselves, convened by Mrs. Harold Carruthers, and Mrs. Hugh Murray, Mrs. R. Bastable and Mrs. Frank Creegan, her assistants. There were little glass-lined apple jelly, grape jelly, peach conserve, mustard pickles, lime jelly like with roast lamb, and the old, old favorite, raspberry jelly.

ATTRACTIVE DRAWS

Several draws were also attracting the thirsty housewife; these included the grocery baskets with Mrs. J. C. R. Punchard and Mrs. J. E. Magee convening. The winners of this were Mrs. J. Allan, and Mrs. W. Laporte. The Christmas cake draw was in charge of Mrs H. House and Mrs. E. Cooper, and was won by Mrs. Harold Craig; the dogwood centrepiece convened by Mrs. Harold Craig, and Mrs. Ralph Clapp, went to the holder of the lucky ticket, Mrs. William Slade.

Mrs. Harry Trepanier and Mrs. S. Eaton acted as treasurers for the afternoon.

The conveners of the tea and bazaar were Mrs. William Slade, and Mrs. Robert Irvine to whom appreciative thanks are tendered for a most successful and delightfully entertaining afternoon.

IVANHOE

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Observes 74th Anniversary

IVANHOE — The 74th Anniversary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon, observed on October 21st, was marked with fine weather and large congregations.

The morning worship was conducted by the Rev. J. Goforth Hornsby of Picton. The guest minister chose for his text Hebrews 12-27 "And this word, yet once more signifieth the removing of those things that are shaken, as of those things that are made, that those things which cannot be shaken may remain."

"There is majesty in these words declaring the laws of the Kingdom of God. You will find this repeated in the first and fifth centuries, the time of the Crusaders, and the reformation. This very day the Lord is shaking the heavens and earth. This is an age of change and transition.

"When this epistle was penned the Hebrew Christians were greatly tried. Today everything is being shaken and tried. Even the most time honored customs are being questioned. Lives are being shaken.

"May not our fears be greatly allayed if we remember that in and through these happenings, there is a Divine purpose. When the clouds are low the roads rough, in the darkest day and in the fiercest persecution God's love never changes.

GOD'S POWER CONSTANT

"God's power never changes. Though many happenings would seem to contradict you cannot argue or pervert the Church out of existence. It still stands in unshaken strength.

"Let us possess our souls in patience for God still reigns in Sovereign power. We can afford to wait, for the ultimate is God's. We may enter into possession of that which remains, if we prove faithful."

The evening service was conducted by the Rev. R. D. MacLean, B.D., Bellville, Moderator of Kingston Presbytery. Theme, "The Unfinished Story." Text, "And these all, having obtained a good report through faith, received not the promise; God having provided some better thing for us, that they without us should not be made perfect."

"We are the grateful inheritors of the fruits of the labors of past generations but the story is not complete without our contribution, and that of those who will come after us.

"We are not only heirs of history, we are makers of history. What kind of chapter we are writing depends upon our faith and diligence in the duties of our time. Let us not remember only the glories of the past, but also the glory of the present challenge, and the glory of the future that could be. Our Golden Age is not behind us, it is still to come."

Special music was under the direction of the choir leader, Mrs. A. Hassall. Morning anthem, "Give Thanks Unto God," solo, "I Shall Not Pass Again This Way," by Mr. A. Cunningham. Evening Junior Choir, "Then Art With Us." Anthem, "Nearer My God To Thee."

CAMPBELLFORD

Ralph W. Harris Talks to Rotary On Insurance

CAMPBELLFORD—Mr. Ralph W. Harris, public relations officer for the All-Canada Insurance Federation, was the guest of the Campbellford Rotary Club at their Monday luncheon meeting.

"The earliest forms of insurance date back 5,000 years, but changing times have caused an almost unbelievable number of variations of the same business," he said. "Insurance, in principle, is the pooling of the resources of many to protect the unfortunate few."

The main three branches of insurance, excluding life insurance, are fire, automobile and health and accident insurance. The claims by Canadians exceed 300 million dollars annually. Last year a record of 262 million was paid in claims, or an amount equal to two-thirds of the cost of the seaway, or more than the equivalent of the cost in Canada of building new schools.

Each week in Canada, fire costs two million dollars and automobile claims in 1955 exceeded this figure.

INVENTORY AT PRESENT VALUES

Concerning fire insurance, the speaker advised constant inventory at present values to assure the customer adequate coverage in case of loss. He urged that buyers of insurance avail themselves of the increased coverage offered by the various competing companies writing fire and casualty lines.

Automobile insurance is big business. The amount paid in Canada is 100 million dollars a year.

These staggering figures have been the concern of insurance companies who should be the concern of each person in Canada. By maintaining laboratories, improving building codes and encouraging better fire fighting methods, insurance companies are endeavoring to decrease fire losses.

"Automobile accidents are chiefly caused by speeding, drinking, driving on the wrong side of the road and by failing to give the right of way. These four items are the cause of 80 per cent of the 3,900 deaths and 65,000 injuries to persons in auto accidents," the speaker said.

SHUN RECKLESS DRIVER

Mr. Harris urged those present to shun the reckless driver, check their own driving habits, and to let it be known that they, the public, are in favor of legislation which will cut down on accidents. When Ontario put on a large increase of O.P.P. early in January, the accident rate dropped about 40 per cent.

"We have the answers to fewer accidents if we only choose to put into practice the Golden Way, the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," he said.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Fenal O'Sullivan, and thanked by past president Bill Brady.

Lonsdale

LONSDALE — A number of the young men of the community enjoyed a social evening on Friday last at the home of Mr. John Murphy, in honor of her son Raymond, who was married in Erinsville Church on Saturday. Congratulations are extended to Raymond and his bride, the former Mary Kearns.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Whalen have had the hydro installed during the past week.

Mrs. Carl Cronin and daughter, Carolyn, of Belleville, spent a few days last week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Forestall.

Mrs. N. McAuliffe has resumed teaching at her school on the 4th line, C. Buckley being in charge of the telephone system.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the relatives of the late James Drummey, who passed away on Saturday, last.

A number of the young people enjoyed the dance in Read hall on Wednesday evening of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Plews, also Miss Helen McGuinness, spent Friday afternoon in Napanee.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Gartland, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Whalen and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brennan were among the guests at the Murphy-Kearns wedding at Erinsville and also attended the dinner held at Deseronto, later in the day.

Firemen Test New Water Nozzle

HAMILTON (CP) — Firemen cleared an industrial site Wednesday and tested a new fire-fighting technique by burning down four barns.

The firemen repeatedly set fire to the gasoline-soaked barns in nearby Dundas and then doused the flames with water from a new nozzle.

A flame enveloping the loft of one barn was extinguished in 18 seconds with the new nozzle, which blasts a fine mist under 175 pounds of pressure into an enclosed space. When the fire is hot enough the spray turns immediately to steam, snuffing the blaze.

INDIAN NAME

Mackinac Island, lying in the straits of Mackinac between Lakes Huron and Michigan, was called "Place of the Great Turtle" by Indians.

FRANKFORD

Mrs. C. Holmes Addresses WMS On 'Thanksgiving'

FRANKFORD — Last Thursday afternoon the W.M.S. of the Frankford United Church met in the church auditorium with the local W.M.S. as guests.

Quiet music was played by Mrs. L. Frost. Mrs. Fred Charlesworth, the president, presided and welcomed the guests.

Mrs. J. A. Lott took the devotional period and read from the books of Psalms. Mrs. Lott gave a fine talk on "Thanksgiving" and "Taking our religion with us when we leave the church."

Mrs. C. Reid, secretary, gave the minutes of the previous meeting and Mrs. H. J. Medill, the treasurer, gave the financial report.

Business was discussed. The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. Morrow. The annual election of officers will take place at this meeting and all members are urged to be present.

Mrs. Charlesworth introduced Mrs. Percy MacMullen, of Rawdon, who in turn, introduced the study book, "East of Burma," in an informative and interesting manner, for which Mrs. Charlesworth thanked Mrs. MacMullen.

Mrs. Walter Morrow rendered a special solo, "I walked Today where Jesus Walked," accompanied by Mrs. L. Frost at the piano.

Mrs. Holmes, 1st vice-president of the Belleville presbytery W.M.S., was the guest speaker and was introduced by Mrs. Charlesworth. Mrs. Holmes brought greetings from the Belleville Presbytery. Her talk was based on "Thanksgiving" — "we should all learn to say, 'thank-you,' in our daily living; let us live it as thanksgiving, but as thanksliving."

Mrs. Charlesworth thanked Mrs. Holmes for her inspiring talk.

The president of the Wooler W.M.S. brought greetings from their society.

A presentation was made to the guest speakers by Mrs. Clarke and Mrs. Reid, as a small token of appreciation.

Refreshments were served in Rose Lowrey Hall by the ladies of Frankford W.M.S.

6th Sidney

6TH SIDNEY — Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Dafoe entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ron Badgley and Brenda, Thurlow, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dafoe and Diane, Front Road, on Saturday evening.

Mr. Ted Copeland spent Wednesday evening with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Copeland, and Thursday evening Mr. Robert Copeland accompanied him home to Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Milson Sine and children spent Sunday with Mrs. Lewis Phillips, Marmora.

Mrs. Nina Sine, Thornhill, called at the parental home over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sine entertained the following on Wednesday evening: Mrs. Vera Sine, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Medill, Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Richardson and children, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Jeffs and children, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bird and Karen. The occasion was Mrs. Vera Sine's birthday.

On Sunday evening Mr. Percival exchanged pulpits with Rev. M. McMullin, who preached anniversary services at Centenary.

Mr. Percival read from Matt. 21:33. He spoke on "Rejection." It is usually step-by-step. Opposition is one type, but indifference is a worse type. Life is like a film, but it only runs through once. Refusal to recognize and love Christ is rejection. Then the question comes, "What Will He Do?"

"Our religious lives have become too mellow. We must wake up! God is not a sentimental old Santa Claus. There is no softness for those who reject His Son. We cannot get rid of the penalty for rejection. The day is coming when Christ will be the centre of every man's life. Then when the storms descend, that man remains firm. We need Christ for our cornerstone."

Intensely-National Magyars Never Forget Record of Russian Intervention, Cruelty to Them

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Russia repeatedly has thrown her soldiers into the struggle to suppress a Budapest revolt — and added one more bloody count to the reasons Hungarians as a whole hate Russia.

The reasons go back more than a century. The intensely-nationalistic Magyars, as Hungarians call themselves, never forgot the record of Russian intervention and cruelty in Hungary:

In 1849 a revolution established an independent Hungarian republic led by national hero Louis Kossuth. Russia, in league with Austria, sent armies to overthrow and destroy the republic. Russian troops during the Hungarian campaign established a reputation as the most brutal in Europe.

In 1919 Hungarian Communists carried out a revolution and established a bloody reign of terror. They were inspired by Russia's example, given tactical and moral assistance, and led by Bela Kun who had studied and returned home from Russia where as war prisoners they had learned Bolshevism. The revolution was quelled only with great difficulty and loss of life.

By 1944 and 1945, during the Second World War, the Red Army occupied Hungary. The Russian soldiers established a regime of terror, pillage and rape which lasted many months and aroused revulsion against them.

The Soviet army besieged beautiful Budapest and destroyed much of the city before capturing it. In early 1945—a fact Hungarians hold against the Russians even though it was a war operation.

Using their position as conquerors and the terror it gave them, the Russians then proceeded to fasten on Hungary a Communist dictatorship led by the Kremlin's representative, Matyas Rakosi. The Hungarian Communist regime kotowed to the Russians on every matter and exploited the Hungarian economy to ship exports to the Soviet Union. What Russians has continued up to the present, with brief relaxation.

Now a long-suppressed hate for Russia and Russians has broken out in dramatic fashion in the new Hungarian revolt.

Army Historian Says Many Details of Raid Are Wrong

OTTAWA (CP) — Col. C. P. Stacey, the Canadian Army's chief historian, says a new book on the Dieppe raid "cannot be relied upon as an accurate account."

Col. Stacey reviews the 215-page book, Dieppe at Dawn: The Story of the Dieppe Raid, by English journalist R. W. Thompson, in the current issue of the Canadian Army Journal. The book was published earlier this year.

He says the book contains more details about the Dieppe raid by the Canadian Army since 1942, than any other account available to the public.

"Brave" he adds, "a great many of these details are wrong."

Col. Stacey says Mr. Thompson used as his main source the 1942 report of Combined Operations Headquarters.

"This is a pity, for it is clear that he (the author) was acquainted with later and more reliable accounts but he was apparently in too much of a hurry to take the trouble to sift the grain from the chaff. As a result of basing his story mainly on the 1942 report he has incorporated in it many hearsay details which now are known to have no basis in fact."

Col. Stacey cites examples:

Mr. Thompson says in the book that no tank men lived to tell of their exploits. Happily, Col. Stacey writes, almost all the men in the tanks lived to tell what actually happened.

Mr. Thompson says the Germans admitted the loss of 170 aircraft. Col. Stacey says the Germans admitted no such thing and their actual losses were 48 planes. He adds that the fact was contained in his own book, The Canadian Army 1939-1945, published in 1948.

Mr. Thompson says in reporting the German shacking of Canadian prisoners that "the retaliate in any way was unthinkable." Col. Stacey says the story of the shackling of Germans in Canadian camps, undertaken at the request of the United Kingdom, "rang around the world but apparently it never reached the ears of our author." Mr. Thompson says "special mention" for Germans devotion went to "naval chaplain W. V. Foote." Army chapiain J. W. Foote actually won the Military Cross "but Mr. Thompson obviously doesn't know it."

Col. Stacey adds:

"It is a pity to have to say these things about Mr. Thompson for he writes well and says many fine and true things about the men who fought at Dieppe.

"But the Dieppe operation is a rather important episode in Canadian history; and it seems desirable that people should be warned that this book about it unfortunately cannot be relied upon as an accurate account."

Crown Witness Says Guay Told About Robbery

SUDBURY (CP)—A neighbor of William Snider, 78-year-old Spanish River recluse slain June 22, testified Wednesday that Eli Guay told him June 25 that "they had been out to rob old Snider."

Joseph Dupuis, who operates a farm five miles from Espanola, gave evidence on the third day of the trial of Eli Guay and his wife Christina on a murder charge.

The crown witness said Guay made the remark about the robbery in Guay's home in Espanola. Dupuis also testified that Guay told him to keep quiet about the matter and gave him $5. He said he also received a suit from Guay, but had promised to pay for it later.

Dupuis was one of two material witnesses held by police after Snider's body was discovered June 29. The other was Florence Guay of North Bay, half-sister of the accused, who testified earlier Wednesday.

Dupuis was released from custody soon after the Guays were apprehended July 4 at North Bay. Florence has been held since July 2.

Florence testified Tuesday she had gone with the Guays to Snider's cabin on the night of June 22. While there she had seen her brother and his wife beat the old man. She said she did not take any part in the attack.

She said she saw what appeared to be a person lying on the floor of Snider's cabin when she returned some time after seeing her half-brother and sister-in-law beating the recluse.

Key crown witness, she testified she thought the second visit to the cabin, at Eli's request, was on June 23, the day after she had seen the beating.

F. Gratton, counsel for the Guays, said other evidence indicated the visit had been Monday, June 25, three days after the alleged beating.

Passenger Train Nearly Derailed Near Woodstock

WOODSTOCK (CP) — A Canadian Pacific Railway Toronto-Detroit passenger train was nearly derailed five miles west of here early Wednesday when it slammed into six ties placed across the tracks, it was disclosed Wednesday night.

Both provincial and CPR police said they were investigating the suspected vandalism, but have no clues.

The diesel locomotive crew saw the barricade in time to throw on the emergency brakes, but the train ploughed through the timbers. No passengers were reported injured, but one coach was damaged and was cut from the train in London.

Railway officials here declined comment. The train arrived in London at 1:15 a.m., one hour and 20 minutes late.

Brighton Man Being Treated For Typhoid Fever

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—A 25-year-old Brighton man being treated here for typhoid fever is the first victim recorded since the organization of the Northumberland-Durham counties health unit in 1944.

His condition today was reported satisfactory.

He is believed to have contracted the disease on a visit to the Westchester area. Health officials said they are keeping a close check on the Brighton area, 35 miles southeast of here, in case the disease develops.

Pre-Christmas Session of Ont. Legislature Probable Despite Decision of Supreme Court

TORONTO (CP) — There probably will be a pre-Christmas session of the Ontario legislature despite the Supreme Court of Canada's decision to rehear arguments on the validity of the province's farm marketing legislation, it was reported Wednesday.

Date for the special session to begin set for Nov. 20, when it was expected the court would have reached a decision. However, the court decided Wednesday to reopen hearings Nov. 13.

Sources at Queen's Park said the session would likely deal with the provincial government's fiscal program, including a discussion of the possibility of charging a two-per-cent surcharge on corporation income.

The possibility was put forward when Premier Frost's government could not reach an agreement with the federal government on a new tax-sharing program to go into effect at the first of the year.

At the special fall session, the Ontario government is expected to introduce legislation to enable it to collect a two per cent tax on corporation income, thus increasing corporation tax in the province to 11 per cent.

The legislation and machinery to collect the tax would have to be set up quickly because of the rapidly expiring fiscal agreements.

The Supreme Court case, referred to the court by the federal government last winter, involves 14 marketing plans in Ontario set up to stabilize the selling of 21 farm products, including hogs, peaches and a number of vegetables.

The decision could have a bearing on marketing plans in other provinces.

The main issue, which was argued in three days of court hearings last April, is whether charges collected by the marketing boards are service fees or indirect taxes which affect consumer prices. The federal government has the sole right to levy indirect taxation.

But another constitutional issue involved is the governmental division of powers over trade. Provinces have jurisdiction over trade within their borders while the central government has power over interprovincial and foreign trade.

Main issue is the basis of the question which the court wants to have argued next month: Does the province have authority to regulate trade in hogs and other products sold in provinces for shipment later outside the province?

The Ontario legislation originally was challenged by Theodore Parker, a Stratford hog farmer. His counsel, Nelson McFarlane of Stratford, said the Ontario Hog Producers' marketing Board had switched schemes last year without a farmers' vote and thus was not legally constituted.

Despite Much Soul-Searching Britain Sticks With Plans To Test Her First H-Bomb

LONDON (CP) — Britain, unflinchingly but with considerable soul - searching, is going ahead with plans to explore her first hydrogen bomb next spring.

Government spokesmen say there is no change in Britain's long-standing policy that elimination of such tests can only come through international agreement backed by a fool-proof checking system.

However, the government is willing to discuss the question outside a disarmament agreement if such discussions appear to offer prospects of success.

In the House of Commons Wednesday in answer to a question from the Opposition, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said:

"We are working on possible ways in which limitation of nuclear tests might be achieved. The study of complex technical questions is continuing.

"While the government would prefer to treat this subject in the context of a disarmament convention, they remain ready to discuss it separately if this meets with the approval of the other powers concerned and appears to offer better prospects of agreement."

Laborite Richard Stokes pointed out that only three nations—the United States, Russia and Britain —now are concerned in the making of atomic and nuclear weapons and said in a few years "there might be five or six nations in Europe making these beastly things."

He asked if this did not "make an urgent matter that agreement should be reached quickly."

"I agree entirely," Lloyd replied.

The government's general policy on H-bomb test limitation was stated last July by Anthony Nutting, minister of state in the foreign office, at a United Nations meeting. He said:

"In the absence of agreements to eliminate or limit nuclear weapons under proper safeguards, continuation of testing is essential for our national defence and the security of the free world."

But there is a growing opinion in [illegible] country that each new nuclear test is increasing the envelope of deadly radioactive dust existing the atmosphere.

Commenting on the completion earlier this week of Britain's latest atomic test series in Australia, a national daily newspaper, The Star, said "The average Britson must feel just a little like saying 'Well, thank goodness that's over for a while.'

At the moment, however, there is little indication the question of ending nuclear tests is to become the live political issue in this country that it has become in the United States presidential election.

When former prime minister Churchill announced in the Commons in March, 1955, that Britain had decided to go ahead with production of a hydrogen bomb, he said that without such a weapon Britain would be in no event, whatever, lack means to knock out targets directly threatening the country. It was too grave a risk to rely solely on United States H-bomb production and to hope that American policy would give top priority to such targets.

Alfried Krupp Sued for Divorce

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Alfried Krupp, the former German arms magnate, was sued for divorce - Wednesday. His wife of four years said he has $250,000,000 cash.

Vera Krupp alleged that Krupp "willfully and without cause withdrew from the marriage bed." She also alleged mental cruelty, and stated that he was formal and aloof.

She asks a cash settlement of $5,000,000 and support of $250,000 a year.

Krupp was granted amnesty from a 12-year war crimes sentence by U.S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy in February, 1951. All his property rights were restored. He had been in Allied jails since 1945.

Members of Mennonite Sect Fined in Abduction Case

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)— Eleven members of the staid Mennonite religious sect were fined a total of $8,000 Wednesday after they conducted abduction of their own, knocking him out with hypodermic shots and placing him in a mental hospital.

It was the windup of a case involving action by the sect, which forbids ownership of a telephone, hundred persons along the Maryland - Pennsylvania border here.

This is the story, as it was related before Judge D. K. McLaughlin:

Allen E. Hege, 52, a Mennonite farmer, had a dispute with another farmer over a cow. He took his case to court.

By doing so, he broke a church rule. Mennonites settle a dispute by such bodies outside the church, the court was told. Hege was excommunicated.

Members of the sect stopped talking to him. They would visit his wife when he was out in the field, or he in the barn, but would leave when he started to the house.

He didn't like it, and he told some of them so.

Dr. Jonas Spaeth, psychologist at the Brook Lane, a Mennonite institution, testified Mrs. Hege told him she thought Hege should be taken to hospital and she wanted him in a "church" hospital.

About 6 a.m. on Aug. 16, nine men and a nurse drove up to the Hege farm while Hege was in the barn milking. While the men held Hege, the nurse gave him two injections with a hypodermic needle.

The men loaded the unconscious Hege into a station wagon and took off for the Mennonite hospital. Two of them stayed to finish milking the cows.

A neighbor happened to see the loading a man's unconscious form into the station wagon. He called the state attorney's office, which began an investigation.

The defendants appeared in court Wednesday and entered guilty pleas.

He fined Goering $1,000, and gave $500 fines to Mrs. Harnley and the nine who carried out the abduction—Pierce Horst, Alonzo Martin, Allen Martin, James Martin, Leroy Martin, Maurice Martin, Nelson Strite, Amos H. Diller and Mark Petre.

4TH SIDNEY. — The Stone Church Woman's Missionary So- ciety was held at the home of Mrs. E. B. Phillips with 13 members and three visitors present.

These are 17,000,000 people in the one thousand to every square mile, so there is need of help in missions and gifts, es- pecially since the destruction done by the war, so many children are left without parents or care. "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, with all thy mind and thy neighbor as thyself."

Mrs. W. J. Tufts, who had at- tended the Presbyterial rally at Zion's Hill, gave a splendid re- port of the meeting there.

Mercury for 1957 with "dream car" design, represents one of the most extensive model changes in history. Mercury's new larger body is five inches longer and three inches wider. Despite its low silhouette, it has two inches more headroom. A unique new floating ride with many new chassis and suspension features provides easier handling and greater comfort. Shown is a Mercury Montclair Phaeton Sedan.

Extensive Model Changes Feature The New Mercury

Introducing a new "dream car" design to Canadian motorists, the 1957 Mercurys will go on display in Mercury-Lincoln-Meteor showrooms November 12, it was announced today by F. R. Gillis, general manager Mercury – Lincoln – Meteor Sales Division, Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited.

"In one of the most extensive model changes in the history of the automotive industry," Mr. Gillis said, "We are producing in the 1957 Mercurys many of the styling and mechanical features which have made the XM – Turnpike Cruiser the outstanding "dream car in North America."

The 1957 Mercury is distinguished by an unusually low silhouette, and a completely new and larger body. It is five inches longer than the previous model, three inches wider and four inches lower. Nevertheless, headroom has been increased two inches. There is also more hip room and leg room. Wheelbase is up three inches from 119 to 122 inches and the front tread is one and a half inches wider.

Mercury for 1957 offers a 255 h.p. Safety-Surge V-8 engine, with a 290 h.p. Turnpike Cruiser engine available on some models.

The new Mercury offers 14 models in three series. The Monterey and Montclair series each consists of a four-door sedan, Phaeton coupe, Phaeton sedan, and a two-door convertible. The new station wagon series includes three models — the Commuter, Voyager and the exclusive Colony Park. Commuter wagons are available in two-door and four-door six passenger and four-door nine-passenger models. The Voyager comes in two-door six passenger and four-door nine passenger models. The Colony Park wagon offers a four-door nine passenger model.

The new station wagons have hardtop styling. They feature a rear window that rolls down into the tailgate to improve ventilation, and giving an all-clear loading platform (three inches lower than previous models) providing a ten-inch longer through – level door for easier loading and unloading.

The new 1957 Mercury also introduces many new mechanical features.

New keyboard control with Merc-O-Matic transmission features a "Neutral/Start" button which automatically cancels the previous push button settings and engages the starter when the ignition is in the "On" position. Buttons are illuminated for night visibility.

New "floating ride" provides lofty-free comfort at all times, with longer, softer front coil springs and more flexible rear leaf springs. Swept-back ball-joint front suspension lifts front wheels over bumps, while a lower centre of gravity contributes to a better ride and more responsive steering.

A new, stronger, box – shaped frame, and new 14-inch wheels with extra low-pressure tires on wide-shouldered six-inch rims, contribute to an improved ride and lowered car height.

A new toe-set pedal operates an independent parking brake for rear brakes. It is released at the keyboard control.

A new power – booster fan saves up to 17 horsepower that other cars usually waste, boosts performance, saves fuel and reduces engine sound — on Monterey, Colony Park and Commuter station wagons with 255 h.p. engine and Merc-O-Matic drive.

New body features include new high-level, controlled cowl ventilation with fresh air taken into passenger compartment away from the exhaust air level, and new, high density, fibreglass roof insulation which absorbs all types of noises and protects from heat and cold.

I WANT 2000 PEOPLE TO TRY SYNTONA FOR ONLY 25 CENTS

SUFFERERS FROM FAULTY DIGESTION, WEAK KIDNEYS, LAZY LIVER, NERVOUSNESS AND GENERAL RUNDOWN CONDITION

WHAT IT IS!

This is no salts or pill, nor is it a powder, capsule or tablet.

SYNTONA is a LIQUID mineral concentrate of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots. It is taken before meals and mixes with the food in one's stomach, thus actually helping your stomach to digest the food. Contains ALCOHOL. Within minutes SYNTONA gets into the blood stream. Healing herbs quickly clean out the system. Fermenting acid gas is driven to the kidneys and relieves backache, bladder irritation and weakness.

SYNTONA will free your system of its over-supply of ACIDITY, those irritating acids that accumulate in your stomach and spoil your food — fill you with gas, indigestion and pain.

See whether SYNTONA will help you. It has helped thousands of others, whether it will end your sufferings in a day or week — remains to be seen, but in the light of what it has done for others, it is surely a mistake not to try it for the only a fraction of its worth. Take SYNTONA as directed. If you are not entirely DELIGHTED, it costs you this in fairness to yourself and your family.

WHAT IT DOES!

Syntona acts on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. Provides better digestion, relieves rheumatic and neuritic pains, headaches, nervousness and general rundown conditions of the system; it will improve your appetite and over-tired, fatigued feeling and help build new energy and resistance.

WELLINGTON

W.I. Enjoys European Travelogue

WELLINGTON — The monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the town hall on Tuesday evening with about 70 members and visitors present including Mr. Snider's Grade 8 class of W.C.S. Mrs. Ellis, president, was in the chair, and welcomed everyone.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mr. Whitney.

Letters were read from Miss Brickman re the W.I. convention. From Mrs. Smith, re girls' Achievement Day held in Picton Collegiate, October 20th. It was decided to show the Salada Tea exhibit at the convention in Belleville.

Thank-you letters were received from Mrs. A. Vanderwater, Dorothy Rutter and Mrs. J. Bowerman. It was decided that Mrs. Moore, the recording secretary, be given $5 to buy cards and stamps. It was also left to the ways and means committee to purchase a gift for Mrs. Dorsale, Sr.; also to give the Stitched Church a cheque for $5 for the use of the church basement and other facilities where the "Sandwich Demonstration" was held.

Mrs. Jackson reported on the canvass for the Blind which will take place the last week of October. It was voted that the bill for the demonstration day be paid out of the funds. The birthday box was then started on a new year with Mesdames Marvin, Tripp, Allison and J. Dick contributing.

The meeting was handed over to Mrs. Marvin and Mrs. R. Preston, who had charge of the following program: song in unison, "Oh Susannah," current events by Mrs. Ogilvy; poem of the month, Mrs. Preston, "October"; Miss Marilyn Brimley sang "Galway Bay," accompanied by her grandmother, Mrs. F. Brimley, Sr.

The main event of the evening, Mrs. Gair, who had paid a visit to the British Isles and continent in May, brought some of her lovely colored slides of the most interesting places they had seen. She was helped by Miss Vallean at the projector. These pictures were all lovely, and greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. Brimley favored with a piano solo, bringing an interesting meeting to a close.

Miss Joanne Herrington tendered a vote of thanks to Mrs. Marvin and to Mrs. Preston for inviting Grade 8 of the WCS to their meeting.

Refreshments were served by the ladies in charge of the meeting.

"Well, the kids were talking about it . . . It's a New Tabloid size, and it's going to be wonderful . . . You and Mom will want it!"

"Well, I guess I do. The kids say there will be all the present comics we're used to, and four more pages and they are going to be in grand colours."
"All right, son, but you'll have to wait a while longer. The NEW Star Weekly won't be out till the 28th. You come to me then—I want it too. I've heard a lot more than you have about it—fellows tell me they've heard it's going to be really something."

UNDERESTIMATED!

Could it be that the Pembroke Lumber Kings sold the Eastern Ontario Senior "A" League short? They admit, according to a story from the northern town, that they had "underestimated" the loop, after the Kingston Elcees had beaten the Kings 7-3 in the opening game.

Apparently the Lumber laddies had their eyes opened after the Les Douglas crew had decidedly beaten the early-season issue of the puck-chasing royalty up thataway. New scouts took off for Kingston, to take a look out for squalls. The Kings are too hockey-wise to take it sitting down, and you can bet your sleet-choppers Messrs Sargent and Hilderbrand will go talent-questing pronto, if not already.

The surprise inference out of Pembroke has all kinds of angles. The Kingston Elcees, following their victory over the Kings and their near-match of victory from the powerful Dun-lops in the opening tussle, send Limestone hopes soaring with the indication that even at this part of the schedule the locals had a strong contender.

Surely the Kings' management did not believe that the "hike" from senior "B" to senior "A" on the part of the Eastern Ontario loopsters meant that it would go along with senior "B" players, augmented, perhaps, by one or two of higher quality. Or is the southern section of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association not as powerful as it would seem in these eastern senior "B" eyes.

In any event, it appears some 2134 Pembroke fans got a jolt when the Douglasmen trotted out with their early-season squad and administered a 7-3 shellacking to their Kings. Not to mention, the management.

Meanwhile, three defeats in a row have not cast any rays of sunshine on the faithful down Cornwall way.

Wyman Collins, sports editor, columns: "Last year the Colts' management sought better players when it was obvious the Colts were going nowhere, something we feel will again be the case this year after the last two many games are written in the league record books.

"This operator," Collins writes, "is of the opinion the management spoiled things by waiting too long before enlisting outside help and suggests the situation be corrected sooner when it is evident there is need for strengthening.

"Obviously there are several players on the Chevrolets not living the mark required of senior "A" calibred hockey exponents and we urge faster remedying this year."

If such is the case there is a touch of irony in the Cornwall situation. It is recalled that the Colts' management, aided and very ably abetted by one Wren Blair of Whitby were the prime instigators of the move to senior "A". Cornwall has long been represented in senior "A" hockey, in fact in past years had played in Allan Cup competitions. It was said, therefore, that Cornwall fans would not be satisfied with the quality of hockey as played before them when the loop operated under the senior "B" aegis. Or has the quality of senior "A" upped considerably since Cornwall played in that category?

Here at home, Coach Bep Guidolin is whipping the McFarlands through severe and strenuous training grinds. Since their second victory on Sunday, the coach has not been sparing the local horses and that includes himself. They are leaving the ice these nights after ninety minutes of unceasing practice, with their tongues drooping over their boot-laces. There is no let-up and Guidolin intends to have them in tip-top shape as fast as he can get them there.

"And once they get there—they'll stay there," he said grimly. "There will be no fooling on this hockey club. They can't play hockey if they are not physically fit—and unless they are, they won't play."

The departure of Lloyd Hinchberger early in the training period left a vacancy on the McFarlands defence, one that should be filled as soon as possible. To date Guidolin, himself a forward, has been pairing the position with Floyd Crawford and Maurice Benoit, two stout backliners. But another good blueline husky is needed.

Last Sunday in Cornwall, Guidolin and Crawford carried the brunt of the defence work since Benoit was unable to play due to the fact he had a boil removed from his back. The coach used Sammy Mulholland in an assisting capacity. Benoit, however, seems to be all right now since he has been working hard in the practice tilts.

OTTAWA STATUS CLEARED

The status of the Ottawa Canadiens in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" eastern grouping was clarified today by OHA first vice-president Lorne Cook.

Up until now, there had been some feeling that the Ottawa Junior Canadiens, using the six over-age players which they use while participating in the provincial Quebec Hockey League, would not be allowed to play in the new grouping as a full fledged member of the league.

However, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association approved the move and word from OHA business manager Bill Hanley is that the Canadiens will participate as full members, their wins and losses will count and may be included in the point standings.

Up until now it was thought that the four games that each team will play against the Canadiens would have to be classed as exhibition games, but the CAHA's verdict makes it possible for these contests to be billed as actual league games.

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) —Quebec Aces and Trois-Rivieres Lions did all their scoring in less than one minute in the second period Wednesday night as they battled to a 1-1 overtime tie in Quebec Hockey League action.

The draw left league-leading Quebec four points ahead of the ing caused by roast beef. second-place Lions in the standings.

Veteran Bucky Buchanan scored the Quebec goal but Gilles Thibault countered for the Lions.

Harvey's Hook, Penalty Shot Cost Habitants the Pastime; Rocket Scores Season's First

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Doug Harvey's wayward stick cost Montreal Canadiens a National Hockey League game Wednesday night.

The 31-year-old Montreal defenceman hooked Dean Prentice from behind when the New York Rangers forward was in the clear. The rule infraction was duly noticed by officials and Rangers scored on a rarely-seen penalty shot that gave them a 3-2 victory.

It was the only game of the night and only seven Rangers into a first-place tie with Detroit Red Wings. Canadiens, who have confused the experts by winning only two of their five league games so far, are in a three-way deadlock for third spot.

LEWICKI BAGS WINNER

Rangers did all their scoring in the first period. The deciding goal came on the penalty shot with Rangers ahead 2-1. Left winger Danny Lewicki, an 18-goal man last season, took the puck from Jakob Gaultenker Gerry McNeil to the left side, then drove the puck into the right corner of the Montreal net at 14:37.

The near-capacity crowd of 15,280 at New York's Madison Square Garden nearly went wild. Although Harvey was within one goal of tying it up, they couldn't beat Ranger goaltender Lorne Worsley again.

Other Ranger scorers were defenceman Bob Gaddy and Bronco Horvath. Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Jean Beliveau tallied for the Montrealers.

For the Rocket, it was his 461st goal in National League competition. It increased his points total to 800. Both stars, the only players including playoff games, Richard has 523 goals in 15 years in the NHL.

ON BELIVEAU

The clean but hard-hitting game started ominously as Ranger fans started a chant of "Get Beliveau" during the first period. New York coach Phil Watson had said previously that Beliveau played "dirty hockey" in a New York-Montreal game on Saturday. The Montreal centre got in a fight with forward Red Sullivan, who suffered a deep cut which required four stitches.

After Wednesday night's engagement Watson admitted he had said Rangers were out to "get Beliveau," but "I shouldn't have said it." He added that his team wasn't out to get the Montreal ace but wanted only to win the game.

Worsley had a good night. He made 33 saves, the only scores less third Gerry McNeil, once the regular goaltender for Montreal who was brought up from Montreal Royals to substitute for the ailing Jacques Plante, handled 19 Ranger shots, six in the windup period.

Canadiens played without two of their stars. Henri Richard, younger brother of the scorer-missed the game because of torn knee ligaments. Plante was out with a bronchial infection.

New Zealand Has Few Olympic Stars

By J. C. GRAHAM

Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — New Zealand's team for the Olympic Games contains few obvious world-beaters. But as the nearest country to Australia, only a few hours' flight from Melbourne, New Zealand has the advantage of geography. It is nearer to Melbourne than some parts of Australia itself.

The New Zealand team will be well acclimatized and will have less travel than any team except the hosts. New Zealanders can thus be expected to perform better top form when athletes coming from the opposite hemisphere.

Several have been training in Australia and will stay there until after the Games. They include Murray Halberg, 23, New Zealander who won the 1,500-metres run. Halberg has run a mile on grass in 4:18 and some New Zealanders look for a real spring 4 surprise on the four - minute milers.

SWIMMER TOP ACE

The top selection is a swimmer, Lincoln Hurring, one of the two veterans from the 1952 Olympic team. Hurring, red - headed Hurring is a student at Iowa State University where this year he won the 100- and 200-yard backstroke Big Ten championships. He was second in the 110-yard backstroke at the Empire Games in Vancouver.

But though these entrants may place well if teams from the northern hemisphere are not at their top form, greater hopes of Gold Medals rest with team members in events harder to compare with overseas performances.

The most highly rated in this category are the team chosen for the 10-square-metre yacht-borne test. Peter Mander is classed as the most brilliant yachtsman New Zealand has known. He has won every national title available in the last 11 years, as well as twice carrying off the 18-foot international contest with Australia.

Another aquatic combination rated high is the pair-oared rowing crew, R. H. Parker and R. A. Douglas. They won the pair-oar Gold Medal at the 1954 Empire Games and are performing even more brilliantly today.

Another rowing hope is J. R. Hill, nominated for the single sculls. He won that berth by beating the Empire Games champion, Don Rowlands, although Rowlands is still at the top of his form.

Ottawa Trounces Whitby 7-5 Kingston, Pembroke Play Tie

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario senior hockey's newest league—the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A eastern group—seems to be proving itself in top minor league competition.

The big question in pre-season speculation was whether lowered, which had previously supported nothing better than senior B teams could come up with squads of senior A calibre. It seems they can.

Wednesday night Kingston CKLCs battled to a 3-3 tie with Pembroke Lumber Kings, for many years a power in Northern Ontario senior play, and the Kings were lucky to salvage a tie.

They lost their first game with Kingston 7-3 and only Jack Giesebrecht's two goals gave them the tie Wednesday night after CKLCs had taken 2-0 and 3-2 leads.

In the OHA senior A western group Stratford Indians moved into a three-way tie for first place by defeating Chatham Maroons 3-2, augu ring a tight battle for league honors after only a week of play.

There were four senior games in all last night, two in the OHA eastern group; one in the OHA western group and one in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association southern group.

In addition to the Pembroke and Kingston draw, Ottawa Canadiens came from behind to defeat Whitby Dunlops 7-5.

Sudbury Wolves moved into second place in the NOHA group with a 5-4 win over Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Indians.

In the Kingston game, CKLCs opened up their 2-0 edge in the first period on goals by Gary Moore and Frank Carroll.

In the second period Bert Giesebrecht scored for the Kings and at the one-minute mark of the third his brother Jack counted to even things up.

Joe Levandoski scored again for Kingston but Jack Giesebrecht tied the game again.

Canadiens rapped in three unanswered goals in the third period to overcome a 3-4 deficit and win their game in Whitby.

John Annabel was top Canadiens' scorer with three, while Dick Dumouchel, Ralph Backstrom, John Kowalchuk and Angus Carroll got singles.

Whitby's two losers' Bob Attersley, Bus Gagnon, Sandy Air, Ted de Gray and Frank Bonello were the scorers.

The western group game at Chatham saw 20 penalties handed out, 12 to Chatham.

Joe Schertzl, Mickey Roth and Walker scored for Stratford. Al Cleary and Jim Connolly counted for Chatham.

Sudbury broke a 2-2 second period tie in the game in Sault Ste. Marie to take a 4-3 lead. John Offidani tied the score for Soo Indians halfway through the third period but Bob Forhan scored the winner with six minutes left in the game.

Other Sudbury goal-getters were Joe Zorica, Billy Watson, Andy Milne and Nick Tomiuk. Indian scorers were Jake Forbes, Eddie Jeau and Laurie Peterson.

Thursday night Indians play at home in their five in NOHA activity, while Kingston is at Cornwall in the OHA eastern group.

'Lip' Would Manage Indians For Half of the Reservation

By BEN WILEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Leo Durocher may be as old fire hose managing' he bit, but it'll take a four-alarmer to get him back to baseball.

All the Lip wants to fill Cleveland's managerial vacancy—if the job is offered—is a yearly salary near $100,000 and a piece of the club. The latter, apparently, can keep the program concession.

Durocher, who retired after managing New York Giants in 1955, says he's happy drawing a reported $100,000 a year as a television executive in Hollywood. But he announced yesterday he'll be glad to hear a proposition from Hank Greenberg, Cleveland general manager.

Greenberg, in New York on business, disclosed he and Leo had talked over the preliminaries via long-distance telephone and added he would go to the west coast to meet with Durocher Monday.

LEO INTERESTED

"Durocher told me he was interested in returning to baseball," said Greenberg. "And since I certainly want to get the best man available, naturally I want to talk to him."

Said Leo: "If Greenberg has an offer, it better be a whopper."

Durocher was adamant about being allowed to hold stock in any club he would agree to manage. Under no circumstances would I be interested in managing again unless I could buy into the club. I would never manage again just for salary."

Leo is said to receive a salary "close to $100,000 a year" with NBC. Last summer, a friend of Greenberg and Durocher told The Associated Press he had been authorized by the Indians to offer Durocher a three-year contract at $100,000 a year.

"It would have to be something like that," said Leo, "but with a stock deal, too."

A manager or player can hold stock in his club if approved by commissioner Ford Frick, with the understanding that the stock would be sold should the player or manager move to another club.

Hershey Wins Over Cleveland

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When Pittsburgh Hornets edged after finishing second in the American Hockey League last season, a number of their players were picked up by Hershey Bears. The additions seem to have helped transform the fifth-place Bears into a contending club.

A couple of former Hornets—centre Bob Hassard and goalie Gil Mayer—played prominent roles as the Bears defeated Cleveland 3-3 in Wednesday's only game and pulled into a first-place tie with the Barons.

Hassard got a goal and Mayer made 33 saves, giving a brilliant performance in the third period when he turned back Cleveland's powerful attack after Bo Elik had put the Barons back in the game with an early goal.

Bill Kullman also scored twice for Hershey while Ken Hayden got the other Cleveland goal, his 199th, just before the end of the first period.

The goal by Elik, 27-year-old rookie who played in Northern Ontario last season, boosted his league-leading total to six—an average of one a game. He also has four assists and is the top point-getter in the AHL.

Olympics Crowd Planes, Ships

VANCOUVER (CP) — Spokesmen for shipping and air lines here say bookings from Vancouver to Melbourne, Australia, for the Olympic Games starting Nov. 22 is chiefly booked.

The Orcades or Orient Lines left here Tuesday on the Olympic run and will have every bunk filled when she leaves San Francisco Friday. The Orcades carries about 1,300 passengers.

Harold Cotton, agent for Matson Lines, said the new 365-passenger Mariposa and her sister, Monterey, won't be able to accept another passenger for six months as there are cancellations.

Jack Crump, Canadian Pacific Airlines public relations officer, said the company's planes are full up for every trip between now and Olympics time.

'Federal Hill' Looks Good For State Stakes

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—A horse who was almost sold for the song he was named after is rumored a good chance of winning the richest purse in thoroughbred racing history Saturday.

He'd Federal Hill, a Kentucky-bred colt, named after the "home" in the song, My Old Kentucky Home. This son of Cosmic Bomb-Aerial Beauty is one of 17 of the finest two-year-olds in the United States expected to march postward for the $315,210 Garden State Stakes at Garden State Park.

Should Federal Hill thrust his nose across the finish line first in this fourth annual mile and a sixteenth test for two-year-olds he'd certainly qualify for a ragsto-riches yarn.

Clifford Lunsky, Kentucky paint manufacturer who owns Federal Hill, admits that he was only a very little of the colt he recently named as a Garden State entry at the supplementary entry cost of $10,000.

MADE HIM THINK

In Federal Hill's first race last June, he finished third. However, the two horses who finished ahead of him, later went on to win stakes races which made Lunsky stop and think.

Since that first race, Federal Hill has started 10 times and finished in the money on eight occasions, six times a winner. He has earned $50,675, including first money in last week's Garden State trial in which he defeated the favored Barbizon, Calumet Farm's previously unbeaten colt.

Lunsky's colt will have to be at the peak of performance Saturday. Wheatley Stables' Bold Ruler, trained by the veteran Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, should be at least a 2-to-1 favorite. Teddy Atkinson of Toronto, replacing Eddie Arcaro who is under suspension for "carelessness" riding in Kentucky, will handle the reins on Bold Ruler. Arcaro appealed his suspension Wednesday but was turned down.

Ted Williams, Musial Boast Highest Lifetime Bat Average

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ

NEW YORK (AP) — Boston's Ted Williams, 38, and Stan Musial, 35, of St. Louis Cardinals continue to boast the highest lifetime batting averages by major league players with 19 other players hitting .300 or better.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press revealed today that Williams' lifetime mark remained at .348, while Musial's average dropped two points to .340 during the 1956 season. Williams hit .345 for the year and Musial .310.

Twelve active National League players, among those who have participated in at least 300 games, own .300 or better averages. Hank Aaron of Milwaukee and Pittsburgh's Bill Virdon, moved into this elite category as a result of their 1956 performances.

Aaron, the league's batting champion, hit .328 to boost his lifetime average from .299 to .310. Virdon, in only his sophomore season, reached .301 at bats and an even .300 average.

MITCHELL MARDER IT

Dale Mitchell, veteran Cleveland and Brooklyn outfielder, compiled a .312 lifetime mark before he retired earlier this week.

Nine junior league batters are over .300 lifetime, Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees moving into the group this year. Mantle, the league's batting champion at .353, lifted his career average from .298 to .308.

Williams and Musial also pace the majors among the active lifetime home run leaders. Williams has belted 418 four baggers and Musial 332.

The Yanks' Yogi Berra is runner-up in the American League with 238, most lifetime homers ever hit by a catcher. Duke Snider of the Dodgers, who led the National League with 43 home runs in 1956, ranks behind Musial with 276.

Cockell's Wife Swaps Him for Handsome Tar

SEVENOAKS, England (AP)—The pretty wife of Don Cockell, former British heavyweight boxing champion, said Wednesday night she is leaving him for a handsome ex-seaman.

Cockell, who lasted nine rounds with Rocky Marciano in San Francisco in 1953, and the sailor, Welshman (Taffy) Clark, brawled over Cockell's affections Tuesday night in a local saloon. Neither was injured.

"I've been counted out in my biggest fight," said Cockell. "I'm going to get a divorce."

He said he would ask custody of their two small sons.

Agr. College Wins Track Title

HAMILTON (CP) — Ontario Agricultural College Wednesday won the Intermediate Intercollegiate track and field championship with 58 points.

The Guelph team was eight points ahead of Queen's University and 36 ahead of the host McMaster University squad.

Individual point champion was Ric Hoddinott of Queen's who won the three events in which he entered—the high hurdles, 22-yard low hurdles and the quarter-mile. His times were 16.3 seconds, 25.9 seconds and 53.5 seconds.

OAC's Don Claremont won both long-distance events. He took the mile over Queen's Don Menary in 4:40.4 and the three-mile against teammate Ron Hackett in 15:58.2.

Team standings were: OAC 58; Queen's 50; McMaster 22; Waterloo College 20; University of Toronto 14, Assumption 3.

Royal Military College from Kingston entered a team which won 28 points but was not placed because the service school is not a member of the conference to which the other teams belong.

DUBLIN (AP)—A prize fund of £2,000,000 appeared likely Wednesday night as final preparations were made for the Irish Sweepstakes drawing on the Cambridge-Shire Handicap.

In the Irishmen's drawing there will be 16 first prizes of £30,000 each.

Canadian Stakes May Have Value Of $62,800

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Championship Stakes will have a total value of $62,800 if, as is expected, 18 horses go to the post in the turf classic at New Woodbine Saturday, the Canada Colony Club announced Wednesday.

The owner of the winning horse will receive $45,300. Second place is worth $10,000, third $5,000 and fourth $2,500.

The still is a chance that the powerful G. V. Whitney Stable may ship a horse from New York for the race. Mr. Whitney has paid $400 to nominate Carver Bay, Fisherman, Brown Hackle and Gunner Boy. It is possible that one of them may arrive here Friday.

Prince Morvi, Wise Margin, Peper Tiger, Dark Armor, Eohippus II and Chop Chop from the United States had their final workouts at Woodbine Wednesday morning. It is anticipated that Canadian racing will be represented by Argyle Stable's Canadian Champ, Fleet Path, Bally-Ache, Marshall Key II, Marked Game, All View and others.

NOHA Players In Court

SUDBURY (CP) — A near-riot which stopped an exhibition hockey game at Sudbury Arena October 15 between Sudbury Wolves and North Bay Trappers of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association had its sequel in the Sudbury magistrates' court Wednesday when the coach and two players of the North Bay team were charged with common assault.

The cases against coach Joe Dempsey, defenceman Howie Glover and forward Bill Needham were adjourned to November 7. All three charges were laid by Harold Cann, a part-time arena employee who was watching the game and became involved in the fight in its closing stages.

Golden Gaels Meet McGill With Full Squad

KINGSTON (CP) — Queen's Golden Gaels face their Senior Intercollegiate Football Union game against McGill Redmen Saturday as physically fit as they can be. But they are faced with the mental hazard that Redmen have been the only team to defeat them this season.

For the first time this season, coach Frank Tindall likely will be able to call on a full squad.

Bill Surphlis, a fullback whose TB-yard run dashed Toronto Varsity Blues' championship hopes last season, probably will be available. So will halfback Charlie Lafrence, out with a broken collarbone suffered in pre-season game, and fullback Pete Rowe, injured two weeks ago.

Tindall, disturbed at McGill's ability to stop Queen's running game, indicated he will waste little Friday time selecting his players.

His problem is whether to pick Surphlis for his offensive ability or to strengthen the defence by employing either Howe or Lafrance, thus relieving Ron Gerhart, Al Dewsnap, Dave Harshaw and John Moschelle of defensive duties.

Gaels fully aware that a double loss at the hands of the Redmen would all but eliminate them from the playoff race, have whipped through practices with a will to gain, to such an extent that heavy contact work has been ruled out by the coaching staff. They lost 6-1 to the Redmen.

Dodger Rookie Shows Japanese Fine Hurling

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese baseball experts had high praise today for a 19-year-old Brooklyn Dodger rookie southpaw who has struck out seven of the top outstanding sluggers and issued only four hits and one walk so far in two appearances.

Big Fred Kipp, formerly with Brooklyn's International League farm team at Montreal, faced 23 batters and seven were fanned Wednesday, fanned six and gave up four hits and one pass. He finished an all-star Japanese team in Sendai, northern Japan, 8-0, before 30,000 fans. The Japanese team was composed of top players from the Tokyo-Yomiuri-Nagoya area.

Nobuyasu Niruhara, pilot of Yomiuri Giants and sparkling batters as seven pitchers faced the ball but we're still helpless against curves and a change of pace such as those so flawlessly demonstrated by Fred Kipp."

Third baseman Atsushi Hakoda shook his head and said: "Kipp is a hard pitcher to hit. I touched his hit any of his inside balls. They cut the corners and the fast ones were dynamite and I still don't know if they were a knuckleball or a palm ball."

High praise also came from manager Walter Alston and Kipp's teammates. Dodgers' pitching coach Joe Becker said: "Kipp's got two good fast balls. They were on the ball. He's sure to figure in the Dodger picture next season."

Catcher Roy Campanella said: "Too bad we didn't use him in the world series."

SIGNING TODAY

CHICAGO (AP)—Archie Moore, light heavyweight champion, and Floyd Patterson are to have a formal contract signing today for their 10-round heavyweight title bout in Chicago Stadium Nov. 30.

Lions Fire Line Coach

VANCOUVER (CP) — Wally Ziemba said Wednesday he has been fired as line coach of B.C. Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union. No Lions' officials admitted responsibility for his firing.

Head coach Clem Crowe told a reporter: "It did not fire Ziemba." President Don Mackenzie said: "It's a complete surprise to me."

"Crowe told me Tuesday morning I was through," Ziemba said. "I don't know the reason for my being fired, but I guess that's the head coach's prerogative."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When you are capable of getting on a world bridge championship you do things that ordinary folks wonder at. One of them is reading the signals that seem extraordinary to most players.

From the last world match here is deal number three again:

NORTH
♠K Q 10 7 6
♥10 6 5 3
♣X Q J 2

WEST
♠9 8 5 4 2
♥8 4 2
♦8 5 4 3
♣A 9 7 3

EAST
♠A 8 3
♦10 9 7 2
♣10 8 6 5

SOUTH
♥A K Q J 7
♦A K Q J 6
♣K

In room one the Swedish pair in south-north were in six hearts. The American players in west-east cashed club ace for his fast trick and then switched to a spade that his east partner won with the ace.

This downed the contract right then and there. And it looks as if west was inspired to make such a second lead or could see through the back of the cards in the hand of partner. But it was not that.

To all players including experts a high discard asks partner to continue the same suit. But to a super master it also has a second meaning when he can read it as such.

If it is obvious that the same suit is not what is asked for, a high card discard asks for a switch to the highest rank suit. On the west club ace, east discarded club ten. This did the trick.

In room two, the American player sat south and north. Here, too, the contract was six hearts. But the Swedish player in west did not lead club and so take the first trick.

Instead, he decided to lead a trump as a beginning. Take a look at the timing this offers declarer. You can see the opportunity this gives him to make six despite two missing aces.

After pulling the opponent trumps, south cashed his five solid diamonds and shifted therefore from dummy four clubs and a spade. All he had to do then is give up a trick to the ace of spades.

Thus did the American team make a slam that could have gone down one. Thus did the Swedish team go down one on a deal that they might have made if they had more luck or less observing opponents.

LONGDEN BEATEN

ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — Fleet Charge, ridden by Hugo Dittfach, drove to a five-length victory over Traffic, with Johnny Longden up, in the Point Reyes Purse at Golden Gate Fields Wednesday. Fleet Charge's time for the mile was 1:35.8.

AT THE BELLE — Bing Crosby, Grace Kelly, Frank Sinatra and Celeste Holm, who are co-starred in MGM's Bagdad II, high romance, high hilarity and melody, in color and VistaVision, playing tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre.

Ben Alexander's Movie Career Dates Back to First World War

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ben Alexander, of natural enough, playing the sidekick of a law enforcer. But there was a difference. Now playing a deputy sheriff, not officer Frank Smith of TV's Dragnet.

His buddy was not Sgt. Joe Friday, alias Jack Webb, but Jeff Chandler instead.

But the most shocking thing Alexander was drunk!

All this was in a movie scene, of course — Universal-International's Pay the Devil. The scene had Alexander as an erring deputy getting drunk on duty at the insistence of the heavy.

"If my partner (Webb) could see me now, he'd kill me," Alexander laughed.

WAR CHILD ACTOR

Ben's film career dates back to the First World War, when he appeared in a child actor with D. W. Griffith.

His big break as a young man came in 1930, when he appeared in All Quiet on the Western Front.

"Universal wanted to sign me to a term contract," he recalled. "But Lewis Milestone, the director of the picture, advised me to hold out until it was released. Then I'd get offers from all the studios.

"So what happened? The picture was released and nobody could tell me apart in those uniforms, except for Lew Ayres. I didn't work for two years!

TYPED AS KILLER

Later he appeared in Are These Our Children? A juvenile delinquency subject of the early '30s that typed him as a young killer, a role he didn't exactly relish.

"I decided it was time to quit after a picture in which Alice Brady beat me to death with a curling iron for raping a girl," he said.

After that, he went into radio as an announcer and quizmaster, edging into TV after the war. His association with Webb turned out to be a happy one for all concerned. Now, at 43, Ben is better known than he ever was as a kid actor.

He's on a sabbatical from Dragnet right now, doing several films have been made to run through mid-1957.

Imports Will Take all Profits Says Earley

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian professional football has become big business and men can no longer run its teams as a hobby, Bill Earley, former backfield coach of Toronto Argonauts, said Wednesday.

He told the Toronto Electric Club that the time has arrived when there should be a commissioner in charge of football, for the whole of Canada.

Earley, fired by the Argonauts last week, said a check should be put on the number of imports allowed by each team and more money should be used to develop and coach Canadian players.

"Each year more and more imports are demanded," he said. "If it continues, you might see 15 imports to a team. With that number and the high salaries demanded, no team could operate at a profit even if it filled its stadium for every game."

He had been scheduled to talk on "What's wrong with the Argos" but he said events of the last week had forced him to change his topic.

Shannonville

SHANNONVILLE — The Shannonville Home and School Association held its monthly meeting on Monday last with a good attendance and president, Mrs. Alvin McKenzie, in the chair.

Treasurer's report showed a bank balance of $197.07 with $5.00 raised. Note was given and passed that Home and School manuals be ordered for use by the executive of the committee.

The attendance prize was a tie with six present.

Members of the association are off to a good start improving the school grounds by planting 300 tulip bulbs; with good luck, these should make a lovely display in the spring.

The Electric Skillet Draw will take place early in December when the annual bazaar will be held at the Orange Hall.

Plans were completed for the Halloween party to be held on October 31, in the School room with prizes and treats for the children.

A special meeting will be called at a later date to complete plans for the bazaar and dance. Refreshment convenors for the next meeting are Mrs. Helen Spencer, Mrs. McKenzie, and Mrs. Holland.

After the business meeting was adjourned, the guest speaker, the Rev. L. A. Pace gave an interesting talk on "Heritage".

Refreshments were served by the lady convenors of the month.

Distinguished by an unusually low silhouette, the 1957 Monarch is wider, longer and roomier. Overall height has been reduced four inches, yet headroom has been increased two inches. Softer ride, better handling and roadability result from newly engineered chassis features including the industry's first air cushion suspension. Pictured is the Monarch Richelieu Phaeton coupe.

Low Silhouette Distinguishes The 1957 Monarch

Representing one of the most extensive model changes in the history of the automotive industry, the 1957 Monarch will be introduced to Canadians November 1. It was announced today by F. J. Willey, general manager, Ford-Monarch Sales Division, Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited. "This new Canadian car will set styling and performance standards for years to come," Mr. Willey said.

The 1957 Monarch is distinguished by an unusually low silhouette, a completely new and longer body, a new 255 h.p. engine, and a unique new floating ride which pioneers air-cushion suspension. Five inches longer than previous models, it is three inches wider and four inches lower. Headroom has been increased two inches and there is also more hip room and leg room. Wheelbase is increased three inches from 118 to 121 inches, and the front trend is one and a half inches wider.

Among new mechanical features is a keyboard control, with automatic transmission, which is mounted on the instrument panel to the left of the steering column. It features a "Neutral-Start" button which automatically cancels the previous push-button setting and requires depression of the ignition for in the "On" position. Buttons are illuminated for night visibility.

The 1957 Monarch has a new chassis for increased safety, durability and improved road-handling qualities, with a new, stronger, box-shaped frame which is 12.3" longer ad 14.5" wider.

Air cushion suspension—first in the industry for passenger car—is featured as part of Monarch's all-new "floating ride," designed to smother bumps, vibrations and road noises and provide smooth, effortless driving.

A new power booster fan, which saves up to 17 h.p. that other cars usually waste, boosts performance, saves fuel and reduces engine sound.

New 14" wheels have extra low-pressure tires on wide-shouldered 6" rims which contribute to improved ride and lowered car height.

New body features include new high-level, controlled cowl ventilation with fresh air taken into passenger compartment away from the exhaust air level.

Violence Flares In Singapore As Red Students Riot

British Troops Shoot Down Six Chinese in Streets

Pearson Twits Newsmen on How To Write Story

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson, accuser of the guest speaker, twitted a gathering of newspaper men Thursday night about how he imagined they'd report the approaching collision of earth with some other planet.

He told the first Bowater Journalism Awards dinner he has wondered how Canadian journalists and journals would deal with the news of the earth's oncoming destruction.

"I know, of course, what the reaction of a loyal and devoted party politician would be: 'I wonder how these 265 (Commons) by-elections will go?'"

As for the press, he said he has come up with the following "speculative and representative last pieces":

St. John's (Nfld.) Daily News: "As this inter-planetary crash occurs, all Newfoundlanders know they can trust Joey."

Montreal La Presse: 'ect ne serait pas arrive si nous avions plus de sous-ministres de langue Francaise." ("This never would have happened if we had more French - speaking deputy ministers.")

Montreal Gazette: "This tragedy should at least drastically reduce governmental expenditures and taxation."

Ottawa Journal: "Good to learn that at last Liberal government will get what is coming to it. But, however, that Conservative party will not be around to pick up the pieces."

Toronto Star: "Five special correspondents and three photographers flying by special jet transport to scene of disaster."

Winnipeg Free Press: "The burning question is what effect will this catastrophe have on the wheat surplus and Jimmy Gardiner."

Victoria Daily Times (Bruce Hutchison's column): "Certainly our hauntingly beautiful but unknown country loses last chance to become known."

The Canadian Press: "Reported here, from anonymous but authoritative official sources, that in approximately 48 hours a planet, not yet identified, will undoubtedly collide with ours, if nothing develops meanwhile to change the situation."

SINGAPORE (AP)—New violence flared in Singapore today, and six Chinese were reported killed by police bullets.

British troops mounted machine-guns at strategic points in the colony as subscribers braced for a renewal of Thursday night's rioting, which injured 50 persons, including nine policemen, in Singapore and its suburbs.

The riots began on the east side of Singapore Island near the Chung Cheng High School. About 2,000 Communist-led students at this and another Chinese school have been on a sit-down strike since Oct. 10 protesting the government's ban on their student union and the arrest of four union officials.

Rebellious students managed to stay in the schools another night, but police later chased them out this morning with clubs and tear gas.

JOINED STRIKERS

Later the students joined striking workers and hoodlums in clashes with police. Stones were hurled at automobiles and acid was thrown into one police station.

Three of those reported killed fell from gunshot wounds in downtown Singapore at noon, the others in the Paya Lebar airport area outside the city.

A curfew was imposed ordering all persons off the streets.

Helicopters dropped tear gas bombs in the streets while outnumbered police opened fire right and left in an effort to disperse mobs looting and wrecking their way through the colony.

EMERGENCY SESSION

Singapore's chief minister, Lim Yew Hock, met today in emergency session with his council of ministers. He said he had telephoned Tunku Abdul Rahman, chief minister of Malaya, who had "offered all the help needed."

At least 37 persons have been arrested during 48 hours of rioting. The city's bus system was paralyzed by sympathy strikes as thousands of workers moved to support the left-wing students.

A government spokesman said the number of attacks on Europeans was increasing. At least six Europeans were injured at Singapore's port and 30 cars were burned.

Girl Is Held In Shooting of Winnipeg Man

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP) — Police held a 20-year-old girl in connection with the fatal shooting Friday of a 70-year-old St. Boniface man Thursday night.

Rene Bevenger was found lying fully clothed in a pool of blood in the living room of his apartment. A shotgun was nearby. He had been shot in the groin.

Today's Chuckle

"What were you in civilian life?" asked the commanding officer.

"Happy, sir," replied the recruit.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Temperatures today are warmer throughout Ontario. Cloud covering most of Michigan is forecast to move eastward into Ontario associated with warm air. A line of showers extending from western Lake Superior southward through Lake Michigan represents the approach of cooler air from the mid-western States. These showers are forecast to move eastward across Ontario later today and at night. Clearing and cooler weather is indicated for Saturday.

NEW VIOLENCE ROCKS N. AFRICA; MANY WOUNDED

French-Tunisian Relations Strained

TUNIS (CP) — New violence rocked North Africa as border incidents strained already tumultuous relations another notch today.

French Premier Bourguiba's government claimed that many Tunisians were wounded when a French military patrol near Algeria tried to smash through a roadblock the Arabs had set up to prevent such crossings.

The French denied breaching any barricade, and said there had been no casualties. The French have been patrolling the area daily to prevent arms running to the rebels.

Elsewhere in Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco, French troops and Arabs clashed in fresh flareups sparked by resentment over the execution Wednesday of leading Algerian rebels Monday while en route to a conference in Tunis.

FOUR KILLED

In Casablanca, two Moroccan policemen were killed and two wounded when a bomb hit the European quarter. A jeep carrying the four was sprayed by machine-gun fire from a car.

In Algiers, six Europeans were wounded when grenades were tossed into a cafe.

In Algiers, where four Europeans were killed by rebels Thursday, French forces shot down five rebels in the Fays Lebar airport area and four wounded.

At Ain Mokra near Oran, 14 rebels were killed. Seventeen others fell elsewhere in Algeria.

ASSEMBLY APPROVES

Meanwhile, in Paris, Premier Guy Mollet's eight-month-old government Thursday night won an overwhelming vote of confidence from the National Assembly over its handling of the North Africa, Suez and domestic economic issues.

Only the Communists and a few other deputies voted against the 50-year-old Socialist premier. The vote was called for the government, with 48 abstentions.

At least 27 premier Pierre Mendes-France, left-wing Radical leader who broke with Mollet over the Algerian crisis, declared that the premier is the man best fitted for a settlement of the two-year Algerian rebellion.

The debate, started nine days ago, has not ended. Mendes-France's government intends to make any new proposals it has for ending the Algerian fighting. The impression in the lobbies was that Mollet felt the rebellion might subside as the result of France's arrest of the five rebel leaders.

Premier Frost Says Shortage Still Exists

LINDSAY (CP) — More than 5,000 pupils will be turned away high schools took a day off Thursday while 412 of their teachers went back to school. The teachers are attending an annual education conference of District 8 of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

Speaking at the district annual dinner, Premier Frost said the government has no shortage of sources but the shortage is and will be one of manpower. The premier forecast a wave of immigration from the United States as that country's population grows in the next 20 years.

Swiss Saw Rebels, Soviet Soldiers Hanged From Budapest Lamp Posts

VIENNA (Reuters) — The independent Austrian socialist newspaper Bildtelegraf quotes a Swiss, who has returned from Hungary Thursday as saying "I have seen with my own eyes 20 leaders of the Budapest rioters hanged on flag masts and lamp posts at the promenade along the Danube."

Bildtelegraf claims to have received this report from Werner Hesse of Berne, who arrived at the Austrian border station at Klingenbach Thursday.

He said words "cannot describe the events in Hungary terribly enough."

"The reality exceeds the wildest imagination. . . People have been driven together and executed at once."

Hesse, who escaped the radio station in Budapest had been thrown out of the windows from the fourth floor of the building, "and the rebels, too, are without mercy wherever they win temporary control."

"I have also seen Soviet soldiers being hanged.

"It is a fight without mercy. The impression is that if there' is no help coming from outside, the rebels are lost, the Hungarian people face bloody judgment without precedent."

Some Hungarian Army Units Help Battle Secret Police

VIENNA (AP)—The role of the Hungarian Army in their country's revolt is a puzzle, but some elements appear to have sided with the rebels, according to the first dispatches to The Associated Press from Hungary since Tuesday—the day the rebellion started.

Endre Marton, the AP correspondent in Budapest, filed Thursday night a graphic eyewitness account of events in the Hungarian capital.

Marton told how 2,000 enthusiastic Hungarians, disregarding a curfew, gathered in front of Marx Square near the Csepel factory and station Thursday night. There Hungarian troops had surrounded a Red Star printing plant by driving away secret police from the building.

The crowd cheered whenever an army officer appeared on the balconies and threw down leaflets to the crowd.

The leaflets were signed by "The new temporary revolutionary government defence committee." They said in part:

"We solemnly swear over the bodies of our martyrs in the cause of Hungarian independence and freedom will prevail.

The leaflets demanded immediate cancellation of the Warsaw defence pact under which the Hungarian government called on Soviet troops stationed in Hungary to help put down the rebellion.

Peaceful demonstrations which started Tuesday afternoon turned into a revolution that same night, and developed Wednesday into what could be termed war, Marton reported.

Demonstrators outside the Budapest radio station became enraged when a delegation which had entered was prevented from getting out.

Secret police fired at the crowd with tear gas and machine-guns.

The flag-draped body of a young man killed in the fighting around the radio building was carried to the offices of Szabad Nep, the official Communist party newspaper. An enraged crowd pillaged the editorial offices.

Imre Nagy, the new premier, tried to soothe the rebel elements in a speech in front of Parliament, but met with no success.

Then Thursday the government announced that it had to call in Russian troops because it was not prepared to meet the situation, and the revolution of the previous night changed into war.

Russian soldiers moved into Budapest Wednesday afternoon.

Heavy fighting took place that day, especially in the vicinity of Maria Square.

The scene resembled the grim days after the siege of Budapest in 1945.

On Last Lap of Ocean Trip, Toronto Yawl Nearing Devon

DARTMOUTH, England (CP)—Still seas and a dying wind today slowed the progress of the Canadian yawl Crosbie on the last lap of her epic voyage from Canada's during which she was given up for lost.

The Crosbi, with Arthur Smith and Peter Battersby of Blackpool, England, aboard, was sighted Thursday night off the Cornish coast by the local general director of this Devon coast town. Later the boat was said to have lost sight of. Coast guard stations in the area said they had no definite information.

One possible clue came from the station at Wrafton, Barnstaple.

"I saw a boat about the size of the Orenda quite a way off shore," said an official at Potzun. "There was a small aircraft overhead at the time."

The wives of the sailors from Canada, Mrs. Violet Smith and Mrs. Blanche Battersby, were believed to be staying at a nearby Falmouth.

The wives have been in England for some weeks, and clung grimly to the belief that their husbands were safe despite reports last month that the boat was derelict. The Crosbie's radio aerials were damaged "part of the wind's" was reported Thursday night off Land's End, 1,000 miles from Dartmouth.

Mrs. Battersby told Cornish fishermen, said he spotted the Orenda bounding about on the rough sea like a soapbox.

"She was going like the wind," said Smith. "We were fine sailors."

Others said the speed of the Orenda and the rough seas prevented identification. The Orenda left his 18-foot motorboat.

Smith and Battersby set sail for Dartmouth from Plymouth, Conn., Sept. 1.

Until they were almost given up for dead, On Sept. 22 the United States liner America saw the Orenda drifting in heavy seas about 1,000 miles out from North Sydney. There was no sign of life aboard the yawl.

But three weeks later the Liberian freighter Marilanca sighted her some 500 miles off the southwest coast of Ireland and Smith and Battersby exhausted but in high spirits.

'Newfies' Fire First Blast To Obtain More Govt. Money

"This right arises out of the fact that the Government's view of the terms of union clearly is that the financial basis at the time the agreement was made in December, 1948, to predict with reasonable accuracy the consequences to Newfoundland of becoming a Canadian province."

It was therefore provided that within eight years of union the federal royal commission would study financial revision. Prime Minister St. Laurent has announced he will appoint its members in 1956.

Maritime governments, it is known, are watching developments closely. Premier Robichaud has said—in the course of a speech to the Atlantic provinces of the Canadian Labor Congress—that his government will be happy to receive briefs from the practical suggestions for changes in the Maritimes.

The Newfoundlanders, however, are determined to bring out their current recommendations alone.

They are satisfied, "then we'll be delighted to link forces with the Maritimes," one spokesman said.

Members of the commission visiting Montreal were: Hon. P. J. Lewis, chairman, minister without portfolio in the Newfoundland government; Phillip Gurdyn, vice-president of the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company; and Albert B. Perlin, executive editor of the St. John's Daily News. Mr. Gurdyn was one of the signers of the original terms of union.

ARE NO REFUGEES, HUNGARIANS STAY TO FIGHT RUSSIANS

Riots Have Spread To Rural Districts

NICKELSDORF, Austria - Hungarian Frontier (AP) — Russian soldiers fired on Hungarian demonstrators in the small town of Magyarovar and killed and wounded many, a witness returning across the frontier reported today.

An Austrian border official reported that Hungarian farmers also had joined the revolt against the anti-Soviet rebellion spreading throughout the country-side.

Franz Hackenberger of Vienna said he saw the Russians shoot down a Hungarian soldier. Then a lorryload, a small town about 10 miles from the Austrian border. About 100 Hungarians, carrying flags and shouting "Freedom for Hungary," marched near Szombathelyi garrison barracks and tried to tear down the Red flag, Hackenberger said. The Russians then opened fire.

Hackenberger was the first eyewitness to report on fighting in the Hungarian countryside.

TRAFFIC HALTED

Other reports at this border point said farmers in Western Hungary had revolted and that railroad workers were on strike. Reports here said only military trains and troop movements were moving in Hungary. Buses, trains and mails were also halted.

Hackenberger told reporters that since this morning a general strike was being staged in Hungary. He said he did not know on whose instructions Hungarian railroad men were striking, but there was "great excitement everywhere" in the revolution-torn country.

Hackenberger left Magyarovar on a motorcycle soon after the battle there.

Austrian border guards said that so far not a single refugee from Hungary had come across the frontier. Asked why, one Austrian official said:

"Apparently they don't want to escape. They want to stay and fight the Russians."

Murder Charge Laid After Woman Shot

SUDBURY (CP) — Wayne Norton, 20, of Webbwood was charged today with murder and attempted murder arising out of a shooting incident on a Shakespeare Township farm.

He is charged with the murder of Mrs. Charles Antonen and the attempted murder of Mrs. Jean Makela, a hired hand on the Antonen farm. The shooting occurred Wednesday.

Norton was picked up, a few hours after the shooting, at his parents' cabin. A 22-calibre rifle found in the cabin and seized by police is to be sent to the ballistics department for a report.

Mrs. Antonen, 37, was shot by a young man who appeared at the farm with a .22-calibre rifle and asked for a drink of water. Mrs. Makela was taken to Sudbury hospital with injuries to his right arm.

Britons Root for Satellite Rebels But Hope Things Won't Go Too Far

LONDON (CP) — Britons in the bleacher seats are rooting for the rebels in Eastern Europe—some hoping against hope that things won't go too far.

There is rejoicing at the momentous news, regarded as one of the outstanding events of modern times, but there is a tendency to draw worried comparisons between events in Poland and in Hungary.

In Poland, it is thought, local leaders managed to assert limited independence of Russia without losing control of the situation. In Hungary, where countrymen were much the same, the satellite chiefs waited too long, forcing Russian intervention.

Thus Poland got reforms without inviting reprisals, whereas Hungary suffered repression.

The analysis may be more sophisticated than the average man's comment, but it is believed to color British government thinking. The Times, an independent paper usually a reliable official guide to official opinion, says in an editorial that everyone must ask why events have gone "so well in Poland, so badly in Hungary."

In the same vein, but without pointing the contrast between the two countries, the Manchester Guardian, Independent Liberal, says: "The liberation of Eastern Europe hang by a thread."

Civil War Spreads; Dead And Dying Lying Everywhere

Thousands Killed or Hurt Battling Red Army Tanks

VIENNA (AP)—Hungary's anti-Communist civil war spread over much of the country today despite orders from the government for an all-out military effort to crush the rebels.

Three Belgian diplomats who arrived at the Austrian border after leaving Budapest at 11 a.m. said:

"The whole of western Hungary is in the hands of the rebels."

Heavy fighting raged throughout Thursday night and also today in Budapest, with scores of Russian tanks taking part.

"The dead and dying were lying about everywhere in the streets," the diplomats reported.

Rebels controlled the highway to Vienna, from Budapest to the border. Rebel civilians and Hungarian soldiers who had deserted to the revolution stopped the Belgian six times en route to the Austrian frontier.

Several thousand persons were believed dead or wounded in fighting that heaglamed for three days in the Danube and river port cities to the western countryside and such major cities as Gyoer, Szkard, Szolnok and Pecs.

Three radio stations apparently were in the hands of rebel forces. All were heard faintly here, calling themselves the freedom radio. One identified its transmitter as being at Pecs, near the Yugoslav frontier, and Miskolc, near the Czech border.

Rebels proclaiming establishment of a "revolutionary government" were being distributed.

Reports at the Austrian border indicated Hungarian workers had gone out in a general strike, paralyzing railways, transport and other industry.

The pledges of the new government of Premier Imre Nagy, for a pact with eventual withdrawal of Soviet troops from the country, apparently got nowhere. Budapest radio broadcast a repeated urgent appeals to the rebels to give up their arms and cease the bloodshed.

These broadcasts pledged reforms of all kinds, amnesty for rebels, better living conditions, independence from Moscow, and a new popular front government "only or tomorrow."

The general strike apparently had stopped all rail movement except military trains.

Some of the dead in Budapest had been shot down by tanks when demonstrators advanced with only Hungarian flags and no weapons.

Western Monitors in this Austrian capital said they had picked up fain' broadcasts apparently coming from a transmitter operated by the Hungarian army.

The transmitter, repeatedly changed its wavelength, called on Hungarian workers to go on a general strike. It also demanded the release of Cardinal Mindszenty and his reinstatement as Roman Catholic Primate of Hungary.

The station called itself "Freedom radio of the Hungarian people."

The government's announcement of an all-out offensive indicated that the Russians might be rushing reinforcements in from neighboring Romania or from the Soviet Union itself.

Earlier, Nagy had gone way to stem the tide of revolt against Russian domination. The government earlier had said it was ready to seek withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungary if the rebels would lay down their arms.

In an apparent attempt to lure workers back to their jobs, Budapest radio said factory management had been ordered to begin to pay wage advances to employees.

The radio also said a new government would be formed of all "democratic parties"—the Communists and their colleagues.

The Hungarian Communist party already has shuffled its leadership, naming a new first secretary, apparently an orders of Russia's Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan.

VARIED PICKUP

CALGARY (CP)—A city police cruiser found a stray goat wandering around in southwest Calgary and decided it had a hard seat for a ride to the pound. On the way, the police saw a man weaving down the street. They picked him up as a drunk, and put him in the back seat with the goat rather than make two trips.

Faces Charge Of $1,225 Theft From Servant

Cecil J. Courneyea, formerly of this city, has been arrested in Toronto on a warrant issued by local police and brought back to Belleville for court appearance on a charge of theft. Mr. Courneyea appeared this morning and was remanded until Tuesday. No evidence was taken.

Police Inspector J. C. Hayes is investigating officer stated Mr. Courneyea is charged with the theft of $1,225 between August 1953 and December 1955 from Mrs. Norah Post, formerly of Picton, who had worked for him as a domestic.

Police claim is that Mr. Courneyea accepted money at various times from Mrs. Post for the purpose of depositing it to a bank account, which she believed had been opened in her name. They say, however, that Mr. Courneyea failed to deposit the money as Mrs. Post intended.

To allay suspicion that anything was amiss, police say that each times after accepting money for deposit at the bank, Mr. Courneyea returned Mrs. Post's bank book with entries marked up by Mr. Courneyea himself.

GETS JOB AT HOME

TIMMINS (CP)—Town recreation director Bill Jones has resigned the position to take a similar post in his home town Sarnia.

Report Proves Unproductive

A report this morning from a Bayside woman that a man was feared to have fallen from a small boat in the Bay of Quinte off Hogner Island, sent a provincial police on a search which until his morning proved unproductive.

The woman stated she had seen the boat with a man in it on the bay and then some time later had noticed that the man was missing with the boat apparently adrift. She feared he had fallen overboard.

Provincial police investigated but reported they were unable to find a boat in the vicinity.

Belleville Man Passes Course In West Germany

SOEST, West Germany, Oct. 29—Belleville soldier, Pte. William Jackson, a member of the 1st Battalion, 4th Royal Canadian Regiment, has successfully completed a two-week battle drill course here at the Army NCO School of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade Group.

Forty-four junior NCOs from the brigade's three infantry battalions passed the course which was designed to teach and practise the skills required of commanders in infantry section in battle.

Cpl. Jackson was educated at the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School and was a domestic cleaner before he left Belleville before joining the Army in September of 1953. He has been serving in Germany since last October.

Three Counties Engage Fieldman For 5-Month Term

Mr. Grover Smith of Bloomfield, Ont., has been engaged by the Joint Committee of Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington Counties as fieldman for five months during the coming winter. The initiative for the appointment came from Hastings county in a letter to the executives of three other county Federations of Agriculture; Northumberland County was to be included, but declined.

For a long time now each county in the area has considered the possibilities of the assistance of a fieldman in federation work. Everyone favored the idea, but financing was too heavy a burden for each county alone, and the plan was dropped time and again.

The initiative of Hastings county has broken this deadlock. For long years there has been a definite lack of understanding of the work of the federation of agriculture among the farmers themselves. The contact between the organization and the farmers was very weak mainly because the five people who were elected to the board in the federation could not find the time to go out and explain the activities of the one organization to the farmers in their own districts. In addition, they could it be expected of every farmer to travel many miles to then attend meetings after a hard day's work.

The contact was made between the counties a committee was set up of two representatives from each county with full authority to engage and work together with the fieldman. The members of this committee are: for Hastings County, Percy Hubbs and Grover Smith; for Prince Edward County, Keith Walker and Ralph Wright and for Lennox and Addington County, Harold Allison and Jan Schokking.

The committee was extremely fortunate to be able to engage Mr. Grover Smith as fieldman. Mr. Smith combines all the necessary background for being an excellent fieldman for this area. Born in St. Catharines, Ont., Grover Smith spent two years at Kemptville Agricultural School and finished his studies in Guelph where he graduated with a B.SA. in animal husbandry. After serving in the RCAF during the war, he started farming in Bloomfield, where he now follows general mixed crop and grain. Ever since his start in farming Grover Smith has been very active in various farm organizations. He has been a member of the federation since 1946 and held the job of secretary-treasurer of Prince Edward County Federation in 1955; he is a member of the Hog Producers Association for about twelve years on the executive in his county. Mr. Smith is a member of Bloomfield West Farm Forum and was an executive member for one year. Last but not least, Grover Smith has been very active in the Soil and Crop Improvement Association and is now a member of the Ontario Executive of that organization. He is married and has one boy.

Ballet Guild Preparing for Company's Visit

BY ROBERT TANNER

A most successful meeting was held in the Y.M.C.A. on Tuesday evening by the Belleville Branch of the National Ballet Guild, whose aims are the introduction of interest in the Ballet in this district and the support of the National Ballet Company of Canada during their visit to Belleville. This organization holds only three or four meetings a year, but so far each one has been addressed by an outstanding personality from the world of Ballet. Tuesday's meeting was no exception, with David Adams, the company's leading male dancer, proving that he is as adept with his tongue as he is with his feet. For over an hour, and speaking entirely without notes, he kept his audience enthralled with a description of ballet from the dancer's point of view, its trials, tribulations and triumphs.

DAVID ADAMS

Mr. Adams ranged from visions of the future of the company to little personal details of the life of a dancer, who is wedded both to the ballet and to a ballerina, charming Lois Smith, the company's feminine lead. Mr. Adams spoke with the great success which the National Ballet had had during last year's U.S. tour bringing a greater understanding of Canada to our American neighbours. Commenting at the same time he stressed that ballet was not entertainment alone, which could be enjoyed by everyone. He described briefly the three ballets which the company will present here on November 10th, Nutcracker, Act VI, the famous English Ballet "Les Rendezvous," and perhaps most interesting of all a brand-new all-Canadian jazz ballet entitled "Portscript" which Mr. Adams said, includes all sorts of modern dance steps, from Jitterbug to mambo, performed with the grace and precision for which the National Ballet has become noted.

The meeting was chaired by Mrs. Robert Tanner, director of the National Ballet Guild and president of the local branch. Mrs. John Hay (Harriet Cawthra) gave a most interesting and amusing account from a layman's point, of a rehearsal of the National Ballet Company which she had attended in Toronto the day before. She had been particularly struck by the alternating concentration and relaxation shown by the dancers in the course of their strenuous practice.

During the meeting plans for the company's visit were discussed. Business Manager Don Thomas announces that although about one-third of the tickets have already been sold, good seats at all prices are still available. The box office at Ed Hennan is in charge.

Tool and Oil Storage Shed Is Destroyed

A combined tool shed and oil storage building at the H. J. McLean Construction Company Ltd. hot mix plant north of No. 2 highway at Bayside was destroyed by fire this morning.

Two trucks from the Belleville fire department were called to the scene as gas pumps with a 2,000 gallon underground storage tank were close by the burning building and it was feared these might catch afire.

Firemen kept a steady stream of water on the pumps preventing these from catching ablaze, while oil drums inside the burning building were also prevented from catching fire.

However one of the Belleville fire trucks had returned from the scene when the latter was detained as a precautionary measure.

Accused Fails To Get Longer Jail Sentence

Arthur Kilpatrick, no fixed address, appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills here this morning charged with being drunk in a public place, his fifth offence in defiance.

As prescribed by law the magistrate ordered Kilpatrick to pay a fine of $100 and three dollars costs or else spend three months in jail. Unable to pay the fine the accused did just like boring and is in jail for only three months because he did not want to be released in the middle of winter.

"Now look, Your Worship, if you're going to give me three months you might as well make it six." The magistrate turned on Kilpatrick by saying he was not going to give him three months in jail but rather three months and six months.

Failing to get his sentence lengthened Kilpatrick turned from the prisoners' stand, walked out of the courtroom with a policeman showing him the way back to his cell and remarked, "Funny liquor laws you have in this country."

As Kilpatrick descended the creaking stairs to the corridor below, his last remarks floated upstairs: "You should turn this country over to the Russians! I never did be know he was being escorted by a man quite capable of handling him in his place. The constable said, "But if we did you'd have to drink vodka then."

District Junior B Loop Organized Belleville Included in Five Teams

After a four-year absence OHA Junior "B" hockey will return to Belleville this winter, it was learned last night when a five-team league was formed.

The newly-formed league will consist of teams from Belleville, Kingston, Gananoque, Queen's University and Royal Military College.

Belleville's entry will be sponsored by the Charles Lumber Construction Company and will be known as the Belleville Lumberkings. They will play their schedule on Tuesday, November 13th, when they meet the RMC club at Gananoque. The following Tuesday, November 27th, will be the first game in Belleville for the Lumberkings' initial appearance.

A short home and home schedule will be played with each team meeting the others once at home and once away. Kingston will play their home games on the Memorial Centre ice, Queen's University at the Kingston Jock Harty arena and RMC in Gananoque. All Belleville home games will be played at Memorial Arena on Tuesday nights.

Kingston and Belleville will meet for the right to advance in OHA Junior "B" playdowns, while Gananoque will drop to a lower classification. Queen's and RMC will meet each other in playdowns.

The league playoffs will see the four top clubs in with the first and third teams meeting, while second and fourth meet in the other half of the semi-finals.

Belleville is expected to open training early next week with Coach Jack Bionda handling the coaching duties. Only Belleville and district players will be used, definitely no imports. All junior age players from this district are urged to attend the coming workouts. Mel Richards, a well known worker for minor hockey in this district for some time, will manage the Lumberkings.

Complete league schedules will be forthcoming shortly.

Quinte Juniors Defeat BCI 11-1

Quinte Juniors eked out a hard fought 11-1 win over BCI Juniors in a COSSA Junior A fixture played on Thursday. This win enabled Quinte to advance into the COSSA Junior A finals as the Bay of Quinte district representative.

The game started off slowly with neither team scoring. The first half was marred by several fumbles with Quinte committing the major number.

Locke was Quinte's only feature runner as he picked up a fine gain on a run right up the middle in the second quarter.

BCI broke into the scoring in the third quarter as Alexander intercepted a Quinte pass on the 34 which enabled BCI a few plays later, to boot a rouge.

Quinte was not to be denied as the stubborn blue and grey fought their way to BCI's ten early in the fourth quarter. From there Gary Aquino raced around the end to score standing up. Bob Garrison booted the convert to put Quinte into a comfortable 8-1 lead.

BCI put up a stubborn fight but were kept off the score sheet on three pass interceptions by Don Masters, Bob Garrison and Don Wilson. Quinte scored their final major in the last play of the game on a 40-yard pass play from Don Masters to Richard Clarke.

Ricky Locke was Quinte's best backfielder as he continually gained for short to sizeable gains. Alexander, Deacon and were BCI's lower of strength.

SOME HUNGARIAN

Shiny passenger cars in front of the Astoria Hotel had broken windshields. All windows of the hotel were smashed. Big holes, presumably made by gunfire, gaped on the walls of various buildings.

All the streets in the vicinity were strewn with debris. Shops were burned out.

All the fighting appeared to be between tanks, machine-guns and infantry on the one hand and a handful of snipers on the other. Western observers said.

The beautiful museum near the radio station and the Hotel Astoria caught fire Wednesday and was still burning Thursday.

Thursday Parliament Square became a battlefield shortly after noon when a Russian tank opened fire on a few thousand peaceful demonstrators waving Hungarian flags. The crowd had pressed before the United States legation waving flags and chanting "this is a peaceful demonstration."

The marchers waved their hats at the American Embassy, and some shouted "Why don't you help us?"

Two huge Russian tanks and armored cars drove up packed with young Hungarian fraternizing with Russian soldiers. All were smiling uneasily.

Other tanks and a number of Russian guns were mounted at various corners of the square. Parliament Building.

The demonstrators sent a threeman delegation into the building, which houses the prime ministry, to see Imre Nagy. The delegation counted four bodies, but he could not give any estimate of the total number of casualties. One eyewitness said there were about 200 to 300 dead on the square but Marton said "figures naturally are exaggerated sometimes in such critical times."

Reports coming into MTI, the official Hungarian news agency, told of demonstrations, killings and Russian tanks in all major Hungarian cities.

President Still Top Man in Poll After Polk

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is still top man in poll after poll with the United States presidential election 11 days away, but Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, has showed some gains.

The New York Daily News, supporting Eisenhower for re-election, says its poll shows the republican leading Stevenson in New York state by a 3-to-2 margin.

The latest California Poll, published by the Los Angeles Mirror-News, gives the latest results in a state-wide sampling: Eisenhower 43 per cent, Stevenson 34 per cent, undecided, seven per cent. This represents a two-point gain for the Democrats since the last poll a month ago.

Over 30 Y's Men Attend Radio T.V. Rehearsal

Over 30 members of the Y's Men's Clubs, with five Y's Mentettes, journeyed to Kingston for a rehearsal of next Thursday's Radio-T.V. broadcast, which will be simulcast over Channel 11, CKWS-TV and CJNC. Members who made the trip were quite impressed with the palatial headquarters occupied by CKWS T.V.

The management kindly conducted a tour of the production end of T.V. and the club was pleased to see many of the sets and how they are used. A visit they have been accustomed to viewing at home.

T.V. TECHNIQUES

The main purpose of the visit was to familiarize the cast with T.V. techniques, since this is the Belleville club's first television production. Most of the members were able to see themselves on a closed circuit set.

Harold Bankier, who will act as master of ceremonies, and auctioneers, Thomas Hamilton, Vernon Flindall and Linton Read, ran through a short mock auction to become familiar with the new medium.

Sylvia Cronk, Charlotte Kunze, Joy Wonnacott, Audrene Moorman will display the articles to be auctioned. Ruth Denton and Phyllis White will handle the telephone calls.

Articles which will be presented for auction on T.V. have been chosen by Mayor Jane Forrester.

The feature article this year will be a Volkswagen automobile, the largest item supplied by a local merchant in recent years.

'Card' for Wife On Anniversary Proves Costly

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Harry Johson's 20th wedding anniversary "card" to his wife may have set a world's record for size.

Johnson rented a billboard 27 feet long and 12 feet high. On it he put a huge photo of himself salaming and these words:

"To a wonderful wife who has borne with me for 20 years."

Johnson drove his wife out to the billboard overlooking a causeway between Miami and Miami Beach and "presented" it to her Wednesday.

Johnson hasn't got the bill yet, but expects the billboard will cost him about $700.

BRITONS

The choice, it says, is not between total liberation and total repression but between a "partial, guarded, tricky improvement" and a Russian blood bath.

Few doubt that the Poles and the Hungarians would like to get rid of communism and all its trappings. A majority of the population in both countries would probably settle for some form of socialism, perhaps on the British model. But there is little likelihood of that being a practical ideal.

It may be said that the satellites accept communism reluctantly, under duress. What they want is some freedom in internal affairs, including relief from the economic pressures radiating from Moscow.

The Poles, for three centuries the meat in the sandwich between Germany and Russia, always have hated their eastern neighbors. But there is no powerful inducement for them to continue to look toward Canada. That is safeguard them against any German attempt to win back the "lost territories" east of the Oder - Neisse — some 40,000 square miles of Polish territory which the Germans have never foresworn.

"Whatever else may go by the board in the present upheaval," writes William Forrest in The News Chronicle, a Liberal paper, "the Soviet - Polish military alliance will stand."

NATIONALISM SPARKS SATELLITES' REVOLTS

Nationalism appears to be the wellspring of the revolt of the satellites against the Kremlin.

Events in Hungary, coming hard on the heels of those in Poland, have made this doubly plain.

In neither country, as far as can be learned from reports to date, did the crowds in the streets call for the overthrow of Communism.

These Communist leaders whom they believed would convert the existing regimes into independent governments, free from dictation by the Soviet Union. Russians were jeered, not because they were Communists, but because they were Russians, rather than Poles or Hungarians. All reports stress that both Wiyadyslaw Gomulka of Poland and Imre Nagy of Hungary, hoisted to the seats of the mighty by the eruptions of popular discontent, are trained, tough Communists.

It may be, of course, that the banner of nationalism under which the demonstrators marched is merely being used as a cloak for their real objectives. It may be that these objectives are the overthrow of Communism and the establishment of a democratic system of government. It may be that the rebels have a nice sense of the possible and realize that the overthrow of Communism is not at present feasible. It may be that they have conceived a new application of an old axiom, divide and conquer.

All these things are possible—but they do not appear probable.

For one thing, most of us tend to forget that, with the exception of Czechoslovakia, few of the satellite lands were true democracies in the years before the Second Great War.

Hungary, for example, had been under the dictatorship of Admiral Horthy ever since the day when he overthrew the Communist regime of Bela Kun, at the conclusion of the First Great War. There was never any reason to regard Horthy's record as lily-white. In repressing the Communists, he copied their methods in many ways.

Poland, too, knew more dictatorship than it did democracy in the period between the wars. That this dictatorship was nowhere as harsh as either that of Hitler or of Stalin is beside the point. It was still not democracy.

A sudden devotion to democratic principles by the mass of the peoples of these two countries would surprise many. The unhappy residents of these lands have had little opportunity to live in complete freedom. When they have not been under the yoke of foreigners, they have been subject to the rule, or misrule, of powerful but comparatively small cliques of their own countrymen. For them to suddenly emerge as champions of democracy willing to risk their lives for its principles, against heavy odds, would hardly be in character.

What is in character, though, is a deep resentment against foreign interference in their affairs, a deep pride and a courageous readiness to face any odds in the name of patriotism. If we accept the revolts against the Kremlin-sponsored regimes as primarily the result of nationalism, then presenting an explanation which fits well with history.

If we take this view of the basic cause of discontent in the satellites, we shall moderate our enthusiasm. We have not gained allies, at least as yet, but we have seen the ranks of our enemies weakened. There is no question that both the military and the political prestige of Russia will be badly damaged if independent Communist regimes are firmly established in the former satellites.

From the extremely long-range point of view, though, this resurgence of nationalism can hardly be termed an unmixed blessing. The Communist system in Eastern Europe imposed by force, for an evil purpose, that unity and integration of national economies which could emerge only by mutual consent and with a high purpose if the area is not once more to degenerate into the powder-keg of Europe and the cockpit of the world.

MORE CANADIANS — NOW

That Canada would be better off with far more people is the opinion of most Canadians. That a large and slow process of increase will satisfy the need is the complacent feeling of many. Not so with J. N. T. Bulman, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. He argues that the problem of "Asian" should initiate as a matter of urgency a complete review and overhaul of immigration policy."

More Canadians—now—would not only satisfy the pressing need for more workers, Mr. Bulman pointed out, but the additional people would provide a larger domestic market for Canadian products and they would also share the costs of national overhead.

So far as taxes and the overhead of government are concerned, Canadians are like a man living on twenty acres along Main Street. He's living on far more land than he needs, and the taxes are killing him.

Recent reports from the British Isles indicate that there are many Britishers ready and willing to come to Canada, if they had a little financial assistance. Such assistance should become part of an aggressive program to bring to Canada an adequate number of British immigrants when the country needs them—now.

THE WAY OF MAN

Within an anxious hour we changed to meet
Old friends of mine,
And I, still on a busy street,
Asked them to dine.

"Some day we will," they graciously replied.
I laughed and said,
"Not some day.
Let us now decide
Next Thursday night."

Oh, there are times when memory plays us tricks.
I left the date
And that I'd set the dinner hour for six
I quite forgot.

Came Thursday, and the evening meal was cold.
The memory stings!
'Tis shame like this that causes
wives to scold.
Men do such things.

Home Holiday Eye-Opener

St. Thomas Times - Journal

Once in a while it behooves the ever genial these men might be there's many a time to pass on to the busy man in the family to spend his annual vacation at home instead of heading away to distant spots in search of relaxation.

The period at home gives the possible an opportunity to do the odd jobs around the place that they have been intending to do all year, but perhaps more important still holidays at home allow the men to see exactly what goes on in the daily life of their spouses.

Most men have a conversant they may feel they are with life in their own homes, really have little idea of the daily program. After a few days around the house, men begin to realize just how much work their wives pack into the average day, work which often continues almost into the evening hours.

The interminable round of dishwashing, laundering, ironing, and general house duties that confront any nothing about the immediate task of looking after the children, are sufficient to make any man eager to return to work.

After a couple of weeks at home, the menfolk begin to realize that housework is not quite the soft, simple job they had thought. The men discover, after a few days, that the daily routine is more than the lengthy days are the milk and bread deliverymen, and how-

Watch Style Has Changed

Sudbury Daily Star

The price tag on the thinnest watch in the world is $1,347. It was put on display at a watch and jewellery fair in London, Eng. The timepiece, made by Swiss watchmakers, is only .117 inch thick and the watch and case are .063 of an inch thick.

Here is a watch that truly is about as thin as a dime. But it also symbolizes the trend in almost every watch many people.

Grandfather's watch was as big as some modern alarm clocks. The telltale bulge in the watch pocket was the sign of wealth. A gold watch chain marked the man of distinction. Another mark of distinction was added in assorted shapes, styles and sizes of wrist watches.

The thinnest watch in the world is a present day watch which puts it into the antique class even while new. The wrist watch has not about spelled the doom of the pocket watch. And the fashionable male may soon find a watch pocket sewn into his pants. Even the tailors follow the watch trend.

All is not lost, however. As fashion changes, the watch trend there will be rallywards. And as long as there are watches there will be pocket watches. Have you yet seen an engineer or a train conductor picking up his sleeve to look at a wrist watch before the "All aboard" echoes along the station platform?

But Can King Do No Wrong?

Fort Arthur News-Chronicle

The administration of justice can sometimes be embarrassed by injustice. A recent incident involving Fort Arthur would so indicate. Doubtless, also, it has been duplicated elsewhere.

The case is that June 28 last a man was brought from Welland for trial on a charge of forgery. It was September 12 when the case was finally disposed of in the District Court with an acquittal. The accused man spent the intervening time in jail because of inability to arrange bail.

Released from his nearly three months behind bars he found himself still without resources which would enable him to return whence he came in charge of officers of the crown.

The crown had the means to bring him here but apparently not to take him back. Pressures on that point brought the reply that it was not the responsibility.

Finally he turned to the Community Chest and the John Howard Society, who provided him with a railway ticket so that he might return to Welland.

Had it been a case of going to prison, or penitentiary, the man, on release would have been given transportation to the town in the guilty one, not subject to imprisonment for the offence committed, he did not receive even that consideration; much less any compensation for the loss of time what he may have suffered mentally or financially while in jail.

The provision whereby a man released from prison after serving a term is given transportation to place of destination is no doubt due to the attitude of public opinion which frowns near these houses of detention. They don't want to have responsibilities thrust on them similar in a way to those assumed by the Chest and the John Howard Society in the case under discussion.

Thus it appears there are instances in which an innocent man may be made to prove action to suffer more than a guilty one.

The King can do no wrong — they say.

Ten Trillion Other Earths

Hamilton Spectator

Nearly any dilligent school boy can tell you that the story of Galileo, the great astronomer of the Renaissance, who said that he was compelled to retract publicly his view that the earth revolved around the sun. Until this time it had been the accepted and orthodox belief that the sun and moon and all the heavenly bodies moved in their appointed and established orbits around the earth, which, of course, was the only thing that could be the centre.

Galileo's discovery upset those established ideas for a good reason. People who believe themselves the centre of things don't like to be told by anyone that they're not. It detracts from their own sense of self importance; it deflates them. The real essence of this broad truth, however, is that we are not the only beings in the universe; that there may be countless other worlds like this.

The recent statement of a famous scientist, based on revelations made through the new 200-inch Mount Palomar telescope, may have the same shattering impact on modern society, for he has now told that, far from being something unique, our earth may well be merely one of millions like it.

On the basis of the observed number of galaxies, and on what he contends is a reasonable expectation that at least one out of every 100,000 planets duplicates the size, temperature range, humidity and chemical composition of our own earth, Professor Hartley says that there are probably a minimum of ten million other planets just like ours. He adds the conjecture that life as many of them could have reached the same stage of development.

For most of us it's an entrancing prospect, full of wonder and romance and magic. But for some it's bound to be a disturbing, unpleasant and humbling thought, for it provides a new perspective with less room than ever for the stuffed shirt and the pompous Mr. Big.

"He doesn't want a drink - - - he wants to go to the zoo."

After a separation of 29 years Thomas Pritchard, an employee of the Canadian Packing Company at Marmora, and his brother, Frederick Pritchard, wholesale grocer in Nelson, B.C., are enjoying a reunion at the former's home in Marmora. The latter brother left the city of Bristol, England, in 1908 and shortly came to Canada in 1920.

The trees are shedding their leaves two weeks earlier than last year. An early frost is responsible.

Ducks are reported to be plentiful in Big Bay.

To prevent spring floods the city council has received much advice from government and other experts. They suggest the building of a few small reservoir dams in the Moira River. This scheme is considered too expensive and the council has decided to keep wide channels open all the south of the river.

The rolling mills are off to a good start and if one can judge from appearances it is no spasmodic affair this time. The Toronto and Belleville Rolling Mills Company is going to be a factor in the Canadian iron trade in future and no mistake.

Mayor Charles N. Sulman, Ald. Lorne Marsh, Ald. D. V. Sinclair, Street Surveyor H. Croft Hulme and the Rev. A. H. Drumm visited the rolling mills yesterday afternoon and they were much interested in what they saw.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

DIVINE ACHIEVEMENT

Eternal life spoken of in the Bible is at once and the same time both a glorious and a horrifying reality. For the life to which we commit ourselves on earth is the life which we are going to have to live eternally.

Buddha recognized this and so began a religion which teaches that the thing most to be desired is the attaining to nirvana. This consists of the extinction of the flame of life, man's final emancipation and freedom from the necessity of living on and on and on. Millions of people have been attracted to Buddhism, but Buddhism is the very opposite of Christianity. Christianity teaches that life good on without end, but it says that into a stream of life that will bring forth blessing and joy and living of it.

Those who have to live with hatred and unappeasable passion and powers broken by a long life of sinning will recognize that as hell, but those who are ready for the gifts of God and who have learned to confer upon them will live lives the significance of which eye hath not seen nor ear heard, neither has entered into the heart of man. Neither can these rule the universe, so we have nothing to fear if we really want to attain to the glory God has promised in His Word. Repentant sin is always forgiven. Daily separation is encouraged and fulfilled.

Charcoal Tooth Paste

Windsor Star

Our ancestors often hit upon methods or remedies, even if only by chance or by trial and error, which were effective. Another such example was given us in the little village of Manotick in the Ottawa Valley, where Mr. John Patterson, 86 years old, had and his first tooth extracted. He had perfect teeth until recently when one cavity was discovered —and that only after he had experimented with a modern toothpaste.

Down through the decades he had cleaned his teeth with a compound of charcoal and salt. Very probably he had been blessed with good, hard teeth. His own rather primitive description however, seems to have been an effective preservative. Certainly it did his teeth no harm.

In earlier days common salt often was used in brushing the teeth. Wood ashes was another substance used for the same purpose. They did not have the pleasant taste of modern pharmaceuticals but, regularly used, were an efficient cleanser.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A GREAT INVESTMENT

We get on, and carry on, by listening to advices and out ideas in enterprises that look like good investments, paying a reasonable dividend. But all such investments are speculative, and take constant watching to keep them in a healthy state. There is an investment, however, that is the best I have ever learned about—the investment in friends.

We can build up a great fortune in this way or because of the change in conditions it can easily be wiped out almost overnight. But our investment in friends is so different. This kind of an investment is for life, and the dividends are distributed daily, not quarterly or semi-yearly. So long as our friends live they are a positive investment, and perhaps beyond, as well.

What comfort there is in friends that have been tried and found true and purified and lonely! The encouragement, mental comfort and spiritual stimulus that a genuine friend forever offers are things that are not found in the marketplace or even in people sit all day hoping for certain expenditures. Many that sell put on popular stocks will somehow make them wealthy. But it rarely works out that way.

There are no perfect securities, even in our friends. Probably if we have no more than one genuine friend, we are in wealth. We ought, however, to have more than one or two friends. We need many for what they give. Moreover, as our friends are our most valuable companions. We should interchange ourselves with them. With them we should remember to give as much as we take.

So, when the lady accompanied a friend on a trip to Sweden recently she had a couple tubes of Bisodol tablets tucked in her handbag. She herself has never been seasick, but her travelling companion has never escaped it. This time, however, notwithstanding rough weather both ways her friend was only slightly uncomfortable, thanks to the timely use of the remedy . . .

All of which, of course, may have no real significance. Who knows whether A. J. Coincidence englishes about both the poodle's and the travelling companion's performances?

And yet the Albany lady overestimated the proper dose for her poodle. If one tablet is the right dose for a human being probably less than one-eighth of a tablet would be the right dose for a dog weighing not more than 15 pounds.

The Albany lady — her letter bore an Albany postmark but she gave no address — pictures my wondering if the fancy dog-biscuit for a dog or a cat has motion sickness? I don't mean guess.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Trying It on The Dog

Albany lady reports a successful experiment on her poodle. The poodle is 12 years old, and in the past year had become feeble. Always before the dog had begged to go along whenever the mistress went out for a ride. She, the poodle, would sit at the window emptying the scenery as they rolled along and keeping sharp watch on any over-zealous canine creature that passed by or approached the car.

But this past summer the poodle lost interest in going places in the car. She even hid out so they wouldn't invite her to go for a ride. The veterinary opined it was just her advancing age and perhaps a touch of car sickness.

Oh, yes, indeed, dogs and cats were susceptible to car sickness, but there was nothing to do about it.

The lady cut "motion sickness," tablet into quarters, put the piece of tablet on her dish with some food the dog likes. The poodle ate it and seemed so frisky that the lady invited her to go for a ride. Off they went and the poodle enjoyed it as much as ever.

So, when the lady accompanied a friend on a trip to Sweden recently she had a couple tubes of Bisodol tablets tucked in her handbag. She herself has never been seasick, but her travelling companion has never escaped it. THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

At the close of the summer season, we lent the cottage to some friends. And on going up last week-end to close the place for the winter, we found a back window pane broken and patched with brown cardboard. Under the window was pinned a 5$ bill with a little note:

"Sorry! But we hope this will look after it."

On the kitchen table was a collection of small disasters: a cracked chimney from one of the oil lamps; one split plate, a broken glass pickle dish and my favorite screw driver cut into the shape of an "L".

With these sums another $5 piece down with a thumb tack, and another cute note:

"Wear and tear! We trust this will look after these."

It certainly won't. Financially, of course, it will. A window pane doesn't cost $5, and a couple of broken dishes, an oil lamp chimney and a screw driver wouldn't come to $2.50.

What $10 doesn't come within a mile of covering is the infernal nuisance of getting these things replaced at the distant cottage. Who is going to all the trouble, at this late date, to locate some glass? up in the district to go by boat all the way down the lake to get a pane of glass, bring it safely by launch all the way back and take the time to put it in the broken window? Me, of course.

Who is going to have to remember, next summer, that we need a new chimney for the fancy oil lamp, a new glass pickle dish, and a new screw driver? Me, naturally,

Servicemen Will Be Given Vote In N.S. Election

HALIFAX (CP)—Several thousands sailors, soldiers and airmen serving at Nova Scotia bases will be able to vote in a provincial election for the first time Oct. 30.

A franchise act amendment passed earlier this year gives the vote to all servicemen who maintain a self - contained home in Nova Scotia.

Previously servicemen were eligible to vote in Nova Scotia only if their legal residence was in the province. Their legal residence was considered to be the place where they enlisted.

The change has raised the question of what constitutes a self-contained housing unit. The act mentions dwelling house, apartment and flat but some returning officers have interpreted it to cover a barracks as well. Others have ruled that men living in barracks can't vote.

Chief electoral officer Dugald Sutherland says he's leaving it up to the returning officers. The courts may have to make the final decision.

In any event many men stationed at such points as Greenwood RCAF station, Cornwallis naval training base and Aldershot army camp in the Annapolis Valley, the Halifax dockyard and nearby Shearwater naval air station will be able to vote.

They will, of course, have to meet the general qualifications for voters—that is, have lived 12 months in Nova Scotia and two months in the electoral district and be 21 years old.

Another election law change permits school teachers to vote in the polling district where they teach even if they have not been living there two months. They must have qualified to vote at their home poll in Nova Scotia, however.

CAMPBELL—SINE

Standards of bronze, gold and white chrysanthemums and ferns formed a lovely setting in the Free Methodist church, Frankford, Ontario, on Saturday, October 20, when Miss Carolyn Marie Sine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sine, Frankford, and Mrs. Judd Sloe, became the bride of Robert Wesley Campbell of Cobourg, Ont., son of the Rev. J. A. Campbell and Mrs. Campbell of Galt, Ont., and Mrs. J. A. Campbell, father of the bridegroom, officiated.

The wedding music included, "O Perfect Love," rendered before the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer," during the signing of the register by the guest organist, Miss Esther Robinson of Peterborough, who also accompanied the soloist, Mr. Edward Prosser of Port Hope, who sang during the signing of the register, "A Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Judd Sloe, the bride was radiant in her floor-length bridal gown of white, embroidered net over satin, featuring a fitted bodice with long pointed sleeves, and embroidered net collar and bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a matching headdress of tulle and seed pearls. She carried a cascade of Talisman roses.

Miss Margaret Edwards, graduate of Peterborough Civic Hospital, was maid of honor; Mrs. Lillian Moore of Frankford, and Miss Margaret Sine, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids.

The maid of honor was gowned in copper crystalette, in waltz-length, fashioned with fitted bodice, full skirt and matching jacket with stand-up collar. She wore a matching headdress and shoes, and carried gold chrysanthemums. The two bridesmaids were attired alike in dark green crystalette fashioned on lines similar to that of the maid of honor. Their bouquets were of bronze chrysanthemums.

Mr. Jack Sheppard of Markham, Ont., was groomsman, while Mr. Merle Moore of Frankford, and Mr. James Elliott of Brighton borough, were ushers.

The reception was held in Rose Lowery Hall, Frankford, where the bride's mother, attired in a brown and beige ensemble, and corsage of yellow and pink carnations, received. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore misty blue-grey with corsage of pink carnations.

Following the reception, the young couple left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Northern New York, and the Adirondacks. The bride travelling in a pink knitted suit with black accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

Guests attended from Port Hope, Brantford, Galt, Peterborough, Otawa, Toronto, Hamilton and Newmarket.

Trip Down Columbia River By Film Enjoyed by Audience

Approximately 900 Belleville area residents travelled down the Columbia River in Western Canada and the United States last night.

These people comprised the audience at the Collegiate auditorium when Mr. Edwards club presented its first travelogue of the season, "Columbia River Adventure", narrated by Stanley Gromer.

This full-color film depicted Mr. Gromer's boat trip along this 1,400-mile long river. The motorboat used in making this picturesque journey had been towed 3,000 miles to the starting point, north of the Canadian border.

Close-up shots of a bear, moose and mountain sheep were obtained during the trip. Gromer showed the narrator feeding squirrels from his hand.

Snow-capped mountains dominated many of the views. At Golden, B.C., the photographer left his boat and drove 60 miles to Lake Louise. There B.C. Victoria, 12,000 feet high, loomed in the lake's background. Iceland poppies, pansies and snapdragons offered color to this scene.

The film took the audience for a drive along the Jasper highway and later for a trip by snowmobile across the ice-encrusted northland.

In his travels Mr. Gromer shot pictures of the encampment at Banff where 800 Indians journeyed to participate in the annual Indian day's celebration which featured a rodeo.

Crossing into the United States by boat the traveller visited Grand Coulee Dam, 47 feet over high. At Bonneville Dam the film showed fish elevating themselves 73 feet up the famed "fish ladder."

VIEW ANTWERP MILLS

Proceeding to Portland, Oregon, the audience viewed the Jantzen mills where they saw bathing suits in the process of being manufactured.

At Oregon's Mt. Hood speaker took the chair climb to within 1,000 feet of the summit.

The lumber industry was filmed at Vancouver, Washington, which boasts the largest lumber mill in the world. The salmon canning industry at Astoria was visited next.

Winding up the travelogue Mr. Gromer took the spectators to the mouth of the river, where it joins the Pacific Ocean.

Mr. Gromer, who was introduced by Kiwanis member L. J. Kells, was a printer and a speed boat enthusiast before he became photography as his occupation.

Tickets are still available for persons wishing to attend the five remaining travelogues which will be shown this season. On December 15, Curtis Nagel will present "Italy—Tale of Two Cities." All proceeds from this, the Kiwanis Club's major project, will be used by the organization for community welfare work.

So-Ed Club Hears Address On 'Indian People'

The So-Ed Club of the Belleville Y.M.C.A. held its fourth meeting of the 1956 fall session at the Canadian Legion, Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday night.

In keeping with the social and educational theme of So-Ed, the meeting began with interest activities. The field and stream section received a highly interesting and informative talk on the Fish of this district by Mr. R. Whitfield of the Department of Lands and Forests, who gave some pointers on fishing by means of scientific methods. He used a film loaned by Izaak Walton green with envy.

The photography section was shown some of the mysteries of making prints by Mr. Don McCaughey, who used negatives previously made by the group.

Creative bridge continued while the novelty dancing class practised hopping to the best of polka and the highland Schottische, and strutting to the Spanish Walk under the direction of Mrs. Rose Gilchrist.

After the interest activities, the group gathered to hear the guest speaker, Miss Betty Jose introduced by Mr. Jim Mc-Caughey, who spoke on the Indian peoples who inhabited Canada in the past, and showed an interesting and extensive collection of stone and bone implements retrieved from excavations on his farm in Consecon which was the sight of an Indian settlement.

President Bert Hiles thanked Mr. Saylor, and presented him with a memento of his visit to So-Ed.

After the guest speaker, refreshments were served consisting of cheese and pineapple dip with trimmings and coffee. So-Ed then went into the Winter Living Plan which generously donated the hot dogs for this occasion.

The Winter Living program, Burke Swan, president of the Outdoor Club, announced a proposed trip to O'Hara's Mill, which is scheduled to leave from the Campbell Street Y at 8.30 Saturday morning.

The bridge program was well selected to cater to the wide variety of talent in the group, the evening started with a foxtrot and continued with jive, waltzes, Spanish Waltz and a hum of musical chair elimination dance, and finally ended with the Paul Jones waltz to fittingly conclude another enjoyable So-Ed meeting.

Congratulation Party Held by Harmony Studio

During the evening, games were played and several musical numbers were much enjoyed.

Mrs. Veley spoke briefly on the life of F. Liszlyn, who is known as the father of symphonies. Mrs. Veley also explained the different movements of a symphony. To illustrate, she used a record of the Surprise Symphony by Haydn. She explained how to listen to the theme of symphonies and their variations.

Mrs. Veley presented a card of congratulation to each of the following pupils: piano, Grade 1—Nancy Lou Plumpton; Grade 2—Steven Flindall; Grade 3—Susan Gay; Grade 5—Sandra Burns; Grade 6—Doreen Hall and Karen Flindall (1st); Grade 6—Lois Ballay; Grade 7—Linda Hancock; Grade 8—Marilyn Jones.

New Yorker Glad to Trade Fifth Ave. for Frozen North

OTTAWA (CP)—Although she's a native New Yorker, Rosamund Couch happily trades Fifth Avenue's pavement for the eastern Arctic's paths of ice and snow.

For the last two years she and her husband, 26-year-old Graham Couch of Ottawa, a Canadian wildlife service ornithologist, have lived on Baffin Island from April to September.

"We would like to stay in the north all winter," the attractive 23-year-old woman said in an interview here.

Their summer home is at Cape Dorset, a small community about 120 miles south of the Arctic Circle, on the southeast coast of Baffin Island.

DUCKS AND LEMMINGS

Mr. Couch, with his wife as an assistant, regularly travels to a spot about 30 miles from Cape Dorset, where he studies the earth's elder duck. He's also down is being investigated as an additional source of income for the Eskimo economy.

Mrs. Couch, blue - eyed and blonde, has her own project. She studies the lemming, northern relative of the field mouse and the hamster.

"The tiny lemming plays a part in Eskimo economy, too," says Mrs. Couch, a graduate of New York Teachers College and Cornell University with a bachelor's degree in conservation.

Arctic white fox, whose fur is a source of income for the Eskimos, preys on the lemming. But the lemming population fluctuates within three-year cycles; she says, while the fox population and its food supply are closely related.

MAY AT CORNELL

Mrs. Couch met her Winnipeg-born husband when he was doing graduate work at Cornell, following studies in biology at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont. Married in February, 1954, Mrs. Couch found part of her honeymoon trip would take her to the chilly community of Baffin Island.

"It is cold; sometimes in early spring it's 20 below zero, she said.

"But I like the north with its cheerful, friendly Eskimos."

She's learning the Eskimo language. To combat the cold she wears a fur-trimmed parka made by an Eskimo woman, and tramps about in sealskin boots worn over heavy socks.

Far from civilization—she finds the south noisy when she first comes home in the fall — she braids her long dark hair, lives in canvas tents and cooks on a single-burner primus stove.

"I love to cook," she says. And meals planned from Hudson's Bay Company staples and tinned and dehydrated rations haven't dampened her interest.

With occasional bottles of Eskimo food, she declares:

"Seal liver is better than any calves' liver I've ever eaten."

The north has other "luxuries." One is the welcomed steaming cup of tea and pilot biscuits, "produced anytime day or night" by Eskimo guides whose dogsled and team carries the young couple on working trips around the ice-locked island.

"There's also the peace and quiet of a beautiful country . . . where even the wind over a treeless land has a different sound."

A wireless set which picked up stations in many parts of the world helped bridge the isolation in a community of about a dozen white inhabitants.

WINTER RESEARCH

Interested in music and ballet — her grandfather was a pianist and her grandmother a ballerina — she "catches up on concerts" during the winter stay in Ottawa and New York.

But most of her days in the South are spent in libraries and museums, working on research material to complement her summer field work.

Mr. and Mrs. Couch intend to return to Cornell for the 1958-59 season. She will study for a master's degree, using lemmings and parasites as a thesis topic. Her husband will work on his Ph.D. thesis on blue and snow geese.

"And I'm welcomed steadily into a house here and have a family," she said.

Vivian read the 65th Psalm. Mrs. W. D. Robertson read the devotional leaflet, the subject being "Giving Thanks to God". Mrs. Elmer Vivian gave a reading "Making a Garden" which was followed by the hymn "Come Ye Thankful People, Come." Mrs. Elmer Vivian thanked her group members for their help.

The secretary called the roll and gave the minutes of the last meeting which were adopted as read. Mrs. Kenneth Juby expressed thanks for a card sent to her mother when she was ill.

The date for the next annual bazaar was set for November 14. Each member is to donate an apron for sale. Offerings were dedicated with a prayer by the president. ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HE SHOULD DRAW UP HIS OWN DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Tim and I have gone together for quite awhile. We love each other very much and plan to get married. Of course we're old enough to know what we want.

We both come from very good families. He and I have the same high ideals, have always religious and have many of the same interests. He has a wonderful job and a husband he can depend on. I've been a career girl in the business world for a long time, but have always been interested in homemaking.

The problem is that he has been the slave of his family for years. He's been very good to them and his brothers and sisters think he ought not to marry. They are all married and live closer, and have homes of their own, but they still think he ought to do just as they say. The unmarried sister has been ill and they think he should stay single and take care of her. They've made life very miserable for both of us.

Should we get married, move to another city and make a life of our own? They would still have us. Tim doesn't like to fight with his family, but he still wants me and a life of his own. They are so mean and selfish, though, there is no telling what length they would go to prevent him from getting married.

We want to have a lasting marriage and we can, if they don't fight with us too much. Please tell us how to cope with them.

—Patty

Dear Patty:

The only solution to your problem is for your young man to give out with his own Declaration of Independence and have the courage to stand by it. And, admittedly, it will take a lot of courage, since he has apparently let his family lean him around at these years.

Now understand me. I don't mean that Tim should tell his brothers and sisters he's not going to have anything more to do with them; that he's washing his hands of them. What I do mean is that he should tell them he is ready, even anxious, to take a fair and reasonable share of responsibility for the sick sister or for any other family problem, but that the others are just as obligated as he is and he expects them to assume their fair share, too. He should add that he has the same right as they do to marry and have a home of his own, and that he intends to exercise that right.

Let him, in advance of stating his position, size up the whole family situation and make up his mind just exactly what his fair and reasonable obligations are. He should be prepared to make a clear and definite statement on this. Then, the next time the family tries to club him over the head, let him stand up and speak his piece, not in any angry or bitter manner, but as quietly and affectionately as he can. That way, they will know he has thought things through and means what he says.

Of course, the moment that will call for the most stamina and will power to hold his own is if they threaten, as they may to break with him. In the face of such a threat, his years of giving in to them may tend to make him weaken. But if he weakens then, it will be disastrous. For once they see that such a threat is powerful enough to overthrow his independent stand, they'll use it again and again to keep him in line.

Your suggestion of getting married and moving to another city seems to me like a very wise one, for even though you say "they would still have us," it would be far easier to combat their attempts at continued domination of their brother if he were at a distance. But, in any case, formulate your plan well and finally before you marry. For if you don't, there is certain trouble—and lots of it—ahead of you.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUE VIVE

IS YOUR CHILD PROUD OF YOU?

When Mother is well groomed youngsters are proud to introduce her to teacher.

It was quite interesting the other day, to hear some mothers talking about their grooming problems. Getting a shampoo every week, and getting a chance to wash their faces twice a day, getting time out for a manicure—all these personal grooming matters seem to pose a real problem. Who has time for it? Isn't it easier just to let things slide? After all, aren't the children too young to know or care how mother looks?

Well, one mother put it this way: she can't know when her children begin to care about her personal appearance. Therefore, she'd better not take any chances! Children are pretty keen observers. And while they may not put it all into words, children know when mother has on a clean dress, whether her hair looks bright and shining, whether she stacks up against Mrs. Jones! When mother shows up at a school function, does she look like something to be proud of? The safest bet is to assume a child does look at you critically—that he or she does know whether you look neat and tidy.

Mothers have so many steps to take, are so concerned with everything else in the world except themselves, it's no wonder that personal grooming can be shoved aside in the struggle, but it's just not smart to neglect such things. All children have a right to be proud of their mothers. And how better can the lessons of personal grooming be taught, then by personal example? No matter how invisible you may think you are, keep to your standards of grooming. That weekly shampoo—that clear, well-scrubbed complexion — those clean, well-trimmed nails.

Since you can't know when your appearance may matter to the children, be like that wise mother who says she always looks chances. If you look well turned out, if your clothes always look fresh, your children are bound to absorb the same standards of good grooming. So it's a duty, rather than a luxury, to keep yourself as attractive as you possibly can.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. SENCHMAN

USING ACADEMIC TITLE

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

1. Some time ago we moved to this city, and after my husband received his Ph.D. degree in another state. However, we continued to receive mail from our home town addressed to "Mr. and Mrs." Would it be incorrect, or appear "snooty," if we were to purchase stationery with "Dr. and Mrs." and use address, and place them on the envelopes of letters and cards we send?

2. If this would be correct, should the printing be any specific color?

3. Could we properly use stickers printed in red or gold on Christmas card envelopes — Reader

1. If your husband wishes to use the "Dr." socially, this depends on the genuineness of the title. Many people have stickers printed with "Dr. and Mrs.—" (you will doubtless abbreviate the title to accommodate the name to the limited space) and your address.

2. The printing may be of any color you and your husband prefer for . . . dark-blue, a warm shade of brown, very-dark grey, red, whatever shade you think is "becoming" to your name and address and the type of lettering.

3. Yes . . . proper and delightfully festive!

CONVENIENT WAY TO PLACE DESSERT SILVER

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Yesterday morning I tuned in my radio to an extremely interesting talk on "How to Set the Table." I was a bit late tuning in, and the topic was just finishing a reference to "the dessert silver placed at the top of the plate." I have no idea what she meant, but it intrigued me. Could you figure it out and tell me? —Dorothy E.

Yes, I think I can . . . and I'm happy to be able to, for the speaker was referring to a detail of informal table setting which I am very enthusiastic about, and which is particularly useful in these days of no service or limited service. When the table is set, the dessert fork and spoon are put across the top of the place setting, above the plate, parallel to the edge of the table the spoon above with its handle to the right, the fork below the spoon with its handle to the left. It's a good system (it originated in Europe, and has been widely adopted here) for it makes it possible for the hostess to serve the dessert directly from the serving-dish to each plate, or to place individual servings, without having to think about the dessert spoons and forks. The guest may use both silverpieces, or either one, as he wishes . . . altogether a good and convenient idea.

"STOCKINGS" OR "HOSIERY"?

Dear Mrs. Beechman

Please settle our discussion. "A" says that it is correct to say either "stockings" or "hosiery." "B" says one should say "stockings," that "hosiery" is a commercial word. Who is right? . . . A and B "B" is right . . . "stockings," not "hosiery."

Readers' Friday Column

As told to Mary Moore

LETTER:

I feel somewhat exalted at being quoted in toto in your column . . . lost interest in run-of-the-mill gossip and connections . . . only unusual recipes which cannot be found in the average cookbook really deserve passing on to you . . . heading Pate de Foie Gras Maison which proved popular on the hors d'oeuvre tray.

PATE DE FOIE GRAS MAISON

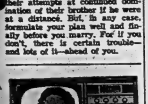
One lb. pork liver, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1-4 lb. pork fat very finely sliced (or side pork), 3 tablespoons butter, 1-3 cup flour, 1 cup milk, 8 fillets of anchovies, 1-2 medium onions, 2 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon cloves, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon fine breadcrumbs. Soak liver in cold water with the vinegar 1 hour. Line a 9x5x3" loaf pan with slices of fat. (You may be able to bribe your friendly butcher to slice the fat on his meat-slicer.) Put remainder of fat through the meat-grinder using finest blade. Melt butter over low heat, stir in flour till smooth, then add milk gradually and stir till smooth after each addition. Add onions and simmer over low heat, stirring occasionally, until liver mixture is ready. (It will curdle and it should.) Grind liver, anchovies and onions through meat-chopper three times, combine with white sauce and strain through medium sieve, or use food-mill, or for even more speed and ease put mixture into an electric blender for two or three minutes. Stir in salt, cloves, egg slightly beaten and milk very thoroughly. Add breadcrumbs and stir again. Pour mixture into loaf pan, place in a pan of hot water and bake for one hour at 350 deg Fahr. Cool in pan. Unmold and wrap in foil. It will keep for several weeks if stored in refrigerator and even longer in the freezer. This pate can be served sliced thinly to sandwiches or with slices of o'cuvres accompanied by crackers or potato chips. It also makes a delicious first course to a meal spread on hot toast points or fried bread and decorated with a sprig of parsley or a slice of dill pickle—Lisa R.



ANSWERS:

Thank you Lisa. This is excellent and highly recommended. Although as you know your letter is dated May 31 I wanted to try this pate and did so twice. The second time I used a 2 oz. jar of anchovy paste instead of 8 anchovy fillets, and reduced the salt to 1 1-2 teaspoons. The results were about the same, but it was slightly easier and cheaper. Do share any other unusual recipes of such calibre with me and readers of this page.

Money is so fascinating!

WAMPUM Beads made from sea shells and strung in belts. Used as currency by the Indians and considered legal tender in the North American colonies until 1670. You can't make whoopee with this stuff any more.

PLAYING CARD MONEY First distributed in Canada in 1658 because of the scarcity of regular currency, but used widely for some 75 years. Ingenious—wasn't it?

LACHINE CANAL RAILWAY TOKENS Tokens used by workmen on the Lachine Canal for third class travel on the Lachine and Montreal Railroad Company.

BONS Abbreviation of "bon pour" or "good for", issued by merchants to meet the need for small change. Widely used in the early 1800's.

P.E.I. HOLEY DOLLAR Originally a large Spanish silver coin in common use in Eastern Canada. Because of the shortage of coin in Prince Edward Island, the centres were punched out—the centres passing for a shilling and the outer rim for $5. Clever, but we doubt if it would work now.

HUDSON'S BAY TOKENS Brass tokens designed in 1854, and used as the unit of currency in the fur trade for many years. One "Made-Beaver" was equal in value to an adult male beaver skin in prime condition.

Hungarians Here Hope Free Lands To Offer Support

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Hungarian Federation said Wednesday night it hopes recent events in Hungary will "awake the conscience of all free nations and individuals and shall result in positive support."

After a meeting of representatives of Hungarian organizations, a statement issued by the federation said the rebellion in Hungary repudiates both the Moscow-ruled and any other type of communism.

Calling the demonstrations evidence of the Hungarian people's determination "to make any sacrifice for its own freedom," the statement said it is a 'cry to the conscience of the free world to enforce . . . the charter of the United Nations."

At Montreal the Hungarian Liberation Movement in Canada Wednesday night sent telegrams to the United Nations Security Council and to President Eisenhower, pleading to "stop the Russian slaughter of Hungarians" and asking that every assistance be given Hungary to "liberate itself from Russian domination."

The idea of letting me call and call without a sine or a sillable of an answer, she said.

Well gosh, ma, G, I said, and she said, That's one thing I cant permit and wont have.

Sure there is, ma, if you'll just let me tell you, I said. Our teecher told us to count 10 if we feel ourself going to make an angry answer to somebody, and the first time you called me I was going to say Heck, ma, I'm reeeting, and that thight of sounded kind of angry, so I started to count ten before I answred.

You had time to count a thousand and 10 for land sakes, ma said, and I said, But G, ma, the trubble was, when I got up to 6, you called me again, so I had to start all over again, and that's the way you kept on, ma making me begin over every time I had a good start.

"HISTORIC OCCASION" IS ALSO A RARE ONE!

It's news when something is approved by 82 nations without a dissenting vote. But it happened when the 81-nation atomic conference at the U. N. in New York gave unanimous approval to the charter for the Eisenhower atoms-for-peace program. Sun-six and its satellites went along on what was called "truly an historic occasion." Four of those participating in the voting are seen above discussing it. From left, are: Russian ambassador Georgi N. Zaroubin; James J. Wadsworth of the U.S.; Sir Alec Randall, United Kingdom, and ambassador Karl Winkler of Czechoslovakia, vice-chairman of the conference. (Central Press Canadian).

Council May Ask For Lower Dairy Standards

QUEBEC (CP) — The National Dairy Council today decided to consider asking federal and provincial governments to lower dairy composition standards so that milk products may be produced with low-fat content in keeping with current dietary trends.

The council's membership of hundreds of dairy processors and distributors decided also to seek ways of increasing plant automation to help ease pressures on retail prices and to boost a $5,000,000-a-year sales promotion outlay to help widen the Canadian market for dairy products.

Winding up a three-day annual convention, the council decided its board of directors should consider these other committee recommendations:

1. Develop concrete plans for boosting the flow of milk to Canada's northern areas, including the use of government subsidies.

2. Consider work on a new plant sanitary code with the help of federal and provincial authorities. The code would be designed to meet federal health department criticism of the lack of uniformity in some cheese and milk factories.

TRY FOR STUDENTS

3. Find ways of encouraging an increased flow of students to the agricultural colleges to overcome an acute shortage of trained personnel in the dairy industry.

The question of seeking a lowering of minimum dairy composition standards apparently stemmed from repeated medical warnings that a high fat content contributes to heart disease for some persons.

Dr. L. B. Pett, chief of the fed health department's nutrition division, said the fat-content emphasis on fats in milk must be changed. The value of milk, he said, was not the solids and not the fat.

Currently, under federal law, ice cream must contain a minimum of 10 per cent milk fats. In the United States, a soft ice cream containing only between four and five per cent fat is sold in 48 states and is reported to be selling well.

Facts and Scientists' Views About Radio-Active Fall-Out From Nuclear Tests Outlined

Editors note: Continued tests of the H-bomb have become a critical issue in the U.S. presidential campaign. Should the United States take the lead in abandon further tests in the interest of humanity's survival? Or is survival possibly dependent upon continued experiments with may prove the most powerful instrument for peace? This article explores the problem.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—Fall-out—scary stepchild of our new atomic age—has become a key issue in radio-active election issue in the United States.

Human dangers from fall-out underlie proposals to end H-bomb tests, and the differences of view in how and when to do it.

In this debate voters must decide concerning scientific matter, on some of which prominent scientists are divided. Fall out and H-bomb tests are also, of course, moral, political, diplomatic and military security questions.

Here are some of the main scientific facts and points of view:

Q. What is fall-out?

A. Radioactive atoms created from pieces of the exploding nuclear weapon itself, scraped from dirt, debris or water sucked up by the blast.

Q. How can fall-out harm human?

A. In three ways. (1) a huge amount, as from war, can cause generic radiation sickness and-or death. (2) even very tiny amounts might affect human heredity, (3) even very small amounts might damage the health of any of those who were hit by air or breathed enough of certain kinds of these atoms.

Q. How can a single H-bomb test in the Pacific, or Siberia or somewhere else equally remote, affect me in North America?

A. In time, a tiny sprinkle of its fall-out descends to earth, adding a bit to the radiation in which you live. How much is added depends on the number, type and timing of the tests. A slow-enough rate of tests conceivably would add no more radiation than was disappearing by decay of an earlier fall-out. The more tests, the more fall-out.

Q. Are we exposed now to dangerous amounts from A-bomb and H-bomb tests conducted so far by all nations?

A. The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission says no. It says fall-out has exposed us to only about 1-100th of the amount of radiation to which we are inevitably exposed by natural radiation which has always surrounded us. It says fall-out exposure so far is about equal to having one chest x-ray.

Other scientists aren't so sure they all mean safe so far, or are worries about certain types of fall-out, especially strontium 90 which Adlai Stevenson called "the worst poison."

Q. What is strontium-90 and why is it especially dangerous?

A. Strontium is a natural chemical element, an alkaline-earth metal. Radioactive strontium (strontium-90) is dangerous because, like ordinary calcium, it can go to the bones. And it stays active for an average of 40 years, emitting rays of decidedly amounts. If animals are given big enough doses, it produces cancers of the bone.

Q. Have dangerous amounts of strontium been created and distributed so far?

A. The AEC says the amount falling from all tests to date would have to be increased "many thousand times" before any effect on humans would be noticeable.

The National Academy of Sciences, an independent scientific agency, says some children now have detectable amounts in their bones but that it is only 1-1,000th of what is considered a permissible or very safe dose.

Other scientists say there is no question but that strontium is dangerous, and that the critical question is exactly how much is bad, and how much we are now to that point, or will be in the future.

Q. Can strontium-90 be absorbed by plants and animals and thus enter human bodies through vegetables, meats and milk?

A. Yes.

A. How are nuclear tests in an overseas country affected?

A. By air-sampling at government stations and other means. Not described for security reasons. Fall-out gives clues to the size and strength of the weapon tested.

Q. Can an overseas nation's test be detected exactly enough to learn whether it was violating an agreement not to test?

A. Many atomic scientists say yes, at least for all but the smallest power ones, and that the advantages gained by violating cannot be very great.

The AEC says detection systems cannot sensure pickup of every test, and that learning the size and nature of the test takes time, particularly with the larger, more complicated weapon.

N.S. Election Campaign Fast Drawing to End

HALIFAX (CP) — Premier Hicks and Progressive Conservative Leader Stanfield speeded up of fishing and farming Thursday night as the Nova Scotia election campaign drew toward its end.

Active campaigning ends Saturday and voting will be held the next Tuesday.

In a speech at New Glasgow Premier Hicks described what the government is doing for the farmers and fishermen in the light of his government played in the development of industry.

Mr. Stanfield said at Liverpool "substantially more needs to be done to encourage and develop the fishing industry. He also promised an improved disability pension plan.

At election standings were Liberal 19, Progressive Conservative 13, CCF two, vacant three. Two seats are to be added to the new legislature bringing the total to 43.

Nova Scotians Will Elect Six More Members Than in '53

HALIFAX (CP)—Nova Scotians will elect six more members to the Legislature Oct. 30 than they did in the last general election in 1953.

A 1955 redistribution of constituencies, based on the 1951 census, has boosted the number of assembly seats to 43 from 37.

Most of the new seats are in the fast-growing Halifax and Sydney suburban areas. Two are in the Annapolis Valley and one in the Lunenburg area.

The mushrooming town of Dartmouth and its environs on the east side of Halifax harbor comprise the county will have a seven-man representation in the house, compared to Cape Breton County and Kings and Lunenburg join Cumberland and Pictou Counties in electing three members. Colchester, Inverness, Annapolis, Hants, Digby and Yarmouth counties have two representatives, either as two-member ridings or single member constituencies.

The remaining six of Nova Scotia's 18 counties return one member each.

In the Annapolis Valley farming and fruit-growing belt the two member Kings constituency has been split into Kings North, South and West, single-member ridings.

Adjoining Annapolis County is Premier Hicks' old seat, his home town and constituency also is divided into Annapolis East and West.

On the South Shore West of Halifax the former two - member constituency of Lunenburg returns three members—one each from Lunenburg East, Centre and West.

As a result of these changes Halifax County will have a seven-man representation in the house, identical to Cape Breton County and Kings and Lunenburg join Cumberland and Pictou Counties in electing three members. Colchester, Inverness, Annapolis, Hants, Digby and Yarmouth counties have two representatives, either as two-member ridings or single member constituencies.

The remaining six of Nova Scotia's 18 counties return one member each.

REPERCUSSIONS MAY FOLLOW THEIR ARREST IN ALGIERS

These Algerian nationalist rebel leaders are shown handcuffed after their seizure in Algiers. The five were flying from Rabat, Morocco, where they had been received by the sultan, to Tunis to attend a "peace in Algeria" conference. Their airliner in which they were travelling was intercepted by a French air force plane and forced to land in Algiers. From left are Mostafal Lacheref; Mohammed Boudiaf; Hocine Ait Ahmed; Mohammed Khider and Ben Bella. Their arrest on French territory while en route to Tunis threatens to embroil the whole Mediterranean area from the Atlantic to east of Suez. (Central Press Candian).

Retired General Sharply Critical of Defence Policy In Talk to Ottawa Club

OTTAWA (CP)—A retired adjutant-general of Canada's army says there is more danger of this country "degenerating into an American dependency in the sphere of defence than there is in the spheres of finance and economics."

Maj-Gen. W. H. S. Macklin, strong critic of defence policy since he left the army in 1954, said Canada already has granted the U.S. Air Force a greater degree of "interference with our national sovereignty" than would have been conceded to Britain in the last 60 years.

And still, he said, American air officers are not satisfied. They wanted "complete command" of the Canadian Air Force and intimated this publicly.

In a sharply-worded address to Ottawa's Enterprise Club Thursday, the retired officer criticized what he termed its over-emphasized faith in the U.S. Strategic Air Command and-a policy which left the Canadian Army modelled in 1945 lines.

Russia, he said, was beating the West through propaganda, subversion, economic pressure "and the old-fashioned armies, navies and air forces." Should this continue without retaliation as he felt it might, the West could eventually be forced to "turn to the only effective weapon fi has and start the nuclear war."

"I warn you," he said, "that we are heading for a predicament like that of Samson, who in the end was going to find ourselves in."

Of the Strategic Air Force he said it was "hugely offensive and could not "protect our cities and our lives from nuclear weapons if the enemy used them." It had proved a deterrent to nuclear war, but not to non-nuclear ones like Korea.

He did not believe the third war per suggest there was no need for the Strategic Air Force.

He disagreed in with those air extremists who say that the next war, if there is one, is certain to be a nuclear war and that nuclear weapons by themselves will decide it.

This well might not be the case because Russia knew such a war could destroy all life on earth.

"The danger is that we are depending for our huge properties and our resources to this one doctrine and this one concept of nuclear war that we have less and less left for anything else."

Ike and Adlai Spend Most Of Night Threshing Old Straw

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai Stevenson was the only presidential candidate talking about agriculture Thursday night. But both he and President Eisenhower spent most of the evening threshing old straw.

The president, with a capacity crowd cheering him to the echo in New York's Madison Square Garden, was mainly concerned with the hydrogen bomb, the draft and foreign policy in general. Stevenson's field which has assumed increasing importance in the campaign under Stevenson's steady prodding.

Without covering any essentially new ground, Eisenhower restated his opposition to the proposal by his Democratic challenger that the United States lead the way in negotiating an international agreement to end H-bomb tests. Again he rejected Stevenson's suggestion that a means be found to end the two-year military draft.

And in a phrase reminiscent of a long-forgotten presidential campaign, he vowed to pursue policies of peace and strength that would lead to men being "crucified upon a cross of iron."

MAY HAVE SHUDDERED

Supporters of Republicans may have shuddered to hear the phrase ring out. In 1896 William Jennings Bryan, the last three-time loser in U.S. history, ran on a platform calling on the government to add silver to the country's monetary standard rather than "crucify mankind upon a cross of gold."

While the president assailed Stevenson's views on foreign policy, the Democratic standard-bearer was attacking the administration's farm program with equal vigor.

Speaking in his one-time capital of Springfield, the former Illinois governor reviewed the Democratic platform on agriculture — high, fixed price supports on basic crops rather than the flexible support program favored by the government.

Eisenhower also said "conservative big industrialists" have financed publication of a book by Arthur Larson, former adviser to Benson in defence of his farm policies, and referred to free donations to a foundation which contributed to its publication.

The name, he said, should have gone to the U.S. treasury.

Wellington Man Named Director Of Dairy Council

QUEBEC (CP)—J. F. Reynolds of Ottawa, 60-year-old dairy commissioner, was elected Dr. National Dairy Council for a two-year term.

The First World War army service who started commercial dairying at Edmonton 37 years ago will head the council's 1957 convention to be held at Winnipeg Sept. 9-11.

Other officers elected include: Directors—Ontario: J. E. Wet-Peterborough; J. M. Hartwick, Wellington; R. E. Drope, Harwood.

Crown Completes Evidence in Murder Case

SUDBURY (CP) — Crown evidence was completed Thursday at the trial of Eli and Christian Jo an Espanola couple charged with the murder of William Snider, the 19-year-old Spanish River recluse.

Defence counsel Eli Gitlin called four witnesses before Mr. Justice G. A. Gale adjourned court for the day.

Dr. G. R. Walker of Sudbury, first defence witness, was asked his opinion as to whether a person of 100 to 120 pounds could cause the 19 rib fractures which resulted in Snider's death June 4. The doctor said it was possible, considering the fact that bones fractured more easily in a man of Snider's age.

The witness also said that a tall, elderly man could "conceivably" suffer that many fractures in a fall. However, under cross examination by crown attorney E. D. Wilkins, he agreed this would be improbable.

SUGGESTS METHOD

Asked by Mr. Wilkins what a small woman could do to fracture the ribs, Dr. Walker suggested she could shove him to the floor and jump on him.

Throughout the four days of the trial, the Crown counsel has directed most of his questions to evidence of Florence Guay, who said that she and her half-brother Eli, and his wife beating the old man. Florence is a lightish-built woman, in contrast to her brother who is broad and heavy. Christina was of average weight at the time of her arrest July 4.

The doctor agreed with Wilkins that "a short stocky man around 230 pounds" could fracture the ribs more easily.

Pearson Sees Big Journalism As Giving Cause for Anxiety In Some Sections of Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson says that in these days of big government, big business—and big journalism —the freedom of the press is more important than ever.

He told an audience made up mainly of newspaper men Thursday night that big journalism has developed along with big government and big business until, in one or two communities in Canada, the three main sources of public information—press, radio and television—are under single ownership and control."

"This process if extended must, I think, cause anxiety to all those who believe in freedom of press and opinion and in free competitive enterprise."

The minister was guest speaker at the first Bowater Journalism awards dinner. He presented awards to winners Frank Flaherty for a series of stories on freedom of the press carried by The Canadian Press in 1955 and Alan Kent of the Toronto Telegram for his articles on the possible effect of automation on Canadian economy.

Mr. Pearson saw two main threats to the freedom of the press. One was the threat of non-democratic, dictatorial governments who disliked the check of power and authority a free press could bring about.

The other was when irresponsibility appeared in the press itself. Such irresponsibility in any one newspaper eventually impairs belief in the integrity and fairness of all newspapers." The resultant loss of public confidence and support inevitably made it much harder for the press to "stand up to those forces which would destroy its freedom."

"These two things—freedom and responsibility—are not easy to reconcile often reminded. Inseparable. If one goes they both go, and this applies to government as well as journalism."

Mr. Pearson said it was not surprising that those clothed with some brief but burdensome authority tend at times to be impatient at investigation by the press. This impatience was increased if they felt the inquiry was not fairly or objectively conduced.

"There is, I think, in these circumstances a justification for irritation or impatience," Mr. Pearson said. "But otherwise, no one has any right to complain about the searchlight of honest press investigation, even though he may be dazzled or dumbfounded by it."

Discussing the right of the press to official information, the minister said it was certainly not absolute because it has to be subordinated to the public interest. This was especially true in international affairs where premature or misleading information could prevent good results and even prejudice growth of better relations between peoples or poison good ones that did exist.

But just what was public interest and who was to decide it?

"There is certainly a danger of abusing the right to secrecy, in a way which prejudices the public interest. There is also a real danger in refusing to give information or in preventing it being given, by unwarranted or exaggerating a public interest which may merely conceal a private prejudice."

Mr. Pearson said he would leave it to his audience to decide which was the greater danger and which not.

"The way to make any decision unnecessary is, of course, to remove the cause by the strict maintenance of a high standard of professional ethics and integrity on the part of both givers and receivers of information."

Child Pulled Screaming From Burning Leaves

TORONTO (CP) — When little Anne Buchan was pulled screaming from a burning nest of leaves in a tiny space between two telephone booths and an apartment house wall her first words were: "Now mommy won't let me play outside again."

She had squeezed into the narrow space to hide when a companion lit a match and set fire to the leaves.

The two-year-old girl is presently tearing off one of her ears to get her free of the flames. It took five minutes to haul Jo Anne clear. She suffered severe burns to her right arm, head and ear as the result of a child's game.

This happened a week ago. Thursday she assured me the four-year-old girl's parents she will recover, but a long period of hospital care and skin grafting lies ahead.

Canadians Can Learn Lesson From Russians Says Duncan

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadians have been told they can learn a lesson in self-sacrifice from the Russian people.

James S. Duncan, retired Canadian industrialist, declared Thursday:

"Here we enjoy the fruits of civilization while the Russian people haven't anything.

"But they are the ones who are willing to go out in a spirit of self-sacrifice, and also are willing to inject other peoples with the same spirit.

"It seems to me we should be the ones."

Mr. Duncan, retired chairman and president of Massey-Harris-Ferguson Limited, was telling a meeting of the Canadian council of the International Chamber of Commerce, of which he is a former president, about a trip he made in Russia.

He stressed that the new smiling face of Russia represented no change in motives of world domination and the "cruel" Kremlin powers still are cold-blooded in channelling the energy of the people for the good of the state alone. But it couldn't be denied that enormous progress had been made.

Education was Russia's "most potent weapon in the Cold War." Through "will and determination" a population that was about 40 per cent illiterate has been changed until now 19.6 per cent of the total of population progress beyond the high school stage.

In the United States and Canada, the comparable figures were 15.7 and 8 respectively.

Fifty one per cent of all college graduates were specializing in science and technology, and last year Russia had 120,000 such graduates, compared with 60,000 in the U.S.

Russia is challenging the U.S. in the technological world" in which the U.S. was traditionally the leader, he said.

By 1960 Russia would be sending as many engineers "into the life stream of the people" that they would have a great influence on the under-developed countries of Asia.

There was a danger this factor could give the Cold War victory to the Russians.

This theory was not "speculative" when the example of China was studied. In every Russian factory he visited Chinese technicians were being trained. The U.S. and Canada, by refusing to recognise Red China, threw that country over to the Russians, at that only Communist teaching was felt there.

B.C. Growers Fight for Bigger Share of Returns

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — British Columbia fruit growers in their 1956 apple crop one of the smallest in 20 years, are fighting to get a bigger share of returns from the sale of their product.

Their spokesmen claim they received as little as five cents for a box of 100 low-grade apples which later sold for 54. They want to know why.

The fight has been called a "grass roots" revolt against the leadership of the 12,500-member cooperative marketing organization has developed during this month through the Okanagan Valley.

This week growers at Osoyoos overwhelmingly voted in favor of a provincial royal commission to investigate diminished returns for their fruit. It was the seventh local association to do so this month of the 19 affiliates of the B.C. Fruit Growers' Association.

Other groups, and the association, through its central-selling organization, B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., has done all that could be expected. Prices from last year's bumper crop were unusually low because of a surplus of fruit in other sections of Canada and the United States.

R. P. Walford, general manager of B. C. Tree Fruits, has estimated physical costs of handling apples total $3.50 a box-equal before anything is available to the producer.

STEAL VACUUM CLEANERS

W.M.S. Enjoys Views of Picturesque West

MADOC — Mrs. Field Allen presided at the October W.M.S. meeting, which was held at her home.

Mrs. Alvey read Matthew 25, the parable of the laborers in the vineyard.

Mrs. John Armstrong offered prayer. The meeting was under the leadership of Mrs. David Blakely, who spoke on "The Destiny of Our Land and Our Work in It." Mrs. Cecil Wood brought a "Thanksgiving message, by God's Almighty Hand". "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits? Our joys and our sorrows are intermingled, we are to rejoice in the Lord always. Each day is a miracle of God's grace, and loving-kindness. The blue of the heavens is always larger than the clouds.

WESTERN PICTURE

Mrs. Hinsbeth McIntosh gave a word picture of her trip to the west this summer. One could see the golden grain standing for the harvest; the great fields of sunflowers blooming in the sunshine, to be made into vegetable oil; the trees being cut for pulpwood, and the oil wells of Viking, the Riding Mountain Park, with its thousands of acres of mountains and lakes and beautiful driveways; the herds of buffalo and elk, and all kinds of wild life. She told also of her trip from Brandon to the manse at Carberry, where she visited with the Rev. David and Mrs. Heslip.

All listened with much interest to her account of his work at the new boys' camp at Clear Lake, and of his organist coming each Sunday to church, on snowshoes, when the snow was so deep last winter. The Gaelic hymns from the Madoc manse garden were in glorious bloom, "just a little bit of home."

Mrs. Stout and Mrs. Wood assisted the hostess in serving the refreshments.

EGYPT KEEPS BRITONS

CAIRO (AP) — A magistrate Tuesday issued an order permitting the retention in custody for 45 more days of four Britons and 15 others accused of espionage against Egypt. The Britons are manacled in court last Thursday for a secret hearing of the spy charges against them. The prosecution asked for the further 45-day remand.

INJURED IN FALL

THOMASBURG — Mr. Wesley Huffman, of Belleville, had the misfortune to fracture his ankle when a scaffolding gave way while workers were raising a heavy steel beam into position at the addition being built at Thomasburg Auto Parts. He was removed to Belleville General Hospital where the injured foot was set and placed in a cast.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Beacock on the birth of a son, in Belleville General Hospital, Tuesday, October 16.

Mrs. W. H. Elliott and Mrs. Allan Jones visited relatives near Napanee last week.

The pupils of Thomasburg school enjoyed a holiday Friday when the teachers attended the Centre Hastings Teachers' Convention in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude R. Thompson and John of Brighton; Mr. and Mrs. Lorne E. Thompson of Trenton; Miss Doreen Lott of Hallowell and Mrs. R. Thompson of Consecon, were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Thompson.

Mrs. Ella Way, who has been visiting in Belleville, returned home on Sunday.

Little Gets Last Chance To Upset Army

NEW YORK (AP)—Lou Little gets his last chance Saturday to upset an Army football team.

Little, Columbia's veteran coach has made a specialty of getting underrated teams ready to score upsets and his special victim has been Army and coach Earl Blaik. Columbia in 1947 ended a 32-game Army winning streak and pulled out a 14-14 tie five years later.

Little is retiring at the end of his 27th season as Columbia coach and because of Ivy League scheduling commitments, the Columbia-Army series ends with Saturday's game. So it's Lou's last chance.

Army is easily the stronger team, but pass defence may be one of its weak spots and Little has Claude Benham doing some great pitching these days.

Brooklyn Brass 'Impressed' With Jap Players

TOKYO (AP)—A vice-president of Brooklyn Dodgers said today he had found a number of Japanese baseball players "quite impressive" — especially 21-year-old pitcher Sho Horiuchi—but did not feel their teams were up to U.S. major league calibre.

"I would say there are somewhere between nine Texas League and Southern Association clubs," Fresco Thompson, who is in charge of the Dodgers' minor league clubs.

Thompson said it would be wrong to say the Dodgers were "interested" in any Japanese players.

"But of course we are interested in the sense that we are always interested in any player that might help our team in the future."

Despite speculation in the Japanese press, he said no offers have been made.

Present Plans For Huge Toronto Stadium

TORONTO (CP)—Plans for a civic sports stadium suitable for major-league baseball, football, soccer and other sports attracting large crowds were presented Thursday by the Canadian National Exhibition to the civic parks and exhibition committee.

The $6,000,000 amphitheatre would seat 64,000 people.

The parks committee said it will ask for reports from the board of harbor commissioners, the metropolitan assessment commissioner, the city building commissioner and the Toronto planning board.

The horseshoe-shaped stadium would incorporate the present 21,000-seat CNE grandstand.

CNE General Manager Hiram McCallum said the stadium's gross annual rental should total $305,000. Maintenance costs would lower the net revenue to $200,000.

The proposal has met some opposition in view of recent civic wage increases and a city council decision to restrict capital expenditures to essential services. Metropolitan council will be asked to help in construction.

Ontario Senior A Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cornwall Chevvies seem to have a dead battery. The Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Eastern group team is winless in four starts.

In last place in the newly-formed, six-team league, Chevvies have scored only nine goals and have been scored on 20 times.

They lost at home Thursday night to Kingston CKLC-14 before 1,000 fans as Kingston took a one-point hold on first place.

Only other senior hockey activity of the night was in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. The Soo (Ont.) Greyhounds handed the hometown Indians a 6-4 defeat and moved into a second-place tie with Sudbury Wolves in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A loop standings.

Cornwall and Kingston were tied 3-3 at the end of the second period but the Chevvies faded in the third when Don Bellringer and Bob Macey scored for CKLC.

Other Kingston scorers were Don Senior, Ted Tsoganis and Jack White. Cornwall goals were by Rheal Savard, George Bougie and Pete Payette.

State Stakes Worth $317,210

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Trainers of the top two-year-olds in the country trooped to the secretary's office at Garden State Park today clutching cheques for $1,000, the next to last installment on a chance to cut in on the first race in history to garner more than $300,000.

The Garden State Stakes, at a mile and one-sixteenth, will be run for the fourth time Saturday, and the management looks for a possible field of 18 starters headed by the Wheatley Stable's Bold Ruler.

Owners must shell out another $1,000 Saturday to start in the race, and if 18 go the pot will bulge with $317,210.

The race will be seen on CBS television at 4:05 p.m. EST.

Ed Hoekstra paced the losers with two goals. Teammate Jim McKenzie scored the third and tying goal for Teepees. Hamilton marksmen were John Roe, Whitey Youngberg, and Ray Preston.

Air Traffic Games Problem

MELBOURNE, Australia (CP)—Olympic teams from nine nations are in danger of missing the games here next month because of a shortage of airliners.

In addition, more than 200 would-be games athletes and officials face the prospect of being stranded at Manila and other Far East airports.

Olympic officials are staggered by the plight of the teams without transport to Australia. The teams involved are the Japanese (60), the Greeks (40), Koreans (45), Ethiopians (19), Israelis (24), Chinese Nationalists, Indians (32), the Lebanese (8) and the American soccer team of 20.

No total figure was available for the Chinese Nationalists.

The secretary of the Australian Olympic Federation, Edgar Tanner, said if civil airlines fail to solve the problem efforts will be made to get the Royal Australian Air Force to stage an airlift.

Quebec League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Aces, early - season powerhouse of the Quebec Hockey League, came back from a 4-1 deficit against Montreal Royals Thursday night and scored a 5-4 overtime decision on Mike Labadie's goal.

It was Quebec's sixth victory, and put the Aces five points ahead of Chicoutimi Sagueneens, who took over second with a 3-1 victory over Shawinigan Falls on Greig Hicky's two unassisted goals with less than two minutes to play.

The Aces, playing at home, took a 1-0 lead on Jim Robertson's goal and then welted under Montreal counters by Andre Corriveau, Walt Bradley, Jacques Desrosiers and Kelly Burnett. Gene Achtymichuk and Skip Teal with two, fired the equalizers.

At Shawinigan Falls, the hapless defending champs Cataracts lost their fifth game in six tries in a dull game. The Cataracts led 1-0 at the end of the first on Gerry Desaulniers' goal. Stan Sorko evened the score in the second.

Hicks picked up loose pucks for both his goals.

Junior A Squads Start Tough Schedule Tonight

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league opens the 1956-57 season tonight with two new teams giving it a moderately new look.

Hamilton Tiger-Cubs, St. Catharines TeePees, Guelph Biltmores, Barrie Flyers, and the two Toronto teams, St. Michael's College Majors and the defending Memorial Cup champion Marlboros, are all back for another season.

New teams are Peterborough and Ottawa Canadiens, the latter playing on a part-time basis.

Apathy towards junior hockey in Kitchener, where the senior Dutchmen get the major support, forced the shift of the franchise held by Montreal Canadiens to Peterborough, where a new 6,000-seat arena is expected to be ready early in November.

Ottawa, which proved it can support junior hockey when it packed the auditorium for several exhibition games last season, will be "home" for the transplanted Montreal Junior Canadiens.

The Canadiens will play a double schedule with each team in Ontario, all points counting in the OHA standing. The seven other teams will meet each other eight times, giving each a total of 52 games.

OPEN AT BARRIE, GUELPH

Opening games tonight are Ottawa at Barrie and Marlboros at Guelph. Saturday St. Michael's plays at St. Catharines. On Sunday the TeePees meet the Marlboros and Hamilton plays St. Michael's at Toronto.

St. Michael's Majors, who finished fifth last season, are generally rated as top contenders for the Ontario title this year.

Lark Games Start at One

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes announced today that the remaining home game—Nov. 3—of the Big Four football schedule will start at 1 p.m. So will the home game of the playoffs.

The change from 2 p.m., starting time as far this season, was made because of the increasing early arrival of darkness. McGill Stadium, home of the Alouettes, lacks sufficient artificial lighting for a regular game.

Meanwhile the management has had to say "no more" to requests for tickets to the Grey Cup game, to be played in Toronto Nov. 24. If the Als should be the eastern representatives in the game, it is estimated about 4,000 tickets will be allotted to Montreal. If the Als miss out, then probably half that amount.

COLORFUL CLUB

The powerful Ottawa Canadiens (nee Montreal Junior Canadiens), accompanied by a large package of big-brother rooters, swam hockey rapiers with the McFarlands in their inaugural appearance in the city on Saturday night.

JOHN KOWALCHUK

It can be told now. For some time it was doubtful if the classy Ottawa club would be permitted to play anything but exhibition games in the Eastern Ontario senior "A" group, as manager Sammy Pollock wanted to strengthen his beardless pup chasers with seasoned professional veterans, members of the Montreal Canadiens sprawling farm system.

Pollock, the brass tops and the Canadiens wanted to get away from the "exhibition" angle as it was felt this type of hockey would not prove a box-office attraction.

The book of words, the bible of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, also that of the Ontario Hockey Association, barred professionals from playing on an amateur team against other amateur clubs. You'll pardon this corner if it omits putting the word "amateur" in quotes.

The matter was argued long at meetings of the Eastern boys. The Canadiens did not want to play exhibition games. Nor did the Eastern League. Eventually the OHA gave the league game idea its sanction and took it to the CAHA. There was little hope that the latter would grant sanction this season, but things happen in this wacky world of hockey and to and behold, it gave the league its blessing and the green light.

So there will be nothing of an exhibition complex in these battles with the classy youngsters and veterans from Bytown. The Canadiens, who will not participate in league playoffs, will always appear at the bottom of the standings, regardless of points.

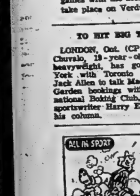
The other night in Whitby the Ottawas smashed Wren Blair's Dunlops' hopes of a season's "no-hitter" by whamming the predicted loop champions 7-3 with a score of third leg counted scoring power. It would be a tremendous feather in the McFarland hat of achievement if Boy Guidolin's crew could emerge victorious over the Ottawans.

Sammy Pollock has gathered himself a smart group of puckmen for his battles in the Eastern Senior League and the Quebec Professional League. He has selected his topflight Juniors and added, as was said before, seasoned veterans from the Canadiens' system.

That his club reeks with power is seen in the fact that in an exhibition tilt on the Chaput Block Hawks had all they could do to eke out a 2-1 decision over the Ottawans while the Perfectchem held the Montreal Royals of the Quebec League to a 3-3 decision last Sunday.

In his yearning try, Pollock has National Hockey League stars in the making. Worth watching will be Ralph Backstrom, just back from a three-game stint with the Montreal Canadiens and regarded as one of the best junior players in the country. Another outstanding star will be Dave Judd of who was with the Maple Leafs last season.

In goal will be Gilles Boisvert who rates second to Glenn Hall in the Detroit Red Wings farm system. Boisvert played with the Edmonton Flyers of the Western Professional League last season.



Then there is the scintillating Murray Balfour, team captain, Claude Rael, John Kowalchuk, Gerry Wilson, John Lagarski, John Annable who scored three goals against Whitby, Dick Dumouchel, Claude Richard, brilliant young-sters brother of the "Rocket" and "Pocket Rocket" of Les Canadiens, and many others.

But this glittering array does not scare the bouncing boys of Boy Guidolin. They know they have a hard task ahead of them, but the starry Frenchmen from the Ottawa-ville will learn they've been in a hockey set-to by the time the final whistle shrills. Guidolin has driven his charges at a merciless pace all week readying them for what should be one of the toughest chores of the season.

The Ottawa team plays a 30-game schedule in the Eastern League, four tilts with each club, and three of them on opposition ice. In other words they will play three of their four games with the McFarlands in Memorial Arena. The other will take place on Verdun, Quebec, ice.

TO HIT BIG TIMES?

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — George Chuvalo, 19-year-old Canadian heavyweight has gone to New York with Toronto matchmaker Jack Allen to talk Madison Square Garden bookings with the International Boxing Club, Free Press sportswriter Harry Elsen says in his column.

"Since those schools quit subsidizing their players, it's getting jobs dangerous to toss a coin for the kickoff."

Hand Canadien Pewsters Jolt As They Rally Twice to Win; Hall Brilliant for Detroit

By The Canadian Press

Even the most faithful of Montreal Canadien fans must be wondering about their once-feared hockey team.

Canadiens, who bulled their way to the National Hockey League title and the Stanley Cup last season, have joined the ranks of the ordinary. Just how long they will stay there is unknown, but there's no doubt Canadiens are not yet the overpowering club of a year ago.

The Habs Thursday night lost their third game in six starts when they dropped a 3-2 decision to the young lively Toronto Maple Leafs. It was Canadiens' second straight defeat by a 3-2 score.

In another engagement, the Red Wings took over sole possession of first place with a 3-1 win over the last-place Chicago Black Hawks at Detroit.

LEAFS WIN IN THIRD

At Montreal, 14,108 Forum customers were jolted as Leafs drove from behind twice and then broke in front on Dick Duff's goal 1:22 of the third period. The other Leaf marksmen were Barry Cullen and George Armstrong.

Left winger Dickie Moore and centre Jean Beliveau scored for Montreal.

Coach Toe Blake conceded his Canadiens were playing up to par but blamed Thursday night's setback on good goalie work.

"If the officials aren't out to stop us as the winning team the last season, it's a new shirt," Blake said heatedly.

He said Leafs got away with holding Montreal players. He also attacked the calling of a penalty shot against Jean Beliveau in New York Wednesday, which resulted in a win for Rangers. Referee Udvari was the referee in both games.

Blake said a penalty shot should not have been awarded after defenceman Doug Harvey hooked Dean Prentice from behind when he was in the clear.

"You've seen the same play a thousand times and all that happened was a penalty shot on Harvey against the player doing the hooking," Blake said.

BOLTON BREAKS LEG

Leafs now are in third place with seven points, one behind the second-place Rangers and two off the Detroit pace. However, they lost the services of defenceman Hugh Bolton, who suffered a double fracture above the ankle of his left leg in the opening period. Bolton went to check Beliveau or block a possible shot when he tumbled into the boards.

Fifteen minor penalties were called, eight to Leafs who gave up both Montreal goals while shorthanded.

Blake revamped his lines, with Jean Guy Gendron and Henri Richard on the sidelines with injuries, but the combinations were not particularly effective. Jacques Plante was back in the Montreal nets after a brief illness.

At Detroit the power-packed Wings held on to edge the Hawks by one goal for their sixth win in six games.

The Wing scoring was shared by rookie Bill McNeil, Norm Ullman and right winger Gord Howe. Harry Watson tallied for Hawks.

Detroit goaltender Glenn Hall brought cheers from the 10,066 fans with his saves. He stopped 40 Chicago shots.

The results left Canadiens in a fourth - place tie with Boston Bruins. Each has five points. Hawks have one point.

The weekend lineup: Saturday—Boston at Montreal, Chicago at Toronto; Sunday—Montreal at Detroit, Toronto at New York.

Al Lopez Seems Favored as Sox Manager

CHICAGO (AP)—There was a wave of speculation today as to Marty Marion's successor as manager of the Chicago White Sox but the No. 1 candidate appeared to be Al Lopez.

Marion resigned Thursday after a conference with Vice-President Chuck Comiskey and other Sox brass.

"They were not happy with my work," said Marty, who replaced Paul Richards as Sox skipper on Sept. 14, 1951.

There was little doubt that the 39-year-old former St. Louis Cardinal star shortstop stepped down under pressure. The White Sox finished third both years under Marion.

Marion agreed to resign only after he was assured he would be paid in full for the year remaining in his contract—even if he lands another job.

COACHES OUT TOO

The Sox also will request that all four of Marion's coaches resign—Ray Berres, Don Gutteridge, Del Wilber and George Myatt.

In addition to Lopez, names being bandied about as Marion's successor were Eddie Stanky, recently dismissed as manager of Minneapolis Millers; Jim Dyke, who led the Sox for 13 years and is now a coach for Cincinnati Reds and Kerby Farrell, who guided Indianapolis Indians to the American Association pennant.

There was speculation that Marion would switch jobs with Cardinal manager Fred Hutchinson. He managed the Cards in 1951. There also was talk that Marion may wind up in Cleveland with General Manager Hank Greenberg, who always has had high regard for Marty.

And He Says So

Ole Case Is Duly Grateful For Manager-of-Year Honors

By Bob Myers

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—Casey Stengel, a wonderful man who has perfected the oratorical double reverse with a split infinitive and flanker adjective, is duly grateful and honored to be voted the American League manager-of-the-year.

He said so today at his home in Glendale, where he is resting up after leading New York Yankees to their sixth world series triumph and seventh pennant in his eight years with the club.

Casey scored a lopsided victory in the annual Associated Press poll of members of the Baseball Writers Association of America—164 of the 207 votes. This was 150 more than his rival for the honor, Paul Richards of Baltimore Orioles.

FARE-RECORDED TALE

Casey, in a strictly serious vein, expressed his sentiments, and by agreement with the Old Fox they were recorded on tape and are herewith presented just as Casey let loose. We quote:

"Well, I'd have to say on this award of the year that naturally the first thing you'd have to say that is, you should be thankful for the award of that kind so you should be thankful it was not voted by one man but by a number of men that are authorities on baseball because they followed the sport so many years and because it's a voting proposition in which the majority share.

"And therefore that's why you get the selection and feel honored because you received the selection from the men who voted you the award which is the writers, the sports writers.

"And the second thing is you got to thank, naturally, is your ownership for making it possible that they own the ball club and were successful enough to have scouts pick up enough players to make it a very good team.

"And third and last, certainly you have got to thank the ball players and the coaches for cooperating great enough to win a pennant and a world championship and naturally that makes the manager more successful, in which he does success generally gives you the award although it isn't often you get the award just because you win a pennant or world championship.

"And the fourth thing is you got to be satisfied with yourself that you're doing a good job with the talent entrusted to you."

Handsome Trophy Perpetuates Memory of Late Bill Green

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The memory of one of Belleville's finest athlete-sportsmen will be perpetuated.

A handsome black-and-silver trophy will keep afresh the memory of Bill Green, one of this city's greatest hockey players and most esteemed citizens.

It will be presented annually to the athlete named the "most valuable player" to the Belleville senior hockey club. Winners will receive a handsome replica as their permanent possession.

Formal presentation of the trophy by the donors to the McFarland Hockey Club will take place in Memorial Arena on a Saturday night, prior to the game between the McFarlands and the Ottawa Canadiens.

The trophy is the gift of the Belleville Old Timers Hockey Association, founded by Bill Green and maintained by present president Hank Fenn, secretary Johnny Hibbard and their executives.

The winner will be selected by a panel of four. This includes McFarland coach Reg Goldsby, "Red" Doran, Jack Devine and this reporter.

The presentation will be made by Old Timers president, Hank Fenn, Johnny Hibbard, secretary, and will be accepted by Manager Drury Dwyer, Coach Reg Goldsby, John other officials of the club. Representing the family of the late Bill Green, will be son, Jim, and Bobbie, both athletes in their own rights.

The trophy is as unique as it is beautiful. Mounted on an ebony black base, with pedestal, four silver colonnades rise some twenty inches, surmounted by a victory figure. Flanking the colonnades are hockey players in action poses. The crest-like top of the trophy is for hockey.

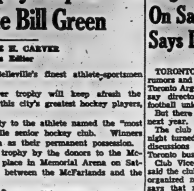
Engraved on the frontal plaque is "The Bill Green Memorial Trophy. Founder and past-president Old Timers Hockey Association, 1897 - 1954."

On the front and sides of the pedestal are smaller plaques upon which will be engraved the names of the annual winners.

It is a fitting memorial to a grand sportsman and athlete.

It is especially fitting because Bill Green in his official capacity as president of the Old Timers Association, and in his more personal capacity as a friend and fellow athlete, worked hard to have the memories of those athlete out-fits leagues who predeceased him, perpetuated.

Through his efforts handsome trophies today bear memorial tributs to such former Belleville hockey greats as Daw Whalen, Pat Boland, and others.



A star in his own right, Bill Green never lost his love of the great winter game. When Time let its inevitability, forced him from active participation, he worked as hard off the ice as on it. He was a stalwart supporter of the clubs whose colors he carried on many times to victory in his playing heyday. His loyalty to Belleville hockey was unsurpassed.

His work never ceased. So deep that from them came the idea of the organization of a Belleville Old Timers Organization. He was its founder and first president. He gathered under its wing athletes who carried the banner of Belleville on the hockey cushion, baseball diamond and other playfields of athletics from prior to the turn of the century.

He was steeped in Belleville hockey lore. His experiences over the playing years were stored in his retentive memory. He accepted, sometimes reluctantly, the inevitable changes in the game. Yet he was always fair in his criticisms, and his opinions were often sought.

Outspoken on his argumentative side, Bill was as gracious in defeat as he was modest in victory. He was a popular member of a radio "Hot Stove League" here a couple of years ago — and often spoke over CJBQ during hockey broadcast interims. He was always a welcome visitor to the press box.

His memory will be saluted tomorrow night. It will be perpetuated in the trophy donated by his athletic and other friends.

Argonauts Not On Sale Block Says Directors

TORONTO (CP)—Despite bids, rumors and nudges from the press Toronto Argonauts are not for sale say directors of the Big Four football Indian club.

But there will be some changes next year.

The club executive Wednesday night turned down a bid for sale discussions from a syndicate of Toronto businessmen.

Club Vice-President Joe Wright said the club executive will be reorganized next year. One report says that means hiring for the first time of a general manager with full authority over team operation.

The offer to talk over sale of the club, now anchored in last place, was presented by a 13-man delegation headed by stockbroker Eric Cradock, financier C. W. F. Burns and John Bassett, Jr., publisher of the Toronto Telegram.

Others in the syndicate: N. N. Davis, D'Arcy Doherty, G. R. Gardiner, William Hatch, J. Maillard Macintosh, K. M. Peacock, Lt.-Col. W. D. Phillips, John Rogers and Sam Shaffy.

But three Toronto newspapers have been unanimous in spirited criticism of the club. Two had advised its sale at once.

It was also reported the club owned by the Argonaut Rowing Club, would lose money on the season unless it made the Big Four playoffs. The Telegram says it has learned, however, the club will wind up 1956 with a profit of almost $15,000, compared with last year's $72,000 deficit.

Second Place At Stake in Western Union

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Second place is at stake in Saturday action in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Edmonton Eskimos have already clinched first place, finishing in the top spot for the third successive year, but second place is still a contest between Saskatchewan Roughriders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Both play at home, Bombers entertaining Eskies and Riders playing the resurgent Calgary Stampeders in Regina.

The fifth team, British Columbia Lions, have finished their schedule with a 6-10 record and the team finishing second has the choice of locale for the opener.

The best-of-three playoff final between Edmonton and the winner of the Winnipeg - Saskatchewan series will open Nov. 10. The second will be played Nov. 12 or 13 and the third game if necessary, Nov. 17.

The last-place Calgary Stampeders missed a playoff berth by a wide margin but in the first time this season won two in a row; last Monday and Saturday.

TO USE FRACAS, KING

Edmonton coach Frank Ivy said that in Winnipeg, two Canadians will see their first action this season. They are Gino Fracas, a fullback from the University of Western Ontario, and Mike King, a veteran guard who came to Esks from Toronto Argonauts as an Alcadu.

Vancouver interest centres on the status of assistant coach Wally Ziemba. Ziemba has announced he was fired but club president J. Mackenzie says "Ziemba has not been fired."

Meanwhile Ziemba headed for home in South Bend, Ind. and some scouting in the United States midwest for Lions.

John Landy May Not Run In Olympics

MELBOURNE (AP) — John Landy, the world's best miler against a clock, is racing against time again. But now it's a calendar, not a stopwatch, he has to beat.

With less than a month remaining before the 1956 Olympic Games open here, Landy still is undecided about entering. He's been hobbled by a foot injury and has done little competitive running since his last successful assault on the four-minute mile, in the United States last summer.

Bruised heel tendons scratched Landy, holder of the 3:58 miles record, from the Australian Olympic track trials, but he was named to the team in both the 1,500 and 5,000 metres. (There is no mile race on the Olympic program).

BAN LIFTED

With the long layoff, Landy needs trial competition now that he is able to run again. But these trials, on which he'll base his decision of whether to enter the games, were banned early in the week by Sir William Bridgetort, executive director of the Games.

The ban, set to prevent a "shoulder to shoulder Games in the smoth ahead," brought strong protests from Australian and British runners. The ban was lifted Thursday, giving Landy his chance.

While workouts were permitted under the short-lived ban, international competitions were ruled out. But "match" races are needed to get the finishing 2-5 on a runner's conditioning.

The cricket Ground track, site of the games, still is off-limits, however, and the international trials must be staged privately.

Field Increased To Eleven Nags In International

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—The field for th e$100,000 Washington, D.C. International was increased to 11 Thursday when horses from Ireland and France joined the lineup for the 1½-mile grass event Nov. 12.

The announcement that Vaquero a three-year-old Irish horse, and Mister Boing, a thoroughbred of similar age from France, were the starters followed closely word that Sekai-O, a four-year-old Japanese colt, will be flown 11,000 miles to Maryland for the famed turf race.

Sekai-O will be the first Japanese horse to fly the Pacific and race on the American track. Others entered are Hindu Wand, owned by Jack Bell of Calgary, Career Boy, Bardstown and Dedicate from the U.S.; Prince Coastaid from Australia, Chanceliar from Sweden, Le Prestandant from England and L'Inconnu from Brazil.

Alouettes Eye Hungry Cats Argos' Chances Seem Slim

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Alouettes probably hope Hamilton Tiger-Cats have a new defence to throw at them in their Big Four football game Saturday. The Als, it seems, run wild on Hamilton strategy.

Just before last Saturday's engagement in Montreal Ticat coach Jim Trimble said he had something special in the way of a pass defence. So the Als ran up 52 points, 42 in the air. Ticats scored 14 points in the massacre, worst in Canadian professional football history.

Hamilton officials aren't saying whether they've worked out a different defence against the Alouettes. But it's hard to imagine any team in the Big Four stopping quarterback Sam Etcheverry and Hal (Mr. Wonderful) Patterson.

ARGOS' CHANCES SLIM

While Trimble has his problem trying to stop the awesome Als, his squad at least is assured of a playoff berth. But consider the plight of Toronto's fourth-place Argonauts. To oust Ottawa from third place—the final playoff spot—Toronto must top the Rough Riders by at least 44 points Saturday, beat the Alouettes the next weekend, and rely on Hamilton to stop Ottawa in the final clash between those two teams.

If Ottawa and Argonauts end the season in a tie for third place, the one with the better record against the other club gets the playoff spot. So three games against Argonauts this year Riders have outscored them by 43 points.

The Ontario Rugby Football Union senior group has one game scheduled for the weekend. It's a night game in Kitchener tonight, between the first-place Dutchmen and Sarnia Golden Bears. Sarnia beat the Dutchmen 28-20 last week.

Two return matches feature Saturday action in the Intercollegiate Senior league.

The first-place University of Toronto Blues, with three sound quarterbacks again, meet Western Ontario Mustangs in London and at Montreal McGill Redmen try to make it two wins in a row over Queen's University Golden Gaels.

CURCILLO TO PLAY

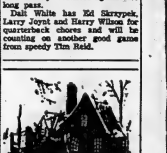
Tiger-Cats will start injured quarterback Tony Curcillo against the Als in their attempt to nail down second place. They have 12 points, two more than Riders. Curcillo has his left—not his passing arm—in a cast.

If Curcillo, who had six of his passes intercepted last week, has trouble again, Ticats will call on second-stringer Bobby Dawson, a game and inexperienced product of Windsor schools. Dawson appeared against Als last Saturday.

Swiacki will have Argos at full strength. O. K. Ferguson, powerful running import backfielder who missed last week's game against Ottawa because of the 'flu is expected to be ready.

PLAY PASSING GAME

The experts look for a wide open game from Argonauts. To get the 44 scoring points they need to overtake Rough Riders, they are expected to rely mainly on passing.



Coach Frank Clair says his Riders didn't look too good offensively in the last half of their win over Argos last week because they didn't have to. Clair says he has been holding some new pass patterns in reserve.

If Rough Riders make the playoffs it will be for the first time since they went all the way to the Grey Cup in 1951.

Richmond's upset defeat by the third-place Sarnia crew has given them new spirit, says coach Barney Johnson. He has shifted end Don Skemson into the backfield to fill one of the holes left by injuries to Carl Tobike and Homer Jenkins.

Mustangs lost 21-19 to the Blues last week but Johnny Mostrm says they should have taken it, and will win Saturday by taking advantage of a Varsity weakness against the long pass.

Blue White has Ed Skrzypek, Larry Joynt and Harry Wilson for quarterback chores and will be counting on another good game from speedy Tim Reid.

Gordon MacRae's Prescription To Relieve Tension: Sing

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —Gordon MacRae has his own prescription for release from nervous tension: Sing!

It's as simple as that. Forget the tranquilizers and self - help books. Just sing.

MacRae realizes that his formula sounds revoltingly simple and even a little pollyanna-ish. But he claims it has worked for him.

"When I get too hard, and things start getting tense, I start singing. It seems to clear my mind and give me strength.

"Most people sing in the bathtub or the shower. Why? Because they feel good; they're getting a fresh, clean start on the day. If they would sing at other times, too, I think they could retain that attitude."

He cited his idol, Bing Crosby, as an example of the therapeutic value of song. One of Hollywood's most relaxed men, Bing is always bursting into song, largely for his own amusement. Another off-stage singer is Perry Como. You can't get much more relaxed than Perry and remain conscious.

But you don't need the vocal talent of a Crosby or Como, MacRae argues. Anybody can do it.

"The trouble is that we've gotten out of the habit of singing," he said. "I suppose that's because we have so much radio and television to listen to. There isn't enough quiet in the house to provide time to sing.

MacRae advises prying the family away from the TV set at least once a week for an old-fashioned song fest. It'll pay off in future dividends, says he.

If he sounds like a devotee of spontaneous singing, it's understandable. "That's how I got started in this business," he said. "I was singing in the men's room on the third floor of the NBC building in New York when Homer Heidt heard me and gave me a break."

He's been getting the breaks ever since.

Sasky Riders Shoot for Marks

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders, who have already broken three team and individual Western Interprovincial Football Union passing records this season, will be aiming at others when they close out the regular schedule Saturday against Calgary Stampeders.

With quarterback Frank Tripucka showing the way, Riders have already set records for first downs passing with 139, seven more than the mark set by B.C. Lions last season; most passes attempted, 356 by Tripucka, one more than the record set by Jack Jacobs of Winnipeg in 1951, and most passes in a game, 42 by Tripucka against Edmonton two weeks ago, eclipsing the mark of 40 set by Jacobs in 1952.

Trappers Suspend Operations in Northern League

NORTH BAY (CP) — Pete Palangio, manager of North Bay Trappers, said Thursday if the team withdraws from the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior southern group, it wants to represent Canada in next year's world hockey tournament in Moscow.

Palangio said the club has notified the NOHA of its decision to suspend operations because of dwindling attendances.

Palangio said he planned to make his request to George Patter, reported to have been named manager of this year's world tournament team, at his Gravenhurst home.

The club manager said the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has been having difficulty in getting a representative Canadian team for the world tournament. Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen were beaten by Moscow Dynamos last year at Cortina, Italy.

If the CAHA okays the Trappers, said Palangio, the team would start a cross-country exhibition tour from the west coast in preparation for its departure for Russia in February.

Meanwhile, the NOHA has decided to hold an emergency meeting Monday night in Sudbury to discuss the withdrawal of the Trappers. The team has agreed to continue in the league until Nov. 3 to give the NOHA time to look into the situation.

AT THE McCARTHY — Rory Calhoun and Yvonne De Carlo in a love scene from "Raw Edge," action film in Technicolor which comes to International now playing at the McCarthy Theatre along with "Hot Machine" and Leigh Snowden in "I've Lived Before."

AT THE BELLE — Bing Crosby, Grace Kelly and Frank Sinatra form the spectacular star trio of "High Society," MGM's big musical in VistaVision and Technicolor which is now playing today and Saturday at the Belle Theatre. This is Grace Kelly's first song-and-dance roll and teams Bing Crosby and Sinatra for the first time also, Celeste Holm, John Lund and Louis Calhern also star in the film while Louis Armstrong and his Band enhance Cole Porter's musical score.

MARSH HILL

Child Needs Chart Read at W.I. Meeting

MARSH HILL— The October meeting of Pine Grove W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. James Campbell with 11 members and one visitor present.

The president, Mrs. Allyn Finkle, opened the meeting.

The correspondence was read and dealt with.

Plans were discussed for serving at Scott's Sales Barn and the Extension Service, which begins November first.

Mrs. Harry Coulter was appointed delegate to the Area convention with Mrs. Leslie Finkle and Mrs. Fred Campbell as alternate delegates.

Mrs. Bartindale reported on the C.A.C. bulletin.

Current events were given by Mrs. Harry Coulter.

The progress was in charge of Mrs. Clare Mayell, Home Economics and Health convener. All joined in singing "Pack Up Your Troubles."

Mrs. Harold Detlor gave a report on the Extension Service on "Salads", which she had attended at Chatterton W.I.

Mrs. Bartindale read an article on "Mental Illness", followed by a questionnaire.

Mrs. Leslie Little read a chart of "Basic Needs for Middle Aged Canadians".

"Friends are needed for the sharing of the ups and downs of life. The richest person in the world is the individual with many friends. Old friends may move away, or die; it is a sound policy to develop the facility of making new friends and of holding them. Never become bankrupt, as far as friends are concerned.

"There is the need for a hobby which is an activity that is absorbing and interesting.

"The best road to health and happiness is a life of service for others, and of sincere reverence for the Great Architect of the Universe. Self centredness leads to deterioration and decay. Social service and religion and therefore essential and one should spend time each week in the helping of others."

Mrs. Farley Lindenfield read a chart of "Child Needs."

Some of the needs of a child are: emotional affection, feeling of being loved; belonging, feeling of being wanted by the group; independence, feeling of managing and directing own life; achievement, satisfaction from making things and doing jobs; social approval, feeling that others approve of conduct and efforts; self esteem, feeling of being worthwhile; intellectual, for training in ability to think clearly and solve problems wisely; character and moral, for developing ability to live with others in a co-operative and worthy way; physical, for developing a healthy body and good health habits.

"The child will need help from his parents, his teachers, his playmates and his community to achieve all these needs."

Mrs. Mayell gave a demonstration on icing cakes.

After the singing of the National Anthem and the Institute grace, refreshments were served.

Sunday School Lesson

Let's Pray Positively

By ROY L. SMITH

Without a doubt the twenty-third Psalm is the most popular bit of Scripture in the entire Old Testament. It is very probably true that more Christians can repeat it from memory than any other portion of the Bible, with the exception of the Lord's prayer, and in that connection it is important to notice that it is, also, a prayer.

BEGINS WITH CONFIDENCE

We have been so long accustomed to thinking of prayer as a request for something that it may be a little difficult for us to think of it as an assertion of faith. It is highly probable that if most of us were called upon to write such a song, we would begin by pleading, "Oh Lord, be my Shepherd, for I am going to need so very much."

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for October 28: "The Shepherd Psalm," Psalm 23.

Modern psychology declares that the orderly and confident statement of belief, faith, and purpose has a steadying effect on life, whereas the pleading, imploring, and begging attitude has the effect of distributing and unsettling life. Again and again the psychologists urge their patients to assert their own mind, will, purpose, or desire. It is good therapeutics. Many a disordered life has been restored by positive action which supplants negative thinking.

NO REQUESTS MADE

From beginning to end, there are no requests, pleas, or implorings in the twenty-third Psalm. Every statement is positive; every attitude is that of faith or aggressive purpose. Perhaps that is a part of the explanation of its popularity. Once we have repeated it we have the feeling that we are stronger, more capable, and better prepared.

Many of us have defeated ourselves by praying negatively. It is true, of course, that the religious man has a right to present his needs and petition to the Almighty. But did it ever occur to you that even God might get a little tired of one who always came begging, and never expressing appreciation?

"I always know he wants something, when I see him coming up the drive," is the way one kindly woman spoke of a youth who had come to depend upon her, rather than upon his own efforts. "He never comes to see me except when he is in trouble."

Go back over your prayers and see if this might be true of your approaches to God.

NEEDS AND WANTS

One of the important points in the Psalm is the fact that the Psalmist is very confident that his necessities will be provided for. He makes no mention of his wants.

There is a very great difference between the two. Our necessities represent the irreducible minimums of life; our wants are the products of our luxurious living.

Modern life, with its abundance, constantly tempts us to make necessities out of wants. The James family across the street are very disturbing people; they create so much dissatisfaction inside our family circle with their constantly duplicated cars (still unpaid for) and vacation trips. If we were only big enough, or courageous enough to live under the disciplines of our own incomes we might live a glorious experience. But the Jones family will not permit that. They insist that we spend as foolishly and as thoughtlessly as they do. And we accept their dictation almost without protest.

Let's try living and praying positively. Let's talk to God once in a while without asking for anything. Let's declare our independence of the Jones'. Let's assert our faith, and stop begging for favors. At any rate, let's try it for a while.

U.S. Foreign Aid For Egyptians Quietly Resumed

Goods Worth Twenty Million Moving for Last Few Weeks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has quietly resumed foreign aid to Egypt after halting shipments recently because of the Suez Canal crisis.

Responsible officials who reported this today said locomotives, machinery, transportation equipment and newsprint have been moving to Egyptian ports during the last few weeks.

These supplies are part of a $20,000,000 backlog whose delivery was suspended in mid-August by the state department pending a ruling on whether to suspend all foreign aid until the Suez dispute was settled.

But when announcing it, the state department and the U.S. foreign aid agency, the International Co-Operation Administration, apparently decided several weeks ago to go ahead with the shipments previously promised the Egyptians.

SEND 10 LOCOMOTIVES

The main items delivered since then have been eight to 10 American-built locomotives, part of 32 earmarked for President Nasser's government.

Another $20,000,000 in aid funds, including more locomotives, the state department decided against suspending aid further to avoid possible charges of an economic boycott.

Pearson Wants UN to Consider Hungarian Revolt

TORONTO (CP) — The United Nations should take up immediately the case of the anti-Russian revolt in Hungary to prevent further bloodshed, External Affairs Minister Pearson told today.

He said the annual convention of Rotary International here.

"Yesterday the United States government consulted with the Canadian and certain other governments over the feasibility and desirability of referring the Hungarian situation to the security council of the United Nations.

"The view of the Canadian government is that this should be done and that the United Nations should immediately be seized of this matter in order to prevent further bloodshed and to enable Hungary freely to choose its own course as a free member of the United Nations.

"It will be the duty and the responsibility of the United Nations as well as any other members of the United Nations to work toward such a solution.

"The forces of world opinion must be mobilized in favor of the forces of national freedom in these countries and against foreign armed intervention and foreign domination. The United Nations is where this should be and can be done."

Malayan Troops Ready to Help Quell Riots

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — British authorities today rushed in 1,000 troops from Malaya and tried again to put down riots here in which 13 persons have been killed and 300 injured in the last three days.

A police spokesman in Kuala Lumpur, Malaya, said 400 Malay police were standing by today in Johore Bahru, across the causeway from Singapore, in case the rioting spread to unscrambable portions.

In addition, a spokesman for the RAF in Kuala Lumpur said transport aircraft were scheduled to fly Indian troops from northern Malaya into Singapore this afternoon in case they were needed to beef up police.

As soon as this morning's curfew was lifted, reinforcements restaged raids on the headquarters and principal offices of Singapore's powerful left-wing unions, holding 465 persons for questioning.

At one point the police were forced to make their way against a mob hurling acid-filled bottles at them and wielding iron bars. Elsewhere police had to be backed up by helicopters dropping tear-gas bombs.

Canadian Ketch Has to Accept Tow As BBC Man Ill After Fall Into Sea

BALCOMBE, England (CP)— Bearded adventurers from Canada headed into this Sussex resort early today after sailing their home - made ketch, the Orenda, across the stormy Atlantic.

The 36-foot ketch, which successfully withstood the battering of five Atlantic gales during the epic 36-day voyage, docked with final 12 miles on the end of a towline.

Skipper Arthur (Bert) Smith, 32, Toronto, and his companion, Alan Satterley, 26, of Blackpool, England, called for aid about 3 a.m. today when a radio broadcaster, rescued from the sea earlier and taken aboard the Orenda, became violently seasick.

"It is grand to be on solid ground again," said Smith with a broad grin as he stepped ashore. FINISH TIRED

On landing, the two men went to bed for two hours and then had a brief reunion with their wives before rebounding the Orenda to complete their journey to Dartmouth, their original destination.

Then Balcombe the Orenda was taken in tow and proceeded toward Dartmouth, a trip of several hours. In Dartmouth, a tremendous civic reception was awaiting their arrival.

The invasia of the trip were Peter Maggs of the British Broadcasting Corporation and Gordon Thomas of the London Daily Express when they both fell from the deck after boarding the Orenda from a helicopter. They were taken to Plymouth Hospital by ambulance suffering from shock and exposure.

Smith and Satterley, who built the 36-foot craft in a back-yard, said they could have sailed it in better time, but had to bring the two sick men ashore.

They appeared to be in bad shape" Smith cheerfully added. "They have been wet through since Friday afternoon and the cold was almost unbearable the last few hours."

Smith, the skipper, said that 29 days out in the ocean "we had a fine time" but when we were getting higher all the time until finally we were 1,000 miles out we didn't know our main mast was hanging overboard."

Satterley added that the Orenda went over at a steep angle, and "We shipped so much water . . . that we were pumping like mad to keep her afloat."

At one point in their voyage they were believed lost when the Cunard Steam liner America received cable charges of an economic boycott.

BUDGET SURPLUS FOR SIX MONTHS IS $272,800,000

Amount Five Times Same Period of '55

OTTAWA (CP)—A dip in collections from corporation income taxes has been offset with a big quarterly payment to the provinces, helped put government operations in the red during September.

But the government's budget surplus after six months of the current fiscal year still was more than five times that of a year earlier.

The regular monthly budget statement issued by Finance Minister Harris showed its financial operations had rolled up a half-year surplus of $272,800,000 on revenues of $2,372,800,000 and expenditures of $2,100,000,000 for the same period a year ago the surplus was $51,000,000.

Last April, Mr. Harris forecast a surplus of $115,000,000 for the 1956-57 year.

BIG SUBSIDY PAYMENT

The September deficit was $71,400,000. A year earlier the deficit was $63,000,000.

The latest operations were largely affected by $89,700,000 in subsidies and tax rental payments to provinces. Similar payments were made every three months.

Corporation income tax collections for the month at $89,200,000, before Mr. Harris' tax reductions but had dropped $13,500,000 from August. And sales tax revenues by $13,500,000 from August to $51,600,000.

Two-Cent Rise In Milk Prices Granted by Board

TORONTO (CP) — Milk prices are expected to increase one or two cents in Ontario next Wednesday as the result of an action yesterday by the Ontario Milk Control Board.

Agriculture Minister Goodfellow announced Friday calling on house delivery prices will be lifted since producers will be allowed a hike of three cents per quart on sales to distributors. Dairies are expected to add another half cent per quart.

In Toronto there has been a price spiral in both delivered and store prices, with delivered milk costing 22 cents and chain store prices 20 cents a quart. Some independent grocers sold at 21 cents.

Scientist Says Mars Within Reach of Man

MONTREBEY, Onlc. (AP) The planet Mars is scientifically within the reach of man, and it will take him another 40 years to get there, says the director of research projects at the U.S. Air Force Cambridge Research Centre.

The flight could be made in about 14 months using an electronically propelled space ship, Dr. Kenneth Gatland told the International Science Foundation Thursday night.

Canadian Ketch Has to Accept Tow As BBC Man Ill After Fall Into Sea

BALCOMBE, England (CP)— Bearded adventurers from Canada landed in this Sussex resort early today after sailing their home - made ketch, the Orenda, across the stormy Atlantic.

The 36-foot ketch, which successfully withstood the battering of five Atlantic gales during the epic 36-day voyage, docked with final 12 miles on the end of a towline.

Skipper Arthur (Bert) Smith, 32, Toronto, and his companion, Alan Satterley, 26, of Blackpool, England, called for aid about 3 a.m. today when a radio broadcaster, rescued from the sea earlier and taken aboard the Orenda, became violently seasick.

"It is grand to be on solid ground again," said Smith with a broad grin as he stepped ashore. FINISH TIRED

On landing, the two men went to bed for two hours and then had a brief reunion with their wives before rebounding the Orenda to complete their journey to Dartmouth, their original destination.

Then Balcombe the Orenda was taken in tow and proceeded toward Dartmouth, a trip of several hours. In Dartmouth, a tremendous civic reception was awaiting their arrival.

The invasia of the trip were Peter Maggs of the British Broadcasting Corporation and Gordon Thomas of the London Daily Express when they both fell from the deck after boarding the Orenda from a helicopter. They were taken to Plymouth Hospital by ambulance suffering from shock and exposure.

Smith and Satterley, who built the 36-foot craft in a back-yard, said they could have sailed it in better time, but had to bring the two sick men ashore.

They appeared to be in bad shape" Smith cheerfully added. "They have been wet through since Friday afternoon and the cold was almost unbearable the last few hours."

Smith, the skipper, said that 29 days out in the ocean "we had a fine time" but when we were getting higher all the time until finally we were 1,000 miles out we didn't know our main mast was hanging overboard."

Satterley added that the Orenda went over at a steep angle, and "We shipped so much water . . . that we were pumping like mad to keep her afloat."

At one point in their voyage they were believed lost when the Cunard Steam liner America received cable charges of an economic boycott.

Hungarians in Canada Urged To Fly to Aid of Homeland

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's Hungarians will place a wreath at the city cenotaph tonight in honor of those Hungarians who died this week in Budapest's blood-drenched streets.

Throughout Southern Ontario, by demonstration, letters, telegrams and appeals, the Canadian Hungarians have echoed and will echo this weekend the desperate bid for freedom still being made in their homeland.

Groups in Niagara Falls, Toronto and Hamilton asked the Canadian government to appeal to the United Nations Security Council to stop slaughter in Europe.

Sunday, a delegation, expected to number between 30 and 40 carloads, is scheduled to take the protest to the people they feel are directly responsible for the tragedy—The cars, from Montreal and Toronto, will converge on the half-finished Hungarian embassy in Ottawa for a mass demonstration.

In this city Friday, plans were made for a meeting to give moral concrete aid to the insurgents. It was to mobilize public aid for Hungarian Canadians to volunteer for a mass flight to Europe "to fight to the death for our homeland."

None of the petitions, addressed to Prime Minister St. Laurent, Senator Rose Macdonald, solicitor-general, and Hon. L. B. Pearson, minister for external affairs, asked that the Canadian government send troops to Hungary.

The petitioners seemed to feel, as did Steven Pap of Windsor, that "the free Western countries realize they don't dare use strong words against Russia or they would be threatening peace."

In Windsor, Pap said the congregation of the First Hungarian Presbyterian Church in Toronto had written to Mr. Pearson that the Canadian government ". . . protest to the Security Council of the United Nations the inhumane massacre of our fellow-Hungarians by the Soviet army in Hungary. . . ."

In all centres they waited eagerly for the newspapers which could be seen about their government's fight for freedom.

In Toronto one group, numbering nearly 100, had two of its number arrested for creating a disturbance.

Atomic Scientists Disagree About Radio-Activity Danger

NEW YORK (AP) — Like a spitting a tom, scientists are divided over the issue of dangers from fall-out and bans on H-bomb tests.

Many are speaking out publicly, expressing opposing views. This writer likes to mingle readers who wonder why they disagree, and who is right.

Here are some highlights of the scientific disagreements:

Q. What are the conflicting views?

A. On one prominent point scientists is that the degree of fall-out so far has not reached danger levels. Also that the tests already were continued at the same rate for 10 years.

Another, held by equally prominent men, is that some of the fall-out might be dangerous, that or will become so with continued tests. Also, that there is no safe fall-out radiation considered safe for humans have been set too low. Other hold there is no safe level of ultra-conservatively.

They differ as to whether the risk to genes and human hereditary is large or small, whether even if the risk actually is fairly, this justifies our exposing future children to it, and as to whether this risk is justified in order to help prevent atomic attack.

Q. How can there be differences of opinion on what the safe limits of fall-out exposure actually are?

A. For the simple reason that there is no absolute answer to this question. Not enough is known. Scientists disagree on actual effects of tiny doses of radiation on human cells.

Q. Isn't it unusual for scientists to disagree?

A. No. On the contrary, Science grows by criticism, challenge, expression of new facts. Rarely are things are black and white. Scientific opinions are based upon observation, experiment and the interpretation of that evidence. Disagreement may be slight or great degree, or the meaning of a set of circumstances.

Q. Are the conflicts expressing views about fall-out all speculation, or do they have information and knowledge?

A. Yes, they may have critical information not available to others, or attach different weight to some of the facts.

Q. Will scientific differences of opinion regarding fall-out hazards ever be resolved?

A. Yes, as more facts are learned. Much research already is under way on all aspects of fall-out. Information from the vast study launched by experts from 72 nations in a United Nations conference to determine the effects of fall-out on humans.

Eisenhower in Army Hospital For Pre-election Examination

NEW YORK (CP) — President Eisenhower is spending the weekend in Walter Reed army hospital for his pre-election physical examination by an eight-man team of doctors, It is an examination in which he hopes to get a clean bill of health to get less than top marks.

The president's health has been the great unmentioned issue of the campaign. Despite his heart attack in September, 1955, and his intestinal operation last June, he has stood up well to his fairly strenuous speaking schedule.

But there is no doubt that any indication that Eisenhower is not in the best of health would cause a sharp setback to Vice President Nixon's campaign.

Democrats have been quick to conceive that the president's popularity is not shared by Vice-President Nixon. They say Nixon would succeed hi - if he were to die in office.

Nixon, who owes most of his unpopularity to his tactics in past elections, has worked hard to live down his reputation as a hard-hitting campaigner. But the knife punches don't always land in fair territory.

His references to Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson have been consistently courteous. He has been gracious and good-humored toward hecklers, has gone out of his way to compliment such targets of the years as Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and has studiously refrained from attempting to link Democrats with communism.

But interviews with voters in all parts of the country have reflected their disquiet at the possibility of Nixon inheriting the presidency.

British Consul General, Senator Nearly Fight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — George W. Malone, Republican senator from Nevada, and Sir Robert Hadow, British consul general here, almost came to blows at a luncheon today.

Malone, long-time foe of the reciprocal trade agreement and of foreign aid, said in a speech at the weekly Commonwealth Club that the United States and Russia are the world's only major powers.

Afterward, during a question and answer period, he said England's greatness "is the glory of a 300-year-old reputation."

As the audience was filing out, Sir Robert passed the senator's table and, according to those in the immediate vicinity, charged that Malone was "a bloody liar."

Malone leaped over the table and, as Hadow jumped back, swung a round-house blow at the diplomat. Malone was restrained while others talked Hadow into leaving.

BANK GOVERNOR SAYS INFLATION MUST BE CURBED

Press Told Consumer Credit at High Point

OTTAWA (CP)—The head of Canada's central bank declines to say there is inflation in the Canadian economy at present but concedes there are tendencies toward it.

James E. Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, also expressed the hope at a press conference Friday that consumer credit will be restrained as an anti-inflation measure.

"Consumer credit, general overall state of the economy," he said "it would be desirable if we could have a breathing spell in consumer credit."

He gave the latest figure on consumer credit as some $2,600,000,000 outstanding at the end of September.

Asked whether he believes there is inflation today, he replied that "there are tendencies toward inflation, but I think that these pressures are by no means unbearable."

TALKED ABOUT RATES

Mr. Coyne met reporters to answer questions about the unprecedented increases in the country's bank rate and their effects to some extent the level of interest rates generally.

The bank rate increase was on Oct. 17 when it went up to a record 3½ per cent from 3¼, the sixth boost in 14 months. The speed of the increases, from 1½ per cent in August, 1955, has been unprecedented.

Mr. Coyne said the central bank could have prevented the 3½ per cent bank rate only by increasing the supply of money.

"But that would have been inflationary," he said. "That was the strong prejudice against the Bank of Canada acting as an engine of inflation."

The bank rate is that on Bank of Canada loans to chartered banks and other lending institutions.

Covering a wide range of reporters' questions, Mr. Coyne said he does not think Canada's seasonal winter unemployment will be affected by federal monetary policy in the coming winter.

There have been suggestions that a tightening money policy would reduce employment by reducing the amount available for investment in construction projects such as housing.

The government sets the ceilings for interest rates on mortgages guaranteed under the National Housing Act, and it has been reported that the cabinet has under consideration a proposal shortly to six per cent from the current 5½ per cent.

Mr. Coyne said it is recognized lending finance is important and that he thinks the trend is going to continue, although construction is still high.

He conceded it is harder for persons to get mortgages now but said that is because there is more competition for investment dollars from private industry.

Nagy Accepts Non-Communists Into Government

Radio Hints Rebels Gain; Some Russians Aiding Them

VIENNA (AP) — Rout-to-rout fighting was reported in the streets of Budapest today as anti-Communist rebels defied Red Hungary's third surrender ultimatum.

Premier Imre Nagy, who came to power in the midst of the uprising against Communist rule, announced formation of a new "popular front" government including non-Communists in an effort to broaden support of the masses and get the rebels to surrender.

Fighting also flared through the Hungarian countryside in the fifth day of rebellion. Rebel groups were said to be holding ground in the north, south and west against the combined might of the Russian and Hungarian armies.

Reports from Budapest said a bomb-to-bomb fight raged outside of the 1944 struggle when the Russian army wrested the city from German troops was raging. Columns blazed from rooftops and windows.

Reports from Budapest said a bomb-to-bomb fight raged outside of the 1944 struggle when the Russian army wrested the city from German troops was raging. Columns blazed from rooftops and windows.

SPARSE COMMUNICATIONS

Budapest remained cut off from the outside world by telephone and telegraph. The only accounts of the fighting came from the Communist-controlled radio and the reports of travellers arriving in Austria.

Russian and Hungarian tanks and gunfire were reported pummelling rebel pockets. There also were unconfirmed reports that Communist planes bombed rebel positions.

It was impossible to estimate how much of the country the rebels had been able to wrest from the Communists. Reports of five Russian occupation divisions and about 300,000 Hungarian troops and armed police.

Travellers arriving from Hungary estimated the total of dead and wounded since the rebellion broke out Tuesday night at more than 10,000.

The Communist broadcasts from Budapest's main radio station hinted that the rebels were gaining.

ULTIMATUM USELESS

The insurgents Friday night rejected the third government ultimatum to surrender. Then the Red regime cancelled its promises of amnesty to the insurgents that the combined Russian and Hungarian armies would be thrown out today to try to crush the revolt—elsewhere.

Apparently desertions from the Hungarian army continued. New appeals were broadcast to troops in the army. Travellers claimed that some Russian troops were deserting to the rebels.

The Communist-controlled radio alternated threats with appeals for surrender and promises of reforms by Nagy's new government.

Many Hungarian soldiers were reported fighting alongside the rebels.

Travellers arriving in Austria said the rebels were entrenched in Parliament Square, Budapest's city hall and a number of major roads leading to Austria.

The anti-Communists also were reported gaining against Soviet-led forces in southern Hungary, and were said to have seized the Russian headquarters city of Mikhole near the Czechoslovak border.

INDEPENDENT REGIME

Rebel groups told reporters at the Austrian border that they had established an independent Hungarian government at Gyoer, an industrial town just across the frontier.

The rebels said they had captured some Hungarian tanks and were getting machine-guns, anti-tank guns and artillery from deserting Hungarian army units.

They expected the Russians to try to storm Gyoer with tanks. The rebels said they also came to the border to ask for medical supplies said Russian soldiers had crossed to the peasant demarcation, including women and children.

Responding to appeals from Hungary, the Austrian Red Cross sent blood plasma, medicine and milk.

Food supplies were reported short in Budapest due to a general strike of railroad and farm-ers in support of the rebels.

Communist Poland dispatched a plane with plasma and medicine to Budapest. But the plane was turned back at the Hungarian frontier.

Austria promised asylum for Hungarians fleeing the fighting and her forces at the border were ready to receive any refugees but pressed for true fugitives into Austria.

Conflicting stories were told. Some returning travellers reported Russian troops shooting Hungarian farmers as they left wives and children. Others told of seeing Russians hand over tanks to rebels in the fighting.

Honor A. B. Baird On Retirement From Laboratory

The glowing tributes paid A. B. Baird, former chief of the biological laboratory, and the zoology laboratory here, by senior members of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, on the occasion of a retirement reception held yesterday, practically told the story of the growth and development of parasitical control in this country.

A native of Chipman, N.B., Mr. Baird graduated from the Nova Scotia Agricultural College in 1910 to participate in work that such surveys and continuing his attacks on this forest blight in Fredericton.

In recognition of his accomplishments he was given the degree of Doctor of Science by the University of New Brunswick and allowed him to rent and frequent intrusions to other parts of the house made the honorary slightly boring boarders on occasion.

There is no way of wanting to know a bore like living with him, and Mr. Baird progressed so that is overcoming his front room guests that he was promoted to Chatham where his department rented a house to serve as laboratory until the spring of 1928.

During this period he was busy with parasites as insect destroyers, expanding on the ten different varieties, emphasizing the need for larger laboratories.

ENTOMOLOGIST IN BELLEVILLE

Mr. Baird was chosen as one of the officials to select a site for the new laboratory in Belleville because it is the centre of an agricultural area and the head of its central location and excellent residential and rail facilities.

A historic landmark, the old J. B. Carman house served as the original laboratory. Mr. Baird headed biological control here until 1948 when he moved to Ottawa to head a movement under the chief of the division to establish additional laboratories in Kingston, Vancouver and Quebec City.

Later it was decided to centralize these efforts in Belleville to give this city what is ranked as the best equipped and staffed entomological laboratories in the world.

Mr. Baird's leadership in this field of research has won him the respect and confidence of his conferees, expressed in his appointment as treasurer of the recent International Congress of Entomology in Montreal.

The gathering, which included 50 members of the Department of Agriculture and their wives, and members of the local staff, also presented its feelings for Mr. Baird with gifts, including a TV set, a clock inscribed with the best horses from the old Carman residence and an illustrated book of memories.

In expressing his thanks, the retiring pioneer of this work in Canada said he was too overcome with emotion to say any more than a few words.

"The farmers' market brings a lot of money into the city," noted one vendor. "We sell our produce and then spend our money in the city. If there were no market many of us would do our shopping in centres closer to our homes."

Stuart Robb New President Of Boy Scouts Association

Mr. Stuart Robb was elected president of the Belleville Boy Scouts' Local Association at the annual meeting held on Wednesday night. Other new officers are Mr. Lew Mills, honorary president; Capt. J. Watson, vice-president; C. C. Legate, secretary and J. J. Lannigan, treasurer. Executive members are Messrs. Stuart Robb, Bert Brown, William N. Hurst, James Ritchie, A. A. Thompson, Thomas B. R. Collins, William Doyle Jr., A. D. Jaultsch, J. W. Deacon, R. W. Mumford, Stuart Hart, A. S. Lewis, George McIntosh, W. E. Mountjoy, Russell Scott and Dr. G. H. Craig, and all past presidents. Uniformed officers are O.C. Owen, district commissioner; Les Boyle, assistant district commissioner of sea troops; Phil Allcorn, A.D.C. of Cub packs; Harry Smith, district Scouting secretary and John Townsend, district Cubmaster.

The meeting opened at 8.15 p.m. with Mr. O. C. Owen presiding. Prayers were said by Rev. John A. Maxwell, D.S.M. Mr. Harry Smith, assisted by six Scouts, presented the colors and formed the flag-break ceremony. "The Queen" was sung by the group and the chairman delivered a short welcoming address.

A minute's silence was observed in memory of an honorary life member of the Association, Mr. Phillip Allsop, who passed away recently.

GOOD DAY SUCCESS

Mr. F. J. Lancaster gave the treasurer's report and said that the Good Day was the best he had yet and will ease the financial situation. Mr. Lannigan, the secretary briefly covered the year's activities. He appealed for help in the forthcoming project. Two leaders, John Bablak and Les Tracy, resigned.

District Commissioner O. C. Owen gave a report on the Good Day and said that new sponsors and leaders are being sought to take care of the heavy influx of boys to the Scout movement.

PRESENTATIONS

Don Allan, ADC, Scouts, presented a very complete picture of what the Scouts have been doing. One Bushman's Thong, two Gold Cords and 18 Queen's Scouts have been won by boys of the efforts the boys put into Scouting. Mr. Allan compared the Centennial Camporee at Foxboro, which 100 Scouts attended. The Foxboro Cub camp and the Frank Fellowship. Many good turns were done by Scouts last year. They assisted at the restoration of the O'Hara Mill and planted 6,500 trees in Prince Edward.

The Cubs, said ADC Allcorn, have been increased to twenty-eight Cubs moved up to Scouts. At the present time there are 654 Cubs and 350 Scouts. It is hoped that St. Margaret's Anglican Church, Eastminster United Church churches will sponsor new groups in this coming year.

Mr. Allcorn thanked Frank Akela for the sixth consecutive Cub camp, all successful and was a very wonderful leader. Four hundred Cubs attended the Akela Cub camp held at the Belleville fair grounds. ADC Phil Allcorn also spoke of Cub activities. It was a very important work and a great deal of satisfaction is felt by those who guide these young boys, he said.

The Rev. Maxwell, Mr. R. W. Mumford, submitted a very good report on badges earned. Some 150 badges were awarded. There's a lot of time and effort. Scouts find the time and supply the effort.

Don Hickson was welcomed by the district commissioner and presented with a bar to his 10-year service badge, making a total of faithful service. He will skip per a Rover crew which will fill a real need.

Regional Commissioner Archie Peels brought greetings from Ontario headquarters. He complimented Belleville on the year's work and pointed to the growth of Cubs, he said, is phenomenal, the Scout's Show increases and with the new Rover crew the total is nearly 1,000 or 5 per cent of the population. Fathers would be very welcome in helping with badge work.

Mr. Lewis then proceeded with the election of officers for 1957. R. MORTLOCK SPEAKS

Executive Commissioner for Relationship, Bert Mortlock, was introduced by Archie Lewis. Mr. Mortlock was a newspaper man for 14 years, Scouter for 15 years, District Commissioner for 1941, assistant editor of publicity for 1945, and executive commissioner for publications, also leader of the Canadian contingent of Scouts at the coronation.

He brought good wishes from Lord Baden Powell who will be at the 8th World Jamboree with 1400 Canadian Scouts. Mr. Moore was Scoutmaster of 2nd Belleville troop. Rev. Wm. Robinson of St. John's Church, Ottawa, formerly rector of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville, is very active in Scouting. Scout George Kingsley was praised for his services to Scouting.

"An excellent annual report, Captain Figures amazing," said the speaker, but he asked: "Are we doing well enough?" At the end of 1956 there will be 338,000 Scouts in 1963. Scouts outnumber other boys' and girls' organizations combined. The uniformed Scouters are the great backbone of the Scouting movement and doing vital work for Scouting, he said.

Mr. Mortlock's specific duty is liaison with church groups. The Anglican Church has committees headed by the Bishop of Ottawa, the United Church with similar committees in Scouting. Other churches are forming committees.

Ambulance, the Red Cross and government departments are a great help in Scouting. The Prime Minister and the Governor General take a personal interest in the Scout movement, which is proving a valuable asset to Canada.

Boys join the Scouts for fun and adventure, said Mr. Mortlock, but real leadership is found in Scouting. Baden-Powell, the founder of Scouts, first intended that we should be happy. Leaders must develop the spirit of adventure, fun and comradeship. Every boy should belong to a church and practice his religion. Faith, courage, usefulness and loyalty are the objectives of Scouting.

Mr. Lancaster thanked the speaker for his informative address, and the meeting adjourned to the invited refreshments served by Mrs. R. Blaker and her faithful staff of Auxiliary ladies.

Duck Hunting Accident Fatal To 6 RD Man

An early morning duck hunting trip in the Gull Island district of Lake Ontario off Prince Edward county proved fatal this morning for a young RCAF corporal when he was accidentally shot by a shotgun blast fired by his hunting companion.

Identity of the dead airman is being withheld by police until next of kin have been notified. It was learned, however, that the airforce corporal had been stationed at No. 2 Radar, Picton.

Provincial police at Picton who investigated the accidental death stated the two airmen had driven to Smokey Point and then had launched a boat on Gull Island where they beached their craft and started looking for ducks.

As they walked up the shore one of the men spotted some ducks and fired a shot. The birds managed to take cover. The other man ducked behind some bushes while the airman with the gun started to fire more advantageous position from which to shoot at the birds and apparently tripped.

The shotgun discharged and the blast ripped into the bushes where the hunting companion was hiding, the charge striking him in the back. The accident occurred at about 6.45 a.m.

The man died about 20 minutes later before medical aid could be reached.

Provincial Constable Charles Fletcher of Picton investigated.

Phillip Bridger Wins $1,000 In Movie Game

Last night two district men became richer by $1,000 when they split $3,000 prize money for being Bay of Quinte winners of Movie Game No. 4 which was played at the Park Theatre here and at the Century Theatre in Trenton.

Mr. Phillip Bridger, 280 Moira Street East, was the Belleville recipient of $1,000 and F/L David D'Oust, Colonel Heights, was the Trenton winner. The cheques were presented at the Park Theatre last night.

Mr. Bridger said the prize money would hurry his new home toward completion and although F/L. D'oust had no immediate plans for using the money he said he would put it to good use.

Mr. Douglas Pinder, relief manager at the Park, said Movie Game No. 5 which is being played at his theatre as well as the Century in Trenton, will not be valid after 11 o'clock tonight. Both he and Mr. Al Duggud, manager of the Trenton theatre, say people who have scored movie game cards to be sure to drop them in the box at the front of the theatres before the game ends tonight. Movie Game No. 5 begins next week.

Mr. Bridger and F/L. D'Oust played the game last week; perhaps this week and next week will be a few more local winners.

Delivered Price Of Milk Likely To Be Increased

An increase of possibly two cents per quart in the delivered price of milk for local consumers was forecast today by Belleville milk distributors who were negotiating with producers regarding a price hike to their suppliers.

This would bring the delivered price of milk to 22 cents per quart in Belleville.

Current price in the Belleville area is 18 cents per quart and cream butterfat milk delivered to the dairy is 64.18 per cwt.

Milk distributors said they had been negotiating with producers for the past two months regarding the new price to be paid for milk. Producers are asking 65.85 per cwt and distributors have countered with an offer which they said they expected would be accepted by the distributors.

If the offer was not accepted by the distributors the price to the farmer would be decided by arbitration.

A distributor spokesman said that the 65.85 per cwt asked by producers was accepted immediately the price to the delivered price would advance before Nov. 15th.

Adults too often will put on a show of courage with a "cold," rather than resire and rest—and call the Doctor. Pneumonia sometimes streaks such laziness.

Do not try to be brave with a "cold," however simple. Follow the well-established guidance—rest, eat a well-balanced diet, and drink plenty of water and fruit juices. If symptoms persist, call your Doctor promptly, while there is still time for treatment of the current illness and prevention of possible hazardous complications. If medicines are indicated, we will be happy to render the best in Pharmaceutical service in filling your Doctor's prescriptions.

The Power of Imagination

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

We sometimes pooh-pooh an idea by saying of it, "Oh, that exists only in his imagination." Well, that is just about the most powerful factor for an idea to hold, for when it gets into the imagination and stays there, it is pretty sure to produce results. In fact, so powerful is it that psychologists recognize a Law of Reversed Effort which reads like this: When the imagination and the will are in conflict the imagination always wins."

We may not believe that at first, but experience bears it out. Keep thinking about something, and even though you set your will against it, it is amazing how the image feeds the desire until finally you do it.

Realizing this power of imagination, Job said, "I have made a covenant with mine eyes." Job knew that he must control his gaze if he was to control his conduct. Jesus stressed this same truth in His warning against the lustful look. Our Lord knew that the imagination which protects the eye-gate and the ear-gate is character's first line of defense. I have no hesitation in asserting that the imagination is a person's first line of defense in protecting his virtue and integrity. Yes, and I will add that the imagination of a people is a nation's first line of defense.

CITIES CONTRAST

Even if we do not yield to the temptations conjured up by the imagination, the very consideration of them consumes our time and divides our energy. Harold Begbie once drew a very interesting contrast between the wives of two former foreign premiers. Both had characters above suspicion, but while one of them lived on such a high plane that unworthy suggestions never entered her mind, the other would flirt with temptation by inviting the questionable proposition into the vestibule of her thought.

A temptation, you know, is like one of those slick house-to-house salesmen who, if he gets one foot inside the door, can spoil your morning. To have such control of one's mind's door that we do not give even a foothold to an evil suggestion, to preserve our imagination undefiled by degrading images, to keep our tastes so that they gravitate toward the things that are true and honorable and lovely and pure and of good report — that is a part of what Christ had in mind when He bade His followers possess their souls.

And such possession of the pure imagination requires patience and discipline to achieve. Our wills may be converted to Christ while our imaginations remain in bondage to destiny. We have to school our thoughts, cultivate the company of the best characters, live in the presence of the things Christ liked until we learn to like them too.

How do you interpret our Lord's Prayer: "Lead us not into temptation"? Does it not mean asking God's help to guard our imaginations, to lead our thoughts away from those areas which arouse evil suggestions? Yes, if we are to possess our souls, we must look to the first line of defense and possess our imagination as well as our wills and our presence of mind.

But the imagination is not only our first line of defence. It is also our power for advance. It is the men of imagination who see ahead of the crowd and become our pioneers and prophets, our poets and inventors.

What schoolboy has not thrilled to the adventure of "Treasure Island"? Where was the island of daring exploits and hidden wealth? Last summer I discovered it. During our visit to Edinburgh our guide took us to the house where Robert Louis Stevenson lived as a boy. Across from that house was a small park. In the rainy season a little lake of water formed there, and in the centre of it was a tiny island. Out toward that island the disease-stricken youth, Robert Stevenson, looked from his sickroom day after day. According to the guide, the lad in his vivid imagination peopled that island with exciting personages, and this experience inspired Stevenson later to write "Treasure Island."

The gay, indomitable Stevenson sent his imagination out on voyages of discovery while his body was confined to bed. John Bunyan glimpsed in his mind the Heavenly City and wrote "Pilgrim's Progress" from a cell in Bedford Prison. "Stone walls do not a prison make nor iron bars a cage" to the imagination which seeks higher things.

What pictures are we hanging in our imagination? On their quality hangs our future.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

OWLS IN AUTUMN

So many birds are beating a retreat now that we fear soon there will be left but the ever present English sparrows and a few starlings. The reason for this exodus is a dearth of insects, dwindling supply of seeds and fruits, and a sealing up of fish in ice-covered waters. But meat eaters are still to the fore, and you need not go farther than the suburbs of the cities to find them.

Some evening as you are just about to doze off you may hear a low, tremulous voice not far from your window, the quality plaintive and mournful, the sound rising then falling. This is a sure sign that a pair of screech owls, smaller than Robins, has taken up quarters in some hollow tree not very far off. Whoever named this little bird must have confused it with some other, because there is no screech to the screech owl. As with all nocturnal birds, it is more often heard than seen. Nevertheless, should you find the home of a pair, throughout the winter you will have the pleasure of occasionally seeing one or other of them sitting in the doorway, looking at you with round, forward pointing eyes.

An even smaller owl, not so very much longer than a Sparrow, is the saw-whet, which, though partially migratory, may be found at least until the end of the year. Also it is quite possible to have a small flock of long-eared owls, gregarious in winter, take over some group of evergreens in the suburbs for the cold season. Silent and inconspicuous, though 15 inches in length, their presence is seldom noticed while they all solemnly or on the branches of a big fir.

The 20-inch barred owl cannot be called silent. It grunts, chuckles, and laughs, besides giving its usual call, which has been well translated by the words, "Who cooks for you, who cooks for you all?" In daytime it is likely to be sleeping secretly on some large branch, high over the city street, apparently unaware of the swirling traffic down below.

King of owls, the great horned, sometimes 25 inches long, is resident wherever found—which might be in a city park, if it can get enough mice, rats, squirrels, and cats. Indeed, most species prefer rodents to any other food—and what city is short of these? So let us encourage owls, and get rid of rodents.

FIXED INFANTS LIVE POLIO VIRUS

In Clinton, New Jersey, newborn infants are being fed live polio virus in their bottles. The babies are the children of inmates at the state reformatory for women.

In the mind's first revulsion as the news of this project came may liken it to the notorious experiments which Nazi doctors performed on slave laborers and Jews in concentration camps. Further perusal of the Associated Press dispatch setting forth the aims and objectives of the tests will moderate this initial harsh judgment, but will fail to eliminate disapproval.

Of course the experiments has a worthy aim, to enable Lederle Laboratories to perfect a long-lasting vaccine against polio that can be taken by mouth. These babies of inmates of the reformatory are not the only subjects who have taken live virus. Lederle announced that it has given live virus to 600 volunteers over the last six years. None of the 34 infants has contracted polio.

It is true that the mothers of the infants volunteered to permit their children to be given the virus, in the first tests ever given children under six months of age.

When all of these facts are given their true weight though, one cannot escape the conviction that there is something abhorrent about using the children of prison inmates for such an experiment.

In the past, heads of penal institutions have frequently volunteered to act as human guinea pigs in scientific experiments. Society owes them a deep debt, even if their motive is partly a hope for reward or the lightening of their punishment for their crimes.

There is a great difference, though, between a prisoner volunteering to risk his own life and a prisoner risking the life of his child or baby. How many mothers outside of prison walls would have volunteered to permit their babies to be fed live virus? The answer, surely, is very few. Even the kind of mother who has skilled every few of their children, why should the lives of these children be endangered just because their mothers had broken the law?

In, to rebuttal, it is contended that there was really no risk to the children and if it is further contended that that is proven by the fact that none of them have contracted polio, then one wonders what purpose can be served by the tests if the experimenters were certain in advance that the babies would not get polio.

In the final analysis, the validity of this situation rests not on the mothers nor on Lederle Laboratories but on the state. While the mothers of these babies are in prison, the state must shoulder responsibility for the welfare of the infants. It is unthinkable that these experiments could have been conducted without the permission, explicit or implied, of state authorities. In such a situation the state should avoid even the appearance of evil. This it most emphatically has not done.

BULGANIN'S MOTIVE OBSCURE

In the opinion of the Montreal Gazette, Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic Party's candidate for president, "finds himself with an embarrassing ally in Bulganin." The Gazette, of course, was referring to the note which the Premier of the Soviet Union sent to President Eisenhower, suggesting the Russian demand for a ban on tests of nuclear weapons. Stevenson has been urging a cessation of such tests and Bulganin has now placed him in an embarrassing position. The effect, as the Montreal Gazette notes, is more likely to harm than to help Stevenson.

Why then, did Bulganin send such a note? "Perhaps the Kremlin believes that anti-Russian feeling has subsided much more than it actually has," says the Gazette.

That explanation, if it is correct, would indicate that the Kremlin has blundered, that their intelligence service is poor, an assumption which has been made by the west more than once in the past and has later proven to be a grievous error.

Let us suppose, for a moment, that Bulganin knew exactly what effect his note would have on the fortunes of the opposition for the U.S. presidency.

If that be true, we must conclude that Bulganin wants Eisenhower to win, a conclusion which fits in well with the known attitude the Russian Communist leaders towards Eisenhower. They feel that he is a responsible man, a military expert who understands and abhors the horrors of war and a man of his word.

On the other hand, they prefer Eisenhower to Stevenson, it follows that they are not overly anxious to have the further testing of nuclear weapons banned and that their repeated demands for such a ban were completely insincere.

In the face of the known facts about the great power of the U.S. nuclear arsenal and the past performance of the U.S. scientists, who are continually increasing the power of these weapons, it is a little difficulty to conceive of the Russians being indifferent to the possibility of a cessation of the tests.

Yet we must either accept that conclusion, or embrace the alternative suggestion that Bulganin has blundered, with his note likely to have exactly the opposite influence on the U.S. presidential race to that which he had intended.

The Russians, of course, have made many grave errors in their estimate of world opinion. But they have also proved themselves, on many occasions, to be shrewd judges and many will find it difficult to believe that, in this instance, they have misjudged the situation and that the likely effect of Bulganin's note as to have believed it would materially assist Stevenson's cause.

Coriolanus And Magile

Ottawa Citizen

There are aspects of the remarkable case of Mr. Sal Magile, convicted of the Boldi murder, that recall one Caius Marcius Coriolanus, a Roman gentleman of whom Plutarch wrote a biography and Shakespeare a play.

Caius Marcius received his surname after the capture of the city of Corioli from the Volscians, who at the time were Rome's most dangerous enemy. He was a difficult man to get along with, however, and he so thoroughly displeased the common people that, much as they admired him for his feats on the field, they were constrained to banish him from the city of Rome. Coriolanus went over to the Volscians who, after receiving from their first surprise, put the once hated Roman to work to confound his fellow countrymen.

The analogy with Mr. Magile, convicted murderer, is not perfect. Coriolanus is obviously not exact, because there is no evidence that while in their service he was a worthy and sinister-looking pitcher ever held a position of importance. He was unquestionably banished by those in authority at the Polo Grounds — banished clear to the American League, in fact. But it is true that Mr. Magile eventually found his way to the camp of the Giants' arch-foes.

Yet it may be doubted whether the Coriolanus was ever so frantically hailed by the Volscian victims, the Volscians, as Mr. Magile has been during the last few weeks around Ebbets Field. As a matter of fact, there was a Volscian, a Polish Volscian, Coriolanus by a group of Volscian admirers, who presented to him in Coriolanus' fate was finally sealed when, confronted by the unanswerable evidence that had aided, he defied them with the boast that he could "do a dove-cote I flutter'd your Volscians in Corioli, alone I did it." Do they killed him.

There will be widespread hope that Coriolanus' public banishment nor the unpredictable fans of Flatbush will ever treat Mr. Magile so harshly, even were he in a subsequent contest to serve up a home run ball Mickey Mantle with the bases loaded.

Firms Plagued By Idea Men

Financial Post

Another popular dream goes up in smoke.

Several big American manufacturing companies have discovered the eager beaver who is always pestering them to send plans for this and that at a fair more of a hinderance than a help.

Many of the ideas of these unsolicited suggestions have really worthwhile features, but they are usually like the plan to incorporate a furcoat storage compartment in the fuselage of every airliner, utterly impracticable. Most of the rest are highly complicated devices not put to use by the professional.

It is those that fall in the second category that cause the most trouble.

Quite often when a person sees something new come on the market that he imagines he was the first to think of, he goes straight to his lawyer and urges a big suit for damages. In a few cases an innocent company has paid rather than face publicity even though the new angle was born in its own designing department.

As a result of this constant threat some companies have developed elaborate and expensive techniques for protecting themselves against such frivolous damage claims. Mail clerks get special instructions, and some even announce a dollar limit on any unsolicited idea, though if they ever use one of the ideas submitted, they will likely make a handsome settlement payment. Some try to obtain signed releases saying the idea was submitted without charge, but many of these and other safeguards there is always a risk.

If it weren't for the bad effect on public relations, say many of the big companies, they would put all these unsolicited ideas right into the wastepaper basket.

Canada May Import Beef

Vancouver Province

An Alberta rancher predicts that in five years Canada will be a heavy importer of beef.

This is surely a paradox on the order of "carrying coals to Newcastle." One of the few countries of the world with an abundance of range land is slipping its cogs somewhere when it can't raise enough meat for its own needs.

There are two reasons why raising cattle has not so popular in Canada as, say, mining the soil to raise grains.

One is the hard work, a good deal harder than the one-way seeder, combine-harvester method of grain raising, which now involves only about three main operations on the land.

Two — half our year is raising which makes cattle raising a more costly business, in relation to prices received, than it is in the Southwestern States.

Yet the fact remains we have grasslands that are the envy of most other nations trying to raise more food for their people, grasslands not so "boom happy" as Canadians are just now.

SS Troopers Armed Again

Hamilton Spectator

The French Foreign Legion, drawing its personnel from all nationalities and asking no questions of a man's past, has had many a hardened criminal in its ranks. Providing the recruit appears to have the right factory material for the making of a good soldier, the Legion has prepared to accept him, despite the fact that he may have been a forger and a thief. There is one man, however, that even the Foreign Legion has rigidly drawn; it will accept a person who ever served in the German SS.

The news that the new West German Army has opened up to admit former members of the SS comes as an unpleasant shock, particularly to those personal friends of Germany who had been under the impression that unhappy country had learned a lesson from her tribulations and was now prepared to shape her social structure within the accepted pattern of civilized behaviour.

The SS man was not a soldier. He was a unique kind of weapon, a nasty piece of human material deliberately debased and fashioned to perform services of bestiality from which the soldier fighting man would shrink with horror and disgust. The SS trooper was taught, he was trained to regard his enemies as some kind of vermin to be tortured and slaughtered, was drilled and exercised in brutality and sadism, and was, in general, shaped into a conscienceless robot, for whom the concentration men, women and children was a joyous sacrament in his adoration and devotion to a demented Fuehrer.

These men who shot prisoners in a matter of minutes, who herded village churches with men, women and children and then machine-gunned them, these men who revelled in their grossness and bestiality at Himmler's gas chambers and who tortured their countless victims in death, these are the men who are now to fill the ranks of an army we are told is entirely devoted to the Western democracy." It is a decision that belongs not to Germany's present leaders, and only sorrow and disappointment to her friends.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

CAN WE STAND THE TEST TODAY?

The old expression that hindsight is easier than foresight keeps demonstrating its truthfulness all the time. But have you ever applied it to past historical situations, in which you could not possibly have had a part, and asked yourself how you would have stood had you been present?

If newspapers had existed at the close of the fifteenth century and we had read announcements of a crazy chap named Columbus who wanted to sail across the ocean and find a new world—would we have jollied in the derision that must have greeted such a preposterous proposal? Would we have been on the side of the people who stormed Socrates to death or on the side of Socrates and his friends?

Most of us who are Christians need to ask ourselves where we would have stood when we listened to the free lance Teacher from Nazareth preaching in Judaea and Galilee 2000 years ago and had listened to the denunciation of him by the Pharisees. Could we possibly have believed that this Man with his simple teaching of love and intellectual equal of the church leaders of that day? Could we have believed that He and His illiterate associates and the rabble that followed them were God's chosen group for the beginning of a great new movement?

Check up on yourself. How accurate are any of us today in our estimate of contemporary events?

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

A large flock of wild geese enroute from the north lands to the warmer climate of the south lands, stopped over and rested at the mouth of the Moira River near Victoria Park early this morning. A number early morning workmen watched the geese as they enjoyed themselves floating in the water. Eventually, with a whirring of wings, they took to the air amid a furious honking and resumed their journey south to spend the winter.

Fire Chief Lynch informs us that the firemen are busy making out their list of gay which is to be held on Oct. 31st to raise funds to supply Christmas gifts and necessary articles for under-privileged children. Nicotine In Politics

Ottawa Journal

In Mr. Mackenzie King's days smoking at cabinet meetings was strictly forbidden. We can imagine that Mr. Howe, who switches from cigars to cigarettes to pipes, the greatest of ease and pleasure, must have had some uncomfortable hours at cabinet sessions.

What the protocol is today we cannot be sure. Whether Mr. St. Laurent smokes a cigaret as aspectively as Mr. Howe a Corona Corona and we must assume that on occasion the Privy Council Chamber resembles the important smoke-filled room in Canada.

Our thoughts were directed to this unimportant subject by the antics of Mr. Aneurin Walker, who was a member of the Attlee Labor administration in the United Kingdom. Mr. Attlee wore his pipe as a permanent feature when not in session or the Commons and apparently used it as a form of shield at cabinet meetings. Mr. Gordon Walker saying that "the signal for formal opening of the meeting was when the Prime Minister knocked out his pipe."

Now Mr. St. Laurent can make quite a play of smoking a cigaret and of lighting and ejecting the butt from it when he has finished. But somehow we imagine that it is as effective as a pipe in drawing attention to the soundness of views on the public business. If we thought Mr. St. Laurent lacked any control of cabinet we'd suggest giving him a pipe for Christmas. But on second thought that obviously is quite unnecessary, and we call a quick halt to this expedition by remembering that Stanley Baldwin's pipe is the great conversation piece and much a symbol of unsuccessful statesmen as Neville Chamberlain's umbrella.

All The Cards on The Table

Inflammatory rheumatism, the doctors called it in horse and buggy days. Other names for it are acute infectious (germ-caused, not necessarily communicable) polyarthritis (several, many, multiple joints inflamed), and, nowadays, rheumatic fever.

Rheumatic fever, the commonest cause of organic heart disease in persons under 40 (pericarditis, valvular leakage), is a poisonous infection, occurring most frequently in growing children or young adults, complicating or following tonsillitis, acute sore throat of the uri (any common respiratory infection which people of limited intelligence dismiss as a "common cold") in 50 per cent of cases.

I just can't understand, and I don't believe any recognized medical authority can explain what, is anything, a diagnosis of rheumatic arthritis means, or how a doctor can justify the practice of giving the poor fevk with "arthritis" one miracle medicine after another which purports to be a remedy.

Saying things like this, as I am well aware, makes me unpopular with all concerned—I'm afraid some victims of the "arthritis" do not like me very well either. But I can't help it. Flat voluntas fuit.

Aside from the effects of injury, sprain, or strain of joints, there are practically only two kinds of chronic joint disability (trouble lasting a year or more):

Rheumatis is physical degeneration of joint tissues due to many years of malnutrition the national malnutrition — inadequate daily intake of Ca, D, I, and B complex. Any inflammation that may occur at any stage of the rheumatic process and constitutes no part of the pathological process in or about the joint or joints involved.

In comparatively rare instances, joint disability of more than a year in duration is due to the invasion of joint tissues by the specific germ of Brucellosis, typhoid fever, tuberculosis, or other specific infectious disease. These are the only instances of chronic long lasting joint disability where inflammation is part of the process, and hence the name "arthritis" is applicable.

God

I believe in God because I see the image of him and his handiwork that he has scattered all over this earth. And if he didn't create all this wealth of wonder, mystery and beauty, who did?

It is impossible to walk anywhere in nature without seeing God out there, hard at work, looking after his own. He is in all and everything. God's pictures and masterpieces are everywhere. In black swamps while lilies live and bloom. Deserts contain hidden life love, and whole fields of Texas bluebonnets. Even the colorful robes upon the earth.

How can anyone doubt God? Said William Jamess: "I myself believe that the evidence for God lies primarily in inner personal experiences." Dr. George Washington Carver used to talk with flowers, and then he would retire to a little room and talk with God. And between them they would produce some miracle for the poor people.

God

Every beautiful thing in nature, and every created affair of man, has the stamp of God on it wherever is there anything more enduring that the mechanical system of a tree? How interesting to know that it breathes, and that as age is stamped upon it, even as age is stamped upon our faces and the bodies of our friends.

God being everywhere it makes no difference if you look for him or not, you are sure to find him there the same as if we stayed at home. He is there, and he is aware about where we wish him to be in an atmosphere of love, in communion with him, or to give us his blessing.

We ought to wake up every morning with a feeling of wonder within us, for having been born into a world so filled with wonder, and with a God to give us direction and leadership.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the recent issue of the British Columbia Wildlife Review which one of the most entertaining of all the several Canadian and United States publications this season, J.A. Munro, a retired Federal Migratory Bird officer, has a beautifully lucid piece on predatory control.

"The sight of one animal killing another animal causes an emotional reaction in the observer," he says, "and strength proportionate to the size of the victim, its structure qualities, position in the animal world and the circumstances under which it is killed. The sight of a bluebird catching a housefly, or a meadowlark tearing the legs off a grasshopper causes only interested comment; but the act of a hawk killing a sharp-ailmed hawk awakens emotions of a more positive kind. But the act of killing in either case does not differ in essentials.

"Man," goes on Munro, "is not consciously humanizes animals. He attributes to them cruelty, vindictiveness, hate, meanness, love, bravery and cowardice, not realizing that these but widely separate qualities are combined in different persons and applicable only to man.

"In the case of the bluebird and the meadowlark, he extends protection, because they are 'good birds'. But he feels it necessary to destroy the sharp-ailmed hawk because it is a 'bad bird'. Not a little of the attitude towards predators can be ascribed to this human idea of justice which impels man instinctively to protect the weak against the strong, to reward those whose actions are thought commendable and punish those whose actions are deemed evil."

Mr. Munro very kindly does not stress the fact that if a bird or animal is useful to us, if we can find it to be classed as one those creatures we deem to be entitled to live, we are more than entitled. Besides justice in our hearts, there are our hands in our pockets, too.

But be offers testimony that, in certain instances, in which birds predators are "controlled", there is about the same balance of wildlife as in a locality or similar areas in which man does not interfere at all.

In other words, nature gets along very nicely without man's help or does not much appreciate that help. Between our sense of justice and our greed, however, we double less embarrass nature from time to time.

But only for a little time.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

Painter of Light and Shadow

By NICHOLAS MIKA

Not long ago Holland remembered the 350th anniversary of the birth of her most famous painter. Art lovers of this country did something unusual for this occasion.

For several years they traced in painstaking work most of the master's great paintings scattered all over the world and asked for their return to the painter's homeland once more for a few days during the birthday celebrations. And so invaluable treasures of art museums and galleries in England, France, Russia, Germany and America were sent to Amsterdam to bear witness of the glory of a great artist.

Looking at his pictures is like unveiling the mystery of life. Out of shadow and darkness glow the features of his person. He never painted the body only, he painted the depth of the soul. Details often are missing, but every single stroke of his brush reveals the emotion of a moment, of sorrow and sadness, of joy and passion. The first picture he painted was a self portrait and when he took his brushes for the last time in his life, it was again to paint his own likeness. He painted himself many times, not out of selfishness or pride, but in the hope that the human face reflects emotions during the various stages of life. To us he is known as the master of the dramatic use of light and shadow.

He was born in Leyden in Holland. His father was a miller who hoped that his son would continue after him to grind malt for the beer brewers, like generations before him. But the son instead of working, watched the sunlight reflecting on the wings of the windmill, and when the family dog came, he would sketched their faces. Reluctant and disappointed, his father finally consented for him to study art.

REMARKABLE CAREER

As a painter he had a remarkable career. Unlike others he did not have to struggle for fame and recognition. He became famous almost overnight when the surgeons' guild of Amsterdam called upon him to paint a picture for their meeting room. Instead of painting the doctors in the old-fashioned portrait form he boldly arranged them around a corpse, the professor in a black plum hat giving an anatomy lesson.

The reproduction of this startling painting now hangs in thousands of doctors' offices throughout the world. It is said that nearly half of Amsterdam at that time went to see the masterpiece when it was finished. The painter was at once invited by rich-to-do people of the city to paint their portraits to decorate their houses. Since he could not possibly keep up with the flood of orders that poured into his atelier, he raised the price to as much as five thousand dollars for a single painting and charged a thousand dollars for his lessons. But fame and wealth did not turn his head, on the contrary he became more and more popular with his patrons and pupils alike.

He dressed meticulously, wearing fancy velvet hats and expensive costumes. Although he liked splendor, strangely he picked most of his models among the poor people in ragged clothes, among the beggars and homeless.

QUICK COURTSHIP

One day a young, blonde girl came into his atelier asking him to paint her portrait. He was so charmed by her beauty and sweet voice that he almost forgot how to mix the colors. To hide his embarrassment he talked about his hometown, about his mother and his little sister. Anyway, it was too late to paint and so he asked her to come the next day. Twenty-four hours later he asked for her hand, and she did not hesitate to say yes. But the blue-eyed wealthy patrician girl was well protected by cold-hearted relatives and it took more than two years before she was allowed to marry the son-of-a-mat grinder.

Used to being surrounded by luxury and splendor, she loved pearls and diamonds and velvet robes. To see his young wife happy, he spent money lavishly and fulfilled her every wish. He moved into a huge fashionable house that equalled in beauty a palace out of the Arabian Nights, and over again he painted her picture and she was his model for many of his biblical and allegorical paintings. One evening after a gay party he put on a black hat with white feathers, took his wife on his knee and holding a glass of wine, he decided to paint this happy moment. This picture perhaps is the only one where the master painted only the joy of life and the happiness of laughter. Soon after his wife became ill and died leaving him a small son.

FORTUNES CHANGED

The house was quiet like a graveyard. And after the death of his wife, his luck and fame slowly drifted away. Perhaps his patrons became tired of the old-looking, weary and sorrowful faces he painted. The final blow came when he finished a canvas that had been ordered by the captain of the civic guard of Amsterdam. This painting, known as Nightwatch, today is considered one of the greatest masterpieces of art with a splendid composition of light and shadow. But to the captain and his men it was a shock and bitter disappointment. They felt insulted because many of their faces were hidden in darkness, their uniforms painted in ridiculous colors and instead of being orderly arranged, the group seemed to be in a state of confusion. After much quarreling the painting ended in the attic room of the city hall where it remained for a long time forgotten until it was covered with soot and dust.

The painter was penniless. His magnificent house had to be sold because he could not pay his debts. With one blow he lost everything, his wealth, his friends and fame. From a palace he was ordered into the slums. The only glimmer of light was his faithful servant, a young girl who could not read nor write. But she loved him and saw in him a genius. Perhaps he loved her, too. He painted her as Venus, as Flora and as Betsabeda. She cared for him, consoled him, tended him and gave him a daughter.

He never complained that the world had forgotten him. Sitting in his dim, cold basement room, he painted and painted. Some of his works are lost, but over five hundred paintings and more than fifteen hundred drawings remained. He died in loneliness. No one followed his coffin. Today, the whole world celebrates him as the greatest painter of Holland, Rembrandt Van Rijn.

Rembrandt Van Rijn appeared on Stamps in the Netherlands in 1938.

PORTLAND, Me. (AP)— There was a bit of billboard confusion at a state chamber of commerce luncheon in Portland Thursday.

"Oh, not more billboards in Maine," said Shapel, "I mean more billboards in other states to advertise the state of Maine."

The Week's News

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The sudden, unannounced appearance in Warsaw of Nikita Khrushchev and a retinue of Soviet bigwigs was the spoof that something out of the ordinary was in the wind. Then the news broke with big headlines reminiscent of the war years. First Poland, then Hungary.

In Warsaw, it quickly became known the Poles were defying the Russian leaders. Soviet troops stationed in Poland began moving in menacing formation. A new Polish strong man emerged —Wladyslaw Gomulka, recently released from jail. Soviet Marshal Rokossovsky was ousted from the Polish Politburo. The net result: Poland stayed Communist but won the right to direct her own affairs.

Poland's victory whipped up patriotic sentiment in Hungary. The government toppled. As in Poland, a new strong man, Imre Nagy, took over. But in Hungary the situation quickly got out of hand. What started out on Tuesday as street demonstrations in Budapest developed into a full-blown revolt. These were not Communists struggling for power among themselves, but patriots fighting for independence. Some Hungarian army units went over to the rebels. Soviet armed forces garrisoned in Hungary were in action. In the Western capitals, fear was widespread that the uprising could end only in a blood bath.

NORTH AFRICA

Arab leaders of Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia had planned a conference in Tripoli, the Sultan of Morocco was already there. The five chief leaders of the Algerian rebellion against the French were flying in from Morocco. But they never arrived.

By a ruse, the French pilot of the airliner in which they were travelling put the plane down at Algiers. Instead of a welcoming committee, the rebel leaders found French troops waiting with handcuffs.

The capture of the rebel chiefs was a severe blow to French fighting to put down the Algerian revolt. But it reacted against them in Morocco and Tunisia. The Sultan of Morocco regarded the incident as an affront to his dignity. Rioting broke out in many Moroccan towns. More than 50 French were slain in the city of Meknes alone.

STUDENT MARCH

Quebec City had a student demonstration. About 1,000 undergraduates from Laval University marched on the legislative buildings seeking an interview with Premier Duplessis, to present to press for more financial aid for education.

The premier refused to see a delegation but later agreed to a meeting at a future date. Duplessis has refused federal aid for Quebec universities on the grounds education is a provincial responsibility.

U.S. ELECTION

The presidential election campaign in the United States ended its next to last week. The public opinion polls showed President Eisenhower holding a lead over his opponent, Adlai Stevenson. But many political experts looked for a close contest. Voting is Tuesday, Nov 6.

Foreign policy, the merits of a man on H-bomb tests, and the military draft continued to dominate the campaign. Stevenson saw a ban on H-bomb tests as the best means of ensuring peace. Eisenhower, rejecting this idea, backed peace through strength as the safest policy.

Deer Have to Be Harvested Like Any Crops Say Expert

OTTAWA (CP) — In order to have more deer to shoot, you have to shoot more deer.

This statement, which may sound ambiguous, comes from Vic Solman, director of the federal wildlife service, and he backs it up with facts.

"Deer have to be harvested like any other crop," says the wildlife expert, who thinks Canada's game laws should be made more flexible and brought up to date.

"That goes for elk, antelope, fish or any other wildlife."

SURPLUS DOOMED

Taking deer as an example, Mr. Solman points out that if too many are living in any given area the surplus is bound to die.

The good range is 40 per cent of the deer population can be harvested each year—in fact must be harvested—if the herd is to be kept healthy. It's the only way, too, of preventing the range from being spoiled by over-use.

"If the herd is kept down to size and the range is good, a doe will have twin and triplet fawns. On a range damaged by years of grazing, the doe will have only one fawn a year and sometimes none.

"It's only by properly reducing the population in line with the available food resources that the deer can be kept in good and healthy supply."

Mr. Solman said there are many areas in Canada where provincial biologists think there are more deer than it is wise to have.

"It's up to the public to get the provincial legislatures to change the laws so that surplus wildlife can be harvested sensibly. Laws have to be made flexible so that no-hunting bans can be placed on areas where the game population is small and limits raised in the plentiful areas."

CITES PELEE HUNTS

He mentioned Pelee Island as one place where it has been proved that proper harvesting of wildlife does not destroy the game population.

Three dozen pheasants were liberated on the 10,000 - acre Lake Erie island about 30 years ago. About seven years later more than 10,000 birds were taken by hunters.

"They still get 10,000 to 12,000 pheasants every year on Pelee. A similar crop revenue is made by the sale of the licences and the pheasant population is still booming.

"If they didn't shoot off the surplus they would just die or become so numerous farmers would be plagued by them."

The same goes for all over-abundant wildlife, Mr. Solman maintains. Fish, birds and animals often starve to death because too many of them are trying to live off a limited amount of food. The surplus should be removed to give wildlife room to grow.

Beacon Lights Will Be Used To Guide Planes

MONTREAL (CP) — High-powered beacon lights, visible from five to 10 miles, may become standard on all jet-powered aircraft to prevent mid-air collisions at night.

This was one of the recommendations of the five-weeks' air navigation conference of the International Civil Aviation Organization, just concluded in Montreal. Delegates from 33 countries and four international air organizations attended.

The conference recommended a panel of experts be called to discuss aircraft identification lights.

No final decision was reached on the question of rear-facing seats in aircraft.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mrs. Roy Dunkley, R.R. 3, Belleville, announces the engagement of her daughter, Ruth Alvera, to John Bulpit, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Bulpit of Trenton, Ontario. Marriage to take place at St. George's Anglican church, Trenton, Ontario, on Saturday, November 3rd, 1956, at 3 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wheeler, Ricky and Pamela, of Oregon, are spending the weekend in the city with relatives.

Parkdale W.I. Holds Enjoyable Masquerade

The October meeting of the Parkdale W.I. was held in the recreation room at the spacious home of Mrs. R. Drake in the form of a masquerade with prizes going to the following: most original, Mrs. Ross Bateman; most comical, Mrs. Samoon; best pair, Mrs. and Mr. McCrone; most transgressing, Mrs. G. Devolin; funniest dressed, Mrs. N. Bandy; best native costume, Mrs. W. Brown as a Chinese.

The president opened the meeting. Mrs. Drake, in the absence of the secretary, gave the minutes of the last meeting. The treasurer gave her report and a report was also given from the sick committee.

Plans were made to have Miss Brant of the Children's Aid Society give a talk at a future meeting on the care of the aged children in the city, to help one understand his own, perhaps better.

An invitation to the Fall Fair Quinte Institute for the course on "Home Furnishings" was accepted.

It has also been decided to buy some dishes to go with the spoons, cups and saucers which have already been purchased at the hall. A committee to buy material and make drapes was appointed for the next week. At Mrs. C. Keeble's hoping that these may be completed for the first dance early next month.

Roll call was answered, by 20 members and 4 visitors.

A number of games and contests were then conducted by the recreation committee consisting of musical chairs, which was won by Mrs. F. Van Alstyne; pinning the tail on the donkey, was also enjoyed with Mrs. A. Shannon, the winner. An apple relay put on by Mrs. A. Robinson and won by Mrs. R. Morris and Mrs. J. Gray, proved most exciting. Mrs. G. Devolin was lucky winner of the guessing game conducted by Mrs. F. Rodgers and Mrs. R. Brown and was the winner of the scrambled animal contest.

Refreshments were served by the co-hostesses, Mrs. M. Graham, Mrs. J. Mac and Mrs. Mc.

Mrs. C. Keeble thanked the hostess for a most enjoyable evening.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. Morrey.

Number of Children in Care Of Society Lowest in Years

The regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Children's Aid Society was held in the Bridge Street Public School, Mr. C. R. Morgan, chairman of the board, presided. In his opening remarks Mr. Morgan announced that the Reverend Dr. R. Crossley Hunter, minister of Trinity United Church, Toronto, had accepted an invitation to be guest speaker at the annual meeting next March.

MAINTENANCE COST REDUCED

Mr. Kerr, the local director, reported a further reduction in the number of children in care. "We had 248 children under our supervision at the end of September, 1955," he said, "and I am happy to again say that this is the lowest number in care for many years. During the month 18 children left the society's care. This affects the maintenance costs for October, in September the city paid $504 less for the maintenance of children than it did in September last year, and the cost to the county was $150 and $300, respectively.

Re lasting incidents which occurred during the month, Mr. Kerr said that in the north Hastings, who had been admitted to care in August, so that special help could be given a severed nerve and tendon in her wrist, could be returned to her parental for Sick Children, was now ready to return home with the full use of her hand. Another child, two years of age, had been admitted to care and placed in the Rahael Convalescent Home at Plainfield to await admission to the Children's Hospital at Smith's Falls, the middle of November.

SPECIAL TRAINING

Two other children had been, this month, admitted to the Ontario Hospital School at Smith's Falls for special training in keeping with their abilities. An intellectually disturbed girl of six was admitted to the Sunnyside Children's Centre at Kingston, one of the two such institutions for seriously disturbed children in Ontario.

Going Places

Gambling, Not Divorces, Is Main Diversion in Reno, Nevada

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Reno, Nev.—Don't let anybody tell you about divorce being this city's major industry (after gambling, that is). It's quite the opposite, it's marriage.

At least, that's what we'd judge from the dignified and peaceful silliness that we've seen around town identifying "Marriage Chapels," "Justice of the Peace," and "Wedding Ceremonies, Civil and Religious." Perhaps we're in error because divorces are confined to the courts and anybody is liable to get married any place, especially when you've just been divorced for the purpose.

And, yes, Virginia, there is a Harold's Club. It's just a step beyond the arched neon sign you've seen in the travelogues that say "The Biggest Gambling Club in the World."

Harold's, you'll remember, is the self-styled world's largest night club which cagily confines its billboard advertising to every other block on the North American continent. We haven't been inside yet but even on the outside they have a tourist information bureau, employment office and all sorts of things not usually found in night clubs, which we didn't quite catch.

CLATTER OF MACHINES

Next door to Harold's is Harrah's Club, which from the street looks like a sort of slot machine penny arcade, which it probably is. The clatter of the one-armed bandits drowns out even Reno's substantial traffic. There must be thousands of the things, all sizes, shapes, colors and hot spots.

Long before we crossed the Utah-Nevada line, coming from Salt Lake City, we were made well aware of Nevada's chief attraction. There were no two stranger geographical bedfellows on the continent than these two states. Utah, dry, Mormon and proud, threw onto the map alongside Nevada, where the bars and casinos are open 24 hours a day at least.

About as far as Satan gets into Utah is with the omnipresent billboards, promoting such unfamiliar attractions as Nevada's most liberal slots" and "giant progressive jazz pots."

No sooner is the line crossed than you encounter the first of the countless enormous casino-bar-cafe filling - station establishments throughout Nevada. You think the first one is the largest but, of course, it turns out to be only one of many.

We resisted temptation for more than an hour across the border before the time of day finally made us give in. We chose a large room motel in Wells, Nev., not unlike many another small town motel in this country, with a convenient hotel and cafe.

Only the one had an even dozen slots, a crap table and two other tables presumably used for games of chance involving cards. There was also a cowboy and cowgirl who strummed guitars and sang about San Antone, a giant electric-lighted wheel lit up like Broadway and ground like the fireHouse every time someone hit the jack pot on one of the slots (now we're talking that way).

Then everyone would abandon his chair and rush to the clanging to see what had happened. It was the jumping-off town of 900 persons now you've ever seen.

TRY OUR LUCK

We conscientiously resisted temptation until the four gray-haired school teachers from New York State, who had the room next to ours, were spotted hypnotically dropping nickels in the clanging five cent-makers. Like everybody else who ever tries his luck at slots, we started winning. It was a little, just a little more and, well, then we lost.

The temptation of all men to get more than what's coming to them is the whole factor in the economy of this lone state of the Union where gambling is legal. Every filling station and cafe in each of the tiny communities which dot the sparsely populated state features its own battery of slot machines. It seems to represent a 1,1/4th distillation of all the greed in the country.

Canadian Legion LA. Sponsors Successful Bazaar

On Wednesday, the Ladies' Auxiliary of Canadian Legion, Branch 99, held its annual bazaar.

The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion with autumn leaves, Chinese lanterns, black cats, witches, pumpkins and black and orange streamers in the motif of Hallowe'en.

There were tables with aprons, fancy work, novelties and the "white elephant."

The home-cooking certainly did credit to the ladies, as well as the candy table which contained a fine assortment of home-made candy.

There was also a draw on a Christmas cake which was won by Mrs. Jack Young and a draw on a fancy box of candy which was won by Mrs. Lizzie Helm. The bazaar was a great success.

LOVELY BLOOM

One of the first of Canadian wild orchids is the lady's slipper, found in many parts of Nova Scotia and Manitoba.

Zone Five W.F.A. Meets In Stirling

Women of Federation of Agriculture representing the counties of Zone 5 met at Stirling on October 23. Mrs. Percy Hicks, R.R. 3, Napanee, opened the meeting held by the Women's Division in the Council Chamber.

The minutes of the spring meeting held at Norwood, and this were read by Mrs. W. P. Barry, secretary from Peterborough County. Reports of the key women from the various counties in the zone were given. Mrs. Dave McIntyre of Keene, gave the Peterborough county report on the work of the Federation of Agriculture; Mrs. Dalton Darrell spoke on the work in Durham.

Mrs. Chester Sills was replaced by Mrs. Carl Thompson to represent Hastings County as key woman and Mrs. Clifford Barker of Belleville, represents Prince Edward County.

Mrs. Fred Perry gave the report for Lennox and Addington. She was particularly glad about the Federation of Agriculture tent at Napanee fair which sold cheese, advertised dairy products.

ZONE 4 OFFICERS ELECTED

Following the county reports, the election of officers was held for Zone 4.

Zone chairman, Mrs. Fred Perry of Napanee, was returned by acclamation; vice-chairman, Mrs. Dalton Dewell of Bowmanville, Durham county; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Dave McIntyre of Keene, in Peterborough county. Mrs. Fred Perry was appointed reporter to the Rural Co-operator.

A round table discussion on the work of the Federation of Agriculture was held by points of the noon hour when all adjourned to the Sterling hotel for dinner.

A joint afternoon session was held with members of the men in the Federation of Agriculture office.

Following the business discussion, Mrs. Beadle, Chief Matron spoke on "This Crisis Year for the Farmer" especially the dairy farmer. She felt that the many organizations of the Federation pulling together was the aim in the horse-team. She commended farm forums as wonderful training ground for leaders, and mentioned the leadership training course to be held at Vineland in February 1957. One woman and one man are to be chosen to attend from each county. Mrs. Pound also urged all farmers to read the little booklet "Ontario Federation of Agriculture Tells Its Story", which is obtainable at all Department of Agriculture offices.

The meeting closed with resolutions from the meeting discussed and the date was decided for the spring zone meeting.

This - - - and That

The Oxford dictionary tells us that "conservation" is "preservation of energy, invariable mass, and quantity of total energy of any system of bodies (including the universe)."

Moira River watershed may be a far cry from the universe but nevertheless, it is a preserve relatively important to us directly as it may be significant universally. The preservation of the water has real importance in that it control both the productivity of the land and the destructiveness of the flood.

The Moira River Conservation Authority exercises itself with the conservation of the soil and the control of floods, here in our district, and nowhere does it serve our well-being more than in the city of Belleville and its surrounding townships.

It is unfortunate that the work of the Authority and the objectives are not better known because we are all affected both directly and indirectly, both constructively and destructively.

Every man and woman knows that if the cash value of an insurance policy is realized upon, the value of the policy disappears. It is equally well understood that the cash value can only be restored if the cash value is replaced and if the premium is paid annually. Too often the value is lost forever because it is simpler to spend than build and tragically, the insured person is often needlessly unfit for re-insurance. Posterity is almost always the victim.

The cash value of the Moira River Valley is the forest, is the trees. The value of the land policy has been drawn on to the point of risk to the point where irreparable damage has been might easily cancel the worth of the policy in many instances, the policy itself. If you wish. The Moira River Valley cannot afford to lose another acre to the axe, destruction without tree replacement. It is the responsibility of you and me late that many fertile districts in the United States have become veritable communities of drifting sand, because man destroyed the trees. The Moira Conservation Authority would like our citizens to become conscious of the real value and form a tree conserving public. We can offer constructive help in contacting the Authority office at Cannifton. We can help by our interest.

If, for instance, we see or know of any great area being denuded of trees, our public spirited concern can be expressed by enquiries as to what, if any, steps are being taken to replace the trees. The great pulp and paper companies in the north have tremendous programs of tree replacement.

This is an unusual appeal which asks for free contributions, the donation of our public interest; and the gift of our time and effort. And so, T & T is happy to enjoin us all to assist the Moira River Conservation Authority to keep the cash value of our watershed in productive condition and standing. We are the beneficiaries? Why, we are the beneficiaries. The farmer, the gardener, the angler, the hunter, the rural and urban folk, the town and the city, the fish, birds and the wildlife all benefit. It is an insurance well worth-while keeping in force.

Our thought for this weekend is very simple. Quick profit today is not, long facts, we assume that dividends will be available in the future. We are smothered in slogans but let's make room for the trees today for tomorrow's bounty" a year-round rule. Trees are the true conservatives; they hold old leaves till summer is over.

A green exchange."

It was our privilege at the beginning of this week to look in on the Ontario convention of the Women's Hospital Auxiliaries at the Royal York in Toronto. We are all aware of the unlimited variety of the endeavors of the volunteer workers in the hospital auxiliaries but it was an inspiration to observe the high reaching capacity their work on the provincial level. The Bay of Quinte is justly honored to have three local ladies on the provincial executive—Mrs. J. Buchan, Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. H. J. Fuke, corresponding secretary, Belleville, and Mrs. Ramon Park, press secretary of Trenton. In a recent interview the Mrs. Park told us that for the first fifty years ago she became aware that the women of this community are second to none when it comes to leadership. They have earned respect for us far and wide.

Did you know that the Ontario Business College opened in Belleville in 1886 and is one of the oldest in Canada? OBC followed Albert College (as Albert College) by two years and preceded the Ontario School for the Deaf by two years.

Faithful Member Honored by Church, S. School

Last evening, approximately 75 members and young people of the Christian Education Staff of the Y.M.C.A. in honor of one of their number, Miss Margaret Bargar, who is leaving the city to assume her duties as "Secretary and secretary of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Sunday School at Moose Jaw.

Miss Bargar is a graduate of the Western Canada Bible College, Winnipeg, since early childhood has grown up in the Tabernacle, where her father is the pastor, and choir member, and in the broadcast services as soloist. Eleanor has always most willingly given of her time and talents.

In appreciation of this, she was presented with a King James' version of the Bible, a dictionary, and also a money gift which will assist as a substantial gift of following money, for which she graciously expressed her deep appreciation and thanks.

Mrs. Ross, of the Sunday School and of the church at losing her from the Sunday School superintendent, Mr. Wright; the pastor, the Rev. Sackville Palmer, and by Miss Dorothy Agnes, leader of the Senior Girls.

Preceding the presentation, prayers for Miss Bargar were enjoyed with Miss Grace Veley at the piano, led by Mrs. Herbert Millard, who presided as mistress of ceremonies. A number of hymns, chosen with care for thought, were also played.

Refreshments served by the young people of the church, concluded the evening.

Cheetah That Likes to Watch TV House Pet of Edmonton Couple

EDMONTON (CP)—A cheetah that likes to watch TV is the house pet of Mr. and Mrs. Al Oeming, wife of Edmonton's wrestling promoter.

Mr. Oeming, also a zoologist, got the fleet-footed cheetah last March and is keeping it until Edmonton's new zoo opens next summer. Cheetahs, also known as hunting leopards, are found in Africa and Asia and can be domesticated.

The Oemings' pet is the latest in a series of house guests which have included lions, lynx, fox and coyotes.

SNAKES UNDER BAN

Mrs. Oeming, once musical director of a Edmonton radio station CFRN, takes them all in stride but draws the line at snakes.

Speaking of the cheetah, Mrs. Oeming said:

"Twana has a sedate personality. He likes company. Listens while I play the piano, likes to lie on the couch in the den and is fascinated by TV.

"We take him out for car rides and he likes ice cream—but isn't crazy about it.

Mrs. Oeming said the cheetah's native name is actually tamed.

"Our Plymouth Rock rooster is really the meanest creature on the lot," she added.

PLENTY OF PETS

The Oemings also have other pets—a skunk and a minah bird in the house, and three baby seals in a pool. Pet Plymouth Rocks and two dogs of the Weimarsner breed.

"This is nothing compared to three years ago when Al was getting his thesis for his grey owl," Mrs. Oeming said. "We were interested with owls, and Al was dashing off owls from California, three or four inches high. They liked to sit on curtain rods and peoples' heads."

Her husband took his zoology degree at the University of Alberta and now is working on his doctorate from the University of Oklahoma.

"We become very attached to our animals," said Mrs. Oeming. "Each has its own personality. Twana, a lynx, was a great ham."

GENTLE SNOW

David, a lion cub, a gift from the Calgary Zoo, is back in Calgary, awaiting the opening of the new Edmonton zoo.

"We had David for four months last March," Mrs. Oeming explained. "He was very tame and the puppies used to follow him around the house."

The skunk too has a personality.

"He's very shy and when anyone comes to the house, he goes into his room and slams the door."

The Oemings have two pet egrins falcons, with which Al hunts; three owls—"we let them fly free but they're home every night to feed,"—and 40 crows being used for research on migration.

WHEN THE LEAVES COME DRIFTING DOWN

When the leaves come drifting down,
On a calm October day,
And the trees with glory crowned
Stand in quiet array,
Then it is that beauty's birth
Is born when the heart is stirred
Tho' the thoughts the spirit fit
Cannot be expressed in words.

When the leaves come drifting down,
In the soft October light,
And a radiance all around
Gleams from every tree-top bright,
Then we feel that He whose hand
Beauty paints through all the land
Still will paint a picture grand
When the winter time draws down.

When the leaves come drifting down,
And we all as leaves must fade,
When life's summer time is flown,
Dearest heart, be undismayed,
He who gave the youthful face
All the beauty of the years
Gives to age a mellowed grace
Like the leaves at summer's close.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU'RE CREATING A LOT OF YOUR CONFUSION YOURSELVES

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Please help a poor bewildered engaged couple. We really need it.

I'm 18 years old, and when my boy friend, 20, asked me to marry him I said yes. But now we have a problem, because we are not quite convinced yet that marriage is the right thing for us. In fact we're afraid of married life.

You see, a parents' marriage ended, and I'm afraid the same thing might happen to me. So although I believe I'm very much in love with my boy friend, I'm afraid of making the wrong choice. We realize you can never be absolutely sure when you marry, but is there any way you can be reasonably sure? We've talked all this over but don't seem to make much progress.

Lately, we've found ourselves arguing over little insignificant things. We make up afterwards, but if we argue now, what's it going to be like after we marry? We realize that married life is not a bed of roses, but it shouldn't be a fighting ground either.

We honestly want to get married to each other, but not with all the fears we have now. It's not normal to feel this way before marriage! Are we being too hard on each other to keep on with our plans with all this uncertainty?

My boy friend says he loves me very much and doesn't think he could ever love any other girl. I don't feel quite that way. I'm sure I love him, but I don't feel it would be impossible for me to love someone else, and this feeling is keeping me from continuing me.

I'm a girl with a high school and summer college education. I'm now working and make a fairly good salary. My boy friend is still in college and plans to go to medical school, so that he has about six more years to go. If we get married, we intend to do so before he gets to medical school which would be two years from now. What do you think of this plan?

Incidentally, he is probably going out west to medical school, but the thought of going so far away from home doesn't bother me too much, because my mother always taught me that a wife's place is with her husband; that when she marries, her home is wherever he is. — J.J.

Dear J.J.:

Since you tell me nothing, really, about how much you and this young man have in common that would make you a congenial married couple, it would be pretty hard for anyone to definitely assure you that your doubts are groundless and that you should go ahead with your plans.

But with no more than what you say to base a theory on, my impression would be that you've dwelt so much on your parents' difficulties that you're inclined to exaggerate the small differences you think that are purely normal between any two people, and that you're more apprehensive than you need be about married life in general. Furthermore, I think it is likely that you've passed on to your boy friend doubts and fears he would otherwise not have.

It's perfectly possible, of course, that the two of you were right for that you and your boy friend are having delicate incompatibility. On the other hand, it is just as possible—even, perhaps, probable—that you two have undergone marriage to the point where you're so on edge, so emotionally sensitive, that the least little thing sets you off.

Actually, I don't really think your problem is as difficult as you have chosen to be. After all, if you have at least two years ahead of you before you plan to marry, and if you have the sense to stop analyzing and dissecting your feelings about each other about marriage, and just try to go along normally, it will certainly become apparent, as time goes on, whether or not marriage is right and wise for you. In short, if you'll stop fussing about the whole thing, you'll be far more likely to get the truth of the matter than if you insist on keeping yourselves so emotionally wrought up that you're a perpetual state of confusion.

So my advice to the two of you is that you act like any other engaged couple looking toward marriage in a normal way. Let yourselves relax and enjoy each other's companionship. If marriage is not for you, that fact will gradually become very clear. On the other hand, if it's right and wise, that, too, will become clear to you if you will give it a chance.

If your home has been flooded in a bad storm, the U. S. Department of Agriculture warns against heating a flooded oil burner until an electrician approves. Once easier heating systems are dry and stored, use heat to help dry out the oil and controls.

Chatterton W.I. Enjoys European Travelogue

In September the Chatterton Institute entertained three neighboring Institutes: Stirling, Pine Grove and River Valley.

Mrs. Mitts presided and welcomed the neighboring Institutes.

The program consisted of two numbers from each branch Institute: Mrs. Russell Stapley, of Stirling, delighted with an accordion solo; Pine Grove - a humorous reading by Mrs. Bartindale, and a piano solo by Mrs. Ivan Clare. River Valley - a reading by Mrs. Percy MacMullen; district president of Stirling branch, Mrs. Louis Rodgers, spoke on the Institute work and read a nice poem.

This was followed by a travel talk by Miss Charlotte McGee of Belleville, on a three-weeks' trip by air from Toronto to England, where she stayed two days and then flew to Paris, where she had two days' stay and then on to Geneva, Switzerland.

Before leaving Canada arrangements had been made to rent a car in Geneva and tour through Switzerland, Italy and a part of France and back to Geneva in the company of two other people.

She travelled through Switzerland and down the centre of Italy to Rome and then returned along the coast of Italy into France and back to Geneva.

They had the-car for 15 days and travelled about 2500 miles and then back to London and home again. This travel was beautifully pictured on the screen from colored slides taken by her and the trip was well explained and made the evening most worth while.

Miss Charlotte McGee will be welcome by the Institute if she has another such trip to tell about.

On October 10th, the Extension Service, Department of Agriculture, directed Miss Wishart to demonstrate "Salads" at the home of Mrs. Frank Pollard, which many of the members attended.

Thanks to Mrs. Pollard for use of her lovely kitchen for demonstration were tendered.

Miss Wishart also demonstrated different dressings to be used on side plates, such as meat salads, chick and choose side salads, salad bowls, wheat germ meal and garnishes and dressings. All felt it had been an afternoon well spent.

The October meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Bruce Pennille with an attendance of 14 members and six children. The meeting was opened in the usual way by the president, Mrs. Mitts. A good deal of business was discussed.

Mrs. Gardner was the convener and has charge of "Care of Furniture"—cleaners and how to use them. Care of wood - dust of the furniture looking bright and clean is a weekly application of Old English furniture polish and a scratch cover helps them to keep in a respectable appearance. A good washing and a coat of stain and when hard apply a liquid wax then a coat of paste wax.

The care of furniture really is very simple, it only takes time to it to you. One should bear in mind that heat is a factor when making a purchase. The dealer can tell you whether the covering is fast to sunlight and heat.

Mrs. Gardner also gave a reading on "History of Hastings County."

Readers' Saturday Column

As told to Mary Moore

LETTER:

". . .following is a recipe, for a fruit bread that the bachelors and husband's office especially liked.

PINEAPPLE NUT BREAD

(Courtesy Helen H. Hamilton, Ottawa)

Two cups sifted flour, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 1-2 cup walnuts coarsely chopped, 1 egg beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 cup crushed canned pineapple not drained, 1 cup raisins soaking soda. Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt into mixing bowl. Add raisins and nuts. Combine egg, vanilla and shortening. Add to mixture. Dissolve soda in pineapple and add. Stir until just blended. Pour into a greased loaf pan, 8x4x6 inches and bake in a moderate oven of 350 deg. Fahr., about one hour or until done. Cool thoroughly before slicing."

Helen H. adds that her Dad and Mother tired of sending clippings from this column to Ottawa so sent her a subscription to the paper. . . she also says to your ideas with hamburger are certainly budget-saving. . . if you ever write a cook book I would put me down for a copy. . .

greetings from the Atlantic. . . Helen H."

ANSWER:

Greetings from landlubbers in Canada Helen and thanks for the Pineapple Nut bread which is a treat. Our Women's Association tried it and served it at one of their big money-raising teas and bazaars. Those W.A. members know a good fruit loaf when they taste it and dozens of them have the recipe tucked away for future reference.

QUESTION:

". . .am on a low phosphorous diet and was wondering if you would help - me out with some recipes. I am not allowed any dairy products, cereals with bran, nuts, canned fish, graham wafers. I can use margarine in place of butter and sometimes water to replace milk but have found on substitute for egg. Can you tell me if the egg yolk is high in phosphorous as well as egg white? Can you suggest some supper dishes and also some cake and cookie recipes which do not contain high phosphorous foods. Thanking you Mrs. A. A. F.

ANSWER;

Yes, the egg yolk is even higher in phosphorous content than the white. Phosphorous is so common in most our foods that you will find it very difficult to avoid. I am sending you further authoritative information on low-phosphorous foods by mail.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

MARMORA WI.

MARMORA — The Marmora Branch of Women's Institute completed a millinery course on Thursday with Miss Gowthorpe, department instructor, was in charge. Twenty members enrolled and they are loud in their praise of Miss Gowthorpe's patience throughout the course.

On Tuesday at the closey meeting of the year, conveners reports presented-Miss Snider with a gift in appreciation of the work she will be able to put on a course in the spring and thus get an extra day's work completed in summer millinery.

Mrs. William Gowing and Miss Jean Reynolds of Ottawa, were recent visitors with their brother, Mr. J. R. Reynolds and Mrs. Reynolds, Forrythe St.

Mrs. Fred Kennedy, of Niagara Falls, are visiting the former's brother and sister, Mr. Harold Nayler and Mrs. Nayler.

Miss Lois Nelson and party, of Ottawa, were recent guests with Mr. and Mrs. John Reynolds.

Mr. Fred Hagerman has suffered a heart attack on Sunday night. He is resting easier in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough.

Mrs. Fred Taylor is visiting her mother, Mrs. Ed. Johnston during Mr. Johnston's illness.

CARMEL W.I.

The Carmel W.I. met at the home of Mrs. B. Rodberg for the October meeting. The president, Mrs. Gowthorpe, opened the meeting in the usual manner. Roll Call was answered by 15 members with one visitor present.

The secretary read the business letters and correspondence and these were discussed.

Mrs. Moorehead was appointed to attend the W.I. Area Convention as a delegate; also Mrs. Gowthorpe. The treasurer's statement was gave a report.

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Howes, convener, who chose as her topic — "Inspirational Homegiving."

"We give thanks for any number of simple things such as morning glories climbing over a garden fence for squirrels frisking through the Autumn leaves putting away their store for winter months; for crops and fruits, for food and rain for everyday things in life.

"How can we fail to give thanks to God. How often we fail to lift our hearts above our own table. Bread was important to Jesus. When He had given thanks He broke the bread.

Lift is full of everyday causes for Thanksgiving: for freedom to talk over what we wish without the fear of reprisal. Life is made of common things, I love God's common things such as the moon, the stars, sunshine and freedom. Let us give thanks for friends and neighbors, who, like a solid oak tree the sun has shone upon with plenty of room to spread her branches. So let us Give Thanks to God."

A poem, "A Good Thanksgiving," by Edgar Guest, was read by Mrs. Thompson.

Mrs. Howes held a contest on Thanksgiving.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social half hour was enjoyed by all.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

HOW MANY WEDDING ATTENDANTS?

Dear Mrs. Beechman;

I had planned to have a maid of honor and four bridesmaids. But now, since the groom has made the plan to have two ushers, should I have another bridesmaid? — Bride-to-be

Not necessarily. Your wedding Processional may be: first, the two then the maid of honor, second last, you and your father or whoever is to escort you. And the Recessional: first, bride and groom; next, maid of honor with best man; next, bride's bridesmaid, alone; last, the two ushers.

SHOULD SHE PAY ORGANIST OR GIVE HER A GIFT?

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Is it proper for me to give a gift to the organist who is to play at my wedding or must she be paid? She is a friend of mine.—M.

You should give the organist her customary fee unless you yourself are volunteers, as a friend, to play, and makes it clear she would like to give her services. If she is to play as a friend, not as a professional, you should give her a most thoughtfully-chosen gift, and also send her a corsage to wear at the wedding.

ENTIRELY WRONG

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Our wedding is to take place in December. It is going to be formal so that it can be a candlelight wedding. Would it be proper for the men (groom, best man, ushers) to wear white dinner jackets? — C.L.

A 4 o'clock wedding is a daytime wedding, and therefore the men in the wedding party should wear day attire: formal (cutaway coats, striped trousers, appropriate accessories); semi-formal (black Oxford jackets, striped trousers, same accessories as for formal attire); or, for a wedding planned to be informal, even though the bride is wearing bridal attire, dark-blue business suits. White dinner jackets are entirely incorrect worn before 6 o'clock in the evening at any time earlier, and worn after 6 in the evening in December in your part of the country would look most inappropriately out-of-season.

GROOM'S FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My fiance would like to have me pay for the important question for him. He has no brother, and the next man to be the best friend who was his roommate during college lives out-town, and his wife will come with him to our wedding. Also two of the ushers are out-of-town. Is it the groom's responsibility to pay for the hotel accommodations of these attendants, or is this the responsibility of my family? — E.L.C.

It is the groom's responsibility to pay for these hotel accommodations.

SHOULD WOMEN WEAR HATS TO FUNERAL SERVICE?

Dear Mrs. Beechman

I know of course that it is incorrect for a woman to wear a hat to a funeral that takes place in a church. But when the funeral service is held in a funeral home in the deceased's home, is it in-correct for women to wear hats to a hat? — Sylvia

Yes, A woman should wear a hat to any service whether the service takes place in church or home. It is a funeral parlor. And she mustn't excuse herself "I never wear a hat" or "I don't own a hat.")

Remembers When Huron County Was Wilderness

LISTOWEL (CP) — Recalling when this Huron County district was a veritable wilderness, Mrs. Reid Allingham said Thursday on the eve of her 90th birthday that "One of my relatives used to be 104 and I hope to outdo him."

She lives with her sister, Miss Jennie Reid, 82, in the two-storey, red brick, white bordered cottage on nearby Millbank and they do all their own housework. They are cousins of Mrs. Leslie Frost, wife of theprcmier of Ontario.

Mrs. Allingham's husband, a farmer, died in 1933.

The sisters are the last surviving members of a family of five children. Their brother, Richard Reid, was principal of King Edward Public School in Kitchener. He opposed Mackenzie King when he first entered politics, fought his first election campaign in Waterloo North.

The sisters occasionally visit Kitchener, where they have the best when it was known as Berlin, with plank sidewalks and horse-drawn trolleys.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

I CAN HEAR MY SAVIOR CALLING

I can hear my Savior calling,
I can hear my Savior calling;
I can hear my Savior calling,
Take thy cross and follow, follow Me."

I'll go with Him through the garden,
I'll go with Him through the garden,
I'll go with Him through the garden,
I'll go with Him, with Him all the way.

I'll go with Him through the judgment,
I'll go with Him through the judgment,
I'll go with Him through the judgment,
I'll go with Him, with Him all the way.

He will give me grace and glory,
He will give me grace and glory,
He will give me grace and glory,
And go with me, with me all the way.

Where He leads me, I will follow,
Where He leads me I will follow,
Where He leads me I will follow,
I'll go with Him, with Him all the way.

This hymn, written by E.W. Blandly, was helped to fame by its appealing chorus. The refrain, indeed, has always been for many the most popular part of the song and a favorite hymn of consecration.

The 'garden' referred to in the second verse of the hymn is the Garden of Gethsemane where, according to the Bible story in Mark 14:32, Jesus went for meditation and prayer just before His arrest which led to His death on the Cross. The "judgment" mentioned in verse three is the Savior's trial before Pilate.

Today, it has disappeared from many song books, but for many years it was enduring which the greatest of the gospel songsters were holding forth. It was a favorite hymn of consecration.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

PROPER HOSIERY AND ITS CARE IMPORTANT TO BEAUTY

For best results, wash luxury nylons in a mason jar.

Except to dramatize lovely legs, most women don't consider their hosiery in the light of beauty. Yet wrinkled or run-short hose can put wrinkles in your forehead. And who wants them? No one, of course. Hosiery is too important to buy hosiery properly sized and to take care of them once you've purchased them. Get stockings with just enough stretch, your leg size, too. Sack stockings before wearing them the first time, and they'll cling better, look sheerer.

For the health of your feet, stockings should never be worn a second time without washing. Fungus-carrying perspiration is one of the main causes of athlete's foot. Besides, think of your shoes! They have to bear the brunt of stained hose and eventually they'll let you and others in on the secret.

To get them dry quickly, roll them in a towel after washing. Squeeze, don't wring, and use the towel bar protected by a towel and away from heat.

Sheer "luxury" nylons are concerned, this is certainly one season when you can't wear any old pair of nylons with your new evening slippers. Shoes — or maybe we should say open pumps and lacy sandals — call for the sleekest new nylons with lacy appliques, or with gold or silver seams. Fashion leaders have learned a big thing, too. New footwear goes in for rhinestone buckles, and today buckles, a la the 1920's, Or maybe your best evening slippers are emerald green satin or beaded pumps.

It's a lovely idea, but be sure your stockings can live up to all this richness. And once you stock up on evening hosiery, take proper care of it. Don't toss your best lingerie into the family washables. Now's the time to adopt that safe and sane method of soaking your luxurious hose — wash and rinse them in a mason jar, one pair at a time. Fill the jar three-quarters full of warm soap or detergent suds, screw on the cap. Then shake it briskly till the suds have thoroughly penetrated the hose. Rinse in the same safe manner, and your stockings will last and last. Isn't that better than you ever thought they could!

Days and Customs of all Faiths

St. Simon and St. Jude

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, Oct. 28 — St. Simon and St. Jude were Apostles, but beyond that almost nothing is known about them. They are bracketed together in the Church calendar says they were "martyred together, Oct. 28, however, is not even the legendary date of most of the saints, the day on which their bones were interred in St. Peter's in Rome, after having been brought from Persia.

Everything that can be said about either of these saints at this late date is completely negative. We can talk only about the absence of any real information about St. Simon, all we know is that he is mentioned in the lists of the Twelve Apostles. Of St. Jude, there is a little more material, but it only means that many others do. He was also, apparently, called Thaddeus and he was the brother of James. But there were two Apostles named James, and the best guess is that he was the brother of the one known as "the Less."

Of Jude at least, though, it is recorded he died on one occasion something worth noting. St. John, chapter 14, verse 22, says at the Last Supper he asked a question, "Lord, how is it that thou wilt manifest Thyself to us and not to the world?" to which the Lord's answer is given in the next verse.

Also on the negative side is the probability that this Jude is not the one who wrote the New Testament Epistle that bears his name. Of the saints who became Apostles, the record is quite silent. They just appear in the lists, with no details given. Still, even though we know next to nothing about them, the fact that they were Apostles is enough to honor them simply and to give them a place in the Christian calendar.

ALL SAINTS' DAY

Thursday, Nov. 1 — A saint is a person who has attained to the presence of God in heaven. The Christian calendar is full of saints' days, honoring those departed souls who have been officially judged to have reached this blissful state. But there are many, many thousands more who have been overlooked completely, and today — All Saints' Day — is their day. All Saints' Day commemorates the holy ones of all ages and stations whose names are known only to God.

From one point of view this might be said to be the most meaningful of all Christian festivals because it is in the lives of

We had parties in the classrooms and found the teachers had quite a sense of humour. It must have been very trying on them at times and occasionally one would warn us of their displeasure or annoyment, which we can't deny was deserved. Each of us has our own special memories but all of us have recollections of something throughout the five years spent in each group graduating tonight.

"The aroma of the typewriter on second floor; the whirring of the machinery in the basement and the aroma on third floor emanating from the home economics rooms as the girls baked or canned goods; and last, but-by no means least, the paint-like smoke from a certain French room as some group learned numbers or the alphabet for a new verb.

Truck Burns, Two Men Unhurt

NORTHPORT — A large truck owned by Edgewater Canners of Northport, was completely destroyed by fire on Friday night around six o'clock on the Northport road near Harold Robinson's farm. In the truck at the time the fire was noticed were Harold Robinson and Jack Fraser. They were on their way back from taking a load of apple juice to the Bethel factory to be canned, both men escaped unharmed. Cause of the fire is thought to have been a short circuit.

Balance Sheet in Education Required Says Ralph Campbell In BCI Commencement Talk

PROF. D. R. CAMPBELL, B.A.

"By visualizing a balance sheet of education, it is possible to see what has been, is now, and may even to chart moves into the future," said Professor D. R. Campbell, B.A., head of the economics department of the Ontario Agricultural College, in his address to students of Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School at the annual Commencement Exercises last night.

"The assets of the balance sheet are the things you own or owing you while the liabilities are the things you owe to others and yourself." The speaker defined "net assets" as the ability to get a good job, to benefit from outside business experience, personality and ability to meet and get along well with people.

"On the debit side, bad debts could be defined as good intentions never realized and lack of judgment leading to missed chances and appointments, cramming at the last minute and the failure to question and evaluate things we read, hear and see," the speaker remarked.

Good will to others, good ethics, brotherhoods and an appreciation of reading, companionship and friends were rated by Mr. Campbell as the most important net fixed assets.

Current liabilities are things we owe and must pay on demand such as obligations to parents, schools, friends and teachers.

Fixed liabilities are things we owe to others and ourselves over a long period of time such as self respect, continuance of education and our responsibilities as citizens.

HOW CHOSEN TO LEAD

By working incessantly to increase assets, a favorable balance would be obtained.

Mr. Campbell noted that two were chosen to lead and many to follow but since the leaders are governed by the limitations of the followers, the mass of students will be as important as the leaders in a government or democracy.

Mr. Campbell, who is a Rhodes scholar and a native of Foxboro, Stirling and Belleville, concluded that every student is given a choice of following the high or low road and recited this verse to prove it:

To every man there openeth
A high way and a low
And every man decideth the way
His soul shall go
For the high soul takes the high way
And the low soul gropes the low
And in between on the misty flats
The rest drift to and fro
But to every man there openeth
A High way and a low.
And every man decideth
The way his soul shall go
The speaker was introduced by R. W. Phillips and thanked by Anne Forrester.

The colorful and happy occasion opened by an organ processional by C. P. Fenwick, pianist of Canada, Brigadier Morgan Flannigan uttered the invocation.

In his remarks as chairman of the exercises, Principal W. J. Musgrove assisted by Miss M. Dwyer, Miss E. Ann Lambert, in a musical interlude, violinist Billy Easton played "The Nymph's Dance."

The award of graduation diplomas was made by D. C. Stirling assisted by A. C. Campbell, R. Sills and J. J. Trudeau.

Special commercial certificates were presented by J. Lawson and G. Whitsett.

L. D. Read assisted by Miss R. McLarney and H. G. Bates awarded the honor graduation diplomas.

Miss Joyce Schools' characteristics vocalized delightfully with "I Cried, Oh Yes! Oh Yes! When Owl" and "A Little Brown Owl" and "Come to the Fair"!

The presentation of scholarships and prizes was made by H. F. Mott.

School Letter awards for outstanding accomplishments were made by M. H. Hancock, Alex Wallbridge, and Cameron Bukard.

The commencement exercises closed with the singing, the national anthem and the Recessional by C. E. Tempier.

ROSSMORE

Ladies Aid Sponsors Fine Tea, Bazaar

ROSSMORE — The Rossmore Ladies' Aid held a successful tea and bazaar at Tobey County Garden, Wednesday afternoon. The afternoon being a crisp, sunny autumn day, brought a goodly crowed of interested people to partake of the bounteous refreshments served at attractive tables by Mrs. R. Clapp, Mrs. May, Mrs. Gerow and their helpers.

Presiding at the tea table was Mrs. Margaret Root, the oldest member of the group, held in high esteem by all for her faithful and active part in all community projects.

The bazaar tables were prettily decorated and were well attended. Mrs. Grace Belnap was convener of the apron table, ranging from dainty to practical and every conceivable color of the rainbow.

Mrs. Pollitt and Mrs. Margarg Clapp were in charge of the novelty and fancy work table. The display of donations showed great interest and talent by all who so generously contributed.

The candy sale table, which is always popular, was conversed by Mrs. J. Fraser.

Mrs. Doug Reddick presided at the home cooking table, which was well supplied with tempting cakes and pastries of every description, and did a brisk business.

A fish pond, particularly interesting to the many children, was attended by Mrs. Ken Rupert.

Mrs. Charles Reddick and Mrs. A. Alyea were in charge of tickets at the door.

At the close of the successful afternoon, which netted in the neighborhood of $100, draws were drawn to decide the winners of the various articles. Winners of the door prize, an attractive television lamp, was Mrs. Freda Alyea. Mrs. Jack Thompson won the quilt; while the bushel hamper of groceries was won by Mrs. M. Clapp. The doll was won by Mrs. L. Belnap of Belleville.

Congratulations to the various winners and many thanks to all those who bought tickets and supported the cause in any way, and all the faithful workers of the Ladies' Aid of Rossmore.

KITCHEN CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ross entertained the members of the regular weekly euchre at their home on Wednesday night. A pleasant evening was enjoyed and prizes were awarded according to score. Check Carburetor Before Winter Weather Sets In

By EUGENE MILMOE

Every checkup and change-over schedule for winter driving should include the carburetor, choke and manifold heat control, valves. They're responsible for many hard-starting and poor performance complaints when the weather turns cold.

For proper carburetion and engine warm-up, the manifold heat valve must move freely. It it seems to stick slightly when the lever or counterweight is rotated, by lubricating the shaft with graphite—do not use oil. Naturally, carburetor and choke efficiency must be unhampered by dirt, gumming and binding, too, but correct adjustments are equally important.

For example, be sure carburetor idle adjustment is not too lean nor the float level too low, and see that the accelerating pump stroke is set to supply the maximum accelerating charge of fuel. When the choke is inspected, your mechanic should make certain it will be set rich enough for cold engine starting during frigid weather.

(A) Combustion gases blowing past worn piston rings will also build up pressure in the crankcase, causing oil leakage around the distributor.

• • •

J.S. asks: "I have no trouble with my 1956 car when I use it every day travelling to and from work. However, on a weekend, if I get out on a country road and travel at high speed, the engine cuts out for no apparent reason. It will start all right and everything is OK if I keep down the speed. The dealer tried coiled spark plugs, but they've made no difference. A carburetor inspection hasn't helped, either. Do you have a suggestion?"

(A) Have the distributor checked, particularly the breaker arm spring. It's not unusual for incorrect spring tension to bring on such trouble.

• • •

From L.R.: "On my last car, the spark plugs were usually wet and sludge coated. This was blamed on oil. I now notice that the plugs on my present car, a 1955 model, foul up too, but they're covered with a dry black soot. This isn't oil too, is it?"

(A) No. This indicates gas rather than oil fouling. An overrich mixture is the cause and calls for a check on choke and carburetor adjustments.

D.V. writes: "There's a real mystery about my car, a 1953 model with standard shift. It starts OK and runs well, but whenever I turn a corner, the engine misses and stalls. What would a mechanic look for?"

(A) First, he's probably check for looseness at the carburetor flange which would allow air leakage when the car is banked sharply. He would also inspect the carburetor float to see if it binds against the bowl on turns.

CANADIENS TONIGHT

Kingston Eleces slipped into first place in the Eastern Ontario Senior "A" League standing, one point ahead of the Mercury Farlands by virtue of their 8-3 victory over the hapless Chevvies from Cornwall. The Eleces rate five points for two victories and a tie, whereas the Macks have only two games under their belts, both of them wins.

The Whitby Dunlops failed to wreak their promised revenge over the Ottawa Canadiens in their night, bowing to the Hyboresque 7-2 after a gruelling battle. There were 14 penalties in a rugged third period when players of both squads tossed gloves and started throwing punches. No less than seven were handed out and the combatants were then thrown under the showers. Two more were handed out by referee Dalton McArthur after the battle smoke had cleared.

And reports from the shadows of the old stamping grounds up Petawawa way have it that those Pembroke Lumber Kings are a rugged, boisterous bunch of boys who delight in the gaudy sport as it is tough. They tell us the blokes wearing the royal monikers from Harry Moore's bailiwick can toss their torsos with more or less abandon regardless of whom they hit as long as the recipient is wearing a foeman's livery. They hit as long as the recipient is wearing a foeman's livery. If such is the case last night's and Sunday's tiffs between the Dunlops and the Kings should be eye-pleasers. The Kings were in Whitby last evening and the Dunlops return to battle on Sunday.

Meanwhile the stage is all set for tonight's important tussle between the McFarlands and the Ottawa Canadiens. It is the first clash between the clubs and it rates millions. It is the first appearance for Ottawa and it is one of the best of the season. The Ottawans are said to be a fast, brisk, hard-hitting squad with passing plays that are a treat to watch.

Be that as it may. They will be matched for speed and spirit by the Guys of Guidolin, for the coach has hopes his troops up to a high point in the opening fracas. "They are ready and rarin' to go", Step said this morning.

He had the squad he expects to start tonight out bright and early Friday morning and last night. "It is tough," he said, "but I want them in shape. The team will be at full strength and fortunately we suffered no practice injuries."

The McFarlands need another defenceman, and those the medicos have developed. Although we understand the management is in quest of one or two.

There was a decided note of optimism in the dressing room yesterday morning when we visited the squad. There was plenty of cross-room banter, most of it in French, but Minny Minnard graciously acted as interpreter.

"I just asked these guys," he quipped, "You say what you like. They don't understand English."

"Who doesn't," bellowed a bass-baritone from across the room.

There was no pessimism regarding tonight's game. Some of the boys know some of those on the Ottawa roster. They were curious, however, as to what product Ottawa would be plucking from the Pollock squad. But it made no difference. There was plenty of shoulder shrugging and that was that.

Coach Guidolin will send his first line of Paul Payette, Minny Minnard and Landon Gilbert against the Canadiens. Andre Montpetit, Henry Therrien who gets his first taste of competitive action, and Keith MacDonald, will second the first string check troops. Raul St. Hilaire, Rene Lavoie-chef and Lawrence Joyer will be in the third line of offence... All this, of course, is subject to change before game time.

Floyd Crawford and the hard-hitting, stay-shooting Benoit will look after the defence line duties. Bep Bennett and probably Stan Mulholland will reinforce them.

As was said before Step is a forward and here again rises the crying need of another defenceman or two. While we're at it, let's re-all out.

Since the above was written it is learned that Whitby defeated Pembroke last night 4-3 to take over the loop top spot with six points. Kingston is in second with five while the undefeated McFarlands with two wins in two games are now in third.

Twelve Dobbins Clash Today In Canada's Richest Race

TORONTO (CP) — The richest Canadian thoroughbred race will be run today when the $60,800 Canadian Championship went into action at Woodbine.

The winner of the event was in line for $42,780 for the mile and one-five-furlongs. Second place was worth $10,000 third $5,000 and fourth $2,200.

Twelve thoroughbreds were named Friday, the dozen horses divided among Canadian and American owners. Two are Irish-bred with a third bred in Australia and a fourth in Chile.

Only Canadian-bred is Canadian Champ, owned by Toronto's Bill Beasley and winner of the classic Queen's Plate as well as other major races here this year. Canadian Champ drew the rail post position and the lightest weight—114 pounds. Aboard will be Eugene Rodriguez.

AMERICANS FAVORED

Three of the foreign horses were expected to wind up as spirit choosers by post time, approximately 4:07. They are Sam Tufano's Wise Margin, who was to start from the No. 10 position; Mrs. Ethel Jacobs' Paper Tiger and Frank Rand's Australian-bred Prince Morvi. They carried top weight at 125 pounds, as did most of the others.

Wise Margin has won about $200,000 over four years. Paper Tiger, second to Park Dandy in last year's Canadian Championship at Long Branch, was to be ridden by one of the country's best. Dana McCreary. Prince Morvi drew Pete Anderson, one of the hottest jockeys at the moment.

Canadian-owned horses include the Joe Tomlinson pair of Ballymadonnell and Marshall IV II, plus another entry of Marked Game and Infusion from the Kennedy-Veale Stable. Others are Jim Boyle-len's Fleet Path and Ken Kelman's Grand Canyon.

STATON OUT

MONTREAL (CP)—Coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker of Montreal Alouettes said Friday that Jim Staton would not play in today's Big Four football game in Hamilton, reducing the maximum of 12 allowed American imports to 11.

WHOLESALE FINES

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Steelers confirmed Friday that coach Walt Kiesling slapped preliminary fines of $100 to $200 on at least a dozen players following the Steelers 38-10 loss to New York Giants last Sunday.

Well-Known Grey Cup Coach Takes Over in Surprise Move; Piloted Five Teams to Title

TORONTO (CP) — Lew Hayman, who holds Canada's all-time Grey Cup record as a coach, was signed Friday night by the Argonaut football club to pull new life into their battered but tattered occupants of the Big Four baseman.

In a surprise climax to several weeks of unrest, both inside and outside the team, the only man to pilot teams to five Dominion championships joined his old club as the Argos' first salaried all-powerful boss.

Added to the board of directors were three men who only a few days earlier had offered to buy the team on behalf of a syndicate —manager Charles Bums and publisher John Bassett Jr. of the Toronto Telegram.

Joe Wright, Argo vice-president who announced the appointments after a directors' meeting as "a streamlining move in the interests of the club", said Bassett and Hayman signed a two-year contract. His title will be managing director and he will be in charge of operations from top to bottom.

NO TALK OF COACH

Hayman promptly announced he will undertake a full-time job to make the Argonauts "part and parcel of the community" and "to the public will feel it is their football club. . . It's a two-year deal and there will be further developments."

Nothing was said, either by Hayman or Wright, about coaching plans for the next year. Current coach Frank Clair's two-year contract expires at the end of this season.

The executive strengthening came at a time when the morale both of the team and the fans could use a lift.

Argos are in an unfamiliar position in the cellar, with only a shred of a chance of reaching the Big Four playoffs. While their roster is littered with sparkling individual players, they have not clicked as a team and have lost 11 straight, winning only three of their 13 games.

MORALE LOW

There have been signs of unhappiness among the players. Billy Shipp, all-star lineman last year and popular with the fans, was traded off to Montreal and left with biting criticism of club morale. Earl Lunsford, assistant coach Bill Earley was fired amidst more rumors of dissension.

Reaction from press and public about the way the club was being run was bitter and there were suggestions that it should be sold.

An offer of Canadian Bums and Bassett to negotiate for the purchase, however, was rejected.

Hayman, after a stint at Syracuse University, came to Canada 24 years ago to help his friend Warren Stevens, then coaching the University of Toronto team. He stayed on to build a record no other coach has matched and when he "quit" pro football after the 1954 season he had become part owner and chief executive of Montreal Alouettes.

WON FIVE CUPS

A native New Yorker who grew up in Paterson, N.J., Hayman won the Grey Cup with Argos in 1933, 1937 and 1938. During the war he served with the RCAF and coached the RCAF Hurricanes to his fourth Grey Cup in 1942.

In 1946 he went to the Als, where he became associated with Gradeck. The two pair-a-like had whipped the organization into shape for his fifth Dominion championship.

Hayman quit coaching after the 1950 season, he moved into the front office as general manager, but disagreed violently with the club, of which he had meanwhile become part owner. He stepped out of the football scene after the 1954 season and has since been a business associate of Bassett.

And now that he's back in the game, where will the Argonauts go?

"I'm completely in charge," Hayman said. "I'm fully aware of the responsibility. I'll do my best to satisfy their confidence the club has placed in me."

Dodgers, Japs Play 3-3 Tie; The Duke Homers

MITO, Japan (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers continued to have their troubles with Japan baseball teams Friday and settled for a 3-3 nine-inning tie with the Kanto all-stars. An enthusiastic throng of 30,000 fans cheered their favorites, in a game that was called to allow the Dodgers to catch a train to Tokyo.

The barnstorming National League champions now have played six games on the tour, with 14 more to go. They have won three, lost two and tied one.

Duke Snider lashed his second home run of the trip with Peewee Reese on base in the fourth inning to put Brooklyn ahead 3-2. Brooklyn scored its third run in the sixth inning when Jim Gentile singled Jackie Robinson home.

Americans Win Riding Honors

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Frank Chapot and Billy Steinkraus of the United States turned in faultless rides Friday to win the No. 1 team trophy of the Pennsylvania National Horse Show.

The victory for the three-part international jumper competition was the sixth in seven years for the Americans.

The Stateside team of Tom Gayford, Douglas Hood and Douglas Cather of Toronto, Ontario, managed to win the third part of the three-event competition. Only perfect ratings by Steinkraus kept the Canadians from their first win in the week-long nursery. As it was, the Toronto team finished second in the event and tied for third with Ireland in totals for the three events.

The three-event totals for the 104th Cavalry Challenge Trophy given to the low scorer victory were: United States, four faults; Ireland, 12; Canada, 12; Mexico, eight; Canada II, 20. The winning score is based upon the lowest number of faults scored by each country in three separate events.

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Sweden has cancelled Sunday's soccer match against Hungary in Budapest because of the political upheaval there. Officials of the Swedish Federation said Friday another match against Rumania at Bucharest also has been scratched.

Leafs Find Defence Talent Lurking in Up Front Troops

By The Canadian Press

An injury to a hockey player is never a blessing, even in discipline. But Hugh Bolton's broken ankle at least served to show that Toronto Maple Leafs have additional talent lurking in the forward line of Toronto Marlies.

Ron Stewart was shifted back to defence Thursday night in Montreal to fill the gap left by Bolton's fracture. Coach Hap Day was delighted.

"He looked like the best defenceman out there in the game," said Friday night. "I'd be crazy not to let Stewart stay on defence now. He looked like he belonged there."

Leafs will be in need of whatever defensive punch Stewart can provide, since Bolton remains an unknown quantity for some time. Day wouldn't predict how long he would be out of action, but reports turned from a couple of months to the entire season.

COULD TAKE SECOND

If Stewart lives up to his early promises, he may help Leafs grab second place in the National Hockey League tonight. The Leafs' only a point behind New York Rangers, are hosts to last-place Chicago Black Hawks, who have only a tie to show for six starts.

Boston Bruins visit the Canadiens at Montreal tonight while on Sunday it's Toronto at New York and Canadiens against the Red Wings at Detroit.

Injuries also plague the Canadiens, who are not blessed with ready-made replacements in their own ranks.

Two players may be called up from the Marlies for tonight's encounter with the Bruins. The club wants Andre Pronovost, a winger with Shawinigan Falls of the Quebec League, and Gene Achtymichuk, a centre on loan to Quebec Aces.

The Habs are shy on reserves, having sent Guy Rousseau back to Montreal Royals and Gerry Goyer on to Ottawa Canadiens. Friday after a two-game tour with Canadiens.

Of the injured regulars, centre Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard and Montreal tonight while Bruins play it's Toronto at New York and Canadiens against the Red Wings at Detroit.

Injuries also plague the Canadiens, who are not blessed with ready-made replacements in their own ranks.

Guelph Wallops Champion Marlboros Ottawa Canadiens Edge Barrie Flyers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros, defending Memorial Cup champions, looked little like the team that last spring won the Canadian Junior title as they started their campaign for a third straight national crown Friday night.

The Marlboros, opening the 1956-57 season of Ontario Hockey Association Junior A season at Guelph were walloped 5-2 by the Biltmores.

The Dukes managed only 21 shots on Guelph's net and all but two were handled cleanly by Bruce Gamble of Port Arthur. Gamble kept the Dukes off the net for ten minutes of the third period as he held a 4-0 lead to protect up.

In the other curtain raiser Ottawa Canadiens took a 3-3 win from Barrie Flyers, but the closely-played contest failed to augur well for Canadiens' chances in the rarefied Senior A competition in which they play 20 games this season.

Penalties were partially responsible for three of the goals scored in the game at Guelph, and two of them went to the home team.

Eddie Shack, Gerry Webster, Bill Sweeney, Wally Chevrier and Bob Robinson were Guelph goal-getters, Bob Nevin and Doug Rimsty scoring for Toronto.

Coach's experience proved the decisive factor in its 3-3 win over Ottawa's Canadiens. Barrie led 1-0 on Murray Balfour's first-period goal, and added to it in the second when Dick Carter scored.

Then Barrie put on a drive that was rewarded by Jack Sugers' first goal, only to have Canadiens' return to the attack and a two-up on a shot by Ralph Backstrom. Rogers' managed another but it was the last for the Flyers.

Nineteen Will Start in Garden Stakes

By JOHN CHANDLER

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Nineteen two-year-olds were scheduled to answer the $118,210 question today in the fourth running of the Garden State Stakes for the richest purse in the history of thoroughbred racing.

Bold Ruler, the 8-to-5 favorite on the strength of his impressive victory two weeks ago in the $134,000 Belmont Futurity, can clinch two-year-old championship honors if he wins the 1 1-16-mile gallop.

This is the largest field since 20 horses lurged out of the starting gate in the inaugural running of the stakes in 1953, but the mutuel prizes are considerably greater. Last year the pot grossed $282,378 and the winner got $157,913. Career Boy for the $157,913 first money.

The winner this time will get a gross prize of $180,565 less deductions for nominating and starting fees.

TRIES NEW DISTANCE

Bold Ruler, owned by the Wheatley stable of Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps and trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, never has raced at a distance of more than 6½ furlongs. But he's got distance in the pedigree, his daddy being Nasrullah, sire of Nashua, and his dam being Miss Disco, a daughter of the old Alfred Vanderbilt router, Discovery.

There will be considerable support for the entry of Barbizon and Iron Liege, owned by the Calumet Farm of Mrs. Gene Markey. Barbizon is said to appear Calumet's best prospect per the Kentucky Derby next May.

The Calumet entry is listed as the 5-to-1 second choice, although both colts drew poor post positions, while Bold Ruler got the favorite No. 1 post spot, Iron Liege got No. 14, and Barbizon is No. 15.

OTHER HOPEFULS

Clifford Lussky's, Federal Hill. Fred J. Nally's Meiner, Gen. and Mrs. W. W. Krats's Prince Khaled and Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Take Note appear to have the best chance among the other candidates.

Purse in the race, with a 4:05 p.m. EST post time for television (CBS) and radio (NBC), are Arcullas California Kid, Ambehaving, Clem. Finlandia, Miquelet, Tryanull, Rabbit and Jaunty Pohn. Each will carry 122 pounds.

Riding assignments include Ted Atkinson on Bold Ruler, Willie Hartack aboard Barbizon, Al Cop on Iron Liege, Eddie Arcaro on Federal Hill, Willie Shoemaker on California Kid and Ralph Neves piloting Prince Khaled.

Whitby Defeats Pembroke 5-2; Three in Third

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

North Bay Trappers improved neither their shaky financial prospects, their chances of going to Moscow nor their standing in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, Senior A Southern Section Friday night as they lost 4-1 to Sudbury Wolves.

Trappers' league standing lost the least by the loss, dropping them into a first-place tie with Sudbury. But if their fans will not support a winning team, which Trappers have been, it is even more unlikely they will support a loser. Also, nothing less than a first-class team is likely to be picked to regain the world amateur championship the Russians now hold.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen and Stratford Indians remained deadlocked in first place in the Kitchener Hockey Association Senior B Western Division as they played to a 5-5 draw and in the same league Chatham Maroons got their first home win, a 10-9 victory over winless Owen Sound Greenshirts.

Whitby Dunlops maintained their position at the top of the Ontario Senior A Eastern Division as they took Pembroke Lumber Kings 5-3 on three last-period goals.

LOSE LEAD

Trappers' got their only goal in the first period of their game with Sudbury, as George Cassella's marker scored them into a quick-moving lead.

Sudbury replied with goals by Joe Zerlin, Frank O'Grady, Jack Beaudry and Gus Gustaveen.

The loss cost Trappers the services of right winger Chester Konecezny, sent to hospital after having gotten a deep gash over his left eye.

Dutchmen's draw was due to brilliant netminding on the part of Bob Sneddon, who turned back 41 shots, compared to the 29 his teamates fired at Ken Laufman's net.

The game went into overtime, tied 4-4 and Dutchmen took the lead on Ken Laufman's goal, only to have Jerry Walker tie it again with three minutes left. HIPPS HERO

Don Hope got two goals to lead the Kitchener marksmen, Art Hurst and Jack McKenzie notching single. Stratford scoring was divided among George Gillen, Joe Schertzl, Jim Unisc and Mickey Roth.

The new forward line of Alex Vitkelis, Jimmy Connelly and Ted Power was the big gun behind Chatham's win, each member getting a goal. Others were by Ernie Dick and Doug Kilburn. Maroons' markers were credited to Roy Leslie, Bert Glesbrecht and Bill Cardinal.

Whitby took a 2-0 lead by the end of the second on goals by Ted Degray and Don McHeth, but Bert Glesbrecht got Pembroke within one goal in the second and playing-coach Ike Hildebrand tied it in the third.

Then Tommy O'Connor, Frank Boselli and Cecil Ayles broke loose to put the game away for Whitby.

Student Swims 30-Foot Strait

VANCOUVER (CP)—University of British Columbia student Ian Tait poked fun at marathon swimmers Friday when Carol Gregory conquered the Strait.

The strait was the 30-foot lily pond on the lawn in front of the university library.

The 21-year-old coed made the icy swim "in memory" of the Marilyn Bell swim this summer of the Straits of Juan de Fuca.

Accompanied by UBC football coach Frank Gnup in a rowboat, Miss Gregory made the icy swim with 1,500 students looking on. Her swim was occasionally interrupted for feedings from a baby bottle.

Many Suggestions

International Soccer League May Be Organized in Europe

By KEN METHERAL
Canada's Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — British football officials, anxious to bolster falling attendances, are showing renewed interest in suggestions for a European soccer league.

An official of the Football League told this reporter:

"Whether we like it or not, the trend of events is beginning to show that the formation of an international league embracing top teams from a number of European countries, including Britain, may be worth study."

Adding significance to the remark is the fact the league, which for more than 60 years has governed professional soccer in England, has long resisted sporadic efforts to establish an all-British league, much less an international loop.

BIG ATTRACTION

Now club owners are facing the fact that their fans would rather watch games against European competition than contests between two league clubs.

Take, for instance, the case of the league champions, Manchester United.

On Aug. 29 fewer than 33,000 fans attended a league match against Birmingham City that ended in a draw. A few days later some 45,000 fans turned out in pouring rain to watch United trounce a mediocre Belgia club 10-0. Top attendance for a league match at old Trafford Stadium to date is the 53,500 fans who watched United down their cross-town rivals, Manchester City, on a Saturday afternoon. But a return mid - week game between United and the Borussia club from Dortmund, Germany, attracted a whopping 75,000.

The Football League so far has taken no official notice of talk about an international league.

"The question has never appeared on the agenda," says a league official. "But it certainly is something that individual members have in mind."

SCHEDULE IS PROBLEM

"One stumbling block is the size of the league—22 clubs in each of the first and second divisions, 44 in the two - pronged third. With first division clubs committed to 42 games each, they have little time left to schedule outside attractions.

"And you can imagine the howls of protest from other teams if top crowd pleasers like the Manchester United and Tottenham Hotspur were lost to an international formation. It would mean a complete reorganization of the league as we know it and something like that will undoubtedly take time."

Leslie McDowall, manager of Manchester City, says he would like to see an international knockout competition for the six top teams from each of a number of selected countries.

Another suggestion is for a 12-country, 24-team league comprising two teams each from England, Scotland, France, Italy, Spain, West Germany, Austria, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Russia.

Sir Stanley Rous, secretary of the Football Association, has suggested a start could be made by forming a "super division" from the league's top clubs in order that its members could have more freedom to schedule matches against European competitions.

"Changes in world football are inevitable," says Sir Stanley. "I hope England, both in leagues and clubs, will have the courage to lead the way."

Hunting Dogs—Boon or Bane

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solmar Tables.

There is no item of outdoor equipment that brings more pleasure to the heart of the sportsman than a good, well-trained hunting dog. By the same token, there is no single source of more grief and exasperation than a dog who is not well-broken and obedient...

A case in point is the buyer of one of our sporting goods stores. He was standing behind the counter one day in the early part of the season, helping me to admire a new shotgun—a new model 21 twenty gauge, complete with beaver tail fore-end and Monte Carlo stock, which had been put together for me at the Winchester factory.

"Go home and change your clothes," I said, "and let's give the woodcock a whirl this afternoon."

"No, I guess not," he replied.

"Come on," I insisted. "I've got the best dog you ever saw. He's a real wonder. I don't ask many people to shoot over Spot."

"Look, Jack," he said. "Time after time friends have told me that Spot is a fine dog, and I intend to have the day ruined by an unruly dog that runs in front of my line and swearing, beating dogs and so on does not make for a pleasant day. Now I'm not going to buy a license."

"Then, you've got a good dog. That's fine. You go hunt over him and I'll stay right here and maintain my peace of mind."

This sort of thing went on for a long time, but I stood him that and that Spot knew his business. What clinched the matter, at long last, was my offer to let him shoot my new Model 21. He agreed to go.

My old setter, Spot, is one of those once-in-a-lifetime dogs. In his seven years, he is a finished performer. The birds were his meat and drink. Moreover, Spot located some for us. I never saw him work better; he really is a professional.

At first my friend couldn't believe his eyes. The dog's confidence to commands, hand motions and whistle combined with his natural bird sense were indeed a revelation to a man who had never had a dog of his own. Then, when he shoots with me every fall. "I'm not saying that Spot's the best dog in the world," now states the buyer, "but I can tick the man who says he is."

It's a problem to acquire a hunting dog, regardless of breed. Most of them are spoiled when they are puppies. It is all right, of course, to have a fuss over a small pup. He should learn early in life, that you are his friend, his buddy, and the solution to an endless chain of puppy problems.

No more petting and pampering. Just a little of that will break down discipline. The only time he should be petted is when he brings you a bird or performs a lesson correctly. You can't teach him to hunt. Instinctively, he knows that. All you can hope to do is to teach him to obey.

LESSONS EVERY DAY

For this reason, a pup should be given lessons every day. Short lessons are best at first. Encourage him when he responds properly; reprimand him when he is instinctive or wilfully disobedient. Once he learns that you mean business, your battle is more than half won.

There are many good books on dog training. My preference is, of course, Dr. Logan Bennett's "Training Grouse and Woodcock Dogs." A man who raises and trains his puppy according to that book is bound to have the best dog possible from the material at hand.

Once the basic training process is over, the rewards are indeed many-fold. One day in the field, shooting over a well-trained bird dog who is a natural game finder, will more than compensate you for countless hours of patient training and yard-breaking.

Dogs with food, medical expense, kennel fees, etc., my old setter, Spot, has produced a good deal of money. But he has paid back that investment with countless pleasant hours in the woodcock and grouse covers that I shall forever be in his debt. A man who has not owned a good bird dog has missed a great deal in this life.

Tri-Nation Golf Tourney Opens In Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Teams from Canada, the United States and Mexico tee off today in opening contests of the Cup of Americas golf tournament.

This is the third such tournament in which the three nations have competed. The first was the first in Seattle in 1953, and Canada the 1954 tourney held in London, Ont.

Play today is under Scotch foursome rules, with players of each team taking turns hitting the ball. Each round men will count one point, ties half a point.

First match today pitted Jerry Magee of Toronto and Gregor Knudson of Winnipeg against Harvie Ward, San Francisco, and Billy Joe Patton, Morgantown, N.C., and Mexicans Juan Antonio Estrada and Armando Rivero.

Cards, Lions Put Unbeaten Records on Line

NEW YORK (AP) — Chicago Cardinals and Detroit Lions, only unbeaten teams in the National Football League, place their unblemished records on the line Sunday as the professional circuit swings into its fifth week.

Undefeated in four games, the surprising Cardinals return home after a two-week road trip for a return engagement with Washington Redskins. The Cardinals rule slight favorites to win.

The Lions, also with a 4-0 record, figure to have a tougher time, tackling Los Angeles Rams in California.

Four other games are scheduled. Chicago Bears meet San Francisco on the coast, the Bears encounters the Colts in Baltimore, New York Giants take on Philadelphia Eagles in Yankee Stadium and the Browns are host to Pittsburgh Steelers in Cleveland.

Golden Bears Whip Dutchies

KITCHENER (CP) — Maybe Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen need a little glue on their fingers. If they had been able to hang onto the ball instead of fumbling it all over the field Friday night, their hold on first place in the Ontario Rugby Football Union Senior standings might be more secure.

The Dutchies had seven fumbles and most of them were costly. They virtually handed Sarnia Golden Bears a three-touchdown lead in the first 19 minutes of play and the Bears turned the advantage into a 32-21 victory.

Fumbles also cost the Dutchmen a 26-26 deadlock with Sarnia a week ago.

As a result they cling to first place by only two points. Sarnia's win boosted the Bears total to 12 and pushed the Bears into a second-place tie with Toronto Beaches. London Lords trail with four.

To do justice to the Bears, it must be said that their defence was a factor Friday night. They stopped the Kitchener squad inside their 25-yard line half a dozen times as the Dutchies fought to cut down the deficit.

Paul Kuzey scored two touchdowns for the winners and Joe Gendron, Mat Robillard and Bill Robinson one each. Billy Graham scored two for Kitchener and added three converts while, Don Loucks got the other major.

TEEPS DROP TWO

Canucks Win Over Stampeders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Forward Motto McLean was one of three Vancouver Canucks players fined $100 each for their part a week ago for indifferent play. Friday night McLean's play was far from indifferent as he scored two goals to lead Canucks to a 5-3 win over Calgary Stampeders in a Western Hockey League game at Vancouver.

The win was the second against five losses for the Canucks who remain at the bottom of the coast division, a point behind Victoria Cougars who dropped a 4-3 overtime decision to Edmonton Flyers.

In Winnipeg, Brandon Regals blanked the Warriors 3-0 and remained tied with Edmonton for the leadership of the Prairies division.

Standard equipment on all 1957 DeSoto models is Chrysler of Canada's versatile new "Torque-Flite" drive. For 1957 DeSoto offers two series, the Firedrite and the Firedome. Each incorporates a four-door sedan, a two and four-door hardtop and a convertible.

The Firedrite series also includes a three-seat, four-door station wagon named the "Explorer", and a two-seater named the "Shopper". DID YOU HEAR THAT?

"About what?"

"Fellow talking about the NEW Star Weekly—I've heard about it, too. It's coming out in a new form."

"What do you mean, new form?"

"All sections in tabloid size, including a big magazine section in beautiful colors—and all printed in Rotogravure."

"Sounds exciting! By the way, Jim, did you read the Star Weekly, cover-to-cover?"

"I sure do—my wife reads most too—the kids get them free—but we collect them when they're in bed."

"Well I'm looking forward to the NEW Star Weekly—What do we owe it?"

"I hear it's out on the 29th."

Writer Opposes Pitting Two Shows Against Each Other

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Things I can do without on television: Commercials with dancers tripping gaily around the new cars. Does that sell automobiles?

The practice is now called swarch. Last week Don Larsen set one of the athlete of 1956. Sure, his no-hitter was something great, but 1956 isn't over yet and the Olympic Games haven't even been held.

Tributes to James Dean. Let his own acting write the tribute.

Wealthy people getting wealthier on quiz shows. The most absurd instance: Pitting Vincent Price against Edward G. Robinson.

Interviewers who needle public figures on TV press conferences. Get the facts, man, but there's no need to be nasty about it.

Ad agencies that turn up the sound volume when the commercial comes on. We can hear, we can hear!

Networks pitting two good shows against each other in the conscientious viewer has to keep flipping channels.

ADDED FLUFF

Shows that try to sneak four commercials into one half-hour. Enough is enough.

Newspaper dramas in which the reporter never checks with his office.

Camera men who are unschooled in football and lose track of the ball. Nothing is more exasperating to the old grad.

Operatic stars who feel they have to sing rock 'n' roll in order to hold an audience.

"Adult" Westerns in which the hero and heavy "talk it out" instead of using six-shooters.

Political announcements that use cartoons and singing commercials. It doesn't seem right to sell issues and candidates like tooth paste.

AT THE BELLE — Bing Crosby, Grace Kelly, Frank Sinatra and Celeste Holm are co-starred in MGM's happy hit of high romance, high hilarity and melody, in color and VistaVision, showing today for the last times at the Belle.

Eight Big Four Players Named For Trophy

TORONTO (CP) — Eight Big Four football players have been nominated by their clubs as candidates for the Jeff Russel Trophy, awarded annually to the player judged most valuable to his team.

said Friday night he has received this list of nominations:

Montreal Alouettes: quarterback Sam Etcheverry and end Hal Patterson.

Toronto Argonauts: fullback Dick Shatto and halfback Bobby Marlin.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats: fullback Cookie Gilchrist and Guard Vince Scott.

Ottawa Rough Riders: centre Ken Vargo and guard Kaye Vaughan.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Monday, Oct. 29, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Stars and the Moon's positions now stress more need for patience, unselfishness and cooperation with employers, employees, all good causes. Proceed wisely, unconsciously.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Day on the whole may not be as generous or easy to handle as you had hoped but results are mostly up to you and how you manage. Patience, understanding of others' problems a big help.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Emotional control will be important to achievement now; also to disposition, health. Familiar activities, work for which you are trained highly favored.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your Moon and Mars now urge a display of your geniality and understanding. You may gain in unexpected ways by simply being agreeable and listening to others. Guard your interests.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Day will produce results in proportion to your efforts. Under sensible management things should move along satisfactorily. Let not trifles or irritating persons divert you from your goals.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Use your keen imagination to cover the weak spots in this day and to brighten the outlook — which it will — if you give your best. Good intentions plus good work cannot be defeated.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — While the influences are not entirely friendly toward personal affairs today, matters for the general good can advance, and you can be happy in accomplishment. Plan for more rest in a happy week-end.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Better indications for familiar matters and finishing incompleted tasks than for undertaking new ventures. Regular daily routine can be painful if handled with your usual skill.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Some quiet influences now, some very good ones tomorrow. Whatever your schedule, tend to it with unified effort, patience and self-confidence.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Influences similar to those of Sagittarius and Scorpio. Be mindful of important "little things" as well as the big ones. Don't hesitate to tackle difficult problems, you can resolve many now.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — What does yourday demand? Heavy schedule? Your tempo should depend upon these demands. Clear up desk, bench, chores at home if possible so as to enjoy the weekend more.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — This should be a fairly responsive day for your duties. Tackle urgent matters first, then minor ones. You can have a productive time and a pleasant weekend if you work toward it.

You born today have many and varied talents, energy, great courage and stability can achieve at whatever you set out to do — if you stay with it. You have mechanical skill, art bands; may have an unusual bent for writing, science, acting, producing plays, pictures, etc.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

CENTENARY — A fine congregation and many friends from neighboring communities attended the anniversary services held in Centenary church on Sunday. The Rev. M. A. A full choir, led by Miss Lorna Hay, with Miss Eleanor Dobbs, organist, sang the anthems, "This Is My Father's Own" and "God's Love is My Sunshine".

Mr. McMullen based his sermon on simplicity and on the knowledge of Christian love from "Let this mind be in you which was in Christ Jesus."

Rev. A. C. McCallum gave a talk on "Jesus' Choice."

For the evening service Mr. McMullen spoke on his life's work as a missionary in Korea. Mrs. Ralph Loney, Miss Eileen Hancock, Miss Donna Lee and Miss Lorna Hay sang as a quartet the anthem, "Love of God," and the full choir rendered "The Peace of Prayer."

Spotted mums and late fall blossoms placed about the altar added a beautiful floral setting for the service.

CENTENARY ANNIVERSARY DINNER

Garden Notes

Directions for House Plant Care

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Fall is such a busy season that such items as repotting house plants is apt to be left rather late. So if you still have that chore still to do here are a few pointers.

The gardeners need different soil mixtures than the other types. Two parts sand to one of good garden soil with no humus is found to be good. It allows good drainage which is one thing they demand. They need less water than most other plants being full of sap and get along with little moisture but they do like a light airy position and will stand full sun.

All succulents are not of the cacti family nor do they all have sharp spines. You will enjoy adding some new ones to your present collection as to kalanchoes, sedums, stapelias, aloes, howorthias, and jade plants when you are shopping for new house plants. They need little care and will stand the dry air of the modern home and they are quite decorative.

REPOTTING AND PLANTING

When re-potting keep the roots of these plants close to the surface of the soil. They dislike deep planting. Open outside doors and allow fresh air to circulate in the rooms several times a week without having the plants in a direct draft.

Geraniums, begonias, Saint Paulias, coleus and almost all house plants do well in a potting mix made up of one-third each of humus garden soil and sand. The sand provides quick drainage so the roots do not stand in water. The humus is a spongelike material which holds the water in readiness for the roots as it is needed. The loam carries the plant nutrients. The humus may be screened compost, damp peat moss either shredded, or baled may be used. You will find plastic bags, or boxes of these materials in most hardware stores and florist shops.

Clay pots allow rapid moisture evaporation. Glazed pots hold moisture longer but care must be taken to see that too much water does not remain in soil at time of watering. The surface of the soil should be dry to the touch before more is added. Tip the pots on their side gently to drain out excess water if you suspect it is not getting away fast enough. Drainage holes in pots should be covered with a piece of broken clay pot, or flat chip of stone. When you use a container which has no drainage hole put a few pieces of charcoal on the bottom to keep the soil sweet and a layer of fine gravel to provide good drainage.

Wash the soil from the roots of plants to be re-potted. If the plant was pot bound (pot filled with roots) cut, or pull away some of the old roots. Straighten the remaining roots out a little to allow better growing conditions. Make the new pot one to three inches bigger if you wish to encourage new growth. If you wish to keep your plant at its present size repot in the same pot with new soil and feed sparingly. Give only enough to keep in healthy condition.

* Keep a half bushel basket, or a plastic bag full of the potting mixture in the basement or a storage room for use in the winter when you may have need of it to pot up cuttings, or seedlings.

SOUNDS WONDERFUL

"What sounds wonderful?"

"Well—I hear the complete Star Weekly is coming out in Tabloid form."

"You mean the Rotogravure Picture section?"

"No—that's already in Tabloid form, I mean the whole paper is to be in compact tabloid form—all pages ten and a half by fourteen inches."

"Oh I see—the magazine section too."

"Yes and that's not all, they tell me the Star Weekly is going to be new in many ways. New and modern make-up—New type that's easier to read—exciting and colorful."

"My—that does sound wonderful. When will we get it?"

"Out October 29th I believe."

Honored guests were the chaplains from Havelock, Belleville, Port Hope, Madoc, Bancroft, Picton and Lakeside. The Grand Chaplains and the chaplains were each presented with a corsage and given honored seats in the East.

Mrs. Laura Archard, Lakeside, delegate to Grand Chapter, reported that the Worthy Grand Matron, Mrs. Edna Anderson, has for her project this year the Florence Nightingale Home Board, the Benevolent Fund, the Estral Fund, and also a maple leaf, star centre brooch to be sold to the members.

At the close of Chapter the officers, carried out a beautiful reverent ceremony. Miss Joan Archard and Mrs. Walter Fox sang several suitable duets.

Two white Bibles, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Holdren, were received and placed on the alter. Mrs. Elliott each presented flowers in the five colors, and these were presented to the Grand Chaplain.

Mrs. Elliott addressed the chapter. She told of visiting the General Grand Chapter recently held in Grand Rapids, Michigan; also of her activities in Ontario. "The Order of the Eastern Star is always growing. Since Grand Chapter, held in Toronto, four new chapters will have been instituted by the first of November.

As this was her first official visit to a chapter in her own district she was most happy to be in Lakeside, where she has so many friends. Just to help her remember her visit, Mrs. Laura Archard, on behalf of the officers and members, presented her with a cornflower crystal dish and a flower centre.

The October committee served refreshments and all enjoyed a pleasant social time.

HUNGARY'S RED GOVT. YIELDS TO REBELS

Israel Mobilizes, Eisenhower Tries To Prevent War

Next 24 Hours Are Critical; Ben-Gurion Calls Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and his aides were reported gravely alarmed today at the possibility that war may shortly beset out in the Middle East.

Only the highest orner of Israeli - Arab statesmanship, they are said to feel, can avert a Middle East explosion. United States officials are described as looking mainly to Israel's Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion as the man who holds the decision.

With war jitters mounting, Israel was reported ordering her weekend to have mobilized from 150,000 to 220,000 men along its frontiers.

Eisenhower took note Sunday of this Israeli military build-up. He issued an unusual public appeal to Ben-Gurion that "no forceful initiative be taken which would endanger the peace."

The president said "we have not heard of such large - scale mobilization in countries neighboring that which would warrant such Israeli mobilization."

AMERICANS WARNED

As a precaution against possible hostilities, the state department advised from 7,000 to 8,000 Americans in the Arab states of Egypt and Syria to leave immediately unless they are "performing essential functions."

State Secretary Dulles's blunter after reference to the capital from Tucsa, conferred by telephone several times with President Eisenhower. He later summoned Israeli Ambassador Eban to the state department to back up Eisenhower's appeal with his own plea.

A reporter has official word the reporter later that it was impossible to overstate the seriousness of the Arab-Israeli tensions. He said the next 24 hours will be critical. The U.S. is urgently looking, he said, that Eisenhower's public moves will cause Ben-Gurion and Arab leaders to take a sober second look at where their policies are leading.

This official, who asked not to be quoted by name, said the Middle East picture is far more serious than at any time since the 1948 Israeli-Arab conflict.

NEGRO VANISHES FROM JAIL CELL, FEAR LYNCHING

Accused of Insult, Had Sought Custody

WILDWOOD, Fla. (AP)—A 32-year-old Negro farm laborer, placed in jail for protective custody at his own request after he was accused of insulting a white woman, disappeared under strange circumstances Sunday.

Jesse Woods was missing from his jail cell when Police Chief Ed Mullis returned from chasing two speeding cars. There were blood spots on the floor and a bunk was overturned. A day-long search failed to turn up any clues on the disappearance.

State Governor Leroy Collins ordered five highway patrolmen for a full report, and the FBI said it is looking into the case to determine if it has jurisdiction.

Adjutant-General Mark Lance was asked by Collins to offer any local guard assistance if needed. State highway patrolmen and a few deputies remained on duty all day and night.

TOWN REMAINS QUIET

Since daylight Sunday, however, all has been quiet in this little central Florida town 75 miles north of Tampa.

William Fordham, president of the Florida conference of the National Association for the Advancement of colored people, said at Tampa: "From what I've heard it looks like a lynching. If it was, we definitely will make an investigation."

Wiarton is 20 miles northwest of Owen Sound.

'We Have Won' Say Red-Eyed Rebels At Little Austrian Frontier Town

By GERALD LONG

HEGYESHALOM, Hungary (Reuters) — Hungarian rebels, their eyes red-rimmed with lack of sleep, told us today: "We have won."

As a tiny portable radio crackled out the news of Premier Nagy announcing the withdrawal of Russian troops from Budapest, they slapped each other on the back and laughed excitedly.

Then when the weary rebels were firm with the tones of confidence as they spoke to us in this little frontier town near the Austrian border.

Among them was a tall blonde girl. It was her 17th birthday. Like her insurgent comrades, she was wearing the red, white and green armband of Hungarian freedom.

A tall, gaunt man with a red beard led the rebels here. In halting German, he answered our questions. The monk-like hood on his raincoat was thrown back to reveal piercing, blue eyes.

He too had heard that shooting had stopped in Budapest. "But not because we have been beaten—because we have won," he said.

He told us that the rebels were in control of western Hungary. In up-to-date reports from Budapest opposite Russian troops were losing. This was before the government announcement that Soviet troops would be withdrawn.

"We are ready to sell our lives at his name—was cautious when we asked him about the new premier, Imre Nagy.

"We do not want Nagy till we find out if he was who called in the Russians." He paused for a moment as the rain beat down on the roof of the frontier post. Then he added, slowly, decisively: "If Nagy did that, he must go. . . ."

The others nodded.

"What sort of a government do you want?" we asked.

This time there was no hesitation.

"A government for all parties, representing all the people, the peasants, all groups in the country."

Hungarian soldiers, armed with Russian "burp" guns, were among the rebels. We were told that the whole Hungarian Army, frontier guards and customs men had joined the insurgents.

Hungarian Canadians Move On Capital to Protest Russian Action Against Their Homeland

OTTAWA (CP) — A throng of Hungarian Canadians converged on the capital Sunday for a peaceful but impassioned demonstration of protest against Russian action in their strife-torn homeland.

In a parade of some 600 automobiles containing about 2,500 persons, they drove by the Russian Embassy, being recognized after a 10 - mile jaunt from Vesey's Day, and then past the residence of Soviet Ambassador Dmitri Chuvakin.

There was no sign of life behind the drawn drapes covering all windows in the two-storey, ivory stucco home. For more than an hour the cars filed past with placards fastened to them bearing slogans: "Freedom for Hungary"; "Russians Go Home"; "Help out Hungarian Heroes"; "Co-existence Yes, Slavery—Never!"

Then the demonstrators massed in Confederation Square around the National War Memorial in the centre of the capital.

They came from Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor and other Eastern Canada centres. One Hungarian was reported to have made a demonstrator to have motored all the way from Winnipeg for this public recognition of their homeland's tragedy.

Their numbers were swelled by hundreds of Poles, Czechs, Ukrainians and others who escaped from their Curtain countries to start a new life in Canada.

At the War Memorial they sang national anthems and listened to rallying speeches. Three young girls in Hungarian native costume fainted as the tears of joy at last for Toronto and Montreal Hungarian groups comprising the vast majority of the demonstrators.

Many were Second World War veterans who escaped to Canada from the Communist rule and they fervently appealed for Canadian government assistance to form a battalion of volunteers to help liberate their homeland out of Hungary.

One of the leaders, Frank Marco of Montreal, said more than 100 Hungarians in Montreal have already volunteered. Efforts would be made today to get places to carry them overseas.

In a statement to be presented to External Affairs Minister Pearson, the demonstrators pleaded him for supporting United Nations condemnation of Russian intervention and urged the Canadian government to help bring about free elections in Hungary and East European satellites.

Anti-French Demonstrations Spread Across Arab World

PARIS (AP)—Anti-French demonstrations have spread across the Arab world in sympathy with Algerian rebels trying to wrest independence from French rule.

The latest flare-up in Egypt today than 60 injured in Sunday riots and other violence against the French outside Algeria. A 24-hour general strike to protest recent French actions in Algeria halted work in much of the Arab world. All the shops were closed in Algiers, slisted within Algeria. Wednesday deaths totalled scores 86, including 47 French soldiers and eight civilians; caught in a carefully laid Arab ambush south of Algiers.

The anti-French violence elsewhere apparently was the result of a call by the Arab League for the 24-hour general strike on behalf of five Algerian nationalist leaders captured by a French plane a week ago.

Arab mobs burned the French consulate in the Old City of Jerusalem, smashed windows of the French Embassy in Amman, Jordan, and staged raids on five French - owned holdings in the Syrian city of Aleppo.

Sixteen Arab civilians, two consulate clerks and several police were reported injured Sunday in the attack on the Jerusalem consulate. The consular staff took refuge on the roof and was rescued by Jordanian troops.

In Egypt, a town of 230,000 in Syria, a mob ran wild for three hours before the fire in four French mission schools and the French Institute in Cairo. Police joined into the crowd, killing one rioter and wounding 29.

The Syrian government declared a state of emergency and said "severe destruction in Cairo" would be court-martialled. It said the Aleppo demonstrations expressed "national feelings in support of Algeria's struggle" but that "certain foreign elements" used this national day to carry out acts of sabotage and disorder.

Two Toronto Seafarers Relive 57 Perilous Days on Atlantic

DARTMOUTH, England (CP)—Two Toronto seafarers, relishing the sense of relief that comes to those who have survived a disaster, described their 57 days spent drifting the weekend and relived the experiences of a peril-ous 57 days at sea.

In a small hotel near here, intrepid Bert Smith and his friend Alan Batterbury went over the detailed, day-by-day record of their craft 28-foot ketch Oronda, which finally reached England on Saturday, after a successful voyage across the Atlantic.

The two aircraft workers, who between their jobs for the high adventure of sailing across the Atlantic, were keeping their appointment to a hero's welcome and a reception by Mayor Bertie Lavery. Later, with their wives who called the Russians." He paused for a moment as the rain beat down on the roof of the frontier post. Then he added, slowly, decisively: "If Nagy did that, he must go. . . ."

The others nodded.

"What sort of a government do you want?" we asked.

This time there was no hesitation.

"A government for all parties, representing all the people, the peasants, all groups in the country."

Hungarian soldiers, armed with Russian "burp" guns, were among the rebels. We were told that the whole Hungarian Army, frontier guards and customs men had joined the insurgents.

During the weekend, a British television commentator sharply criticized the two men for sailing the ocean with rafts, yawls and dinghies. Smith, 32, replied angrily. Daniel Earson, acknowledged the courage of such tyro sailors, but said he thought their sense of foolhardiness underlie their deeds.

Most reporters have left the craft that Batterby or Smith fit the picture.

The Oronda had to be towed here from Salcombe, Devon, where it arrived Saturday morning with two sick news reporters and brothers Batterby and Smith.

Her flags flew proudly, but the name was scarcely legible since salt seas and sun had all but erased it. The hull was battered. "We upended a bit of a welcome," Batterby told the mayor. "But when we saw the crowd here I can tell you I was near to tears."

The Oronda set sail from Toronto and left Montreal on June 14. The ketch put into North Sydney, N.S., with a leak and started out across the Atlantic Sept. 1.

BALLET DELAYED

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — For the first time in its 200-year history, the Royal Danish Ballet was late Saturday night in starting a performance. Some 4,000 persons gathered to watch the show had to wait until 9:35 before the curtain went up. A spokesman said "backstage difficulties" caused the delay.

POLISH REGIME FREES CATHOLIC CHURCH PRIMATE

Cardinal Confined To Monastery 3 Years

By COLIN FROST

WARSAW (AP) — Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski made his first public appearance today since his release from house arrest. A crowd of cheering, singing Polish Catholics greeted him at his palace.

The Cardinal, Roman Catholic Primate of Poland, walked out on the balcony above the main entrance to the palace, spread his arms and said:

"Peace be with you."

The crowd responded: "And with thy spirit."

Then the Cardinal, clad in black robes and red hat, spoke to them briefly.

He called for a mature approach to Poland's problems. He asked that there should be no demonstrations and no disorders.

RESUMES FUNCTIONS

A government communique said Sunday night the 55-year-old church leader had returned to Warsaw and resumed his church functions.

The cardinal was confined to a country monastery in September, 1953, after he had vigorously campaign against Communist infringement on religious freedom. The government of Premier Boleslaw Bierut, a leading Stalinist who died last March, accused Cardinal Minderenty of Hungary, serving a life sentence since 1949 after being convicted of treason against the Communist government, and Adolph Cardinal Stepinac of Yugoslavia, "conditionally" released in 1951 from a 16-year sentence for alleged collaboration with the Nazis and confined to his little home town of Krasic.

TALKS TO MINISTER

The Polish government said Cardinal Wyszynski, before his return to Warsaw, conferred with the new justice minister, Zenon Klisko, in a result of their talks the communique added, a committee for government and church representatives soon will discuss outstanding issues between the church and state.

Now that the cardinal has won his freedom, the primate is expected to be discussed is the church's demand for state help for religious education. This presently is banned in Polish schools, and may be given only in churches.

Russian Troops Quit Budapest Under Agreement

Secret Police Dissolved, Guilty Will Be Punished

VIENNA (AP)—Radio Budapest announced late today an agreement has been reached for rebels to turn in their arms and for Russian troops to quit Budapest.

At the same time, the government-controlled radio announced Interior Minister Ferenc Munnich had dissolved the Communist secret police.

Munnich announced that secret police guilty of torture and opposition would be punished.

The agreement concerning the surrender of rebel arms was concluded by Defence Minister Karoly Janza. It was not announced who negotiated for the forces of the rebellion.

The broadcast said the agreement provided that Russian army forces will leave Budapest 24 hours after rebel weapons have been turned in.

Only a short time before this broadcast, Tory Lord Boyd-Carpenter, Lloyd told the House of Commons in London the Soviet Union is pouring more troops into Hungary.

A dispatch from Endre Marton, accredited Press correspondent in Budapest, said the government had virtually capitulated to a revolt led by a few thousand daring young men. He said the most important concession in the pact was an acknowledgement that the revolution was "caused by the grave crimes of the past decade."

FIGHTING EARLIER

But only a short time before the broadcast, fighting was still still fighting in Budapest.

Radio Budapest reported shortly after 10 a.m. that there had been shooting in the capital during the night and that "there still are elements who want to disturb the peace."

The broadcast added that "armed workers' units" searching houses for arms were met with gunfire.

The rebels claimed complete control over a strip of Western Hungary 100 miles long and 50 miles wide, only 19 miles west of Budapest at its northern limit. Rebel leaders announced they are ruling all over Western Hungary and in cities throughout the land.

Saw Russian and Hungarian Tanks Look at Each Other, Trigger-Tense

By PETER HOWARD

VESZPREM, Hungary (Reuters)—A 19-year-old Russian and Hungarian provinces west of the Danube I saw Soviet and Hungarian tanks facing each other, trigger-tense and silent.

I made my way into Hungarians and Russians, and had a Soviet soldier thrust his hands in a machine-gun and saw him shot in a gun duel which would have cost him a western world.

Early in my tour I saw signs of Soviet withdrawal from Veszprem which, during the next 18 hours, showed signs of retreat again in ever more drastic form.

The revolutionaries can roughly be divided into two groups, the Communist (Titoist) and anti-Communists.

Arguments and counter-arguments I heard among the revolutionaries were all about the Communist view to the crowd.

In Gyoer, Veszprem and every other town and village I visited, the people had torn down the red stars on Soviet war memorials.

They had torn out the hammer and sickle emblem from the centre of the red, white and green Hungarian flag and plastered the national crest over the hole.

Russian Troops Quit Budapest Under Agreement

Secret Police Dissolved, Guilty Will Be Punished

(This report on the battle of Budapest by Associated Press correspondent Endre Marton was delivered in Vienna Sunday night by a traveller from Hungary. The regular news dispatches from inside Hungary still were closed Sunday)

BUDAPEST (AP) — Fighting in Budapest now appears to be coming to an end gradually.

The government realized at last that the insurgents would not surrender to Russian troops. Special Hungarian-Army patrols now are occupying isolated groups of rebels to negotiate terms of surrender.

Budapest radio's broadcast Sunday morning said these army patrols are working together with representatives of the revolutionary university students—and this is a new one—with Cardinal now that the two sides—I mean the Russians and the rebels, not the Russians—will find ways to reach an understanding.

Saturday was quiet, the first quiet night since the revolt started Oct. 23. Then there was heavy shooting on Moscow Square in front of Radio, still occupied by the rebels.

CLAIM VIOLATION

The radio Sunday morning said: "Last months there of having violated a truce and firing on Russian troops. Actually it said, rebel snipers perched on roofs have prevented Russian withdrawals from collecting dead or wounded. I know only that guns were being fired—and I think quite certainly have no guns in Moscow Square.

Now at 1 a.m. I hear sporadic gunfire. There is a curfew, but the streets are crowded and cars are ordered to open between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Saturday—despite desperate appeals, the promise of amnesty, and a new agreement with such anti-Communist figures as Bela Kiraly and Pal Maleter—fighting was still going on in Budapest.

I had the impression that, "Side," as the population calls the insurgents, were not in a mood to give up.

But the fighting doubtless was less intense. The rebels' tanks concentrated on the Buda side were regrouped Friday night, when I saw long columns of them leaving Buda. On a tour on the right shore of the Danube Saturday morning, I did not meet any Russian tank and not a single Russian soldier, except those guarding their crews guarding the bridgeheads.

REFUSED TO GIVE NAME TO POLICE

A shoplifter was apprehended in Loblaws store Saturday.

An alert member of the staff who had been following the suspicious movements of a customer, stopped the culprit in the act of making a hasty exit and relieved him of a clothesline held determingly between a waterfront of textile.

A little black dog of no given address finally disgorged the line admitting he was fit to be tied. He said he was motivated by a desire to give his master enough rope to hang on but refused to give his name to police.

81-Year-Old Man Dies in Fire At Rest Home

TORONTO (CP) — An 81-year-old man died early Sunday of a fire in a west-end Toronto rest home. Sixty-two other elderly persons were led or carried to safety by nurses, firemen and bystanders.

Frederick George Wooton was found on his bed at the Craig Rest Home. He died a few feet from the open door he was trying to reach.

Henry Knox, Wooton's roommate, suffered second-degree burns and Mrs. Emily Pepper, 76, was overcome by smoke.

The fire in the three-storey Maynard Street building was discovered on her rounds by nurse Marguerite Bonnet.

She attempted to enter a room on the ground floor but was driven back by a "sheet of flames." She and another nurse turned in an alarm and began to lead patients out of the buildings. They later were transferred to other rest homes.

Damage was estimated at $6,000. Cause of the fire was unknown.

Hatchery-Raised Speckled Trout Cost $2.50 Each

TORONTO (CP)—Each hatchery-raised speckled trout on Ontario angler puts in his creel costs the province's conservation fund $2.50, the chairman of the Conservation Council of Ontario says.

That conclusion was one reached in a three-gear study of the province's conservation problems.

Dr. J. R. Dymond told the annual meeting of the Lake Simcoe zone Federation of Anglers and Hunters (!) today.

The report, to be sent to provincial authorities, suggests that the cost of the fish could be cut in half if, instead of stocking streams with fingerlings, legal size fish were released just before and during the fishing season.

Pilot Killed

HAMILTON (CP) — FO Ronald Brice, 35, died Sunday shortly after he was pulled from the wreckage of his plane which crashed in a field after shearing off a high voltage power line in an attempted emergency landing.

Brice, a reserve pilot here, is believed to have been returning to his base, the Hamilton Flying Club at Mount Hope airport. The airport was closed in by fog and it is thought he was attempting to find a field to set down.

Surviving are his widow and four children.

Police Blotter

Damage amounting to approximately $300 resulted Sunday morning in a two-car collision at the corner of Alberta and Octavia streets when cars driven by Charles Doyle, 33 Bridge Street West, and Bernard Hearns, R.R. 3, Frankford, collided. "Damage was about equally divided between the two cars," police said.

Police had a comparatively quiet weekend accident-wise with only two mishaps reported.

Three or four drunks were rounded up and lodged in the cells to sober up. At the Dussek Bros. plant on Station street a number of windows were found broken, apparently the result of good aim on the part of stone throwing juveniles.

Defence Rests Case Without Calling Accused

SUDBURY (CP) — Eli Guay, jointly charged with his wife, Christina, in the June 22 slaying of William Snider, a 78-year-old Spanish River recluse, was not called to testify before the defence rested its case Saturday.

Snider's body was found in his tumbledown shack June 25. He had been beaten to death.

Earlier Saturday, Christina Guay testified her husband's half-sister, Florence Guay, 37, got one to the old man. She said her husband waited outside in his car. She and her sister had entered the cabin after they had plotted to rob the old man and persuaded Guay to drive them there, intending to start conversation by offering to sell him some clothes.

She said their plan was for Florence Guay, 37, to get friendly with the old man so they could steal his money.

Christina said she left the cabin when things seemed to be going according to plan and had rushed back in when she heard her sister-in-law calling for her.

She testified that Snider "was on the floor" and "she, Florence, jumped on him with her knees."

Earlier in the trial, it was Florence who said only Guay and his wife attacked the old man.

Dr. R. M. Mitchell of Sudbury, said Snider died of 19 rib fractures.

He said it was possible for the fractures to have been caused by a 116-pound woman repeatedly jumping on the old man, but so many fractures usually were received only by a person "of force which is very great and continuous."

"MORE LIKELY"

To crown attorney E. D. Wilson's query, he replied that a person weighing 218 pounds would be more likely to cause such fractures.

Evidence was heard earlier that Florence Guay visited Christina early in July while Eli Guay weighed 218 pounds.

Mrs. Guay testified that when she returned to the cabin to find her sister-in-law jumping on Snider, Florence told her Snider had made an indecent proposal to her and had threatened her with a knife and jabbed her in the leg when she refused.

Charge Strikers Tried to Force Trucks off Road

BRANTFORD (CP) — Company officials Saturday charged members of the Canadian Textile Workers Union Ind. with trying to force company transports off the highway last Thursday as the strike at the Harding Carpet Ltd. continued.

Company counsel Allan Jones said the company started shipping carpets by truck last Monday. He said a car followed each truck to No. 6 Tuesday and Wednesday two cars followed the truck.

On Thursday, three cars and a big truck assisted the pickets by trying to force one trucks off the highway between Brantford and Oakville."

Mr. Jones said he called provincial police but didn't receive any satisfaction.

Police Inspector I. R. Robbie of Watertown said he knew nothing about the situation until Mr. Jones called Saturday.

"However my men will see that the Highway Traffic Act is enforced."

Attorney-General Roberts of Ontario said: "If any particular individual wants to be charged of careless driving, that can be done without a police officer being present."

HUNGARIAN

Fighting started at 6:30 a.m. Saturday in the Maria Terezia barracks area which includes many of the university clinics. There, again, it was impossible to determine who the huge T-34 tanks were fighting. It appeared, as so often during this uprising, that a regular army contained army was fighting with all the sophisticated weapons against a handful of boys armed with a few rifles, sub-machine-guns, hand grenades and "Molotov cocktail" bottles.

Some of the tanks in that area apparently ran amuck Saturday. They fired their cannon and machine-guns at buildings on both sides of the road and forced the university surgical clinic to evacuate its badly battered building.

The clinic, where a great number of wounded Russian soldiers are being treated, had to move with all its patients because of its senseless fire from Russian tanks.

Many Budapesters, especially in areas where fighting was or is the heaviest, have moved into cellars.

The Russians had disappeared from Buda Saturday — why, of course, I do not know.

I visited two resistance centres once on Moscow Square, the heart of Buda, and the other on Zsigmond Morics Circus on Buda's south side.

Until noon, both were in the hands of triumphant kids, mostly high school age, who seemed to care.

On Moscow Square, some of the insurgents kept watch, perching on roofs. The south of all streets on Moscow Square were barricaded with everything ranging from benches to an overturned railway car the boys had pushed there on a streetcar track from the nearby southern railway station.

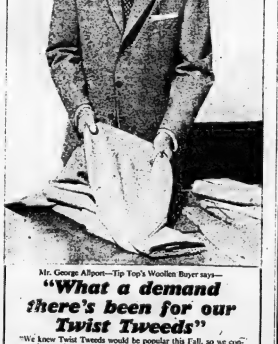
The enemy was not sighted. Only a slow reconnaissance plane circled over the square for a while.

Grand Champion Steer Brings $1.25 A Pound on Hoof

OTTAWA (CP) — More than 20,000 persons attended the weeklong Ottawa Winter Fair which ended Saturday night, the largest attendance in the fair's 58-year history.

Officials cited the RCMP musical ride, back after a three-year absence, as one of the main drawing cards. The Collseum was sold out five of the six nights. The 23-man ride put on eight performances.

The grand champion steer, was 883-pound Black Aberdeen Angus shown by Felix McGaughran of Cobden, Ont., was bought by the Morgate Meat Company, Montreal, at $1.25 a pound on the hoof.



The reserved grand champion steer, a 1,053-pound Hereford owned by James Riddell of Renfrew, sold at 97 cents a pound to Steinberg Ltd.

Pope Appeals To World to Pray For Hungarians

VATICAN CITY. (AP) — The Pope issued an encyclical letter Saturday calling upon the Christian world to pray for peace and justice for the people of Hungary, which "is torn apart by conflict."

The encyclical, addressed to Roman Catholic bishops throughout the world, referred to the "very sorrowful events which have struck the people of Eastern Europe, especially Hungary, very dear to us," and called for public supplications to obtain justice and peace for them.

It was the first encyclical the 80-year-old head of the Roman Catholic church has issued in more than a year.

He referred to Hungary as "bloodied by a horrible massacre . . . which profoundly moves our paternal soul and not only ours but certainly also those of all who hold in heart the rights of civilization, human dignity and the liberty owed to individuals and nations."

BIGNESS IS ELECTION ISSUE

A charge that big business is growing bigger and small business is disappearing is the core of the small planks of the Democratic election campaign.

Adlai Stevenson has accused the Republicans of "doing nothing to halt the growing monopolies which is threatening the extinction of small business."

"The Republicans," he asserted, "have confused genuine friendship for business with a snuggling intimacy towards a few of its giants, with the result that the big have grown bigger and the small are disappearing. I reject the idea of an America in which everyone is on the payroll of a few giant corporations."

In an effort to offset the reaction aroused by the drift to bigness, Eisenhower is offering tax reductions and other benefits to small business.

Although Mr. Stevenson's analysis is confirmed by the ascendancy of the big and the elimination of the small, in almost every field of manufacturing and to an increasing extent in the growth of retail outlets, he is obviously playing for votes in blaming the Republicans and intimating that his party could reverse the gravitation to bigness.

President Eisenhower's offer of reduced taxes to small business is also little more than a window dressing in that the underlying reasons for the decline of the individual enterprise go far deeper than a matter of high or low tax payments.

As long as mass production, mass buying of materials, breadth of distribution, centralized management and dominating advertising are paramount factors in the ascendancy of the giant corporations, neither Mr. Stevenson nor Mr. Eisenhower will be able to do much for the small businessman without completely upsetting the free enterprise applecart.

As much as Mr. Stevenson and others may deplore the centralization of industry, it appears that modern developments have little place for unbridled individualism. Even the minority who enjoy comparative freedom of expression in the professions are becoming increasingly beholden to their associations and governments.

In eliminating their rivals and taking over the fruits of the market the giant corporations are cornering a preponderant share of the national wealth.

From this position of strength they are able to give more people a higher standard of living than ever before in history.

Since the average voter wants nothing so much as good pay with minimum worry or responsibility, it is doubtful if he rejects the idea of working on the payroll of a giant corporation as strongly as would Mr. Stevenson.

PARKS LANDS SCANDAL

The North York Central Community Council, a ratepayers' association, has accused the North York Township Council of selling land intended for park purposes to subdividers and of making these sales at "bargain prices." The ratepayers' group seems to be more highly interested in the prices charged subdividers than about the actual sale of the lands. It says that the township should have received at least a million dollars from the sale of these lands, but township records show that they received only $139,000. The plain truth of the matter is that the township should not have received a cent from the sale of such lands, because these lands should not have been sold. The conflict in the lands is little further, it seems to us that perhaps they were not sold.

Now for the explanation.

Under legislation passed some four or five years ago, five per cent of the area of new subdivisions must be set aside for use for park purposes, or municipalities can accept, in lieu of land, money which must be used only for the purchase of park lands. The object of this law is excellent; it aims at guarding against a duplication in new subdivisions of a common problem in the old areas, where there is no play space for children, or adults.

The provision that the municipality may accept money in lieu of land is reasonable, making the scheme more flexible and not saddling the municipality with many useless parks where one larger park might serve a more useful purpose.

But it is unthinkable that the Ontario Legislature, when it passed this measure, conceived municipalities acquiring land and then selling it again. This leaves too many loopholes. It is possible, of course, that the North York Council never did any such thing, for the North York ratepayers refer to Council selling the land "back to subdividers" and this may be the ratepayers' interpretation of the acceptance of money for land.

This, however, is not the only criticism which the ratepayers have of the policies followed in connection with these lands. They charge that the amounts of land accepted for parks in recent months has been negligible, "if we except the large acreage of water course and other derelict land." Once more, it is inconceivable that the members of the Legislature intended that the municipalities be saddled with worthless land for "park" use. But if subdividers have been able to meet their obligation under the law in this fashion, the Ontario Government must screen them. In one Ontario city, within a few months after the legislation was enacted, the five per cent of a new subdivision deeded to the municipality consisted of steep river bank, unsuitable for anything except tobogganing, with a swift river as a hazard at the foot of the hill. This subdivision plan was drafted by professional authorities, under the Ontario land development plan.

KNICKERBOCKERS

He never stepped from short to long,
He'd had no knickerbockered youth.
They'd dressed him as a grownup strong,
He'd never passed from stage to stage.
The only trousers that he'd had
Resembled those upon his dad.
Those merchants' little dressing rooms,
Where youth can change his garb unseen,
And school lads manhood . . . blooms,
Like cells along the wall he'd seen.
But, with a grownup's suit to don,
He'd never left his boyhood there.
Boys dressed as boys when I was small,
And there was raiment made for men,
And that great change that is appealed then
The day a boy becomes a man.

Pointed for a Partridge

By John Gould in the Christian Science Monitor

October dawned bright and clear in these parts, although it looked just like the last of September, and I didn't pay much heed to the change. But later, when the significant difference was called to my attention, I went around and looked. The opening of the bird season is observed faithfully and religiously in this town, repairing my spring. You may remember that my plan, two days during that long cold spell we had last winter, and we were without heat, water for time enough for me to resolve it would not happen again. I started in special and preventive alterations as soon as the frost went out of the ground. I didn't wait the last because it isn't the kind of job that needs rushing, and I had all summer.

The spring is on the side hill back of the buildings and has been pretty and abundantly flowing excellent water for a long time. Grandfather, or maybe it was my father, fenced it up when he was a young man, using oxen and hired help, and because it is a natural material and muscular complexion which suited the locality the walls of the boulders are as big as pianos. Then when I came along I put a plank across to the house without disturbing any of it, and that was all, with the electric pump was in business.

Granny's job is still all right up to a point, but in order to cap the thing over with cement I had to go about a ways — and level back. I had to put in a plank form and then I had to bring able cover, designing the thing so I could get my planks out after it had set. Practice. My aim was to fix the place so freak winters wouldn't bother it, and it is all of. And having no oxen and hired hands, I fixed up elementary physics book, dawdled along as I felt like it, and found the whole job interesting and entertaining summer diversion.

I built a tripod and chainfall with which I hoisted out the rocks I needed, and I built also a ramp so I could back the tractor-trailer beneath them and load them on. The ramp worked fine, and as September waned I could see that the work was finished in ample time.

So on the first day of October I was down inside the spring, standing on a plank platform just above the water line, pointing up the masonry just prior to setting the cement cover, making sure my new work would join properly with the old. Then I went and I came up out of the hole to find a beautiful doe pointing me. She was very close, and just as I discovered her my dog, Flavius Josephus, let out a toot and a snooze and exhibited great interest in her presence.

The doe was a fine one, and he was glad. The other dog, being a bird dog, now pointed me so idly and we looked each other in the eye warily, Prince and I, for a couple of minutes, but she knew her obligations and with a whole front yard to run in she felt safe as a ramrod she pointed at me inflexibly. It is a fine thing to have a dog to find. In Maine October, that somebody's bird dog thinks you are a partridge.

I looked beyond the bird dog's flaming ear and there was the master steadily coming my way, fowling piece at the ready. He was clearly shortsighted, and was peering eagerly. I could see he didn't mean to blast away until he might see something more solid to shoot. Beats the average general direction.

I called a cheery greeting to the man and he stopped in surprise that he was surprised to hear a partridge speaking. Then he was quickly recovered and said it was a lovely day, an observation to which I made appropriate reply, and he was out to do a little hunting.

The dog remained at a sharp point, ignoring even Prince and, after a little while which he blew lustily, but being one of those whistles that you can hear it didn't make any noise. His dog paid no attention and continued to point at me, evidently expecting me to take off and fly over the nearest hill. Prince, who has sensitive ears, ran off at once into the woods and I haven't seen him since. Anything louder than the jarring of a cookie bowl gives offense to him.

The hunter then felt his way along by setting each foot out front gingerly and worked his way up to the spring and said I think he might have fallen in if his dog hadn't been in the way. He was wearing a fine silver-gilt hunting costume spank out of the catalogue, with ample slipper game pocket, belt for an axe and utility cord, and had on at least thirty dollars worth of boots. His cap was lively red, adorned with a fish hook and other emblems showing crossed shotguns with leaping deer and salmon, and a cock pheasant running in a field of wheat. "Don't fall in the spring," I said.

He said, "I wonder, can you tell me where I got this thing locked tight?"

Then I realized it was now October, and our sylvan acres would be populated daily by gentlemen who expect a dog to point up and fly savvy if he is pointed. I suggested to this gentleman that the best exercise would be down along the east line, starting at the big pine and working around the swamp. I never knew any birds to be there, but there is growth in too thick to swing a gun is gay should appear, but it is a fine place to let new boots to see if they leak. I always send hunters in there, and they start me. (Last year only four times did we have to form a posse and go in after lost hunters, but twice it was for the same man).

This gentleman thanked me, stumbled over my sheepdog, patted his compass, and took off with the dog stepping every ten feet to point. After he was gone I went up to the house and dug out my red coat. I don't see how I shall sing songs, loudly, at my work. Hobbled songs.

Bureaucrats' Theme Song

Kingston Whig-Standard

Whenever there is doubt in a bureaucracy as to what the people co-opt together and form a committee. This can be performed by any one of a bright young operator, into a sub-department, maybe even a department.

We know a man in the Middle East Forces in Cairo (prior to Montgomery's arrival there for the battle of El Alamein) who earned promotion from second lieutenant merely by sending out a questionnaire on camouflage to all units and returns down to platoon and troop level.

Now there is a song which, according to The Recorder, a London weekly, is being sung in the caverns of Whitehall, and no doubt in the corridors of the Parliament Hill. It goes like this: One Civil Servant, with nothing much to do,
Wrote a Memorandum, and then there were two.
Two Civil Servants, over cups of tea,
Formed a Working Party, and then there were three.
Three Civil Servants, drafting formal galore,
Someone whispered "Planning," then there were four.
Four Civil Servants found they couldn't agree
Without Co-ordination, and then there were five.
Five Civil Servants settled down to fix
The size of their establishment, and then there were six.
Six Civil Servants in a bureaucratic fuss
Needed technical advice, and then there were seven.
Seven Civil Servants set out to demarcate
The sphere of their activities, and then there were eight.
Eight Civil Servants attempted to assign
A joint responsibility, and then there were nine.
Nine Civil Servants — very busy men,
Just whisper: "Cut then ten per cent." You'll find they've grown to ten.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Our economy appears to depend upon thinking things up for people to want.

It would be interesting, indeed it might be revolutionary, if we could survey all over the world that would show the number of us who earn our living by making goods or rendering services that people could do without.

In a pinch, we can do without all kinds of things. And when the pinch comes there is something close to disaster when we discover how many of us have been engaged in non-essential activities.

We should therefore be far more respectful than we are of people who think things up, whether they be designers of gadgets or clothes or highly paid designers in the automotive industry who dream up weird looking vehicles to stick up from the hind fenders of our new cars. Maybe we who grow wheat or feed hogs or repair shoes or sell gasoline at crossroads are inclined to think a little lofty with regard to skittish women and skittish men who think up new ways of fashions. Possibly those of us who consider ourselves fairly practical tender similar down to earth services to mankind find a little impatience to deal with those who spend their whole lives designing buttons or writing jingles commercials or manufacturing lamp shades consisting of butterfly wings.

The best way to get this whole thing clear in our minds is to take a walk through a department store and deliberately looking at the things we do not want. There are hundreds, there are thousands of them. Most of them we wouldn't have as a gift. We can take such a walk through a crowded department store and say, thanking Heaven for all the stuff we don't want. But we don't do it. We don't think that there are people who do want these fantastic bagatelle things, or merchandise, or else they wouldn't be there on sale.

Now if the gift who makes lamp shades out of butterfly wings were to lose her market, the fellow who makes hogs would find the price of hogs falling. And if the composer of bagatelle essentials went out of business, the bank manager would soon be accosted. And thoughtfully anybody in the height of fashion ever rides in his car, the man who drives would notice a falling off of passengers, even his plain-clothes detectives become passengers if the designers of frenzied fashion were laughed out of business.

We are all tangled together in a wonderful dizzy economy based not on things that we need but things by mines', unless but upon the whim and fancy and the passing fad of people who think things up for people to want.

Insidious Joint Disability

What Dr. Osler called chronic rheumatism connotes an insidious, usually in persons who have passed the middle period of life. The first cases of joint disability the trouble still comes on insidiously, and the victim in past fifty, but if you call it plebeian chronic rheumatism today, the patient will probably have no further truck with you. What? And all his friends getting "relief" of the very latest miracle medicine for their arthritis!

In order to understand clearly what we are talking about, and rather to prevent misunderstanding, it may be well to define these terms as accurately as we can:

Arthritis means joint inflammation—arth-itis.

Rheumatism doesn't mean anything. That is to say, there is no disease or condition a physician can identify by the name. Rheum (watery fluid) is the watery discharge from mucous membranes, especially from eyes and nose, called rheum.

The classical signs of inflammation are heat, pain, redness and swelling (color, dolor, rubor, et tumor).

In most cases of joint disability developing insidiously, there is little swelling, little redness, no tumor, but just pain and stiff ness.

If there are no signs of inflammation, it is senseless to call the joint trouble "arthritis." And to call it rheumatism is to admit that you know or care to give a hoot what ails you.

Mind, now, I'm not deluding in the practice of medicine distinctions. I'm just trying to teach people with joint disability what ails them and what to do about it.

You may want to ask me this question: What I would call your joint disability if it isn't arthritis or rheumatism. You may if you don't get peevish about it. And I'll tell you I don't know you until I've known your history and examined your affected joint or joints, probably backward, for a few films. You see, even after we have eliminated arthritis and rheumatism, we must still consider diseases of the joint resulting from old injuries, strains or sprains. This is a fairly common cause of slight rheumatism or arthritis.

If my examination warranted exclusion of trauma (injury), then I'd come right out with my diagnosis; and if you had the intelligence the average layman has about health matters, you'd probably get out of my office in a fast walk and never hardly standstill (age 35).

The cause of the rheumatic is nutritional deficiency through the years from childhood up to breakfast.

And tell me, did you have an adequate breakfast today?

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

RULES THAT NEVER FAIL

"Someone once asked Alice Freeman Palmer the secret of her happy life. Her reply was: "Here are three simple rules. Obey them, practice them, and you will be happy. But mind, you must not skip a day!

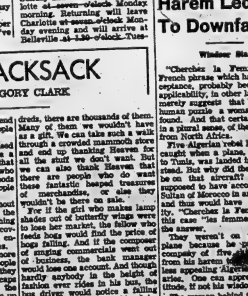
"The first rule," she said, "is this: Commit something to memory every day, something good. It need not be much, just a bit of a poem or a Bible verse; three lines will suffice, but you must do it. The second rule is: Look for something beautiful every day. And remember this is to be done each day. And my third rule is: Do something for someone. Do something for somebody every day. It need not be a great thing; but do something helpful for somebody other than yourself. Do not fail to do it. And I can assure you, it works."

Here is for beauty, thinking upon beautiful things, helping us to find beauty in a thing of pro gram for a happy life. And the thing most to note is that Shirley Mayo has the secret for seeking for happiness. It comes, growing up unnoticed in every day living with something else.

In other words, the happiest people in the world are the people who never think much—if anything—about it, but go along living usefully and cheerfully, and happiness just comes.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS



THE "COME THROUGH GUY"

I was interested in what Mickey Mantle had to say while reporting the recent World Series. He said that one reason the baseball team through was because they had a "Come through guy" who could come through at the right moment and give them the inspiration to win. He spoke of Joe DiMaggio, Yogi and Whitey Ford.

These "come through men" and "come through guys" that Mantle wrote about are the seasoning ones in every contest, every game, every sport, such as baseball, football or any other contest. They are the live sparks that give fire to all, and who put the will to win in every conference.

During the years that I played baseball, and loved it very much, both, I always played best after watching the great ones play. I witnessed many of them one night against odds, yet came through all right. There seems to be a secret somebody within us who inspires us on when we most need it, and this secret is to win within us and demands of us to get its way and be carried on to victory!

In every town and community there are these "come through

Harem Led To Downfall

Windsor Star

"Cherchez la Femme" is a French phrase which has found acceptance in many languages, with applicability, in other languages. It merely suggests that behind any trouble, there is a woman. It is to be found. And that certainly is true, when one reads of the latest news from North Africa.

Five Algerian rebel leaders were forced to land in Africa, flying them to Tunis, was landed in Algiers instead of Morocco in another plane, and thus would have had immunity. "Cherchez la Femme" or, in this case "les femmes," provided the answer.

They weren't on the Sultan's plane because he preferred the company of his wives. Having learned this from his harem, Mohamed but less appealing Algerian rebellion leaders could also appreciate his attitude, if not his wisdom.

The woman behind the throne often has been a great, if not always good, influence. But, this incident is an example of the trouble that can be caused by the "women" behind the throne. The moral suggested is well that polygamy has been abolished in the western world.

Hungarians in Canada Pray For Countrymen in Revolt

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hungarian - Canadians bowed their heads in church services throughout Canada Sunday to pray for fellow countrymen fighting in the bloody revolt that has exploded in their homeland.

Outside the churches, wreaths were placed at memorials for those who have died in the uprising.

Others demonstrated sympathy with the Budapest riots by volunteering to return to their homeland to join the rebel forces. Efforts are being made to get planes to transport them overseas.

Meanwhile, Hungarian - Canadians appealed to the Red Cross for help in sending blood and medical supplies to Hungary by chartered plane.

Red Cross officials said offers of Canadian assistance have been cabled to the international headquarters in Geneva and the Austrian Red Cross in Vienna. Drugs and medical supplies are to be flown to Vienna by the RCAF as soon as they can be collected.

MEET PEARSON

In Toronto a Hungarian-Canadian delegation met with External Affairs Minister Pearson Saturday, asking for immediate action "to compel the Soviet government to withdraw its troops from Canadian soil."

Mr. Pearson said the federal government is pressing for United Nations consideration of the revolt.

On the west coast, groups marched in Vancouver demanding freedom from the Communist yoke. They carried placards reading: "Russians Go Home from Hungary," "Justice for Hungary," "Freedom for Hungary." There were similar demonstrations in Calgary.

The Joint Council of Canadian-Hungarians in Manitoba sent a telegram to Prime Minister St. Laurent asking the federal government to intervene on behalf of the rebels and to protest the use of Russian troops in Hungary. Some 300 Hungarians met in Montreal to ask the federal government to support the revolution with all the means at its command.

In Ontario, protest meetings were held in Toronto, Windsor, Hamilton, London, Sudbury and Kitchener.

The largest weekend demonstration took place Sunday in the country's capital. Hundreds of Quebec and Ontario Hungarians paraded past the Russian Embassy in Ottawa, wearing black armbands and bearing placards.

In London, Ont., Gen. Charles Foulkes, chairman of the Canadian joint chiefs of staffs, said Sunday that the anti-Communist uprisings in Hungary and Poland are "a hopeful sign when freedom-loving peoples will take such risks."

Among the group meeting Mr. Pearson at Toronto were a Roman Catholic priest, a Presbyterian minister and G. G. Temesvary, president of the Canadian Hungarian Federation.

"We feel the Hungarian events present an opportunity to the West which most likely will not occur again," said Mr. Temesvary.

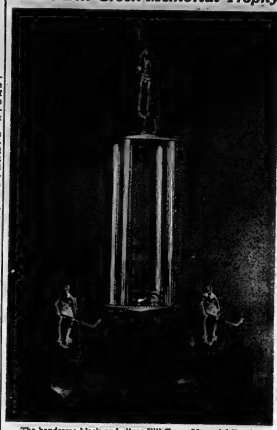
MUST BEWARE

Mr. Pearson told the delegation the West must beware of "hasty and ill-advised" action at this time.

Some 800 persons Sunday overflowed the new Polish Church of Our Lady of Zestochowa at London, Ont., and protested "Russia's ruthless killings in Hungary."

A resolution said "it would be a shame for the western democracies if the current revolt is allowed to fail."

The pastor, Msgr. Francis Fiuta, was critical of United States Secretary of State Dulles for saying that U.S. troops would not be sent to Europe in any "liberation" war. He said the time has come to correct the "errors" made at Yalta and Potsdam by Churchill and Roosevelt.



Medical Supplies And Food Rushed Into Hungary

VIENNA (Reuters) — Medical supplies and food from Western nations poured into Hungary today following appeals by the Hungarian Red Cross for aid for between 10,000 and 50,000 persons.

The appeals, telephoned Saturday night to the headquarters of the League of International Red Cross Societies in Geneva, called for all types of drugs and food.

Sunday, supplies rushed to Austria from several Western countries for the Hungarian wounded were sent over the border at the town of Eisenstadt, in the Burgenland district.

The Bill Green Memorial Trophy

The handsome black-and-silver Bill Green Memorial Trophy was formally presented to the McFarlands senior "A" hockey club at special ceremonies held Saturday night prior to the Ottawa Canadiens-McFarlands hockey game.

The trophy, the gift of the Belleville Old Timers Hockey Association was handed by its president Harry Fenn to Doug and Bobby Green, sons of the late hockey star, who in turn handed it to McFarlands' manager, Drury Denyes.

With Manager Denyes to accept the trophy was playing coach Bep Guidolin.

Brief addresses were made by President Fenn and secretary Johnny Hibbard of the Old Timers Association who paid gracious eulogy to the late hockey star.

The trophy will be awarded annually to the player adjudged the "most valuable" to the club. He will receive a handsome replica as his permanent possession.

The late Bill Green was the founder the Old Timers' Association and did much to keep it alive.

After euchre, Marlene was asked to take the chair of honor and was assisted in unwrapping her gifts by her mother, Mrs. Stewart DeRuhile and Mrs. Wesley Cummings.

Marlene most graciously expressed her thanks to all and for anyone who took part in the evening's entertainment.

The tables were decorated nicely for the occasion; and dainty refreshments were served by the ladies. All joined in wishing Marlene and her future husband many happy years together.

On Wednesday evening in the Camnifton Orange hall, the L.O.L. held a euchre with the winners, Mrs. Wesley Gray, Mrs. Grant Ray; consolation, Miss Paulene Watt; Jack White, Terry Day; consolation, P. W. Akey. Lone hand, Mrs. Percy Akey.

St. Michael's Guide Company Duly Formed

Twenty-one eager young "ladies" registered on Wednesday evening last, at the initial meeting of St. Michael's Girl Guide Company. Getting off to a fine start with leadership that leaves nothing to be desired—five members of the "League" having come forward to lead up this very important phase of education of the young girls.

Mrs. James Walsh is acting captain; Miss Betty Holland, lieutenant; Mrs. Cecil Young, Mrs. Douglas Green and Mrs. John Finkle are patrol leaders.

With equal enthusiasm on the part of the leaders and the Guides it augurs well for the new company and the sponsoring body, The Catholic Women's League of St. Michael's, are indeed pleased with the general response and stand ready to assist the company in everyway possible.

The company will meet each Wednesday in St. Michael's auditorium at seven o'clock sharp. Uniforms for the girls are required and anyone having one they have outgrown may dispose of it to their advantage by contacting Mrs. J. Walsh, 23 Forin Street or Mrs. Cecil Young, 9 Bettes Street.

Among the girls registering are Nora Cartlidge, Joy Carr-Brainl, Rosemarie Deryaw, Elaine Ward, Jean Rashotte, Betty Bruyea, Mary Coutoure, Joanne Bowers, Elinor Burke, Susan Gist, Carol Walsh, Catherine Walsh, Sheila Beurette, Patricia Mathews, Ann Marie Murphy, Bethann Whibbs, Nola Scully, Sandra Golka, Barbara MacDonald, Valerie Smith, and Cherrill Power.

Good luck girls and happy guiding!

Rev. T.M. Dustan Shows Slides of Mission Work

Mrs. Ronald Godden presided at the weekly meeting of Christ church Afternoon branch of the W.A.

A hearty welcome was given by the president to everyone, especially to the visitors from the Evening Branch; the Parish Guild; St. Thomas' W.A.; St. Margaret's, Foxboro and Picton W.A.

Business was dispensed with and Archdeacon J. B. Creegan introduced the speaker of the day, the Rev. T. M. Dustan, Canadian missionary in India.

For almost ten years, Mr. Dustan has been principal of St. Paul's school, Palampur, India, but is now taking a well-deserved furlough before returning to Palampur.

Mr. Dustan described his work with the native boys, and told how often they would have liked to become Christians, but were afraid to declare themselves for fear of reprisals. He mentioned one boy who wished to become a Christian, but his relatives and friends tried in every way possible to prevent him joining the Christian faith.

His older brother gave him a terrible beating and locked him up. Several days later he was released by a little niece, and reached Simla where he met Mr. Dustan, who asked him what he thought of his brother. His answer was "One day I will ask him for baptism."

Because of his Christian feeling this boy has been struck out of the family records, and according to them, he is an outcast. This has not caused him to alter his course of becoming a Christian, because he has found "The Pearl of Great Price."

SHOWS PICTURES

Mr. Dustan showed pictures, illustrating his talk, describing his work, and the work of others in the Christian Diocese. These were most interesting to Christ church as three families in the church have been, and still are, paying for the education of one of the students at St. Paul's school.

Mr. Dustan mentioned how appropriate had been the opening hymn, "In Christ There is no East or West; In Him no south or north; But one great fellowship of love throughout the whole wide earth," which is the true meaning of the Christian faith," he added.

Mrs. G. G. Wright graciously thanked the speaker for his inspiring and enlightening talk, and for the fine pictures, which showed that, although much has already been done by the missionaries, there is still much more ahead, which must be shared by all.

A social half hour was enjoyed while refreshments were served by the members of the Afternoon Branch W.A.

Fabric partnerships add to the new season's sartorial scene. Going together in perfect harmony and adding up to a distinguished two-piece dress, are two such diverse fabrics as heavenly cashmere and flimsy chiffon, both cloud-soft. The scooped top is, of course, of the cashmere, its neckline piped in matching satin. The red chiffon skirt hugs the waist with its own satin belt and enjoys permanent crystal accordion pleating. Thanks to designer Tina Lesser for this delightful design.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

KEEP YOUR FAITH IN YOUR HUSBAND

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

For 30 years I was married to a man I thought was the most wonderful person. Then after he passed away, my son-in-law and his mother had a quarrel with my daughter, and he and his mother said they had something they thought they should tell us as they felt secrets should never be kept from the family. This secret was that my husband had been running around with other women for ten years before his death and that when he passed away he was with a woman.

My son-in-law's mother has taught her children that it's proper to lie if you have a reason to lie, but I believe a lie is a lie never right. Her son was discharged 4-F from service because he was caught in a lie, but his mother continued to say one would have lied under the circumstances. Regardless of what he does, right or wrong, she always finds excuses for him.

While her son is good to my daughter in a certain sense, like providing her with a good home, he knows when he married her that he had a physical condition which would prevent them from having children. His mother belongs to a group which doesn't believe in doctors and insists that he can and will become normal, although he and my daughter have now been married for eight years.

My daughter has grown bitter towards him for lying and deceiving her and for saying terrible things about her father, whom she loved dearly. She's thinking of divorce, but I hate divorce, since she has a good home and a large circle of friends I'm trying to persuade her to stay with him. She feels, though, that since he can't have children and a normal life there can never be any contentment and happiness for her.

As for myself, I live 500 miles from my daughter, but I'm getting to the point where I don't care to visit her any more because her husband always has some nasty remark to make and makes it miserable for me.

Do you think I'm wrong in trying to persuade my daughter to stay with her husband or should she leave now while she's still young? — Mrs. W.

Dear Mrs. W.: What I think is that whatever your son-in-law's physical disability may be, it has given him such a feeling of inferiority that it makes him want to belittle everybody else. The more fault he can find with others, even though the fault is something he dreams up himself, the less inferior he feels, so he makes it a habit it to run everybody else down. In this, he's aided and abetted by his mother who also feels inferior about his disability and wants to bolster up both her son and herself by picking flaws in other people.

Because of all this, I'd be very much inclined to doubt the truth of what she said to you about your husband. I suspect that she was contemplating enough to break the whole story in an attempt to make you feel as badly about your husband as she and her son feel in theirs, and if I were you I'd take that attitude toward what she said. If you were perfectly happy with your husband for 30 years, and never had any reason to doubt him in all that time, I just can't believe he was double-crossing you on the side. So keep your faith in him. I'm sure he was the fine type of son you always believed him to be.

I would assume that your son-in-law has thoroughly explored every possibility in an effort to cause.

SMART SELECTION
By VERA WINSTON

This dress is a shining example of the chic choice for important cocktail parties or small but impressive dinners. The fabric is a rich deep sapphire blue peau de soie that is handled most effectively. The neckline is scooped front and back. The front of the dress is sheath-like, the only line breaking the silhouette being a fold below the waist which terminates in a bow above the pleated-in back fullness. This is a separate panel.

Capital's Hope Pinned on Hungarian Girl

OTTAWA (CP) — The capital's hopes for a winning entry in the Miss Europe Cup contest this year are pinned on more than a face and a figure.

Mrs. Stevka Stevka, 37, Miss Ottawa Rouglie for 1956, is a trim, attractive brunette. She is also a thoughtful, intelligent young woman who has a bundle of interesting abilities and memories.

A native of Hungary, she fled from the Russian invasion with her mother, Mrs. Sari Stevka, and came here in 1949. Her father is still behind the Iron Curtain in Hungary.

Mrs. Stevka now works for a department store, and Margrete is a civil service stenographer.

Margrete's future plans are to study radio and television arts in Toronto, with the hopes of eventually landing a job in television.

She has his condition adjusted, although since his mother is against consulting physicians, perhaps she has been able to keep him from doing so. If this is the case, and your daughter has not sufficient influence over him to give him the help he will accept, take independent steps in the matter, then I think it most unfair to her that she should have to put up with this. If she were happy with him as things are, it would be different. But if she's up against a combination of mother and son, it doesn't seem to me there is much future for her in the situation. It may be, of course, that her husband's whole trouble is largely psychological, and if so a psychiatrist would be the one to try and help him. It would certainly be very surprising if it didn't have some kind of psychological difficulties after being brought up by such a mother.

I suggest that, before making any decision as to whether or not she will leave her husband, your daughter consult an expert marriage counselor. I'd say that only after she has exhausted every possible chance of straightening out the relationship with her husband should she decide to call it a lost cause.

Pretty Girls of South Carolina Have Won Five Beauty Crowns

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The pretty girls of South Carolina, like the fleet-footed horses of Kentucky are attracting glory to the southern state.

On their heads rest five of the world's beauty crowns.

South Carolina has produced a Miss Universe, the current Miss America, a Mrs. America, two Miss USAIDs for the Miss World contest and a national Maid of Cotton.

Five of her six entries in the Miss America contest have been among the 15 finalists.

OVERRUN WITH BEAUTY

Judging a state beauty contest in this land of pulchritude is an exercise in ecstatic frustration. For example, Marian McKnight, the Manning, S.C. beauty who charmed the judges in Atlantic City, won over Miss Minnesota because this year has been defeated in local competition by her roommate.

The room Marian and Martha Dean Chambers shared at little Coker College in Hartsville probably had more beauty per square inch than any other in the country.

Martha Dean, a stunning brunette, was Miss South Carolina last year. The judges deliberated in agony of indecision before selecting her over Marian.

The search for the answer to the success of South Carolina in beauty contests leads first to the obvious conclusion that the state is simply overrun with pretty women.

TRAIN EARLY

But also discovers a tradition that conquest southern girls be consider it their duty to develop charm—a factor given a heedful equal to a well-turned calf or a classic profile in most beauty contests.

But more important, South Carolina girls are the veterans of beauty contests by the time they reach the Miss America or some other major contest.

Marian Ann was one of the few Miss Americas who didn't burst into tears of confusion when her name was announced as the winner. Why should she? By then, with all the poise of an archbishop at a church parade, she had won nine contests.

DON'T LACK EXCUSES

The state's rural communities delight in annual festivals to promote watermelons, tobacco, cotton timber or just to have a good time.

And almost invariably, a beauty contest is a principal feature. The pretty girls begin to compete as soon as they are old enough to walk in high heels without breaking an ankle.

They become accustomed to the appraising eyes of judges and spectators; they learn to smile and to walk gracefully, and above all, to relax and be their charming selves.

Hallowe'en High Jinks

By Mary Moore

No more do I get my daughter married and my son away at school than I take on a Sunday school class of teen-agers in whose mischievous shadow my children fade to innocent mice. Merciful memory must be playing me false when I look back over the years and glimpse a little to think of how the Sunday school class Hallowe'en hayride will turn out. If I have the strength I'll let you know.

Meanwhile, I'm busy with the quiet Hallowe'en evening you think it can have just answering the door about 100 times and calming down your shivering children after an hour or so on the streets after dark.

Anybody here for

QUICK POPCORN BALLS?

One-quarter cup salad or cooking oil, 1-2 cup popping corn, 1-2 cup corn syrup, 1-4 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Heat oil in large kettle 3 minutes over medium heat three minutes. Add popcorn, cover, but leave a tiny airspace at edge of cover. Shake over medium heat until corn stops popping. Meanwhile have mixed together the corn syrup, sugar and salt. Add to popped corn and stir constantly over medium heat until corn is completely and evenly coated. Remove from heat and form into balls with buttered palms. Wrap in cellophane. This amount makes six balls. Do not double recipe to make more but repeat for best performance.

To make Caramel Corn follow above recipe but spread on waxed paper and separate each piece of popped and caramel coated corn.

POPDIDDYS

(Potato—baking powder)

These amounts make 3 dozen 2 1-4 inch doughnuts. In a large bowl beat 3 eggs, then beat in 3-4 cup sugar and 3 tablespoons soft shortening until smooth and creamy. Stir into this 1 cup unseasoned mashed potatoes. Sift together 2 3-4 cups all-purpose flour (sifted before measuring), 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon each salt and mace, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg, and stir this into wet mix well. Chill dough 2 hours. Heat fat to 360 deg. (If to 4 inches deep) while you roll out doughnuts to 1-3 inch thickness, keeping unrolled part cool. Cut out with floured cutter. Fry only as many at time as may be turned easily when brown on under side. Fry other side. Drain over fat. Roll in sugared paper.

Here is a dessert cake for Hallowe'en dinner for the family.

APRICOT SPICE CAKE

Cream 1-3 cup shortening and 3-4 cup (well-packed) brown sugar together. Beat in 2 eggs very well. Sift together 1 cups sifted cake flour, 3-4 cup granulated sugar, 3-4 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon each nutmeg and cloves, 3-4 teaspoon salt; stir in to creamed mixture alternately with 3-4 cup buttermilk. Stir in 1 cup cooked mashed apricots. Turn into two 9-inch layer tin bottoms of which are lined with wax paper. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 20 to 25 minutes. Frost with Caramel Frosting made by creaming together 2-4 cup butter with 2 1-2 cups sifted icing sugar, 4 tablespoons cocoa, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons double strength coffee. Beat until smooth and airy before spreading between and over cooled cakes.

CORRECT MAKE-UP FOR YOUR EYES

An eye-shadow stick is as easily carried and handled as a lipstick.

Even though fashion decrees the restrained look in make-up to complement the new hat styles, you'll still want to dramatize your eyes since they're your most important feature. The dramatization will have to be done subtly, however, for the obvious look is definitely out. Here are several choices for your eye make-up colors and still more care in application.

Let's consider your brows first. Skillfully applied, it does wonders in flattering the eyes. But, also, skillfully applied, it should live up to its name and be truly just a shadow. If a girl smears it on so that it's a definite color, rather than the almost shadow, it smudges within a short time, giving either an unclean, ill-groomed appearance or, even worse, a heavy-lidded, world-weary look. So apply it delicately. It's easy to do if you select one of the new types which come in swivel cases and which are simple to use as lipstick; they're easy to carry around, too. Where color is concerned, you might look for some of the new iridescent shades. They're much more delicate in tone and you can find them at your favorite cosmetic counter.

Your eyebrow pencil is important, too. Use the shadow as guide; it's use should not be overdone. Light feathery strokes are all that's required — even if your brows are extremely light. Start applying at the corner nearest the nose and work toward the other terminal, feathering out decreasingly as you go along. One of the other terminal, feathering out decreasingly as you go along. One of the newer pencils is "automatic". It never needs sharpening and the point is equipped with a spring lock so that the crayon can't fall out. You'll find this at your favorite cosmetics counter, too.

Most girls apply mascara pretty well. It seems to be easier to apply than eye shadow or eye liner pencil which, actually, few should use since, unless beautifully applied, it looks rather harsh looking. One mistake frequently made in the use of mascara, however, is in applying too much so that the lashes stick together or look cakey. The use of colored mascara in the daytime is also a fallacy. We've found that lashes are less inclined to cakiness if one uses a cream mascara. Especially every firm with this item and you'll find it easy to apply. Leave the glamorous colors such as green, violet, silver, dove gray, etc. for evening use, however, and during the day stick to the conventional blacks and browns.

Next week: Choosing your eye make-up, you might also look at some of the gadgets that do so much to glamorize the eyes—so eyelash curler, for instance or one of the new precision eyebrow tweezers. Practice with these—and with your make-up — in front of your mirror a few times and you'll find that the right technique for dramatizing your eyes is easily mastered.

Women Trying to Double Strength In General Election for Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ever since a Montana suffragette broke the sex barrier exactly 40 years ago and was elected to Congress, women have brightened the ranks of U.S. lawmakers.

In this year's general election they're trying to double their strength in Congress. They're out to add another U.S. senator and capture 28 seats in the House of Representatives.

The feminine contingent in the outgoing Congress—a record number—included one senator, Maine Republican Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith, whose term runs to 1961, and 14 members of the House of Representatives—eight Democrats and six Republicans.

Almost half of the 30 women who got into Congress in the years since Jeannette Rankin, 36-year-old Republican suffragette from Montana paved the way in 1916, were appointed to unexpired terms or ones to fill the coattails of husbands who died in office and virtually bequeathed them the seats.

The trend nowadays, though, is toward straightaway campaigning against men in increasing numbers of districts.

This November, women are seeking Congress seats in 23 states. Eighteen states have one woman Congress candidate each. New York has three and California, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and West Virginia have two each.

Two campaigns for House seats this year—one in Idaho and one in Illinois—are pitting woman against woman.

In the really rough all-female Idaho battle, red-haired Mrs. Gracie Pfost (pronounced post), is seeking her third term against another farmer's daughter, Miss Louise Shadduck, a first campaigner.

Mrs. Pfost, 50, is known as "hell's belle" because of her vigorious support of a Hell's Canyon dam to harness Snake River, the boundary between Idaho and Oregon.

In Illinois 64-year-old Mrs. Marguerite Church is running for her fourth term against the wife of a university professor, Mrs. Helen Benson Leyz.

A couple of newcomers—male—are giving two other women veterans a run in this election.

Bill Mauldin, 35-year-old cartoonist of New City, N.Y., famous for his drawings of sad jack soldierz, is using an old jeep and his artistic talents against Mrs. Katharine St. George of Tuxedo Park, N.Y., a Republican trying for her sixth term.

And 43-year-old Lawrence Corcoran is opposing Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, 75-year old dean of women lawmakers, Mrs. Rogers, who is seeking her 17th term for Massachusetts' fifth district, has been in the House since 1925. She's a Republican.

Another campaign highlight is the political debut of aviatrix Jacqueline Cochran Odium at 47. Already successful in business, aviation and marriage, she is trying out politics for the first time as a Republican candidate for Congress in Southern California's 29th district.

Gamma Mu Chapter Purchases Croupette For Pediatrics Ward

A regular meeting of Gamma Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, was held recently at the home of Mrs. George Murray, 71 Hastings Drive.

Mrs. R. S. Morphy presided at the short business meeting. The president announced that the croupette, purchased by the Chapter for the Pediatrics Ward of the Belleville General Hospital, is already in use. Its official presentation and a demonstration of its use by Dr. Edith Peterkin were held Saturday afternoon with members of the chapter present.

A rushing party for prospective pledges will be held this evening. The form of dress will be "in bad taste," so il promises to be an entertaining affair.

Future dates announced include the "Pledge Ritual", when Delta Alpha Trenton Chapter will be guests, and the ritual dinner when four Beta Sigma Phi Chapters will be gathered together for the first time.

Deviating from the regular form of cultural program, Mrs. R. S. Morphy and Mrs. R. R. Brain took the chapter on a "mystery tour," to Trenton where at a textile mill an education was derived from viewing the entire process of cloth manufacturing, from the wool bats, to the finished bolts of material.

Adding to the mystery, the chapter was directed to the home of Mrs. Donald Fink in Trenton where Delta Alpha Chapter played host at an enjoyable dessert and coffee party.

DETROIT (AP)—The automobile of the near future will have an even lower silhouette; it will be safer, more comfortable, more powerful, easier to drive, quieter —and much more difficult to engineer and develop.

That's the assertion of Victor G. Ravigo, director of advanced product study and engineering research for Ford Motor Company, Ravigo, 45, emphasizes he is not talking about a "dream" car, but of a "production" vehicle that could roll down assembly lines within a few years.

The 1957 model cars are lower than any the industry ever has built but Ravigo insists lower vehicles are coming. They will be lowered, he said in an interview, without sacrificing headroom or road clearance. The car floor would go still lower between the frame siderails.

ROOF ENTRY

Today's cars are from 56 inches to 61 inches high. Ten years from now, Ravigo said, "We will have 52-inch cars." He conceded there are problems to solve, including the bump in the car floor, exhaust system location and relocation of other "machinery."

Also to be solved, Ravigo added, are the two basic problems—entrance and visibility. "We must improve access at least partially through the car top," he said.

Ravigo visualizes the advent of a warning device to reduce rear-end collision. "Such a device could be developed immediately if someone wanted to do it without regard to cost, for all the elements for such a system are known and in use."

Asserting that "there are a number of reasons to expect horsepower to continue to increase," he said, "I am certain we can expect at least 25 per cent and possibly as much as 40 per cent more in the next few years.

"This will permit transmissions of different character than today's. If we had an engine powerful enough we could dispense with the gears and just use a clutch or a hydraulic coupling," he said.

Sills, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers and Mr. Arnold Meyers spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ida Chase, of Gardenville.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. George McCullough introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Coulter, who opened her talk with a poem on "Thanksgiving." She spoke of the devotions in the Missionary Monthly being a guide to the meetings, stating more interest should be shown in Christian living. "Be not afraid to say we are Christians take time every day for prayer and devotions in the home. Our actions are our crucial test to how much we are living the Christian life. Keep our church a hallowed place; Jesus threw out the money changers. Each one must use her talents; the small insignificant ones are all seen by God, and if we are asked to fill our offering or our work, be sure and answer, 'yes'."

She stressed that tithing should be encouraged.

Tithing dated back to Abraham and Lot, she made mention on the allocations.

A number of questions on the W.M.S. were asked and a discussion carried on for a few minutes.

At the close of her address, on behalf of the ladies, Mrs. Wilson expressed thanks and appreciation to Mrs. Coulter for her inspiring and interesting talk.

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge and a social time followed.

Among the demonstrators was 17-year-old Margrete Sievka, Miss Ottawa Rough Rider, who with her mother fled Hungary in 1949. Her father still is behind the Iron Curtain.

The crowd sang God Save the Queen and O Canada at the War Memorial. There was a pause, then, on the throng's outer fringe, rose the rich baritone of Toronto theatre manager Stephen Majnik singing his homeland's national hymn God Bless the Hungarians in Hungarian. The others massed there joined him.

"They were about to leave without singing it and I couldn't let that happen," said Majnik, who five years ago led his wife and two daughters through a corn field in the dead of night to escape into Austria from Communist oppression in Hungary.

"This demonstration is the minimum we can do for our people who are in big trouble now," he said. "They are fighting for the whole world, not just for Hungary. If we lose this chance to help them now, there probably won't be another—they won't have the heart to continue."

Is life insurance on loans worthwhile?—Yes, here is a real family peace-of-mind feature. At no extra cost to you, loans of $1500 or less, are life-insured. Be sure you get this protection when you borrow.

Does a friend have to "go my note"?—No. Seldom do borrowers prefer an endorsed loan. And bankable security, of course is not needed.

How many ways of borrowing are there?—You can use any of these four Niagara loan plans. 1. On cars, trucks, etc., only owner signs. 2. Husband-and-wife, on furnishings. 3. On business equipment. 4. On farm stock and equipment.

Can I have a private interview?—Yes, your interview at Niagara will be private, courteous, and friendly.

Why do people borrow money?—A few reasons are to consolidate a group of small debts; to reduce large payments for car and truck repairs; to meet emergencies; to repair or modernize homes; to enlarge a business for seed, stock, fertilizer for farms; and to take advantage of low prices, when cash is paid.

Do many people borrow?—Yes, in Canada, 1 family in 4 borrow each year.

CANADIAN OFFICERS INSPECT U. S. GUIDED MISSILE

One of the newest and mightiest of U. S. weapons is inspected by a group of Canadian officers from the Royal Canadian School of Artillery at Picton, Ont. The weapon is the Nike, a guided missile set up for demonstration purposes at Niagara. The Canadian officers inspected the Nike as part of their course of anti-aircraft measures. They are, right, Capt. W. Gay of Picton, Capt. J. Mosley of Halifax, Lt. R. D. Greenland, of Milton, Ont., and Major Charles Dickinson, commanding officer of the US. 44th Missile Battalion. (Central Press Canadian).

Prime Minister in Good Health Starts Round of Speeches Probably Leading to Election

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent, in apparent good health after a summer holiday, is in the middle of a round of weekend speech - making trips which some observers see as a warm-up for next year's election campaigning.

In the last three weeks he has travelled to Toronto, Montreal, Sherbrooke, Que., and his home city of Quebec. More such public appearances are scheduled next month.

His public meetings are not political ones—a meeting of the Canadian Jewish Conference in Montreal, a Sherbrooke University convocation and the opening of a new wing at a Toronto hospital.

But speaking at Toronto, Mr. St. Laurent mentioned his government's record in grants for health purposes. And at Sherbrooke he announced a new plan to double federal grants for university students.

His activity has stolen a march on the other political parties.

"It begins to look like the prelude to a national election," said Solon Low, Social Credit leader. "That's what we're all getting ready for."

Mr. Low leaves Ottawa this week for a swing through the four western provinces, with about 20 speeches scheduled in the next month and three major meetings of his party's provincial executive before the end of the year.

Progressive Conservatives, however, have been relatively quiet since the resignation of Hon. George Drew in mid-September and potential leaders are busy lining up personal support within the party in preparation for a national convention here the week of Dec. 10.

CCF leader Coldwell has just returned from a two-month European tour. His only political setback planned in the near future are a party nominating convention in his home riding of Rosetown-Biggar, Sask., Nov. 3 and a later Toronto meeting of the CCF national executive.

Mr. St. Laurent, who last month became a great-grandfather at the age of 74, gives every appearance of being in good health and spirits with an election campaign expected to start in six months or so.

Nearly every day of his August holiday at his summer home at St. Patrice, Que., was spent golfing, fishing or swimming. Since returning to Ottawa he has found time for an occasional round of golf together with regular swims in an indoor pool in the Parliamesu Laurier Hotel.

Mr. St. Laurent will be 75 at the next election. Only one other prime minister has had his party to the polls at a more advanced age—Sir John A. Macdonald at the age of 76 in 1882.

One big occasion ahead for him is a Nov. 15 dinner at Toronto marking his eighth anniversary as prime minister. The dinner is being sponsored by a Toronto group of professional and business men.

Three days earlier he will speak at a meeting here of the National Conference of Canadian Universities—ite body he has asked to study the possibility of a federal-funded federal university grants. On Nov. 20 he will be back in Toronto to address the Catholic Social Life Conference.

JAP PREMIER PASSES THROUGH U. S.

Japanese prime minister Ichiro Hatoyama and his wife are shown in their car as they drove from the airport in New York. 34 Road Deaths In 42 Fatalities During Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cool autumn weather kept the highways free from drownings during the weekend but did little to keep down traffic accidents. A Canadian toll of 42 accidental fatalities included 34 road deaths.

Concert Pianist To Visit Russia

TORONTO (CP)—Pianist Glenn Gould, 24, has become the first Canadian concert performer planist to be invited—and to accept—an invitation to perform in the Soviet Union, it was announced during the weekend.

Gould, whose present concert season spans North America and Europe, accepted the last invitation to play solo and with orchestra at next year's Vienna International Music Festival.

Impresario Walter Homburger, Gould's manager, announced that the youthful pianist, whose rise to celebrity ranks within two years of a New York debut is considered phenomenal, is to perform three times each in Moscow and Leningrad next May.

People on Prairies Follow Different Way of Life Than They Did 10 or 20 Years Ago

REGINA (CP)—The Canadian Prairies are changing. People here live a different way of life than they did 10 or 20 years ago; the way they do their jobs is changing, sometimes even their faces look changed.

It has not, of course, happened overnight. Many who live here scarcely realize how different things are. But to a reporter who returned this summer to his native prairie after two years out of Canada, the change was clearly marked. Separation had helped to cast the real prairie as it now is.

Take roads. Prairie roads were once the brunt of every passing motorist's jest. They were narrow, rough, muddy in season and almost always bad. Now the Prairie has straight, wide, hard-topped ribbons of pavement. Main highways are as good as any on the continent and secondary roads are fast becoming excellent.

This change in the roads has done as much as anything to change the life of the man who lives on the prairie.

The farmer now may get more easily to town; he often lives there and commutes daily in seeding and harvest time to his land. His trucks move faster and he needs fewer men to help him haul his grain. He can move heavy farm equipment, now properly rubber-tired, along these roads from field to field and consequently can work his land more easily. That also takes fewer hired hands.

Regina is the heart of the Prairie. It houses the world's largest grain marketing co-operative and grain is still the lifeblood of the Prairie. This city was built when the Prairies were entered and its growth has paralleled the progress of the land which surrounds it.

Its business life ebbs and flows with the prosperity of the farmer and the weather, soil conditions, rainfall, heat, rust, insects, weeds, hail and frost — the farmers' ever present worries—are still the main conversational pieces.

During the winter grain is still a sure fire topic: boxcar movements, delivery quotas, government grain sales whether under the International Wheat Agreement or outside it, the price and of course, next year's prospects. Around Regina the change is as great as anywhere on the Prairie.

Farmers who not so many years ago broke virgin grass land with one horse and a plowshare now have whole sections under cultivation land with expensive high-powered machinery. Soon-to-come two sections not large enough to farm economically.

This change to more mechanized wheat farming has contributed greatly to the changed face of the Prairie. Expanding acreage has left deserted small farmsteads and villages. Many a once-grain the farmer cannot readily market.

In the move to bigger land holding, small schools and churches have also been left deserted. Farmers drive past the village store and also to the nearest city or city. Their children go to school in town. The family goes to the town church.

There is more than a revolution in wheat farming on the Canadian prairie scene.

Hand in hand with increased land in all three Prairie provinces, has brought new industry and more is expected.

The Prairie, already has some secondary industries: coal is mined, table salt and fertilizers are produced, wool is manufactured, iron pipe processed, bricks made and industrial machinery assembled. Many other ventures are investigating the market and its power-from-oil potential.

Horses have been displaced by machinery and trucks. A few years ago horsemen around Swift Current organized a horse meat co-operative to process food and feed for the rest of Canada and abroad. Not long ago the plant was closed because there were no more Prairie horses to process.

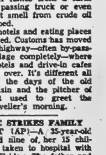
These changes have helped give Prairie people an easier life in a material sense. They certainly have given them more net income and greater leisure. The influx of other industry for stabilizing the Prairie's economy, hedging the farmer's community against the sharp, cruel void of a crop failure.

In its wake, however, have gone some of the things that made life just a little different on the Prairie back, say, 20 years ago. Some of these things still cling heavily to memory.

Grain no longer stands in stooks to dry and ripen before being forked on to a rack and hauled to the thresher. It now lies in long flat rows called swaths which eventually are scooped up mechanically by a combine harvester.

Freight train locomotives no longer wail in the night and spin smoke trails as they move across the Prairie with their long line of boxcars. Modern diesels now pull trains and they make no smoke. Their whistle doesn't wail, it squeals and screeches.

Coal oil lamps don't twinkle in farmhouse windows and farmers are growing lanterns as they trudge to their milking in the early hours. Most farms now have electric power; more are getting it every year. And most farmers buy their fuel oil through the dealer.



The dusty smell of wheat at harvest time seems different. Often the same wisp of wind brings along some diesel fumes from a farm tractor or passing truck or even the pungent smell from crude oil being pumped.

And the hotels and eating places have changed. Customs has moved out to the highway—often by-passing the village completely—where modern motels and drive-in cafes have taken over. It's different all right from that first cup of cold porcelin basin and the pitcher of water that used to greet the prairie traveller of yesteryear.

Canadian Sailor Held for Murder Of London Man

LONDON (CP) — A Canadian sailor, said to have told police he had a weakness for pornographic literature, today was remanded till Nov. 5 on a charge of murdering a Soho shop assistant.

Richard Rhodes Henley, 25, of Preston, B.C., and Dartmouth, N.S., was arrested Saturday night hortly after Alan John Robinson as shot and killed in a basement in London's cosmopolitan Soho district.

Dressed in the uniform of a leading seaman in the Royal Canadian Navy, Henley stood in the dock at Marlborough Street police station today as a police officer read a statement he was alleged to have made a few hours after the shooting.

The statement quoted Henley, a member of the crew of the Canadian destroyer Iroquois now docked at Southampton, as saying:

"I want to tell you the real reason for this. I have a weakness and that is the cause of it all.

"I decided that when I came up to London I would get some pornographic films and photos by robbery. I brought the gun with me as I thought there might be an opportunity of taking them away from the owner at gunpoint.

"I requested the man to come into the back room of the bookshop, giving him to believe that my money was concealed on my person. When he opened the door I pulled my gun and pointed it at him and told him I was leaving.

"After I turned he rushed after me. I was violently frightened and pulled the trigger."

Tremendous Amount of Work Goes Into Designing Various Stamps Used in Dominion

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians who take little notice of the $1,500,000,000 worth of postage stamps they lick every year don't realize the amount of work that goes into designing the little stickers.

It often takes as long as two years to work out a design for which appears to be an insignificant stamp.

"What would you do to illustrate highway safety?" L. J. Mills, chief of the financial branch of the post office department, asked during an interview.

Department experts and Canadian stamp artists have been trying to figure that one out for a long time. The design has to be graphic enough to send a message through a small postage stamp.

This is just one of the many problems faced by Mr. Mills and Jack Carpenter, head of the postage stamp division of the department, who have been working together for the last seven years to perfect Canadian stamp design.

The five - cent fire prevention stamp issued this year took a couple of years to perfect.

"It's no masterpiece," admits Mr. Mills. "But it tells the story graphically. A person can see at a glance that flames are licking at a home."

Canadian stamp design has been simplified tremendously since the two began guiding the manufacture of new stamps.

Until shortly after the Second World War, stamps were usually engraved by framed by ornate borders.

"They were cluttered with meaningless designs and not truly Canadian," Mr. Carpenter said.

The first truly Canadian - designed stamp was a four-cent issue in 1949 to commemorate the centennial of Halifax. For the first time a painting by a Canadian artist was used. It was a detail from a work by the late C. W. Jefferys.

"Our first really good effort came in 1952 with the 20 - cent wood products stamp by Alan L. Pollock of Toronto," Mr. Carpenter said.

His design was picked after a Canada - wide contest. Emanuel Hahn, another Toronto artist and sculptor, also was "discovered" by the department as a result of the contest.

The next year, Mr. Hahn designed a Canada goose for a seven-cent stamp. Since then Mr. Hahn and Mr. Yousuf Karsh have signed many Canadian stamps. Some 23 other Canadian artists also have submitted designs that were accepted.

Last July Mr. Pollock was picked as one of the designers of the stamps to be issued by the United Nations in 1957.

Mr. Carpenter has panels showing every stage of design of most of Canada's stamps. The huge panels show first sketches, later ones where corrections were made, the final sketch by the artist, the first stamps made to see how they would turn out, and the finished product.

Wildlife, industrial and professional experts are checked to see if the designs are authentic before they are used. National Gallery experts decide whether designs are good artistically.

Each stamp is first hand - engraved by experts who reduce the final design to an engraving the size of the finished stamp. This takes about two months, sometimes longer.

Then the design is transferred to plates that print sheets of 200 small-size stamps and 200 of the larger type.

Success of the future will be brighter, the experts say. More color will be used. The post office department is investigating new techniques that will enable it to produce multi-colored designs.

"But our main aim is to make Canadian stamps as much Canadian in character as the ingenuity of an artist can 'contrive,'" Mr. Carpenter said.

SHOT DOWN BY HIS OWN SHELLS

U.S. Navy test pilot Tom Attridge, of Glen Cove, N.Y., tries to explain to his daughters, Anne 7, Kathy 6, and Peggy, 9, how a shot himself down in a parachuting descent. Himself fired Attridge, flying a navy carrier-based supersonic jet fighter, shot himself down while travelling at 880 miles per hour. According to the navy account, Attridge's mission was to reach top speed and then fire his four 20 mm. cannon toward the ocean. After executing a shallow dive at about 15,000 feet, he fired a four-second burst from his cannon. He then went into a steeper dive, and fired a second burst. Moments later, something shattered the bullet-proof glass in his cockpit. He started toward the field but crash-landed in the woods when his engine died. Examination showed that one of his own shells had pierced his engine. (Central Press Canadian).

Basic Steel Producers Only Ones Favoring Raising Tariff

OTTAWA (CP) — Ramifications of tariff board findings on Canada's steel tariff schedule reach into practically every corner of the Canadian economy.

That steel is everywhere today in the employment of a wide variety of interests that made their views known to the board during the year-long hearings into the 50 - year - old tariff on imported steel.

The men who turn out steel items for construction and those who lend their say in the public hearings, which ended last week. So do the automotive and machinery industries, farmers' organizations and the Canadian Association of Consumers.

About the only ones in favor of raising the tariff understandably were the Canadian basic steel producers themselves. They pressed for duty increases that would about double the present schedule.

With these views in mind, the board now is drawing up the report it hopes to turn over to Finance Minister Harris by the end of the year for possible legislative action at the next session of Parliament.

It is considered unlikely that the steel producers' full wishes will be granted, but it seems probable that the board will revise some items in the tariff schedule upward and others downward.

The board heard evidence that Canada's steel makers as yet are not producing at the rate required by the Canadian market. They contended a still higher tariff would give them more incentive to expand their facilities to meet Canada's needs. But steel users argued that a higher tariff would only increase costs on items that they sell both yet in Canada.

When the steel makers asked for the higher tariff last year, they said it was the worst recession in their industry in 1954. Everyone, Canada's economy has since speeded up to record proportions and the steel industry is expected to record sales as well.

This change in the industry's situation was pointed out before the board by many of the interests opposing the higher tariff.

But with the Bank of Canada pushing the interest rate to record levels in an attempt to hold inflationary forces in check and considered unlikely the tariff board will recommend any action that might result in higher steel prices.

Eisenhower Gets Clean Bill Of Health From Physicians

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Eisenhower, the recipient of a clean bill of health from his doctors and a tongue - lashing from his Democratic opponent during the weekend, headed south today in a bid to recapture Florida, one of the southern States he won in his 1952 campaign.

While the president embarked speeches at Miami and Jacksonville with a stopover—in Richmond, Va., on his way back, Adlai Stevenson returned from a swing through California to make his bid for Massachusetts, where he is another bout this fall by 100,000 votes four years ago.

The commentators of most political observers shows the president leading in both Florida and Massachusetts by a narrow margin as the campaign enters its final week.

Eisenhower, reassured by the report of his doctors that he is "in excellent health" after a weekend physical examination, apparently had been confident that the news would be good. Before the checkup, he had mapped out this week's schedule, calling for visits to six states within four days.

Stevenson, meanwhile, was sharpening his attack. In Los Angeles Saturday night he presented a bill of particulars to support his charge that the president had let Eisenhower-has been a "part time president."

He gave a long list of occasions when he said the president had been vacationing or golfing or bowling or elsewhere at times when Stevenson felt he should have been available for consultation on important world developments.

This bill is being put on endorsement, Stevenson said.

He also renewed his accusation that the Eisenhower administration was claiming undue credit for the revolts in Poland and Hungary against Russian domination, saying the United States announcements by its agencies had been absent from their posts during the "critical" weeks.

Vice-president Nixon, following Stevenson into California was understood to be planning to reply today to the points raised in his Los Angeles speech.

Senator Estes Kefauver, Nixon's rival for the vice-presidency, moved to Ohio for speeches in several small towns in his continuing bid to bring farm votes to the Democratic party.

CNR Lost $80,000 During September

MONTREAL — Operating revenues of the Canadian National System for the month of September, 1956, amounted to $82,454,000. Expenses, taxes and rents totalled $82,534,000, making a deficit of $80,000 in the net operating income for the month.

In September, 1955, operating revenues were $60,148,000; expenses, taxes and rents were $56,618,000, and the net operating income was $3,536,000.

These figures do not include any provision for fixed charges. The 1955 figures have been restated for purpose of comparison on the basis of the revised accounting methods ordered for adoption in 1956 by the Board of Transport Commissioners.

Integration Working on Campus Of University of North Carolina

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Freshman Manuel Crockett Jr. strolled along the campus of North Carolina State College here.

An upperclassman approached him, shook his hand and said:

"I'm glad to see it happen. Come by my dormitory and we'll talk."

Crockett is a Negro, the upperclassmen is white. Their meeting illustrates how integration is working at the University of North Carolina and at its branches here and at North Carolina Women's College in Greensboro.

The color bar has remained fast in the state's elementary and high schools, but integration has proceeded calmly at the university.

FOLLOWED COURT VICTORY

The first step was taken a year ago when the state Supreme Court ruled three Negroes should be admitted to the university graduate school. Their court victory was followed this year by enrolment of Negroes at the two branches.

The reaction of white students has varied from friendly to indifferent.

For every such overture such as that made to Crockett, there undoubtedly are hundreds of white students with private objections. Their protests have not been voiced outside bull sessions.

"Some have been especially friendly," says Walter Van Buren Holmes, another Negro freshman at North Carolina State College here.

NO INCIDENTS REPORTED

Student leaders and university officials tell a story of placid transition. Although white students may show surprise or dislike when a Negro joins their class, nothing approaching an "incident" has been reported.

Off the campuses, the Negroes continue to face the segregation customs of a southern state. One who served in the army, stationed at Fort Jackson, S.C., sees a parallel.

"The army was a perfect case of integration," he remembers. "We ate together, slept together, played cards together — on the post. But on pass we went our own way."

One reason for the ease with which the limited integration has been accomplished is in numbers. Negroes enrolled at the university and its branches are a handful out of thousands.

Two Negro girls, the first of their race to attend Women's College, are absorbed in a student body of more than 3,000. North Carolina state's enrolment of more than 4,000 includes only four Negro freshmen and two graduate students. Four Negro undergraduates and about a dozen in graduate schools are among the 7,000 enrolled at the university in Chapel Hill.

A less important reason, perhaps, is the location of the schools. All three are in the central section of the state, removed from the rural east where the Negro population is heaviest and the feeling for continued segregation strongest.

America's Exclusive Group Called Holmby Hills Rat Pack

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Park Avenue may have its 400 but out here it's the Holmby Hills Rat Pack.

Prince Mike Romanoff, breaker of bread with the Rockefellers and Whitneys, calls the rat pack "America's most exclusive social group."

The rat pack's origins only go back a few vintages. (It's the one social group that stresses a capacity for bourbon over social background.)

And even then, its founding was ad libbed. At a time when headline writers hung the term rat pack on juvenile gangs preying in the Los Angeles area, Mrs. Humphrey Bogart took a sweeping look over the gang of assorted millionaires and movie stars that seemed to meet nightly at the Bogart home.

ADULT DELINQUENTS

"I think we should call this bunch of adult delinquents the Holmby Hills Rat Pack," quipped Lauren Bacall Bogart.

Geographically, Holmby Hills is a west Los Angeles subdivision which could be called the rich section of Beverly Hills. That's pretty rich.

In appreciation for Miss Bacall's way with a quip, the group elected her den mother, a post she has held ever since.

Bogart was named head rat or, as he prefers, patriarchal rat.

The charter members include some of the most publicized nonconformists. They are Frank Sinatra, the Romanoffs, the David Nivens, the Sammy (song writer) Cahns, Jack Entratter, agent Irving Lazar, producer Sid Luft and Judy Garland.

Everybody in the group got himself elected that first night except Niven and Romanoff. Sinatra and Garland, for instance, are rats - in - charge - of - entertainment. Luft is rat-in-charge-of-bookcases.

Niven, a Scotsman, laments the fact that he and Romanoff are the only rat-and-tile members of the pack.

"It can only be construed as discrimination against the foreign-born," he says.

So exclusive is the pack that some personages, such as Noel Coward, are only honorary mouses.

"Noel hasn't got the staying power to be a rat," explains one hard-drinking member of the pack.

Barbizon Wins Rich Garden State Stakes

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Reports that Bold Ruler suffered severe cuts when he stumbled in the Garden State Stakes Saturday were denied today by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, and the veteran trainer said the two-year-old colt should be able to start next in the $50,000-added Remsen Stakes Nov. 6 at Jamaica.

Bold Ruler was the leading candidate for the two-year-old championship honors until his mishap in the $219,210 Garden State which was won by the Calumet Farm's Barbizon in an exciting photo finish with Clifford Lussky's Federal Hill. Nineteen horses ran in the world's richest race.

"He received a couple of scratches, but nothing serious," said the 82-year-old Mr. Fitz who sent Bold Ruler back to his home quarters at Aqueduct Sunday.

MAY MEET AGAIN

Jimmy Jones, the Calumet trainer, said he would send his horses, including Barbizon, to Pimlico, with a good chance his star juvenile might hook up with Bold Ruler again in the $80,000 Futurity.

Jones was jubilant after Barbizon's spectacular victory in the 1 1-16-mile contest, which netted Mrs. Gene Markey $48,200—richest purse in racing history.

"I wouldn't trade Barbizon's chances in the Kentucky Derby for any two other colts in the country," he said.

Bold Ruler, who won the Belmont Futurity for the Wheatley Stable, ran up on the heels of Jaunty John on the final bend. Rookey Ted Atkinson was forced to take up sharply, standing upright in the saddle, and his colt quickly dropped from third place to eighth, losing all chance at the big money.

Meanwhile Willie Hartack, aboard Barbizon, set sail after Federal Hill and George D. Widener's Amarullah, and just made it in a last desperate stride. Federal Hill settled for second money of $83,842. Amarullah picked up $42,921.20 and Ambhaving $15,360.50.

Scores Three For Providence

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Parker MacDonald, a wingman with Providence Reds, Sunday night got his fifth second game of the American Hockey League season and promptly scored three goals.

MacDonald, who has seen action with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League, is a member of the top Providence line which includes Paul Larivee and Bruce Cline. The trio scored six goals as the Reds downed Buffalo Bisons 8-3. Larivee scored a pair, and Ken Wharram had two for Buffalo.

Hershey Bears, unbeaten on the road this season, downed the winless Rochester Americans 4-2. The Bears are in first place, two points ahead of Cleveland, which lost at Springfield, 6-4.

Two goals by Willie Marshall and spectacular work by goalie Gil Mayer featured Hershey's triumph. Mayer made 44 saves.

Buddy Boone and Ken Schinkel each scored twice in the third period to enable Springfield to come from behind against Cleveland.

Saturday night, Hershey downed the Indians 5-4 at Springfield; Cleveland came from behind to beat the Reds 6-3 at Providence and Buffalo rolled to an 8-4 victory at home over Rochester.

Underworld Picks On Al Balding

TORONTO (CP) — Al Balding's success on golf's tournament circuit seems to have won him a lot of attention among the sports fans of the underworld.

Balding returned to his car, parked at his home Credit Valley golf course, to find it had been broken open by thieves who got away with $400.

Three days ago his trailer home was broken into, but nothing was taken and recently he returned from playing in the United States to find that cheques worth $575 had been forged and cashed in his name.

Queen's Win

Blues Near Undefeated Year Hand Western 41-7 Trouncing

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

University of Toronto Blues, given little chance of finishing better than third before the Senior Intercollegiate football season began, now are close to their first undefeated season since 1951.

Blues humiliated University of Western Ontario Mustangs 41-7 in London Saturday before 12,000 fans for their third consecutive victory and are two games away from a perfect record.

In Montreal Ian Stewart went over for a last-minute touchdown that gave Queen's University Golden Gaels a 20-15 win over McGill University Redmen and kept them within striking distance of the league-leading Blues.

Varsity has three wins and a tie for seven points. Gaels are second with five and McGill and Western trail with two each.

INTERCEPTIONS HELP

Blues scored two of their six touchdowns on interceptions and set up a third by the same route. John Tattle and Norm Williams travelled 62 and 45 yards respectively with interceptions, while guard Curt Russell took another to the Western six, from where Ross Woods threw to Al Riva for the score.

Other Varsity touchdowns were scored by end Burt Kellock on a pass from second string quarterback Larry Joynt. Woods on a pass from starting quarter Harry Wilson and Riva's 65-yard punt return. Woods kicked two singles and Rich Bethune had two converts.

Western was hit hard by quarterback injuries. Starter Art Turner limped off in the first half and Bruce Ford followed in the fourth. End John Glevin, who took over, had more success than either as he threw to Don Killinger for the only Mustang touchdown and booted the convert.

GAELS EVEN SCORE

Stewart's touchdown gave Gaels a split in their two-game series with McGill, who took them 6-1 in Kingston last week.

The winners went into the last quarter at the short end of a 15-7 score as Dave Hawley went over from the one, John Bennett gathered in a five-yard pass from quarterback Dick Carr, Paul Dingle converted both and Jan Sandzelius kicked a single to give Redmen their total.

Then in the last quarter Terry Dolan burst through the McGill line to block Sandzelius' punt and Russ Radchuk fell on the loose ball on the McGill 11. From there Stewart rolled to the five and Al Kocmas went over on the next play.

That left Gaels behind 15-14 but at time ran out they took over on the McGill 33 and from there, led by Stewart, got the winner.

Karl Quinn got the visitors' first touchdown late in the first half on a 50-yard running play with quarterback John Monchelle. Jocko Thompson converted one and kicked a single.

THE MACS ARE O.K.

"Ever about that!"

We had it in the bag, the old-time strategy of pulling the goalie and teeming concerted offensive power in a desperate do-or-die-last-second gesture paid off. For Manager Sammy Pollock of the Ottawa Canadiens, at least.

Okay, okay, there was moaning at the bar. There was unnecessary criticism of McFarland coach Bep Guidolin. Why didn't he do this? Why didn't he do that?

Guidolin, in our opinion, did an excellent job. True, the breaks of the game in that last second of action were against him. But if that lead-mouthed critics who are so free with their advice reversed the situation Guidolin would have deserved the Victoria Cross, the Congressional Medal of Honor or anything you could toss at him.

We talked with Bep Sunday morning. Instead of the expected glow of victory, the popular Belleville coach was glum. "Sure," he said, "we should have tucked that one away. Sure, we should have won it. But I am mighty proud of the way my boys played last night, and I am gratefully appreciative of the gestures of the greater majority of Belleville fans."

He sat up in his bed. Bep had a strange gleam in his eyes. It wasn't one of hockey victory. As we afterwards learned it was one of protest against unfair criticism by a few Belleville people. We won't call them fans. It wouldn't be fair to the grand guys and gals who are all out behind the team.

"I am not going to tell you," he said, "what some Belleville people called me and told me this morning." This was Sunday. "I have been criticised because I did not use more local players last night."

"Listen," he said, "I want you to tell the people of Belleville that I am hired to do a certain job here. I am going to do what I am paid for regardless of whose feelings I may hurt. Hockey is a serious business any more. The sport angle, as you and I may have known it years ago, has been relieved. It is tough—and big business."

"I like this town. My wife and my three kiddies like it. If it is possible I want to stay here. The Belleville people with whom I have come in contact thus far are wonderful. We like them and we like this city.

"But," he added, "when it comes to my job it is different. I want to come here and do a certain job here. I want to provide a good hockey club for Belleville. I brought a lot of good players I know. You know them now. Belleville fandom knows them now—and likes them.

"However," he went on, "if any of these chaps whom I brought here from other places does not fill the bill—the one that I demand—he's through. He does not fit in with my scheme of things. And, get this, the same goes for the Belleville boys or any other player. There is no sentiment in this hockey business as far as I am concerned.

Saskey Riders Blank Stamps As Bombers Hurl Back Eskys

By The Canadian Press

Frank Tripucka, the old pro from Notre Dame, rewrote the conference passing record books, and Buddy Leake won the individual scoring championship by a single point over teammate Bob McNamara Saturday as the Union ended its 1956 schedule in snow and rain.

Tripucka's passing arm led Saskatchewan Roughriders to a 33-6 victory over the last - place Calgary Stampeders before 8,000 who braved the snow and cold at Regina to watch Riders new 2nd second place. The win gave them the right to choose their opponent field for the opening of the semi-final next Saturday against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Bombers, with Leake scoring 15 points and McNamara 12, scored a somewhat hollow 33-0 victory over a skeleton crew of Edmonton Eskimos before 14,402 persons sitting in a driving rain at Winnipeg.

SIX REGULARS OUT

Eskimos had already assured themselves of their fourth-straight first-place finish and six of their regulars saw no action.

When the final gun sounded Eskimos had an 11-5 record, Riders 10-6 and Bombers 9-7. The order is the same as in the last three years and the only change in the playoff pattern is that coach Frank Filchock of Saskatchewan has decided to play the opening game of the two-game total-point semi-final at home this time.

Filchock is hoping the switch will change his luck. Bombers have eliminated Riders in the semi-finals the last three seasons.

The semi-final winner will be at home against Edmonton's Grey Cup champions Nov. 10 in the first game of the final. Second game will be at Edmonton Nov. 12 and if a third is necessary, it will be at Edmonton Nov. 17, a week before the Canadian final in Toronto.

SIX FOUR RECORDS

Bowlturries and a biting 25-mile - an - hour wind made Tripucka's task that much more difficult, but he completed 14 of 36 attempts for 324 yards and set two individual and two team marks.

Unofficial records show he has 218 completions in 16 games this season, 12 more than the record set by Indian Jack Jacobs in the 14-game schedule in 1951; and 3,274 yards gained passing for the season, compared with Jacobs' 1951 mark of 3,245.

Team records set are 232 completions, two more than the 230 set in 1952 by Winnipeg and 3,439 yards passing, well above the 3,080 set in 1951 by Winnipeg.

Tripucka threw one-touchdown pass to Ken Carpenter, who also got a touchdown on a 30-yard pass. Pete Thodos and Rod Pantages drove through the line for one each. Reg Whitehouse converted three, Larry Isbell got three singles on punts and Jon McWilliams got a single on a kickoff. Gord Sturtridge smothered Calgary's Ronnie Knox behind the Calgary goal line for a safety touch to complete the scoring.

PARKER RESTS

At Winnipeg, coach Frank (Pop) Ivy of Eskimos, taking no chances of injury to his big guns in a game that didn't mean anything, left five of his first-team players sit home for a rest and kept triple-threat quarterback Jackie Parker on the bench all night. Halfbacks Normie Kwong and Johnny Bright, halfbacks Rollie Miles and Earl Lindley and lineman Frank Anderson didn't make the trip.

Ivy sent quarterback Don Getty in to handle the squad and through much of the game even rested his best linemen.

Leake took two forward passes from quarter Lorne Knox for touchdowns and kicked the converts to pick up all of Winnipeg's 14 points in the first quarter.

Canadiens Hold Down Fifth With Tie, Two Wins in Eight Leafs Hop Into Second Place

By The Canadian Press

Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings were supposed to run one-two in the National Hockey League race this season. So far the experts are half right.

The Wings are breezing along at the top of the six-team league. But the Canadiens are fifth with only two victories and a tie in eight starts.

The Habs suffered two straight defeats during the weekend. They dropped a 1-0 decision to Boston Bruins at Montreal Saturday and had to ensure a 4-4 beating from the Wings at Detroit Sunday night.

Toronto Maple Leafs jumped ahead of New York Rangers into second spot with a weekend win and a deadlock. Leafs bounced Chicago Black Hawks 5-2 in Toronto Saturday and tied the Rangers 1-1 in New York Sunday night.

FOR THIRD STRAIGHT

Canadiens went down to their third straight loss Saturday before 13,794 hometown fans. Cal Gardner's goal at 2:47 of the second period proved all goaltender Terry Sawchuk and eight Bostonians needed. The goal ended a Boston power play while Canadiens were shorthanded.

Sawchuk made 22 stops in scoring his first shutout in seven games this season. Plante also made 22 savers.

At Detroit the Wings spotted Canadiens a goal in the first 12 seconds of the game and never drove back with four goals. It was the first meeting of the two clubs this season. The Wings are undefeated after seven starts.

Canadiens' defensive routine appeared about to end when Claude Provost took breakaway pass from Jean Beliveau and scored at :12 of the first period, but that was all.

TIED IT UP

Right Winger Gordie Howe tied it up at 19:54 of the first period. Left winger Ted Lindsay made it 2-1 in the second period by scoring on Howe's lob pass and Red Kelly and Marcel Pronovost added singles in the third.

At Toronto, left winger Dick Duff left Rangers' goalie Gump Worsley for 12,830 fans. Rookies Gary Aldcorn and Larry Cullen and defenceman Jim Morrison scored singles. Nick Mickoski and Eddie Litzenberger were the Chicago marksmen.

A crowd of 13,749 was on hand at New York's Madison Square Garden Sunday night as Aldcorn scored Rangers' first goal at 14:36 of the third period. Dean Prentice gave the Blueshirts a 1-0 lead at 8:27 of the second session.

Clair May Remain With Ottawa Riders

OTTAWA (CP) — Frank Clair, who moved to Ottawa this season with a promise to coach the Rough Riders to their first Big Four playoff in five years, might be in Ottawa for a long time.

Rough Riders clinched a playoff berth Saturday by beating Toronto Argonauts 30-19. Clair now has a two-year club but the club already is talking of extending it.

Rough Riders' general manager James P. McCaffrey told a reporter Sunday:

"Naturally we're interested in having him stay for a long time. We've discussed the matter with Clair and I think he's favorable to the idea.

"I don't think we'll have any trouble keeping him."

Sets Unofficial 10,000 Metre Mark

VANCOUVER (CP) — Doug Kyle, 26-year-old geologist, set an unofficial North American record for the 10,000 metres here Sunday when he was timed in 30 minutes, 15 4-5 seconds.

He raced against the clock in a solo effort.

The record had been held by Joe Tyler of San Diego, Calif., who ran the distance this year in 30:31.8—11 seconds slower than Kyle's time.

Kyle, bucking a strong crosswind at Vancouver's Stanley Park, knocked one minute, 30 1-5 seconds off the previous Canadian record, set by Claude Bricker at Galt, Ont., in 1952.

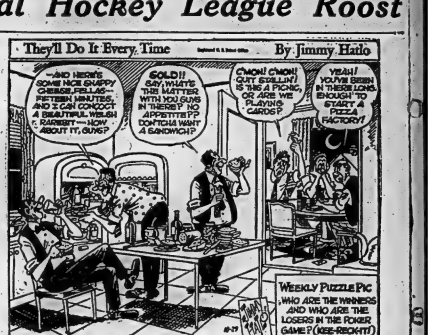
His first at the five-mile mark set another Canadian record—24:46.8—seven seconds faster than the 24:28.0 mark established by Vancouver's Will Chandler in 1913.

At the six miles his elapsed time was 29:14.8, better than the Canadian record 31:1.3 for that distance set in 1952. The North American six-mile record was set in New York this year by Gordon McKenzie in 28:28.1.

The Olympic record for the 10,000 metres is 29:17.0 set at Helsinki in 1952.

SETS RECORD

VANCOUVER (CP) — Helen Stewart of Vancouver Saturday broke the world record for the backyard freestyle swim in an indoor pool, Swimmers in the British Columbia high school championships, the 18-year-old Olympic contestant completed the distance in 57.6 seconds. The old record set June 30 by Judy Alderson of Chicago was 58.1 seconds.



QUEEN'S SECONDS WIN

KINGSTON (CP)—Queen's University Comets matched their Intercollegiate record in the win column Saturday when they defeated the McGill Seconds 23-0.

Marlboros Win Over St. Catherines As Hamilton Cubs Tie St. Mike's 1-1

By The Canadian Press

It's much too early to make predictions, but Toronto St. Michael's College Majors of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series may be on their way to an ward making good a pre-season promise.

The Collegians, who finished fifth last year, said they would be skating in the general direction of first place this season. They did better only two games, Majors lead the league. Two third-period goals by Jack McMaster gave them a 5-4 win over St. Catharines Teepees Saturday. Hamilton Cubs managed only a 1-1 tie with the Irish at Toronto Sunday.

In the only other weekend game the Memorial Cup champion Toronto Marlboros picked up where they left off last spring, crushing St. Catharines 7-3 Sunday in the front half of a doubleheader at Toronto.

At St. Catharines, Teepees led 1-0 after the first period and 2-1 after the second. Majors came on to outscore the home team 4-2 in the last frame.

Bob McKnight matched McMaster's two-goal output for Majors. Dick Mattiussi scored the fifth goal. Don Quenville, John McKenzie, Don Grosso and Ed Stachatra counted for St. Catharines.

Jim Sococki gave St. Michael's a 1-0 lead in the first period Sunday, but Hamilton, with Lloyd Haddon the scorer, came back to tie it up late in the second.

Marlboros' victory earned them a second-place tie with Guelph Biltmores, who also have won a single game. They trail Majors by one point.

Veteran players did most of the damage for Marlboros in a hardbumping contest in which 16 penalties, including two majors, were called. Each team served eight sentences.

Bob Nevins and Ken Girard, both members of last year's Canadian junior championship team, each scored two goals and one assist. Centre Bill Kennedy, also a holdover, bagged two assists. Single goals went to Ron Farnfield and Gord Haughton, neither newcomers, and rookie Henry Marcuzzi.

Teepees blew a two-goal lead amazed in the first period after Rino Robazza and Stan Mikita had tied the mark. The other St. Catharines goal was scored by Chico Maki halfway through the third period when Marlboros were leading 6-2.

Last-Second Goal Earns Tie For Ottawa With McFarlands In Thriller

Canadien Coach Throws Power In Desperate Success Move; Belleville Led Three Times

Another stroke of the clock and the Belleville McFarlands would have skated off the ice with their third victory under their belts and the first defeat handed the starry Ottawa Canadiens in the Eastern Ontario Senior Hockey League.

But it was not to so be. A daring, desperate, last-seconds piece of strategy on the part of Manager Sammy Pollock snatched defeat and turned it into a points-dividing tie.

That is the way it ended. And nearly 2,200 fans shouted themselves hoarse as the McFarlands and Ottawas skated themselves dizzy in a wire-whizzing overtime battle. The final score was 4-4.

The result leaves the Belleville team still undefeated and the Ottawa Canadiens with a higher respect for Eastern Ontario senior "A" hockey "as she is played."

The McFarlands took the lead three times. Victory appeared to be in the bag in the third period when Maurice Benoit's stinging drive "ran up" the Ottawa goalie's sleeve and trickled into the net to give the Macs a 4-3 lead.

Then came manager Pollock's strategic move. He pulled his goalie and sent his concerted power into action. With the clock reading two seconds the Canadiens flashed to the attack. It paid off with Bill Carter's sensational tying goal.

The hard-hitting husky Belleville defenceman Maurice Benoit was the hero of the piece with two goals and an assist. He scored the tying goal in the first period and put the Macs front in the third frame. "Minnie" Menard scored another marker with Henri Therien celebrating his first appearance in a Belleville uniform by getting the fourth tally. Bep Guidolin, Rene St. Hilaire, Keith Macdonald and Paul Peyrette, added assists to their points record.

Harry Lumley Wilson who is destined for a spot with the National League Canadiens rapped home two markers for the pro-bolstered Canadiens with Murray Balfour and Bill Carter getting the others. Wilson also set up the other goals for his team-mates.

The Canadiens were at full strength for the first time in senior "A" company and Manager Pollock threw all his power at the fast-skating McFarlands.

McFarland coach Bep Guidolin selected his players carefully. He skated himself into the ice and did an outstanding job of play-coaching against the starry visitors.

The McFarlands undaunted by the reputation of the starry visitors matched them stride-for-stride and on the night's play looked the better club. Faced by a first-minute setback when the puck trickled by Don Larin after 59 seconds of play, the Macs whipped back to the attack and on their night's performance had the 2100 plus crowd on seat-edge.

A goal, flown in the first few seconds, Guidolin took advantage of a penalty to Jean Pelchaat after four minutes of play and sent his power squadron into action. Benoit blasted home the tying goal at 5.30 and Henri Therrien put the McFarlands into the lead for the first time at 6.13.

Then came the second surprise goal of the night when Murray Balfour slap-shot the puck from the face-off near the Belleville goal to tie the count.

St. Hilaire and Annable got the gate for shoving each other and 19 seconds later Balfour got the heave-ho leaving the Canadiens two men short. Tight defensive work and hard back-checking kept the fast-skating McFarlands off the score sheet.

Five minutes later Benoit struck paydirt for the second time of the night, his hard striking Bolsvert in the Ottawa nets in the arm, rolling up it and dropping off into the net for the score.

The clock was ticking away the seconds when Wilson took Kowalchuk's pass in front of the net and his hard back-hander beat Larin cleanly to once more knot the score.

Midway through the third period Benoit engineered a Belleville drive with Minnie Menard and Paul Peyrette. Minnie took the pass raced across the goal mouth and his blazer hit the net behind Bolsvert to give the McFarlands the lead for the third time.

The Canadiens droved hard for the equalizer and it came and came with some fine stops. Bolsvert at the other end was busy too and a Menard barely missed his second goal with a sizzling drive.

With 45 seconds to go Coach Pollock pulled Bolsvert from the nest and the power drive was on. The McFarlands were unable to clear the puck from their end as the Canadiens whizzed around them. Then with the clock one second off full time and the crowd cheering the McFarlands third straight victory, Carter blasted the rubber behind Larin for the tying marker.

The overtime was as fast as the regulation periods with both teams driving hard for the winner. There was no scoring and the undefeated McFarlands racked up their first tie of the season.

HOW TO BUY A GOOD USED CAR

It's impossible to judge the condition of tires themselves merely by kicking them . . . but a close examination can tell you other facts about a car's condition.

For example, if tires are worn on one side it means that front end suspension or wheel alignment needs attention. This in itself is easily corrected, but as part of your inspection it may influence your opinion as to whether or not the car has had reasonable care.

At Pinder's you'll find that most of the cars reflect ABOVE AVERAGE CARE, because people who are particular trade in their cars with us. Satisfied car drivers are our best advertising!

Name Three Jockeys for Hall of Fame

BALTIMORE (AP) — Johnny Longden, Ted Sloan and Isaac Murphy are the first trio of jockeys to be voted into a Hall of Fame at Pimlico, which announced results Saturday of its poll of sportswriters and broadcasters.

Longden, who has ridden the most winning horses in history, was chosen as the active jockey over Ted Atkinson and Johnny Adams. Sloan and Murphy were picked from among seven nominees of the past.

The three will join Eddie Arcaro, Earl Sande and George Woolf in having their pictures painted and displayed in the Pimlico clubhouse which was built in 1870.

Longden, who is 46, is driving for Kay Spreckels, after setting a record of 4,781 on Sept. 3. The previous record was held by Gordon Richards, like Longden an Englishman.

Murphy and Sloan both rode in the early 1900s. Murphy, a Negro born 628 times out of 1,472 races for a percentage that hasn't been excelled. Sloan performed in the modern style of riding known as monkey-on-a-stick because of short stirrups and crouch on the horse's neck.

Argos Out Larks, Cats, Riders Take Aim At Grey Cup Final Berth

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal, Hamilton and Ottawa have taken dead aim at a berth in the Grey Cup final while Toronto Argonauts are reviving the familiar "wait till next year" ditty. The Argo swan song was particularly sweet music to Frank Clair, an Argonaut castoff who returned to haunt his old club.

Clair, let out by Argos in 1954 after coaching the team to two cup victories in five years, spoiled the clincher Saturday when his Ottawa Rough Riders whipped Argonauts 30-19. Hamilton Tiger-Cats, fighting for the second-place spot in the Big Four Football Union, turned on Montreal Alouettes for a 50-14 upset.

Clair made good a promise he gave Ottawa fans before the season opened—he would get the Riders into their first playoff in five years. And he did it mainly at the expense of Argos.

Saturday's victory, before a Toronto crowd of 15,335, was the fourth in as many starts by the Riders over the hot-and-cold Argonauts. It clinched them a playoff spot and at the same time nullified any chances Argonauts had of hitting the post-season series.

The 14-game schedule ends Saturday with Toronto at Montreal in a game that means nothing in the standings and Hamilton at Ottawa. Riders must beat Ticats by 30 points to nail down the No. 2 spot behind the league-leading Alouettes. Second- and third-place teams meet in a sudden-death semi-final Nov. 7 with the winner meeting Montreal in the two-game total-point final for the Big Four title Nov. 10 and 17.

Riders had little trouble making it four-for-four over Argonauts.

Bob Simpson, veteran end who seems to play his best against Argonauts, scored two touchdowns on passes of 20 and 24 yards. Quarter Hal Ledyard plunged over for another from a yard out, and rookie Gary Schneider, a from Queen's Golden Gaels, went over from the one-yard line after a brilliant 33-yard punt return.

Bud Korchak converted all four and kicked a 17-yard field goal.

Quarter Arnie Galiffa of Argonauts tossed a record 34 passes, completing half of them with three going for touchdowns — two to Bucky Curtis, Gary Schneider's Shasto. Gerry Doucette kicked Toronto's other point. Galiffa's 34 passes broke his own mark of 6 set in a game against Ottawa Sept. 22.

The Tiger-Cat victory was part vital revenge as Montreal's 23-3 triumph over Ticats at Montreal a week previously. The Hamilton crowd of 18,153 booed every minute of it.

Quarter Tony Curcillo, playing with a cast over his broken left wrist, tossed four touchdown passes and boiled over the Montreal line for two himself. His payoff pitches went to Paul Dekker, Ralph Tooby and two to Ralph Goldston. Tex Robinson scored the other Ticat touchdown and Sherm Oneschuk made the convert good on all. Cam Fraser added a single.

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's top skating couple and former world pair-skating champions, Frances Dafoe and Norris Bowden, announced Saturday they are forsaking world amateur competition.

Their retirement from competitive skating means Canada has lost one of its best bets for world and Olympic titles in 1957 and 1960. From 1952 to 1956 the couple was undefeated in amateur competition in Canadian, can North American and two world championships.

They were second in pairs skating at the last winter Olympics and placed in the world champion-ships which followed.

Shirley Sheds Swim Suits, Takes Husband

TORONTO (CP) — Pretty 20-year-old Shirley Campbell, formerly of Fergus, Ont., who twice came within a mile of crossing Lake Ontario, Saturday renounced all interest in marathon swimming when she married assistant store manager Dick Campbell, 23.

At their engagement two months ago, Shirley, a model when she isn't in the water, said: "After the wedding, I won't go back to mar-athon swimming at all."

Wearing a white lace and lace gown, Shirley was attended, as she was on both her swim attempts, by her sister and pacer, Joan, 19, maid - of - honor, five bridesmaids and a flower-girl.

Guests included marathon swim-mers Cliff Lumsdon and his wife Joan.

King Breaks 100-Metre Record

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP)—For the second consecutive week, Lennox King broke the world 100-metre record Saturday as the U.S. Olympic Games track and field team staged another time trial. Two other world marks were bettered, but the performances won't count.

Hal Connolly of Boston surged to the front in his international hammer throw duel with Russia's Mikhail Krivonosov when he let loose with a heave of 224 feet, 8½ inches. Later it was discovered Connolly's hammer was one-quar-ter of an ounce too light.

Last week the Russian hit 220-10½. A few days before, Connolly had done better than 224 feet. Krivonosov's recognized world record is 211-4.

Their refinement from competi-tive skating means Canada has lost one of its best bets for world and Olympic titles in 1957 and 1960. From 1952 to 1956 the couple was undefeated in amateur competition in Canada, can North Ameri-can and two world championships.

They were second in pairs skat-ing at the last winter Olympics and placed in the world champion-ships which followed.

Gerard Cote Quits Running

ST. HYACINTHE, Que. (CP)—Gerard Cote, the famed French smoking marathoner from St. Hy-acynthe who established himself as top international competitor, has decided to hang up his run-ning shoes after 25 years of rac-ing.

The 43-year-old father of four ran his last race Sunday—the 12-mile St. Hyacinthe Marathon which he organized. He finished 13th in the race won by Gordon Dickson of Claresholm, Alta., in one hour, three minutes and 20 seconds. His time was 1:15:38.

Cote, the only man to win the famed 26-mile Boston Marathon four times and victor in the Yonkers Marathon three times, quit to devote more time to his job as publicity manager for Claron Mastoutin, a St. Hyacinthe French - language bi-weekly. He said he wanted to devote more time to sing and decided it was about time to begin making money.

HONORED BY CEREMONY

After Sunday's race, Mayor Ze-nest Picard thanked the marath-oner at a civic ceremony for placing St. Hyacinthe on the in-ternational sports map. A civic-zens' committee showed the city's appreciation by presenting Cote with gifts.

Quitting active competition doesn't mean goodbye running for Cote. He plans to continue run-ning for his health.

His last 26-mile marathon was in the British Empire Games in Vancouver in 1954. That was the only race in his career he failed to finish. Stomach trouble forced him to step out. The last major marathon he finished was the Boston event three years ago in which he was 17th.

Recalling his career, he said his biggest thrill came in winning the Boston Marathon the second time, in 1943. He was suffering from in-digestion and wasn't certain he could finish the race. He almost fainted. Other racers were out-distancing him, but he finally settled down and overtook them to win the event in two hours, 23 minutes and six seconds.

Franklin Farnum, Once Star In Movie, Now Extra Player

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The hand-some, tuxedoed gent of matinee years looked familiar. But he took his place among the extras in the night club scene.

He was Franklin Farnum, once a star in the movies and now proud to be an extra. So much so that he has just been elected pres-ident of the Screen Extras Guild.

After stage experience, Farnum came to Hollywood 42 years ago, and has been in pictures ever since. He starred first as a leading man, then in western series.

By the mid-30s he found stu-dom had passed him by. He had a wife and young daughter and the only work he knew was acting. He paid a call to central casting, the studios' agency for hiring ex-tras.

His top salary in films had been $1,500 a week. Now he earns be-tween $5,000 and $7,500 a year, a the better-than-average sum for an extra.

Basic wage is $21 for an eight-hour day. Dress extras, who pro-vide their own formal wear, earn $28.33. If an extra is featured in a shot, he gets $7.75 additional for "special business." A non-speaking closeup, or "silent bit," earns $39.88.

"Quite a difference from the old days," Farnum said. "They used to pay extras $2 a day before un-ion. And when they had a night club scene, they'd invite people to do it for nothing, just for the curiosity of seeing pictures made."

Celeste Holm Will Be Witch In 'Jack and the Beanstalk'

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Sometimes the cast of a television program is swept by an enthusiasm in re-hearsal that rarely invariably promises a good show.

This is the case with the cast of Jack and the Beanstalk' which comes on the television via NBC-TV Nov. 12 as this season's third offering of Producers' Show-case.

Celeste Holm, the beautiful and talented singer and actress who has happily accepted the role of the witch, says "It's a wonderful story, with wonderful music."

Miss Holm accepted the role for the same and only reason she will play a television role' —because she likes it.

Speaking of children's tales, The Wizard of Oz will be presented this coming Saturday evening by Ford Star Jubilee, Judy Garland will star in a cast that includes Frank Morgan, Ray Bolger, Bert Lahr, Jack Haley, Margaret Hamil-ilton, Charley Grapewin and Billie Burke.

There are unconfirmed reports that this will be the last Ford Star Jubilee program of the sea-son.

Oregon, Stanford Fight for Rose Bowl Epic

NEW YORK (AP) — Whatever happens the rest of the college football season, there will be no more unfamiliar faces in the major bowl games on Jan. 1.

Georgia Tech should win the Southeastern Conference title and thus play host in the Sugar Bowl. But beyond the "Ramblin' Wrecks," the potential bowl teams will cause many a coach to raise an eyebrow and ask: "Who they?"

The fight for the home Pub in the Rose Bowl, for example, has developed into a scrap between Oregon State and Stanford, a couple of teams that have spent much of their time in the base-ments of the Pacific Coast confer-ence. Stanford turned back South-ern Cal Saturday 27-19, while Ore-gon State defeated UCLA 21-7.

In the Big Ten, which produces the visiting Rose Bowl team, Michigan is the favorite. But the Wolverines were horribly embar-rassed by Minnesota Saturday, 34-7. And upstart Iowa whipped Purdue, 21-20, leaving Minnesota and the Hawkeyes the only un-beaten teams in the loop. They meet Nov. 10, with Minnesota fa-vored.

The Orange Bowl match, be-tween the Big Seven and Atlantic Coast conferences this year, looks like Colorado against Clemson, hardly a match to cause palpita-tions. Colorado dropped Nebraska 19-0 Saturday.

Oklahoma won its 35th straight, a whopping 40-0 victory over Missouri Saturday. Oklahoma State, the current leader in the weekly As-sociated Press poll, was defeated 20-13 by Illinois — the shocker of the season so far.

Long-Shot Filly Wins Rich Canadian Race

TORONTO (CP) — The entire pot of gold in Canada's richest horse race, the $50,000-added Can-adian Championship, was taken Saturday by America - owned thoroughbreds.

The second longest shot on the board, at odds of 348.70 to $1, Eugenia II, South American filly owned by W. Arnold Hanger, Buffalo, N.Y., thrilled the crowd of 30,489 at New Woodbine race track when it took a 2¾-length lead going into the final five-eighths and held it until the finish. The time for the 1¼-mile event was 2:03 2-5 on a fast track.

Prince Morvil, Australian-bred, finished second 1¼ lengths in front of Wise Margin. Paper Tiger, who finished second in the 1953 race, was fourth.

Canadian Champ, Canadian horse of the year in 1955, led the pace to the half-way mark at faded badly. The Champ, ridden by Eugene Rodriguez, was last in the field of 12. Rodriguez eased up the Champ when he was hope-lessly beaten.

TAKES LEAD

Eugenia II, ridden by Jose San-cher, kept well up on the early pace. When Sanchez made his move for the final drive, Eugenia II bounded into a two-length lead.

It was the first time the race had been held at New Woodbine and the 3:03 3-5 clocking is a rec-ord.

The winner's share of the purse was $42,700. Prince Morvil earned $10,000, Wise Margin $5,000 and Paper Tiger $2,300.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, October 30, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — This day is likely to be more suitable to your talents and training than it will be to many. Close scrutiny, patience, farsightedness can bring about unusual results. Have faith.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Many of your benefits today can come through better cooperation with associates, friends, family, superiors. Don't attempt more than you can reasonably handle, however.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — A good outlook if you manage things cleverly. Show appreciation where it is due. You are working in a period that needs concentration, keenness.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Some contacts influential in your personal undertakings, in your position, home affairs. Concentrate on essentials, follow through responsibly and you'll achieve.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You may have to hustle a little more than usual, but the results will be gratifying. Don't waste time talking. Work; then relax.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — There will be plenty of opportunities today. Will you take advantage of them? Accept improved ways and means.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — This day offers more than you may think. Increase vigilance, be alert at all times; even put forth feelers to be in on newest happenings. Have no domestic misunderstandings.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — You, too, can do more with this day than you imagine. However, go slowly until you have thoroughly scanned the possibilities and analysed what you can handle adequately.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Take things calmly, equably, temperately and you will be able to think more clearly. Those with practical wisdom will lead in ferreting out prizes and rewards today.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Controlling emotional reactions is a "must"; also any inclination to extravagance. Protect your assets and those of others.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Speed is rarely as important and as consistency, but, if necessary, give the extra spurt needed. Don't antagonize superiors. Attend needlessly, nor become upset yourself.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Sailing may not be entirely smooth now, but if you will get irksome chores out of the way early, you can accomplish more than you may anticipate.

You born today are roundly capable, quick of action, ready to defend a worthy cause no matter the odds against it. You are appreciative of art, music, sports, intellectual pursuits. Do not fall into idle habits or become discouraged at setbacks. With daily determined effort to do your best you can achieve wonders. Use your keen perception, put aside jealousies and worry over what others "may" think. Birthdate of John Adams, 2nd U.S. Pres.; Richard B. Sheridan, English statesman-dramatist.

BRITAIN EXPORTS PUB

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain is sending one of its most convivial assets, a typical English pub, to the convention of the American Society of Travel Agents in Chicago on Nov. 4. The immigrant pub will have everything that "come to Britain" advertisements promise—an old-fashioned inn sign ("The Nag's Head") four Wedgwood china beer-engine handles and spigots, shove-halfpenny and dart boards, horse brasses and hunting prints. All the drinks will be on the house.

POLISH REGIME

The freeing of Cardinal Wyszynski is certain to arouse fervent enthusiasm from a wide section of the Polish population, about 90 per cent of which is Roman Catholic. The clemency was another move by Wladyslaw Gomulka, the anti-Stalinist restored to power last week as chief of the Polish Communist party, to unite the country for the all-out assault the government must make to ease Poland's economic difficulties.

RISE AMY BOSS OUT?

Meanwhile, indications mounted today that Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, Poland's Russian-installed defence minister, is no longer in direct control of his ministry or of the Polish Army. An informed source said Rokossovsky, one of the Soviet Union's outstanding wartime commanders, is officially "on leave."

Rokossovsky's removal from the Polish scene has been widely anticipated since he was ousted from the Communist party politburo last week in the wave of "independence from Moscow" which brought Gomulka back to office.

YANK WARSHIP GROUNDS

PORT SAID, Egypt (Reuters) — The United States Navy destroyer Roberts ran aground in the Suez Canal about 31 miles south of Port Said Sunday but was later refloated, it was authoritatively stated here. The Roberts was piloted by an Egyptian pilot, Captain Holland, who refused later to confirm that the destroyer has grounded.

SAW RUSSIAN

The soldiers, in their Soviet-style uniforms, had torn the red stars from their caps and substituted a scrap of red-white-green material in its place.

Many had even torn their hammer and sickle buttons from their overcoats, and wore them only with a belt around the waist.

The president of the national revolutionary committee for Veszprem county gave a car at my disposal to continue by journey. But before I left he looked at my British passport, then stood up and had it back to me, and said: "God save the Queen."

Driving almost cross-country, we spotted a Russian soldier on a motorcycle almost at the same instant he saw us. He jumped off and signalled us to stop, levelling his tommy-gun at us.

We stopped. He waved the muzzle, indicating for me to get out. We did. The committee member accompanying me, known as Tom, a mountain of a man, moved forward as though to speak to the Russian. He seemed as scared as we were.

But Tom had not gone two paces when the trigger-happy Russian fired at us. The range was about 50 paces. He must have been a poor shot, because the bullets whistled all around us and two hit the car.

When the brief burst stopped, Tom also had a smoking gun in his hand. I did not hear him fire above the noise of the tommy-gun, but I saw the Russian crumple.

We piled back into the car and drove off at top speed.

SNOW IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It snowed, lightly and briefly, in Los Angeles Sunday. Most of the stuff, rare here, fell in Griffith Park and in neighboring Glendale, but quickly melted.

ISRAEL

The main American fear seems to be that Israel might regard the next few days as no ideal time to strike a blow at its Arab foes.

Israel might officially feel, that Russia is so deeply involved in trying to cope with its Eastern European difficulties that it would not be apt to rush aid to the Arabs in the Middle East, and that the U.S. is so concerned by its approaching elections that it is not likely to take decisive action.

IKE'S THIRD APPEAL

Eisenhower's statement said it was his third appeal to Israel against any military action which might spread into a bigger Middle East war.

"During the last several days," he said, "it have received disturbing reports from the Middle East. These include information that Israel was making a heavy mobilization of its armed forces.

By Saturday morning the reports were "not well authenticated" that after talking with Dulles he sent a personal message to Ben-Gurion. This message expressed "my grave concern" and urged "in the strongest recommendation that no forceful initiative be taken which would endanger the peace."

Eisenhower said he cabled his third appeal to Ben-Gurion Sunday after "additional reports which indicate that the Israeli mobilization has continued and has become almost complete."

Diplomatic sources said Israel's mobilization amounted virtually to complete call-up of all its armed forces. Israel described it as "partial mobilization."

RUSSIAN

Budapest radio announced that Soviet troops had begun pulling out of the battle - scarred capital as Nagy promised. But fighting, tanks and big guns still were reported in the heart of the city.

The rebel radio at Gyor, in Northwest Hungary, reported that it had received information from Northeast Hungary that the withdrawal of Russian troops in the border areas there took place during the night. There was no confirmation of the report from any other source.

There still was no clear answer from the leaders of the new massive concessions promised by Nagy's Communist - dominated "popular front" government.

These includes a promise to open immediate negotiations with Moscow for the withdrawal of all Soviet troops from Hungary. But they did not include any suggestion that Communist-run Hungary would permit free elections or the establishment of a representative government.

COMMITTEE ARRIVES

The government radio announced that a committee from rebel headquarters in Gyoer had arrived in Budapest immediately to discuss the situation with government representatives.

The broadcast said the rebel committee was appealing to the workers in Gyoer to re-establish calm and order and resume work.

The Budapest radio also reported that the food situation in the capital had been secured. But despite promises to reopen communications with the outside world, there still was no telephone connection with Budapest.

With Budapest ravaged after nearly a week of street fighting, thousands were reported dead or wounded all over the country.

In an earlier broadcast Premier Imre Nagy virtually begged the rebels to lay down their arms, saying that the Russians had agreed to pull their troops out of Budapest. He promised he would negotiate for withdrawal of Soviet troops from the rest of the country, and he also agreed to disband the hated secret police.

CRITICAL STRUGGLE

Associated Press correspondent Endre Marton, in a dispatch brought from Austria to Vienna by a traveler, reported that Nagy was locked in a critical struggle to get the Communist party central committee to back his promises, and was ready to quit if they did not.

Marton quoted authoritative sources in Budapest as saying that the faction backing the former premier, Ernoe Gerve — a major target of the rebels' wrath — was still dominant in the central committee and was aiming to sabotage Nagy's attempt to loosen Soviet control of Hungary.

Marton added that the possibility of Gerve's resignation soon could not be ruled out, although his entrenchment in power which resulted in the intervention of the Russian troops had made him "the most hated man in Hungary."

This indicated that weekend reports that Gerve had been shot were erroneous.)

REPORTS UNCONFIRMED

There were unconfirmed reports that the Russians had kept some of their tanks out of the battle to avoid casualties among anti-Soviet freedom fighters from their strongholds.

It was also reported that the Hungarian government, knowing that many rebels would refuse to deal with the Russians, had sent out army parties to negotiate with isolated insurgent bands in the capital.

Radio Warsaw broadcast an appeal from Poland's new Communist party chief, Wladyslaw Gomulka, urging the Hungarian rebels to end bloodshed and assuring them that Nagy's government was working to win full independence from Moscow. Gomulka was brought back to power last week ended in a shakeup which threw out the Stalinists and placed Poland on a more independent footing.

The Hungarian insurgents appeared unsatisfied by Nagy's promises. A broadcast from the rebel - controlled city of Gyoer, in Northwest Hungary, said their demands for free elections and Hungary's withdrawal from the Soviet - dominated Warsaw pact alliance of Eastern Europe.

WE HAVE WON

"The only people who fired on us were the security police — and the Russians," said the rebels bitterly.

Outside the hall a constant stream of cars and trucks moved in from Austria. They carried food and medical supplies.

It was to arrange for these supplies that the rebels came here. Hegyeshalom itself went over to the rebel side in a "bloodless revolution" two days ago.

"Do the West know what we are doing?" asked one rebel eagerly.

"Give them a message from us," he added. "Tell them, we want to live in friendship with them."

NEWS OF LIBERATION READ BY POLES

— Avid for news of the Polish Communist party's break with the Kremlin, these Warsaw residents stand, sit, or bend over to gobble up the latest news in the newspapers that carried the official bulletins. The new anti-Kremlin Communist regime is hard at work on its reform policies while armed guards patrol the Soviet embassy following a wild anti-Russian demonstration by Polish youths in front of the building. Little Benny's Notebook

It was my homework time, and I was on the floor on my stummick trying to imagine I was the drummer in a band while I did an arithmetic problem, and ma said, Benny, cant you do your lessons without banging the floor with your feet?

Maybe you'd better not distract him, pop said. This is one of those rare times when I've seen him really immersed in his homework, he said, and I said, Well, heck, no wonder, pop. I'm doing one of the hardest problems I ever had to do, I said.

Then for Pete sake keep concentrating and I'm sure virtue will be rewarded, pop said. In fact if you haven't solved it in 5 minutes or so, I'll make an exception to my general rule by putting my own shoulder to the wheel, he said.

Meaning he would help me do it by doing it himself, and pritty soon I said, It's 5 minutes or so, pop, and I haven't did it yet.

Okay, reed me the problem, pop said.

Which I did, being it brown sugar costs 10 cents a 3rd of a pound, and white sugar costs 4 cents for 7 ounces, how much would you have to pay if you got a pound and a quarter of mixed brown and white sugar if there was 3 fifth more brown than white in the mixture?

Goodness, ma said. There's so much mixture in any market on land or sea, and it's cruel and unusual to overload a child's mind in that manner, she said, and pop said, Maybe if I knew the child he overloaded his own mind with it. Benny, did that monstrously come out of your own overloaded imagination? he said.

Yes sir, I said, and he said, Do your homework, and I meen your homework.

Which I did feeling against it.

PICCARD CLOSE TO DIVING RECORD

A new sea depth of 12,480 feet has been reached by Swiss-Belgian scientist Jacques Piccard, right, shown with his father, Auguste, beside their baby bathysphere "Trieste," on which the pair set their last record three years ago. The dive is still some 800 feet under the all-time underwater record set in 1954 by French naval officers. (Central Press Canadian).

Another Year Of Good Business Seen by Experts

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaders of business and industry in the United States were betting last week on at least another year of good business.

Consensus was that the outcome of the November presidential election would not alter the over-all business trend perceptibly — and that the basic economic facts of life would remain unchanged.

No matter how the battle of the ballots turned out, said economists, the country could count on three things: Big spending programs by government and business, plenty of jobs, and steadily rising wages and prices.

A group of 221 economists, polled by F. W. Dodge Corporation, gave this picture of things to come: next year will unquestionably be the biggest business year yet. But a good part of the 5% such basic economic indicators as gross national product, retail trade and the like will be accounted for by rising prices.

Standing out as a notable exception to the upward price trend was copper.

BOLD PRICE LEVEL

Since July, major U.S. producers had been holding the price level at 45 cents a pound, although trading production without any commensurate rise in demand had forced the price downward in world markets. This week the U.S. industry's price level retreated—first Phelps Dodge, then Kennecott and Anaconda. The new price is 36 cents a pound.

On the consumer front, living costs as measured by the bureau of labor statistics were still inching upward. The bureau's cost-of-living index for September rose three-tenths of one per cent to 117.1 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

Income in general was higher, too. Average take-home pay of a factory worker with a wife and two dependent children touched a record high of $74.04 a week. That is $1.30-a-week more than he took home in August.

Stock traders were among the economy's forgotten men this week. Except for a brisk rally on Friday, the market drifted aimlessly while third quarter corporate earnings reports provided a mixed diet of news.

General Motors' net profit for the quarter was down 25 per cent from a year ago, Ford's was down more than 50 per cent and Bethlehem Steel's (reflecting a strike shutdown in July) down almost 90 per cent. Profits of major oil companies, led by Socony Mobil Gulf, were substantially higher.

BIG FACES

The likenesses of four American presidents carved in Mount Rushmore in Dakota's Black Hills can be seen for 60 miles.

Babies Face Election Year Complications

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Benjamin Spock, child - care specialist, strongly recommends that political campaign buttons be at least three inches wide.

Anything smaller could be swallowed too easily by children, the doctor said in discussing care of the child during an election year.

But as for baby - kissing being dangerous to babies — "I suppose it depends on the candidate."

Nine million parents know of Dr. Spock—that's how many copies of his "Pocket Book on Baby and Child Care" have been sold since it first was published in 1946. Dr. Spock acknowledged that none of the children reared with the help of his book are old enough to vote yet.

How to Make Own False Teeth

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A 48-year-old wife testified Friday at a hearing on her divorce suit that she had to make her own false teeth.

Mrs. Marjorie Lee McClurken said her wealthy husband, Jesse, 53 — year - old contractor, wouldn't buy false teeth for her. She showed the court the set she was wearing.

Mrs. McClurken asked possession of community property, which her suit valued at a $1,000,000.

COLLIDE IN NY HARBOR

NEW YORK (AP)—Six persons were injured slightly Friday night aboard a Staten Island ferry when the craft and a Belgian freighter brushed each other amidship in New York Bay. The ferry boat was headed for Manhattan while the freighter, the Lumbermanhall, was outbound. Damage to both vessels was slight. How the vessels got so close was not determined.

Wants to Take Exams

UNION CITY, N.J. (AP) — A 17-year-old girl who wants to go to Annapolis will be permitted to take a preliminary entrance examination to the strictly-male U.S. Naval Academy.

Mary Ann Bonalski will be permitted to take the test along with a group of male applicants November 21. Mary Ann, a senior at Holy Rosary Academy, announced Tuesday that she wanted to go to naval academy — not as a midshipman's date but as a student.

Whether she will be allowed to enter the academy if she qualifies is another matter. Congressman T. James Tumulty says that will depend on a ruling from Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas.

Hungary Promised Free Elections

Coalition Govt. Ends Nine Years' Communist Rule

Will Restore Mindszenty As Catholic Church Primate

VIENNA, Austria (Reuters) — The people of Hungary today were promised a coalition government of "all democratic parties" and free Western-style elections, ending Hungary's nine years of absolute Communist rule.

The dramatic announcement over Budapest radio came as a crowning concession to the week-old Hungarian rebellion as spectacular fighting continued in the capital.

For the first time since the Communists took over the country in an armed coup in 1947, the government will include non-Communist parties — among them the conservative Smallholders and Social Democrats.

Premier Imre Nagy, the "Titoist" Communist leader swept into power at the height of the fighting last week, announced the end of one-party rule and a return to the coalition system.

Dr. Zoltan Tildy, Hungarian president until the Communist takeover, followed Nagy on the radio rostrum to announce that there would be free elections.

Tildy also said he had promised a workers' delegation that Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, convicted eight years ago of anti-state activities, would be restored fully to his office as primate of Hungary.

He called on all small farmers to begin reorganizing the banned Free Smallholders party which had ruled in coalitions in the immediate post-war period.

Nagy asserted that the new coalition would include "all democratic parties."

A demand for free elections, together with the withdrawal of Russian troops, was the twin battle cry of the rebel forces.

The withdrawal of Russian troops was promised during the weekend as an earlier concession to the rebels.

Today, Nagy said he was calling on the Soviet commander to carry out the withdrawal and will immediately enter negotiations with the Soviet government.

The Budapest radio had today broadcast an announcement by Nagy that Soviet troops have started pulling out of Budapest.

Nagy announced the composition of a small cabinet, which will include one member of the National Peasant party, whose name was not announced.

With Nagy and Tildy in it, the new cabinet will be Ferenc Erdei, a deputy premier; Bela Kovacs, established Soviet agricultural general of the Landowners party who was named agriculture minister in the new government formed on Saturday; Janos Kardar, Hungarian Communist party secretary; Geza Losonczy and the unnamed Social Democrat.

Kardar and Losonczy, the only members of the new cabinet who were not in the government announced Saturday, will become ministers of state. Losonczy, a member of the new Hungarian politburo, was formerly undersecretary of state in the prime minister's office.

Tildy also announced that Kossa Peter, the Hungarian representative at the United Nations in New York, would be withdrawn.

Party chief Kardar said the decision for free elections and revival of other parties had been unanimously agreed within the Communist party in order to avoid further bloodshed.

He said faulty leadership had caused the party considerable damage. It was a big decision to make but even if they had to start right from the beginning, it was a clean start.

Ferenc Erdei announced that the National Peasants party also would be revived. He was a member of the party before the Second World War.

In his address, Premier Nagy appealed to the people to stand behind the "national government," he assured them that all the wrongs which had occurred since 1945 would be put right.

Fighting slacked off in the Maria Terezia barracks, a rebel stronghold in a week of civil war. Insurgents who had held out since Monday 8am fire marched out defiantly this morning and announced they would not put down their arms until the Russians have left Budapest.

Five Soviet tanks were still parked about 500 yards from the barracks.

Other reports from Budapest said the rebels were still defiant, and said they would keep their weapons until the last Russian had left the city.

The rebels are holding much of the Hungarian countryside and the Red Army surrender agreement announced in Budapest be disregarded.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Red Cross, announcing its third air shipment of medical supplies to Hungary, said Monday reports from the Hungarian Red Cross indicate 12,000 persons were wounded in bitter fighting in Budapest.

HUSBAND, WIFE CONVICTED OF KILLING RECLUSE

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Guay To Hang February 5

SUDBURY (CP)—Eli and Christina Guay, parents of seven children and expecting their eighth, Monday night were convicted of murder and, protesting their innocence, were sentenced to die on the gallows next Feb. 5.

An Assize Court jury deliberated for little more than two hours before finding Eli, 37, and his 27-year-old wife guilty of beating to death elderly recluse William Snider of Spanish River.

Snider, 79, was found dead last June in his ramshackle cabin. He had been beaten to death and was the victim of a plot to steal his money.

When Mr. Justice G. A. Gale of the Ontario Supreme Court asked Christine if she had anything to say before sentence was pronounced, she replied: "Mrs. Guay asked to speak for her husband.

"If anybody is guilty, it's myself," she said. "I will pay the penalty."

Mr. Justice Gale turned again to Eli. This time Eli spoke, saying: "I never was in there. (Snider's cabin) I am not guilty."

The judge asked Mrs. Guay whether she wished to say something before sentence was passed on her. Mrs. Guay contradicted her earlier statement by saying: "I am not guilty of this crime."

The woman, who is expecting a child in ten months, and her husband were escorted from the court room by a matron, a nurse and two guards.

During the trial Christina Guay testified she and her sister-in-law Florence Guay, 31, entered the old recluse's cabin intending to rob him. She said her husband waited outside in the car.

Christina said she and her husband had devised a plan whereby Florence would become friendly with Snider and attempt to sell him some clothes in the hope of finding where he kept his money.

Florence testified that when things seemed to be going according to plan, she left the cabin. She said she returned to see when she heard her sister-in-law calling for her.

Christina said she saw Snider on the floor and Florence jump on him with her knees. Florence, chief crown witness, testified that it was Eli and his wife who attacked Snider.

Dr. R. M. Mitchell of Sudbury testified in reply to crown questioning that it was possible for the injuries suffered by Snider to have been caused by a 116-pound woman but that a heavier weight, say 218 pounds would be more likely to produce such injuries. Florence Guay weighs about 116 pounds, Eli about 218.

Governor-General Finds Canadian Communities Lacking in Beauty

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Massey, admitting his "very deep interest" in the subject, has weighed the beauty of Canadian communities and found them in considerable want.

In a speech Monday night to the Community Planning Association of Canada, he also dropped a hint about how the unlovely appeal of many communities might be remedied.

He dragged for more parks and squares, greater preservation of trees and greater beauty of areas in which communities are developing. He added, "should be within the capacity of any city of a reasonable size."

". . . If we could induce a mood in which the citizen of a modest surplus could ask 'What could I give my town?' it would become easier to ask the municipality to play its part. It has, of course, a dominant part to play.

"Planning in Europe, in cities and towns destroyed in the war, building-up for music and drama and opera are rising from the rubble because the public wants them and is prepared to pay for them. The people must pay for the supply of light and water."

Mr. Massey suggested that provinces that in preparing to extend their ideas and feelings on community planning, he found that, "in common prudence, I had better not say how the unlovely mess of many communities might be remedied."

He shrugged for more parks and squares, greater preservation of trees and greater beauty of areas in which communities are developing. He added, "should be within the capacity of any city of a reasonable size."

". . . If we could induce a mood in which the citizen of a modest surplus could ask 'What could I give my town?' it would become easier to ask the municipality to play its part. It has, of course, a dominant part to play.

ARAB LEADERS FACE NEW WAR WITH ISRAEL

The Egyptian Chief of Staff, Gen. Abdul Hakim Amer (right), is a busy man today. His country has been invaded by Israeli forces. In the above picture he is shown shaking hands with King Hussein of Jordan, left, whose country may be attacked next, if Washington observers are correct. In the U.S. capital most authorities tend to regard the Israeli thrust into Egypt as a possible diversionary attack. Israeli's main goal, it is believed, is eventually to straighten out the Jordan bulge on its southeastern border. The Egyptian border has been relatively quiet in recent weeks, but there have been numerous frontier incidents on the Jordan border. (Central Press Canadian).

U.S. Favors Sternest Moves Short of War to Halt Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States was reported today to favor the sternest Western Big Three measures—short of war—to halt Israel's sudden military lunge into Egypt's Sinai desert.

Eisenhower administration officials were reported convinced that only such united action by the Western Allies could induce Israel to order a withdrawal of its troops from Egyptian territory.

U.S. officials obviously were in banking also on swift moves by the United Nations to alleviate the gravest threat of all - out Middle East war since the 1948 Arab-Israeli conflict.

President Eisenhower's decision to appeal to the UN Security Council today, it was hoped, would focus massive public opinion on Israel's action.

Officials hoped that in these circumstances Israel might back down before counter-attacks by Jordan, Egypt and other countries could turn the limited fighting into a full-scale conflict.

Alarmed authorities conceded, however, that it might already be too late to patch up the bitter peace between Israel and its Arab foes.

Eisenhower held an emergency meeting with his military and foreign policy advisers Monday night on the White House said the U.S. would stand by its 1950 pledge with Britain and France to aid any victim of aggression in the area.

"We shall honor our pledge," said White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, who said he spoke with Eisenhower's authorization. Hagerty said the problem of whether to call a special session of Congress was decided in the light of the unfolding situation."

Chairman Walter George (Dem., Ga.) of the Senate foreign relations committee said earlier the Israeli situation might necessitate an immediate call for a special session. The U.S. election is a week from today.

A suspicion, voiced only in most guarded fashion, was that France might be secretly encouraging Israel. Officials said reliable weekend reports indicated Israel's air force had rushed to battle-ready positions with far more French equipment than U.S. authorities believed they had.

Most authorities here tended to regard Israel's thrust into the Sinai Peninsula as a possible diversionary attack. Israel's main goal, it is believed, is eventually to straighten out the Jordan bulge on its southeastern border.

Canada's Plan to Sell Jets To Israel Now Under Review

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government apparently has decided to wait and see what happens in the wake of Israel's invasion of Egypt before deciding whether to allow sale of 24 Canadair-built Sabre jet fighters to the Israelis to proceed.

An external affairs department spokesman said Monday night the earlier government decision to allow the sale is being reviewed in the light of reports from the Middle East that Israeli forces have marched into Egypt.

"The situation is that none of the aircraft as yet left Canada," the spokesman said.

"This government will be the ultimate authority that likely would exist if the planes were poised for immediate delivery to Israel and might mean a decision will not be reached on the Israeli request scheduled for Thursday.

"In view of the recent developments in Palestine the spokesman added, "the question of permitting these aircraft to go forward is under review."

The decision to allow the jets to be delivered or to hold them back will hinge on whether the government regards Israel's action as an act of aggression.

Sale of the jets, built by Canadair Ltd., of Montreal, at a purchase price including spare parts of about $7,200,000 was announced Sept. 21 by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

He said at the time that the government's decision was "greatly influenced" by the fact Egypt has received "large numbers" of jet fighters from Russia and, "even more important, a considerable number of jet bombers, of which Israel possesses none."

The cabinet order approving the jet sale to Israel reserves the government's right to cancel or postpone it "if political circumstances warrant. Canada approved the sale with the permission from the United States and Britain. Both countries are not sending this type of arms to Israel.

The external affairs official said all Canadians in Israel, Jordan, Syria and Egypt have been advised to leave. He said they will be able to take advantage of U.S. evacuation facilities.

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP)—Auburn State prison reports an escape attempt was averted with the discovery of a 20-foot tunnel section. Warden Robert E. Murphy said Monday the tunnel, discovered in a routine investigation, originated under a building and was to have gone under a prison wall.

Britain, France To Occupy Suez Canal Zone If Fighting Does Not Cease In 12 Hours

United States Asks UN to Order Israel To Withdraw From Egyptian Territory

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain and France today warned Israel and Egypt to withdraw their military forces 10 miles from the Suez Canal within 12 hours or Anglo-French troops would move into the zone "in whatever strength may be necessary to secure compliance."

British Prime Minister Eden revealed to a tense House of Commons that the warnings were sent to Tel Aviv and Cairo after his meeting here at noon with French Premier Guy Mollet.

Eden also disclosed that Britain and France had asked Egypt to agree that Anglo-French forces should in any case move temporarily to key positions in the canal zone.

Eden said the communications to Israel and Egypt also called upon them to "stop all warlike action by land, sea and air forthwith." He said the two governments had been asked to reply by the early morning tomorrow morning" but, he added, "I hope they will reply tonight."

If British time is five hours ahead of Eastern Standard Time.) Eden also said that Israel assured the British ambassador in Tel Aviv Monday that Israeli forces would not attack Jordan.

The prime minister spoke as Israeli forces pressed their attack closer to the Suez area.

Britain and France sent the 12-hour warning to Israel and Egypt less than 24 hours after the Israeli attack had been launched.

CLEAR WARNING

"It has been made clear to them that, in the consideration of that time, one or both have not undertaken to comply with these requirements, British and French forces will intervene in whatever strength may be necessary to secure compliance," Eden said.

The prime minister made his statement after conferring here with Premier Guy Mollet of France who flew over to London with Foreign Minister Christian Pineau this morning for urgent talks on the new crisis.

Eden said that Israeli forces had penetrated deep into Egyptian territory and reports had been received indicating that Israeli troops had been dropped.

"I must tell the house that very grave issues are at stake and unless hostilities can quickly be stopped free passage through the canal will be jeopardized."

Eden said that British and French governments have agreed everything possible should be done to bring hostilities to an end as quickly as possible.

Mollet and Pineau left immediately after the meeting for Paris.

Most authorities here tended to regard Israel's thrust into the Sinai Peninsula as a possible diversionary attack. Israel's main goal, it is believed, is eventually to straighten out the Jordan bulge on its southeastern border.

ARABS TO MOBILIZE

LONDON (Reuters) — Beirut radio reported tonight that general mobilization had been ordered in Saudi Arabia.

CAIRO (CP)—Egypt and Israel received a stern warning from Britain and France today to cease fighting in the Sinai peninsula. The Western powers threatened to occupy key positions in the Suez Canal zone unless there is a ceasefire within 12 hours.

The announcement came as Egyptian and Israeli forces were clashing deep within the Sinai peninsula, which Israel invaded Monday.

Prime Minister Eden said Britain and France have asked both sides to keep their forces 10 miles away from the canal.

At the same time, the United States asked the UN Security Council to meet today to try to draw immediately from Egyptian territory.

Egyptian President Nasser was reported to have ordered a general mobilization as the fighting looked more and more like war. Israel had gained a war footing during the weekend.

In a midnight broadcast by the Cairo radio, Egypt said she reserves the right to take "all measures necessary" to "defend her and Nations charter" in the face of the Israeli attack.

CLAIM VICTORY

In a communique this afternoon, the Egyptians claimed they had "annihilated" an Israel force west of Nakhl, about 70 miles inside Egypt.

Israel military spokesmen at Tel Aviv announced the capture of the Egyptian position of Quseima, about 20 miles inside the Egyptian border, and about 15 miles southwest of the El Auja demilitarized border area.

This action indicated the Israelis had struck deep into nasser territory, a 70-mile front in their invasion of Egypt Monday.

Earlier, a two - pronged attack from Kuntilla and the head of the Gulf of Aqaba, far to the south, had been reported without confirmation to have driven almost 30 miles inside Egypt to within 18½ miles of the Suez Canal.

Innocent Fun But No Damage Says Police Chief

In Belleville as in other centres across the country Hallowe'en will be observed tonight (Wednesday) night and by custom it is the night for the witches to howl and for young folks in general to have themselves a bit of fun.

But Police Chief Walter Probert today warned that the fun must be of the innocent variety or the pranksters may find themselves running afoul of the law.

"Police don't mind a bit of innocent fun but we are determined that it be kept just that," remarked the chief. "No damage of property will be condoned."

And to back up his warning Chief Probert noted that extra constables and prowl cars will be on the streets to see that Hallowe'en celebrants behave themselves.

Quinte Skating Club Opens Season With Pro Instruction

The Quinte Skating club opens what should be one of its most active seasons in its many years within the next few days.

The actual skating season begins in Memorial Arena Thursday afternoon starting at 4:30 o'clock. The figure-skating section of the club takes the ice.

The public session starts next Sunday, November 4, with "Open House" in Memorial Arena, from three to five o'clock.

This skating session will be free of charge to all last-year members, friends, or persons interested in joining the club for the season.

The figure-skating program will be carried out at the arena under the supervision of instructor of Mr. John Rodway, professional instructor from the Toronto Skating Club, and Mrs. Blake Wesse. He will be in charge of the session opening the season on Thursday afternoon, also a Saturday afternoon session starting at five o'clock.

The Rodway is being retained by the club this season and will give group instruction in all sections of the figure-skating group. Mrs. Blake Wesse, who is well-known in skating circles of the city and district will assist in the training of the children.

The acquisition of a professional instructor by the club this year is a new departure in its activities and it is hoped that parents of children will appreciate this special service. There is a lot of potential skating material in the city, officials feel, and they hope that children with the proper training will be able to realize a great deal of pleasure from this type of sport.

The club this year has two memberships: one for children skating at the club rink at the corner of Queen and Dufferin streets, and the second for adults and other fee includes skating at the club rink as well as attending all two weeks figuring skating only with professional instruction.

Special afternoon skating sessions will continue throughout the season in conjunction with the regular skating at the club rink when weather permits.

A winter carnival will be held at the close of the skating season and all members of the figure skating section are expected to take part.

Skating instruction will consist of compulsory figures, free skating and dancing.

Skating sessions: 1st Memorial Arena, Monday to Saturday, 4.30-5.30; Thursdays, 4.30-7.30; Saturdays, 5.00-7.30 and Sundays 2.00-5.00 p.m. Membership application forms are available from the club secretary treasurer J. E. Dickens, 143 Albert Street.

The foot was crushed by the front wheel of a dump truck loaded with more than five tons of sand. Karen also received a broken leg and head injuries.

Police say the girl was running across Pembroke Avenue towards her home and ran into the path of the truck driver who swerved his vehicle but was unable to avoid her.

Karen's mother is the former Grace Hannah of Bay City. Mrs. Stal is associated with the Ontario Hydro and with his family moved to Toronto two years ago.

Doctors hope to save Karen's foot by a series of operations.

Victoria Avenue Baptists Mark Anniversary

Special Sunday services marked the passing of 83 years in the life of the Victoria Avenue Baptist church with Rev. W. R. F. Aldwinckle, professor of Systematic Theology at the Master University, as guest speaker.

He challenged his hearers to view the coming Lord in a larger perspective and the realization that God's love is ever present to lead to inner peace and confidence.

The choir under Mrs. Dorothy Reilly with Mr. William Connor, conductor, rendered inspiring and intermediate choir taking part in the morning service. A duet by Mrs. Joan Hilson and Mr. Jack Hanger completed the special music.

Big Gallonage Will Be Required To Test Tank

Three-quarters of a million gallons of water which Belleville householders will never get to use is being pumped through city watermain today.

The big gallonage of water is being pumped for test purposes into the new elevated water storage tank recently completed for the Belleville Public Utilities Commission.

Mr. O. H. Scott, utilities manager, could give no estimate of the time which would be required to fill the new tank, stating it would all depend on the amount of water used by water users in the city. However, to speed the filling of the new tank, the pumping station on the Trent Road has stepped up its pumping to 3,500 gallons per minute.

In conjunction with the filling of the new tank, the big bowl will be sterilized and if no leaks develop it will be emptied and again filled with water for use by city water users. Completion of the tank was slightly behind schedule in the Winston area.

Still remaining to be done is the painting job which will cover the new tank with aluminum paint. Finally, the letters "Belleville" will appear in four-foot letters on both sides of the tank.

Sinai Peninsula Barren Wedge of Land in Egypt

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sinai peninsula is a barren wedge of land in eastern Egypt inhabited mostly by nomads.

In the east - central area penetrated by Israeli armed forces the land lies flat, cut by Wadis (gullies).

Farther south the land rises to the sandy passes of Egma, 3,300 feet above sea level.

Mount Sinai, where the Bible says Moses received the 10 Commandments, lies south of Egma Plateau. Its summit is 8,600 feet above sea level.

While the peninsula is a waste of sand and burning rock, it is not without strategic value.

IS COMMANDING SITE

On its western flank lie the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Suez. On the east are Israel and the Gulf of Aqaba, a waterway important both to Israel and Jordan.

Jordan's port of Aqaba stands at the gulf's northern end.

Six miles across the gulf from Aqaba is the bustling Israeli port of Elat.

Egyptian batteries on the southern tip of Sinai peninsula stand guard over ships entering the gulf's narrow entrance. The peninsula is 220 miles long, extending from the Mediterranean southward to the Red Sea.

Ratepayers Will Be Asked to Vote On Disposal Plant

TRENTON (Special) — For the third time within four years ratepayers of this municipality this year are to vote on whether they want a sewage disposal plant.

This was stated yesterday by town clerk O. W. Larry who said he had received a letter from Lorne D. Cummings, chairman of the Ontario Municipal Board, advising that a vote of the electors would be necessary before Trenton could go ahead with a sewage disposal plant.

Earlier Dr. A. E. Berry, of the Ontario Water Resources Commission, had intimated that Trenton would be one of the first municipalities in the province to participate in a provincial aid scheme for sewage disposal plant construction.

When Trenton ratepayers first voted on a sewage disposal plant it was approved by a small majority, while two years ago the vote was again in the affirmative, this time the count being 973 for to 760 against.

German Sailors Plan to Abandon Ship in Atlantic

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirty-three German sailors prepared today to try to abandon a stricken freighter being battered by violent seas 400 miles off Newfoundland.

The British liner Mauretania was standing by the freighter, the 7,262-ton Helga Bolten, which advised:

"Impossible to repair damage by ourselves. Also doubt we can reach safe port. Intend to abandon ship if possible. Impossible to reduce speed or change course."

Waves 36 feet high were reported smashing the distressed vessel—a factor in the freighter's abandonment operation a precarious one for the crew.

The Mauretania had reached the German ship early today and first reported that it appeared in no immediate danger.

The Helga Bolten flashed an S O S Monday night from a position about 400 miles east southeast of Cape Race, Nfld. The freighter reported two hatches broken and the deckhouse damaged by huge waves.

BRITAIN

A communique here said Egypt's counter - attacked "stopped completely" the Israeli advance. Military sources in Tel Aviv placed the Israeli columns at 30 to 40 miles from the canal.

TWO PLANES DOWN

A Cairo communique said the Egyptian air force shot down two Israeli aircraft, destroyed 12 Israeli armored cars and strafed Israeli troops.

These attacks were said to have taken place at El Themed, 30 miles inside Egypt from the Gulf of Aqaba jumpoff point, and against Israeli troops "before the Egyptian position at Quntilla."

The communique claimed Egyptians were engaged in "mopping up operations in the Sinai peninsula."

Egyptian spokesmen gave no indication of the size of the air force sent into action in Sinai, or whether any of the planes were the 12 fighters recently acquired from Soviet arsenals.

Tel Aviv military spokesmen announced that the Israeli air force also had gone into action and had attacked Egyptian convoys.

Earlier, neutral diplomats in Israel had expressed the fear that if the fighting did not halt, the air would tip the balance toward allout war.

BLACKOUT IN ISRAEL

Israeli faced a blackout tonight.

Washington estimates are that 1,000 men of Israelis had been called up. Israel is believed capable of mobilizing an army of about 250,000.

Egypt, according to the estimates of outsiders, might be able to mobilize 500,000 men.

So far neither has had published any casualties in the fighting.

The Syrians also were reported by Damascus newspapers to have ordered a state of general mobilization.

Anti-aircraft fire was heard over Cairo. Residents gathered in the streets but could see no planes. Smoke puffs spread across a bright blue sky.

No alarm was given. Traffic continued normally.

EMERGENCY IN CYPRUS

The British base of Cyprus was on an emergency footing. Governor Sir John Harding requisitioned the privately - owned radio station on the island and said in the future it would carry only governmental announcements.

Three British destroyers, two French destroyers and one French light cruiser arrived in Limassol and are standing by.

The United States 6th Fleet was reported poised to help evacuate Americans or support any United Nations action. Major units of the fleet were reported cruising between Crete and Cyprus.

Syrian President Shukhri Kuwatly left Damascus by plane on a scheduled 30-day state visit to the Soviet Union. He told officers seeing him off: "I hope you will teach Israel a severe lesson."

3 Metropolitan Colleges Sought

TORONTO (CP)—The construction of three or more new Metropolitan Toronto colleges costing several million dollars has been recommended by a committee of the University of Toronto senate.

The plateau committee, set up to study needs in staff and facilities in the university over the next 10 years, suggested in a report to the senate that two new colleges be established on the present campus. Each would be the nucleus of residences for 300 students.

One or more new colleges should be started on the outskirts of the Metropolitan area, which in time could become independent universities, said the committee.

Metropolitan Toronto includes the city and 12 adjacent municipalities.

Election Not Popularity Test Says Stevenson

NEW YORK (CP) — An impromptu remark, loosed into his prepared text Monday night by Adlai Stevenson, pointed up the Democratic candidate's problem of the current election campaign.

"This is not a popularity nor a beauty contest," Stevenson said. "This is an election."

But in the minds of some political observers the 1956 presidential campaign is indeed a popularity contest, a type of contest that Democratic candidate neither can nor wants to win.

While President Eisenhower has three brief airport speeches in a one-day swing through the South, Stevenson reiterated a statement on the hydrogen-bomb issue and made a major television address devoted to foreign policy.

TAKES VIGOROUS STAND

Both the statement, a point-by-point rebuttal of a document released by Eisenhower defending the Hiroshima tests, and the speech were vigorous espousals of Stevenson's stand on election issues. As he has throughout the campaign, the Democratic nominee steered clear of self-dramatization.

Some of Stevenson's supporters are reported to fear that their candidate's refusal to contribute to the personality build-up may cost him the election. But others say it would be hopeless for him to try to compete on those terms with the tremendously popular president.

REBUFF AT HOME

DENISON, Tex. (AP) — The Denison Herald, President Eisenhower's hometown newspaper, has published an editorial Sunday for Adlai Stevenson. the Democratic presidential candidate. Four years ago the paper took no stand.

CCF Leader Advises PCs to Call Conference

TORONTO (CP)—CCF leader MacDonald of Ontario said Monday the Ontario Progressive Conservative government should call a conference of municipalities to discuss community financing problems.

He said in a free-time radio broadcast over a provincial CBC network that municipal problems are too serious and too deep-seated to be solved in any other way.

His remarks were taken from a text released to the press before delivery.

Mr. MacDonald said that the municipal conference could sort out responsibilities for expenditures and decide where the money should come from to meet them.

TALK TO OTTAWA

Then Ontario could approach Ottawa to seek a better tax-rental agreement. Ottawa should share more equitably the tax burden because the federal government gets 75 cents of every tax dollar.

He suggested the federal government should relieve municipalities of major welfare responsibilities by increasing old age pensions, unemployment relief and establishing health insurance, and should make long - term loans available at low interest rates.

The provincial government should carry out its long-standing promise to meet half the cost of education, take over full responsibility for welfare supplements pending federal action, and give more toward road and transportation construction.

REPERCUSSIONS OF REVOLT

Nearly everybody, we presume, has been reading the day-to-day accounts of events in the satellite states in Europe.

Here we have an exciting story of courage and conflict, the equal of any of those long-past struggles which are described in the historical novels so popular today.

Besides the drama and suspense of the events themselves, there has been created an extremely interesting field for speculation about the effect of these events upon the future, not only of the people of the countries directly involved but of those in distant lands, including ourselves in Canada.

There has been one report, for instance, that the skilfully-managed revolt in Poland was engineered with the approval of leaders of the Chinese Communist party. This has led the Toronto Globe and Mail to suggest that the western nations should finally accede to the admittance of Communist China to membership in the United Nations—how strangely the thread of history winds!

There is, moreover, more interesting food for speculation in this report of the events which are happenings in Poland. If the Chinese Communist leaders encouraged Gomulka and his supporters to seek independence from the Kremlin, the reason behind the move might well be an observance for the cult of personality, for although this cult was never as strong in China as in Russia, it has fared better there, with Mao still firmly seated on his fixed throne. Rather it would appear the Chinese Communists are either fearful of the Kremlin endeavoring to extend its sway in China, or are eager to see the Russia Government and the Kremlin weakened by internal unrest. Which is the true explanation? Do Mao and Chou En Lai envision a confederation of independent Communist states, or do they dream of the day when the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics engulfs the world, with headquarters in its most populous country, China?

Consider another interesting speculation, this time as to the effect of the revolt in the satellite states on the fortunes of the Communist parties in western nations, particularly France and Italy. One might suppose that the evident discontent of the Poles and the Hungarians would provide the final disillusionment with Communism, if any such additional evidence were needed of the true nature of Red rule. An opposite view is taken by Noel Baker, writing in the Conservative London Daily Mail. He says that one of the factors checking Communist Party expansion in countries like France and Italy has been the dislike of Communism manifested by those who have enjoyed membership. If this threat to national independence is removed, more may vote for Communist candidates and Communists "may well, within the next few months, be in many seats and even come into power."

There will be many who will be convinced that Mr. Baker takes much too dismal a view of possible developments. In any event, no such result is likely in Canada, but even here there have been interesting repercussions. For instance, at a recent Labor-Progressive Party meeting in Toronto J. B. Salsberg, member of the Ontario Legislature for Toronto-St. Andrew's, termed the anti-Soviet demonstrations in Poland "a very good thing for the Polish people and for socialism" (Communism in general) — a statement contrary to his party chief, Tim Buck. Mr. Salsberg said that national Communism was one of "several different roads leading to socialism." Mr. Salsberg was reported in the press as having made after a brief banishment for "deviationist tendencies." If his latest remarks do not result in his being promptly banished again, we shall be forced to conclude that membership has been added to the Communist set-up in Canada, a tolerance of deviation from the party line, or one might even term it the permission of two party lines at one and the same time.

If this appears improbable, consider what happened Thursday of last week. The Canadian Tribune, Labor-Progressive paper, printed an article from a former Quebec Communist leader, Gui Caron, in which he said he quit the party because of scepticism of the Soviet Union's "new look" and because the Labor-Progressive Party continues to be ruled from Moscow. Who ever heard before of a Communist paper printing such an attack? And, to add to the surprise, above the letter appeared an official statement from the Labor-Progressive Party that Caron and Quebec men who have resigned from the party, pleaded for their return and promised "free and open discussion in the party on all contentious issues."

Truly times, and customs, do change!

ACID TEST

Dr. K. G. McWhirter, research specialist at Oxford University in England, must be a descendant of Mother Goose.

He says tests indicate that the amount of acid in the blood of the father determines a child's sex. He adds that he believes that giving fathers drugs, oxygen and altering their diet could be the key to controlling the sex of their offspring. For instance, he thinks that by these methods the blood acidity could be lowered. What would the baby be then, poor thing? Why a girl, of course. You know what little girls are made of, sugar and spice and all things nice, and not a drop of acid in a carload of blood.

NICE GUY

The nice guy kept his temper
When
He lifted his arm and pleaded them all.
He never raised his voice to yell.
He took with grace the penalty call.
On friendly terms with friend and foe,
In office on the bench he'd sit,
But he had men who couldn't
hit,
And fellers who could seldom
hit.

The nice guy had a gracious smile,
Upon his college team he'd played.
Because he could always find
For every costly error made.
Though others in ill-temper rave
in,
The nice boy perfectly behaved though his players failed to win.
The nice guy always doffed his cap
When introduced to ladies fair,
He was the pleasant sort of chap
That would be welcomed anywhere.
He was to all he knew a friend,
No foe of his as was Tom Grim,
And maybe at the season's end
That's why the nice guy lost him.

Nature a Mixed-Up Kid?

New York Times

The leaves are beginning to change color now, and, once again it is inevitable to wonder why nature chooses to introduce so much variety in leaves in just this way. It is not very nice of her. The trees, after all, are not all the same kind, so no one with an honest attitude can claim to be in a hurry for what they must they be so early when the snow, the sleet and the cold winds are on the way? Why indeed? It is easy to say that the ideal day, if such there is, is what was a very happy summer, yet we should there to this goody to-goody stuff. Nature is a mixed-up kid, and there is no getting over it. Particularly, why should the colors be so varied in a climate like ours and yet perhaps no somewhat better in this regard than where we live? The Japanese tree is decorated on Christmas Eve not on account of the snow but because their new bats before Easter and not the day after. Nature was in the autumn would let them started back into the bark.

This sounds, of course, like the theory of a kindergarten child, but it would prefer his Saturdays at football rather than trees, and, for that matter, so do we. Perhaps so, and yet there is more to it than his preference for football. Also it is not be a far more splendid rabbit to spring, and everyone knows that the first warm day of May all the leaves burst out in their present splendor. Most of the spring flowers do this, so why not the trees? Well, they probably have reasons, and it is obvious they are capable of putting on quite a show. Let us be grateful for some small favors. Nature is doing pretty good while in the future, we shall be able to do something about the future has been left some-

Chinese Chu Grafts Teeth

Stretford Beacon-Herald

Clever people, the Chinese. From Canton comes news that experiments in transplanting teeth have reached a point where they can be proved successful. Twenty-two out of 23 patients treated by Dr. Chu Yen-Sin, at a Canton hospital, reported satisfactory results after periods of up to five years, according to a Reuter's report. It took two months for the transplanted teeth to take roots.

Dr. Chu, who, as his names indicates, is a Chinese, has a great idea there, by gum, and his teeth will with him every success in his experiments. Transplanting teeth is not new, but the method of doing it is new. Formerly when luscious corn-on-cob is a seen feature, dentists had to resign themselves to the idea of replenishing their natural dental equipment with artificial teeth. It is a wonderful invention, but they have their limitations. And the patient knows them. They are the source of a lot of humor, some of it quite broad.

We recall the time we entered hospital for a spell, and in the first evening Would you care to put your molds from your teeth in? Would you like to enjoy them a little longer?" The only one that hadn't occured to us.

Now comes the idea of having transplanted teeth firmly rooted in the swing gum queen of the mint. Only trouble with this scheme, as we see it, is that the supply of teeth for transplanting must necessarily be limited. It would involve the setting up of "tooth banks," but we can hardly conceive of enough people being willing contributor to them. A man or woman would have to be in pretty desperate circumstances before consenting to sell his or her teeth.

There are other lines of research which, we think, might be profitably explored. Couldn't Dr. Chu, or some of his fellow-scientists, hit on some method of growing new teeth, from seed? We pass the idea on, for what it is worth, and have no hesitation in saying that there is a fortune in it for he, the lucky experimenter who makes such a dream a reality.

His Success No Accident

Montreal Gazette

For most people in North America, Birdseye is a word faintly suggesting the fee of a frozen food package. But Birdseye was also a person, Clarence Birdseye, who died recently in New York.

Birdseye was born in Brooklyn, but his development of the quick-freezing process for preserving foods was the result of his experiences in Labrador. During college vacation times and later, as a year-around job, Birdseye worked as a naturalist for the United States Biological Survey.

In 1912 he went to Labrador as a fur trader and served on the biological study operated by Sir Wilfred Grenfell. After marriage where behind, back in July and August.

This is not entirely a leaf-raker's dream, although Saturday's from may be full to little use. It is possible for even apartment dwellers to visualize the perfect spring day, if the trees would only hold off this time. Secured by an elevator and fifteen floors from the pesthills of or even having to rake leaves, they nevertheless would enjoy this ideal day. It would probably be in May, and would be heralded by that special smell which often precedes major atmospheric changes. The weather bureau naturally would frown upon such a prediction, not being scientists, would be free of the need to form opinions. With dawn the bare bark of the trees would be seen rippling, and by noon the leaves would be at their full growth — and painted in their colors of early May. Right of the week, to pin-point this ideal exactly would be a Friday. This would give the children a full three days free of school, and would allow everyone else to recuperate on weekend, to study spring and the foliage at first hand.

If nature finally were to select this twenty-four hours for the proper things in the right season, the autumnal approach to winter would be a delight to observe. As the leaves would be withdrawn gradually into the bark, the trees would quietly put the screens away and get out the storm windows. Under the treatment set on so much of the autumn is spent either driving about to look at the leaves or raking them up from the yard, that the windows are not put in place until well after winter has come over. And then it really would be a bit easier on the bedraker, who has a difficult time at best.

Consequently they were cause the sound of a voice which said,— You fellows should know that no ducks may be shot between sunrise and sundown and that they were in the sky the all the appearances of being a perfectly good day." It was Game Protector Herbert McCabe who surprised the night hunters and spoiled a perfectly good evening of duck hunting for them. Presidential Re-matches

Washington Post

Though it has been more than half a century since the first pair of presidential candidates has fought out two consecutive campaigns, there is no reason why there are not a rarity in American politics history.

President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson are the sixth presidential candidates to engage in a second such encounter; a second time after a four-year interval.

President John Adams won over Jefferson in 1796 and then lost to Jefferson four years later.

The house of representatives chose John Quincy Adams in preference to Jackson in 1824, but Jackson romped in with an overwhelming victory in 1828. In 1832 Van Buren beat William Henry Harrison and then went down before Harrison on the next try.

Benjamin Harrison rode to victory over Cleveland in 1888 but shifted places with him four years later.

In all these cases, the loser won on his second try. However, the last man to take over a president who had once defeated him, William Jennings Bryan, went down before William McKinley with a smaller vote than he attained the first time.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Why Be A Namby-Pamby?

In a quarterly publication of the American Temperance Society A. Maxwell Dinsmoor tells why he quit smoking. First his boss estimated that he took 1½ hours a day, at $2 an hour, to fill, light, and keep his pipe going. Then one day a hot pipe burned a hole in his coat, ruining a good suit. Finally he "had to have turns on the cracked lips he had become obsessed from biting down on the stem," and he "almost lost all my front teeth" when he had to stop his car suddenly and fell forward striking his pipe on the steering wheel.

In the first place, aside from that fact that smoking decreases a person's efficiency in any kind of work, play, or performance, it is unfair to an employer, even though the employer does not forbid smoking during working hours.

Then a hole in a pocket scarcely ruins a suit. The hole can be patched or even rewoven for a small fraction of the value of the suit.

Finally, the guy may have consented to the loss of two teeth Food and Drug Administration, but it is absurd to ascribe such feeble acts of self-control as resources to "biting down on the pipe."

This fellow whose smoking on the job cost his employer $18 a week finally decided to quit smoking. This I want to see.

He tried to wean himself by chewing gum, candy, lozenges, etc.—with the usual result. Then he decided to chew a "plug" of so-called gentian which, he said, leaves a dark brown taste like that of tobacco.

For a few days he kept some gentian root in his mouth—constantly, and then used a little less every day for two weeks. After that he had no further desire for it or for tobacco. He has not used tobacco in any form in the past fourteen years.

Gentian root? In one of my notebooks, kept since the halcyon days of my internship in the hospital where Mickey was head nurse on the surgical ward, is this item:

Tobacco Chewing. — A good substitute which satisfies the craving for plug tobacco and is harmless as well:

Sassafras bark.
Gentian root.
Prickly ash bark, equal parts. Mix and add enough extract of licorice to bind together in a mass like plug tobacco. Have a chew whenever you want it.

If you ask for these ingredients in a drug store, you'll get them without much difficulty, but if you ask—for them in a miniature department store, for tobacconists only don't mention my name. If they get mad enough at me, they may connive with the Food and Drug people to have all these herbs marked "to be sold only on prescription," as certain home remedies. I have recommended here, such a cathartic as cascara sagrada, salicylic collodion (corn cure), and garnet paste (for tooth ammunition and rate for whipping up a batch of blood tonic.

Frankly I doubt whether such monkey-business will break the habit of anybody of bogglibness, but it can do no harm to try it. As for myself—cigar smoker I know I get the greatest solace from tobacco by smoking only after the day's work is done.

A GOOD NAME

There are millions of people today wearing themselves out trying to act ahead in the world. This is not condemned in any way, but it is a foolish and very decidedly not commendable beyond a certain point.

The best way for trying to do is to furnish a good home for our children and opportunities where they can help themselves for life, then most of the effort we make in such a direction is praiseworthy indeed. But there are thousands of people who are killing themselves and their families ahead just for the purpose of getting ahead or even ahead. We see this daily associate face saving with the oriental, but there are many treacherous amounts of it in our own and no fame.

country. It consists in working and rushing and contriving not for the things that will make life more worth-while for ourselves and for those around us, but for something that will put them and us ahead of others.

Let us be sensible about what we can do for our children and what we can leave them. If we leave them healthy and well educated that is good. If we leave them filled with the realization that they have been loved, that they have faith in God and eternal and a good reputation among their fellows, we consider a priceless legacy. A distinguished father some years ago wrote a poem entitled "A Good Name" the first two lines of which are:

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A HEART AT EASE

No one can be at peace with himself with an unhappy heart. I can fathom the depth and agony Francis Palmer was a very generous man and gave away a lot that he earned. He said he painted better with "a heart at ease." This does not by any means apply to an unfortunate one.

So few people ever study the working of the human heart. It is the most sensitive organ in the body. It is heavily charged with nerves. If their heart is not at ease the entire natural perspective is reversed. There is nothing constructive in an unhappy heart — one of sorrow, grief, fear, despair and a life all its own.

The physician can do marvelous things with the physical heart. He can only God can give ease, contentment and courage to the suffering heart. He can find out the depth and discover its needs, and only He can supply them. While we live in a material nature can bring ease or hope to the spiritual heart. It has a spirit and a life all its own.

I know one thing—you can't get happiness without giving it. It is the greatest reward that we all the friends we have. And the more happiness we spread around, the nearer those friends keep to us and we are like flow emphasize that silent voice in the heart that comes to our rescue when we are most in need. Like stone. It's as though you just walked out on a white cloud in the blue sky, the entire natural perspective in the sun spread a path there.

The Nature must we continually appeal. Her voice and songs are always in perfect unity. When we are most alone and bereft of immediate wise counsel. Nature is always near with many a silent message of hope and good will. You see, God's agents are everywhere to use the outer world. You walk over God's miracles, and there is a wealth of every bunch of color, and so harmonious!

Grand Patriarch E. Fox Honored At Grand Encampment Banquet

STIRLING — The new lodge hall at Stirling was the scene of a gala event on Saturday evening when approximately 300 people were in attendance to honor the Grand Patriarch, Earl Fox, a valued citizen of the village who has brought honor to this district. Guests were in attendance from Welland, Owen Sound, Hamilton, Thornhill, Ottawa, Windsor, Toronto, Cobourg, Brighton, Trenton, Belleville Kingston, Picton, Campbellford, Peterborough, and other points and included a group from the York Encampment, Toronto.

The dining room was arranged for 216 guests at the first sitting. The long tables were covered with white crepe cloths; and baskets of yellow and scarce mums were used for decoration, and the tables were laden with bowls of salads, pickles, cranberries and plates of relishes. At each place there were favors engraved with "R. E. Fox, Grand Patriarch, Oct. 27th", which the guests carried home as souvenirs.

The ladies of the local Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211, under the leadership of Noble Grand, Miss Mary Hulin, catered for the event and they served an appetizing turkey dinner with all the trimmings. The entire meal was well arranged under the direction of Mrs. Hiram Mumby and her committeers, Mrs. Maurice Bell, and their assistants.

Between sittings, assembly singing was conducted by Ted Reynolds, Stirling Mercury editor, pianist. Mrs. Morrow also presided at the piano during the evening.

At the first sitting, Grand High Priest, Walter Lee, of Welland, said grace, followed by a toast to the Queen.

He said that the jewel being presented at the banquet had all assembled for one purpose, to honor Grand Patriarch, Earl Fox.

He referred to Earl's family, five daughters and two grandaughters, and felt that men like Earl Fox were willing to devote time to leadership if were needed in this country of ours. He closed with sincere greetings in the success of the Grand Patriarch's year of work.

Bert McInnes, Picton, Past District Deputy, voiced thanks on behalf of the group to the Rebekah ladies of Laurel Lodge No. 211, Stirling, for the delicious meal. Noble Grand Mary Hulin replied and thanked them for her convenors and their assistants.

He spoke of the happy occasion when the citizens of the village of Stirling had taken the lead to honor one of its citizens in the person of Earl Fox. At this time Ray Rose introduced R. R. Tompkins, editor of the Stirling Weekly Argus and a member of Stirling Lodge, No. 239.

INTRODUCES GRAND PATRIARCH

Mr. Tompkins said it was an honor to introduce to the large audience the Grand Patriarch, who was known throughout this district as Earl Fox.

Earl was born in Campbellford in 1909 and came to Stirling in 1928. In his younger days he was a star athlete. In 1929 he joined the subordinate lodge, Stirling, No. 239, I.O.O.F. In 1923 he joined the Encampment No. 90 and took an active part in both lodges.

In 1943 he was chosen District Deputy Grand Master of Madoc District, I.O.O.F. In 1944 he was elected Encampment District Deputy Grand Patriarch. Earl is a member of Belleville Council No. 8 and holds the office of Brigadier General, Department of Ontario.

He has also been active in Masonic circles, where he has held various officials positions. He is a Rotarian and "The Story of the Good Samaritan" has been exemplified by him many times as he is always ready to give a "second mile." He is a good citizen and has always worked for the betterment of this community. He has served on the Board of Education, on the Agricultural Fair Board, is volunteer fire chief of the village, is a farmer and fuel merchant and above all, has always given his best to the order.

The audience gave a standing ovation with a hearty cheer as a fitting tribute to the guest of honor.

REPLIES TO INTRODUCTION

The Grand Patriarch acknowledged the introduction and said this office was the crowning light of his career as an Odd Fellow. He was delighted to have his many friends in attendance on this auspicious occasion. He felt a deeper feeling of humility but was most anxious that this year's chapter of Odd Fellowship that he was leading would be one of greater success. He made a plea for the whole-hearted attention of each individual member.

He said he felt indebted to all former leaders who had molded his life in religion, personal and fraternal associations and closed with a special prayer for guidance to carry on the best way possible.

The chairman read a telegram from lodge members at Prescott; a letter of greeting from Mrs. Irene Anan, Belleville, and Glenn Watson, with Miss Betty McConnell as accompanist, contributed two vocal selections.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen of Laurel lodge, contributed humorous readings; Charlie Carter, District Deputy Grand Master of District 46, spoke briefly.

Major General Elmer Rose, of Windsor, Deputy Grand Commander of Ontario, brought greetings and extended congratulations to the guest of honor.

A special draw was conducted by Mrs. Ray Rose assisted by Mrs. with little Sharon McDonald of Belleville, granddaughter of the Grand Patriarch, choosing the lucky ticket and the life membership went to Ed Stevens, Quinte Bay, Grand Senior Warden, with ticket No. 158.

29 New Canadians Receive Papers Of Citizenship

Twenty-nine new Canadians received Canadian citizenship certificates at a special ceremony in Hastings county court last week before His Honor County Judge J. C. Anderson.

In addition to the 29 new Canadians receiving their citizenship papers, applications for citizenship by 23 other persons were approved by Judge Anderson.

A highlight of the citizenship certificate presentation ceremony was a highly appreciated address "I Am a Canadian" by Miss Eva Martin, former Hungerford township junior farmer and winner of provincial honors in public speaking.

Leslie Anderson gave a complete and interesting resume of the Girls' Athletic Club, explaining the various awards and how they are earned. Teamwork and good sportsmanship are the keynotes for this club and, in addition to taking part in athletic competition, members learn how to be gracious hostesses to visiting teams and to finance themselves for away-from-home games.

The Keyette Club was represented by Patricia Wagner who explained that the aim of this group is to serve the school, community and country; to develop initiative and leadership and to give training in the responsibilities of citizenship. Last year the club donated $50 to the Save the Children Fund, and this year's objective is to give a bursary to grades 12 and 13 students who would otherwise be unable to continue their education.

BOYS' ATHLETIC ASSO.

Jim Green spoke for the Boys' Athletic Association, explaining how the officers are selected. Sportsmanship and leadership are the main objectives. In addition to training in athletics the boys organize, officiate and finance all school sports events, including provincial COSSA events. Parents were urged to support the school teams.

The Grain Club, a branch of the 4-H Club was outlined by Bob Sills. Objective of this club is to encourage the growing of high quality grain. Soil conservation and preparation is taught and students following this program have had excellent results from their endeavors. Parents were asked to assist their boys in their crop activities.

Howard Frost, of the Tractor Club, another branch of the 4-H Club, said that the training in maintenance and safety received through this club aided members in the operation of farm equipment.

ART CLUB

Paula Mitos, representing the Art Club, explained how members were encouraged in all branches of art, learning from the old masters and modern contemporary artists. The Art Club helps in numerous ways, among them the designing of posters, scenery and programs for various school functions.

Nurses Hear Lecture by Dr. B. Cronk

"The lung is an ingenious mechanism developed to do the same job as the gills in marine form, except air is the environment instead of water," was the introduction used by Dr. Bruce Cronk in a lecture on chest conditions last evening to 83 Registered Nurses of Belleville and District.

Dr. Cronk went on to describe the structure and the function of the chest cavity and the lung. "The lung has the ability to distend to the full size of the cavity and also has the property of elasticity," which is of great importance following surgery of these patients.

The lung is covered with a thin membrane, the visceral pleura, which is continuous with another membrane, the parietal pleura, lining the inner surface of the chest. Thus is formed a potential space, the pleural cavity. Lung lungs contain elastic fibre and will contract and collapse if the normal negative pressure of the pleural space is lost. "It is necessary then, to close the chest quickly and firmly, so there is no leak in the pleural space."

Dr. Cronk compared the human breathing apparatus to a sanitation department. The respiratory tract has many protective mechanisms. The tract is lined with a mucous membrane containing tiny hairlike processes, which gently wave any irritating substance in the air passages, and toward the nose. Sneezing and coughing are nerve reflexes which protect the nose and throat from irritants.

In conclusion, Dr. Cronk outlined the diseases which indicated chest surgery, which included—localized infections of certain types; tumors, benign and malignant; subnormal cystic congenital and acquired cardiac diseases; diseases of the thoracic blood vessels; diseases of the esophagus and gastric fundus.

During the lecture, Dr. Cronk showed X-ray plates, pertaining to various diseases mentioned in the lung.

SURGICAL NURSING CARE

Following Dr. Cronk's lecture, an interesting lecture was given by Miss Joanne Crocker, regarding nursing care of patients following thoracic surgery. Miss Crocker included both before and following operative care, and described the duties of the nurse in both the mental and physical aspects in the care of the patient. This is the second in a series of lectures being held as an educational program for the registered nurses of Belleville and district.

'Education of Deaf' Outlined At Melrose Women's Institute

The Melrose W.I. met at the home of Mrs. Russell MacFarlane for its October meeting with many members and children in attendance.

Mrs. G. Weese, president, opened the meeting in the usual manner and presided over the business session during which it was decided to hold the annual community supper on November 22.

Mrs. Badgley substituted for Mrs. O. Stratton, convener of Citizenship and Education and called on Mrs. M. Lazier to introduce the guest speaker, Miss M. Nurse, who gave a most inspiring talk on "Education of the Deaf."

Having taught for over thirty years at the O.S.D. and being on the casual staff at the present time, she possesses a wealth of knowledge on this absorbing subject.

In a most pleasing manner she told of the O.S.D. being a provincial school where all children eligible attend free of charge, with the parents providing clothing and transportation to and from the school plus a small sum for the child's personal, incidental expenses. There are 380 enrolled and the school is divided into junior, intermediate and senior with classes of ten or twelve in number. Ages range from five years, nine months up and the full course of training is covered in 13 years.

She also outlined the methods used to teach the children and much repetition is necessary but the joy of the teacher's heart is to see the miraculous results well compensates for her efforts.

The English language is a difficult one to learn and increasingly so for a deaf person. She related personal experiences to illustrate the confusion of the verb "to be" in its various forms, conjunctions such as "and" and "but" and pronouns such as "her" and "his" and many others.

All classes are taught by "the oral method", whereby each child is given opportunity to learn to speak and to understand the speech of others by speech-reading. Connected with this is the teaching of 'rhythm' throughout the school.

The vocational training offers courses in typing and business

LONDON (Reuters) — "Modern women from the Victorian past has depended the beauty of the modern woman. "In my humble opinion, the young woman of today is not only just as good-looking as her grandmother but is far more attractively turned out," says schoolmarous Sir Harry Brittain, in a letter to The Times. "Her bearing is not quite so keen as it was 80 years ago, but my sight is just about 100 per cent."

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU DON'T NEED TO BE AN OLD MAID!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 18 years old, and a junior in high school. I'm not really pretty, but I get along well with both boys and girls.

My problem is that no matter who I go out with, after the first date I don't like them any more. I've gone out with some of the best-looking boys in our school, but just can't stand them after I go out with them once.

Right now, there's a fellow who takes me to school, brings me home and lets me have his car. But every time he asks me for a date I just don't want to go. Boys call me and I don't like to talk to them. The other girls wonder why I don't go steady and think I'm silly, and my mother thinks I'm nuts.

Do you think there is anything wrong with me and that I really am just nuts, or is this the way you know you're going to be an old maid? — Sue T.

Dear Sue:

No, I don't think you're "just nuts." I do think, though, that there's something wrong when a girl feels about dates as you do, and I have an idea of what the trouble may be in your case.

What I think is that, whether you realize it yourself or not, you're probably a very shy and self-conscious girl who just don't feel comfortable and at ease with boys. Perhaps you feel shy even with girls.

You say that after the first date with a boy you don't like him any more, but I don't believe that is quite the case. Most likely, you don't really enjoy yourself on the date because, perhaps, you're too hard to keep a conversation going, or to be the lively companion you think other girls always are with boys, so you just don't want to repeat the uncomfortable experience. Then another boy comes along and you think maybe things will go better with him, so you try again. But it doesn't go better. It's just the same as before. Am I right?

Think it over, and if you do decide this is what really happens, then here's what you should do:

Take stock of yourself and see if you have all the interests and share all the activities that a high school junior should. Perhaps you've been inclined to keep out of things. If so, start doing just the opposite.

Pick out one or two activities that you think you could become really good at and go in for them with energy and enthusiasm. Join one or two of the organizations there are in your school or your community for young people and ask for some job to do in them that will give you the chance to feel you really "belong."

I'd suggest that you go to your public library and see if they have two books, one called "Teens . . . How to Meet your Problems," by John and Dorothea Crawford and the other called "Teen Talk," by Marion Glendinning. I know these books will be of real help to you.

Don't worry about being an old maid. You've got plenty of time ahead of you to make sure you won't be. If you set to work right now to turn yourself into a friendly, interesting girl who is always cheerful, pleasant and thoughtful of others, always a good sport and ready for a good time, you'll not only be the kind of girl people will love to have around right now, but you'll be the kind of young woman some special young man will want to have around always.

BEAUTY

KEEP CLOTHES WELL GROOMED WITH LESS IRONING

Quilted robes drip-dry beautifully, but shake occasionally to fluff up batting.

This season, there are more fabrics than ever before that don't need the attention of the iron—or that call for only slight "touching up." Here's how to get the biggest dividends from this trend — or to minimize ironing for those fabrics that do need some pressing:

1. Make the most of drip drying in the weight of the water do the work for you.

2. Hang all 100 per cent nylon, Orlon, Dacron or Acrilan fabrics or fabrics containing at least 50 per cent of these fibers dripping wet. Do the same with embossed or permanently pleated cottons.

3. Fasten buttons and zippers; arrange dresses and blouses on shaped hangers, skirts on skirt hangers.

(If a shaped hanger isn't available, pad each shoulder with a folded wash cloth to fill out shoulder line.) Finger press and arrange pleats, pulling them smoothly down the whole length of the pleat. Then use both hands to bring the pleats gently together.

3. "Press" ruffles on no-iron fabrics by pulling them between the fingers after hanging to drip dry. For ruffles that do need pressing, first iron about an inch outside edge then point the iron in toward the stitching and swing it gently from left to right.

4. If touch-ups are desired on "miracle fabrics," use a cool iron (acetate setting). Use a warm iron for glazed, embossed, or permanently pleated cottons. Press glazed fabrics on right side; emphasize and permanently pleated cottons on the wrong side, if needed.

5. Brush corduroy and velveteen with a stiff brush when dry to raise and fluff the nap.

6. Let quilted garments drip dry, shaking occasionally while drying to fluff up the batting.

7. Let acetate taffeta drip dry; then press with a cool iron and avoid ironing over seams or into pleats.

8. When pressing a full or gored skirt, iron with the straight of the goods—the direction in which the material doesn't stretch.

9. Don't be tempted to rush drying of elasticized or leather things by putting them near the radiator to dry. Too much heat will make leather stiff, will cause rubber to deteriorate. To speed the drying, put such articles in the path of an electric fan or set them at a fair distance from an electric lighter.

Take advantage of all these time-saving tips and just think how much more time you'll have for more glamorous beauty chores!

Belleville Presbytery W.M.S. Napanee Section Holds Rally

The Napanee North section Women's Missionary Society of Belleville Presbyterial annual rally was held in Newburgh United Church on Wednesday, October 24th.

After registration and quiet organ music by Mrs. R. E. Fluke, who acted as organist throughout the day, the president, Mrs. Stoyle Stinson, called the meeting to order and after singing a hymn the Rev. H. A. Batstone offered prayer.

Mrs. Dale McGill, of Newburgh W.M.S., gave greetings, and said the Newburgh Auxiliary was organized 64 years ago and that two of their charter members are still alive. She heartily welcomed all present and hoped all would have a pleasant day together.

Minutes were read by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. W. G. Richmond, and were approved.

NOMINATING COMMITTEE

The president announced the following names for the nominating committee, Mrs. Orval Finlay, R.R. 7, Napanee; Mrs. Wray Freeman, Newburgh; Mrs. Harold Ring, Newburgh and Mrs. Fred Milligan, Tamworth.

The president then introduced the "Team," who are the Presbyterial officers, Mrs. Clarence Holmes, first vice-president; Mrs. J. Fred Wilson, candidate secretary; Mrs. W. D. Grant, secretary for Affiliated Explorers groups and Mrs. W. M. Brown, supply secretary.

Mrs. Pierce Jones gave a detailed description of the books she had on display and urged each Auxiliary to get the "Book Shelf" and each member to read the books as they are most interesting and helpful.

GUEST SPEAKER

At this time Mrs. C. Holmes introduced the guest speaker, Miss Ila Newton, community worker at Velna, Alberta, who is now on furlough.

The offering was taken by two Newburgh ladies and was dedicated by Mrs. Russell Craig of the Switzerville W.M.S., after which Mrs. T. F. Townsend of Holloway Street church, Belleville, presented the highlights from the School for Leaders, the speaker expressed pleasure at having had the privilege of attending the School for Leaders at Whitby, and told of the very close fellowship that prevailed throughout the week, stating that girls must be 18 years of age before they could attend this school.

The thanks for prayers, money, bales of supplies and materials sent, were most touching. She mentioned Miss Constance Wagar and sister Marion being most interesting in telling of their work in Trinidad, and closed her remarks with a poem written by Miss Constance Wagar.

In the presentation by the "Team" Mrs. Holmes presented a challenge to all Auxiliaries to put forth a greater effort for supplying bales and getting candidates for full time work. Mrs. Brown spoke on "Allocations and Supplies" and said, "we have sent a lot of things, but we have omitted Bibles. Mrs. Grant was well versed on the subject of "Explorers' Work", as was Mrs. Wilson on "Candidates for Full Time Work."

LACK OF AFFILIATED GROUPS

In summing up, Mrs. Holmes said, "we have a lack of affiliated groups in our church, we should ask our ministers and Sunday school superintendents, why we have no affiliated Explorer groups in our church. She suggested that local W.M.S. presidents act as candidate secretaries as they are in touch with, and know the young people in the community. Candidate work should be the core of our society. The call comes to us from around the world, we are the church to which God should go. What are we going to do about the great need? Are we going home and think and pray about it? Perhaps there is a young person in our church who needs the incentive that we as W.M.S. women might be able to give. If we have the love of missions in our hearts we will go forth and teach missions to the whole world.

The president thanked Mrs. Townsend for her splendid talk on School for Leaders, also the team for their most informative discussion.

After a lovely solo, "Come Ye Blessed," by Mrs. Bruce Finlay, the meeting adjourned for dinner, which was served by the Newburgh ladies.

While the assembly were still at the tables, Miss Ila Newton showed a number of transparencies on the places where she works in Alberta.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session opened at 1.30 with quiet music. The worship service was in charge of Trinity Afternoon Auxiliary, one of the members read the 100th Psalm and took for her subject "Thanksgiving." She mentioned the beauty of the trees, and the bountiful harvest, and closed with a fitting story and hymn.

The offertory offering was taken and was dedicated by a member from Centreville Auxiliary. Miss Newton addressed the meeting, stating she has been in the work in the West for 20 years. "If it were not for your prayers, bales and supplies, I could not carry on. It gives me a thrill to be at such a gathering as this and to hear and see the splendid way you are carrying on here."

Velna, Alberta, where she has been for the past six years, is 100 miles northeast of Edmonton; she has baptized 70 children in six years there, and visits six rural schools each week. She preaches and teaches among the Ukranians and told of several experiences that showed her that her work has not been in vain. She has Explorer groups, also C.G.I.T. groups. She told also of a small house which she had fixed up and made a home for herself, and of the way of the people help her.

Resolutions were asked for. Mrs. (Rev.) H. A. Batstone presented one as the theme of which was — "Since the liquor traffic is taking such toll on life in our community life, we feel that the National Temperance course that is being printed in two of our Sunday School papers should be taught in the Sunday School lessons."

The report of the Courtesy committee was given by Mrs. W. E. Stinson, who thanked all who had helped to rally a success.

A member of the Yarker Auxiliary invited the members to hold the 1957 rally at Yarker; this was accepted.

The Rev. Batstone closed a successful meeting.

Guard That Good Health

The girls who wrote asking for more recipes using whole wheat or wheat germ are giving me some of their discoveries and so weave their way around my heart-strings. This subject of Better Nutrition is at once my strength and my weakness. Today I am hoping that the members of our "Society for the Prevention of Cooking Cruelty to Human Animals" see this column.

I am giving you wheat germ recipes today.

Five or six cooking apples, 3-4 cup all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 1-3 to 1 cup sugar, 1-3 cup melted margarine or good quality shortening, 1 egg unbeaten, 1-3 cup wheat germ, cinnamon or nutmeg. Peel and slice apples into a 9 inch square pan. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together; add wheat germ and blend with a fork. Break egg into mixture, work with fork until crumbly. Spread over apples; pour sharp milk or margarine on top. Sprinkle with spice. Bake moderate oven (350 degrees Fah.) for 45 minutes.

HOW TO ADDRESS LETTER TO MOTHER, NOW A WIDOW

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My father very recently passed away. I would like to have you tell me the correct way for me to address a letter to my mother now that she is a widow. Should I address the envelope in her name —Mrs. Anne Hall, for example—or use my Dad's name, Mrs. Arthur Hall? — P.H.W.

Address your letter to Mrs. Arthur Hall. Your mother should . . . and I do hope she will . . . use the same form of name she used while her husband was living. That's correct.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop didn't go to his office this morning on account of Saturday, and ma said, William, how would you like to take a drive out in the country to see the Autumn colors?

Oh, I dont know, if you see one leaf, you see them all, pop said, and ma said, We could have lunch at that Swedish Smorgasbord restaurant on Lake Drive, where we had that marvellus meel one time.

Well, that's diffrent, pop said, I haven't had a meel like that since I had that one, he said.

And he started to drive us out to the country, taking a long while on account of all the roads being so crowded, and pop said, Yes gosh, if we hadn't started out we'd of been the only people that stayed home.

Here's the fork where you turn for the Lake Drive, ma said, and pop said, Everybody is turning right, we'd have to crawl the rest of the road that leeds to the Farm House Resterant where you get the good old fashion pan gravey with modern paper napkins, he said.

And he turned left, and after a while ma said, Goodness, did you say this road wouldn't be so crowded?

I was wrong, pop said. I'm going to turn up this side road. There's practically nobody on it, you can almost see daylight between the cars, he said, and ma said, Yes, let's be adventuresome. Maybe we'll come across some delightfull little resterant that we'll never for get, she said.

Which we didn't, not coming across anything but a hot dog stand with a sine saying Mik'es Mikeburgers, Eat In Your Car.

Which we did on account of all being hungry, and pop and ma each ate a small part of a Mikeburger and I ate 2 and the rest of theirs.

Airline Traffic Up One-Quarter

QUEBEC (CP) — Canadian airline traffic shows signs of a one-quarter increase this year, an annual meeting of aviation executives was told here Monday.

R. H. Moncrieff of Winnipeg, president of the Air Industries and Transport Association, made the estimate while at the same time stressing the importance of government policy in maintaining a stable aviation industry.

His presidential report said the country's two major airlines — Trans-Canada and Canadian Pacific—reported large traffic gains in the first half of this year.

"TCA reported the heaviest traffic volume in the company's history," Mr. Moncrieff said. "A total of nearly 1,000,000 passengers was carried—an increase of 29 per cent over the similar period in 1955 and more than the number of passengers carried by the airline in the whole of 1950. TCA anticipates that 2,000,000 passengers will have been carried before the year end. Similarly, air freight, air express and mail were all up approximately 25 per cent over the first half of 1955.

"The story is the same for CAP which has announced that traffic across the system is up 100 per cent and that passengers carried on its international route increased from 11,000 for the first half of 1955 to 18,000 by the end of June this year."

Greener Thumbs

Pest problems will be fewer next year if an "all out attack is made now. Some insects are hardy, spending the winter in cracks, litter, under bark of trees and in protecting mulches, to come back double strength in spring. Treat all probable insect sanctuaries with materials having a long residual action. Some are: DDT, chlordane, heptachlor, dieldrin, lindane and toxaphene.

MEASURE OF SERVICE...MARK OF INTEGRITY

Large Number of Canadian Tourists Make up for Slight Decline in U.S. Visitors

OTTAWA (CP) — Holidaying Canadians took to the road in greater numbers this year to get acquainted with their own country. The boost they gave the tourist industry appears to more than made up for a slight decline in number of visitors from the United States.

That is the picture shown by a Canadian Press survey of tourist officials across the country, after a summer in which cool, rainy weather in large areas put a damper on much holiday activity.

In one province after another officials remarked happily on the expanding numbers of Canadian tourists. D. Leo Dolan, director of the federal government travel bureau, said he has found the same thing.

LIKE OTHER PROVINCES

Mr. Dolan said that on a summer visit to his native Nova Scotia he counted 30 Ontario automobiles on one highway in an afternoon.

"When I was younger, I doubt if there were that many Ontario cars in the whole province at one time."

No country - wide records are kept on what Canadians themselves contribute to the tourist industry.

Officials here estimated that foreign tourist will spend almost as much as the record $329,000,000 spent last year, of which $304,000,000 came from America.

The number of visitors from abroad, however, is down slightly in the first nine months of the year, 2,139,800 vehicle permits were issued to travellers, down 2.4 per cent from a year earlier. There are no records of the number of visitors coming by other means of transport.

WEATHER HANDICAP

Ontario tourist activity was hardest hit by the weather. That was the case even in the over-all decline in the influx of U.S. visitors. East and west of Ontario the tourist picture—and the weather—was brighter.

Mr. Dolan said there is always a slight reduction in U.S. tourists during American presidential election years. Another factor was competition from other tourist centres like Florida, Bermuda and the Bahamas "is getting tougher all the time."

In Quebec, the provincial tourist bureau reported a better-than-ever year for visitors coming to sample Quebec's unique French character, its historic cities and beauty spots such as the Gaspe Peninsula.

Officials estimated 4,795,000 tourists will visit Quebec during the year and spend some $185,000,000—both record figures. The number of visitors is running four per cent ahead of last year, making it the 10th successive annual increase.

About 45 per cent of Quebec's visitors were from other provinces and officials said the interprovincial movement is growing each year.

NEW ARTERIES

In the Maritimes, new transportation facilities produced a big change, especially the new ferry link between Digby in Yarmouth, N.S., and the causeway linking Cape Breton Island with the mainland.

Foreign vehicle entries to Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, all by boat, jumped to 1,344 from 673 in the January-September period. But in New Brunswick the foreign entries were down two per cent to 133,196, indicating that U.S. cars by-passed the province in getting to Nova Scotia by ferry.

The Nova Scotia travel bureau said the outstanding feature was the increase in Canadian tourists. Inquiries from poential tourists were more than double last year's.

Preliminary estimates from New Brunswick indicated the tour volume was down a little from last year's record level when estimated tourist expenditures set a record, $20,000,000, at $25,000,000. Operators of tourist establishments reported more Canadian travellers, particularly from Ontario.

RECORD FOR P.E.I.

Officials at Charlottetown said 1956 is shaping up as a record tourist year for Prince Edward Island.

In July alone, some 40,000 tourists visited the Island. Most came by car—an estimated 19,000 automobiles arrived during the month.

Manitoba had a decline of more than five per cent in U.S. automobiles but reported a sharp increase in travellers from other provinces.

The average tourist spent $10 a day and stayed four days. Many got their sights on the sport fishing of Northern Manitoba. The average motel owners said that for the first time in years cabins were rented well into September.

MORE IN WEST

Both Manitoba and Saskatchewan gave credit for an increased influx of Canadian tourists to the extension of the Trans - Canada Highway.

The big road is almost finished in Saskatchewan, where tourist trade was recorded "up considerably." Anglers chartered air flights to northland fishing spots where the big game lies.

The Alberta travel bureau said more than 1,700,000 tourists will spend about $30,250,000 in the province by the end of the year, slightly above last year's record.

British Columbia's tourist trade had the best summer in history.

"There have been a few soft spots, but generally B.C. motel and resort operators had full booking during the holding months of July and August," said Jim Hughes of the Vancouver Tourist Association.

The estimated $30,000,000 was spent in the province by tourists. Mr. Hughes said there has been an increase of 15 to 20 per cent in the number of visitors from other countries, with most coming from Alberta and far-away Ontario. However the number of tourist automobiles from the United States was almost unchanged from last.

Committee Will Study Means to Save Whoopers

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada and the United States agreed Monday to set up a committee to see what can be done to save the whooping crane from extinction.

The decision was reached at a one-day meeting called by the U.S. department of the interior to consider measures to help the great white birds, which spend the summer in Northern Canada and their winters in the southern United States. Make-up of the committee will be announced later.

A press statement said delegates discussed two general plans to assist the cranes, whose known population is 28, apparently without taking a firm stand on either proposal.

One suggestion was to take immediate steps to improve the breeding of the whooping crane in captivity, using two pairs of young cranes.

The other was to interfere as little as possible with the small flock of whoopers but to increase protective measures and to continue the annual count of the birds' standing of the plight of the birds.

Dissension and Defection Seen in Ranks of Communists

TORONTO (CP) — Resignations and outspoken speeches by top Labor-Progressive party leaders indicate dissension and defection have struck the ranks of Canadian Communists.

Open signs of party ferment have appeared in the LPP newspaper Canadian Tribune in recent weeks.

Rose Dowson, a Toronto Trotskyite Communist with friends in the LPP, said in an interview that "hundreds have left the party in the last couple of months." He said J. B. Salsberg of Toronto, LPP national executive member, appears to be the leader of a rebellious faction that wants to reorientate the party along more democratic and Canadian lines.

Dowson, a former leader of the Anti-Stalinist workers Revolutionary Party which disbanded in 1952, added that Tim Buck "won't last for long" as party leader.

EVENTS HIT HARD

It is apparent old allegiances were shattered by the events since Nikita Khrushchev's exposure of the crimes of Joseph Stalin. Now troubles in Poland and Hungary threaten further demoralization.

That members have resigned from the LPP is certain. The Canadian Tribune in an editorial urged the return of not only the six Communists who resigned in Quebec but of "all others who have followed."

In the same editorial The Tribune referred to promises of greater freedom of discussion given by party leaders and said that "words are not enough."

First outward sign of the party's plight appeared two weeks ago in the resignation of national executive member Gui Caron and five other leading Quebec Communists, three of them also on the national executive.

In a "letter" to all LPP clubs, Caron called for "a decisive break" with subservience to Moscow, for more scrutiny of the concept of dictatorship of the proletariat in favor of parliamentary principles of government. And he squared off at Buck himself.

OBJECT OF CULT

Buck, he said, is the object of a "cult of the individual." He accused him of keeping details of Stalin's crimes from party members, or "continuing to maintain and push aside the question of what happened in the Soviet Union and why it happened."

Then, at two party meetings in Toronto last week, Salsberg declared himself a party line.

Both Caron and Salsberg had been isolated last July at a meeting of the national committee when it decided to reverse its original decision to endorse some of Khrushchev's "explanation" of Stalin's crimes and to close voted for continued defiance of Moscow.

Since then Caron has quit the LPP and been hospitalized after becoming "genuinely Canadian and genuinely democratic." But not Salsberg.

His revolt inside the party is based largely on opposition to Soviet anti-Jewish actions. A Jew, Salsberg was number five two years ago when the Communist Party of Canada was reorganized as the LPP after the Communist Party was outlawed in 1940.

At the July 31 meeting of the LPP executive he and Caron stood alone on another issue—the hospitality of Soviet Union's "negative attitude toward the Jewish people."

This was only two months after Salsberg returned to the national executive from a year of forced pension, imposed because of his continued support of the Soviet treatment of Jews. Party leaders condemned his criticism may have been justified.

In his Toronto speeches last week he told party members: "Do not follow the Moscow line of forced integration of racial groups." He also deplored Soviet opposition to the formation of the state of Israel on the basis that "it shows lack of faith in the Jewish people."

Differences of opinion within the party undoubtedly will be a major subject for discussion at the national convention here in January.

Combines Appeal Being Heard by Supreme Court

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the biggest combines cases to reach the Supreme Court of Canada opened Monday with lawyers for companies representing 90 per cent of Canada's fine paper trade argue against a conviction for operating a price-fixing combine.

Warren Hansard of Montreal, one of seven company lawyers, led off Monday in the case involving 26 companies, individuals and 21 wholesalers and merchants. He indicated at least four lawyers will address the court in the appeal, expected to take two days.

Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin is heading a panel of seven Supreme Court justices and they are expected to reserve their decision after the companies and the federal government which prosecuted them have had their say.

Mr. Hansard contended Monday that "if there was a conspiracy with respect to price it was a conspiracy to hold down prices." He argued that the trial judge—Mr. Justice W. F. Spence of the Ontario Supreme Court — had failed to consider all the facts when he found the companies guilty in June, 1954.

He filed them a total of 2362.000 and issued an order restraining them from further violation of Canada's anti-combines legislation under which the charges were brought the government following a combines commission report on the fine paper trade in 1953.

Ontario Court of Appeal is withholding its judgment pending the Supreme Court decision on this case.

Every Club Took Lusty Crack At Canadiens Last Week, Except Hawks

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

HOW CLOSE CAN YOU GET?

With a little more than a week under its playing belt the Eastern Ontario Senior Hockey League is rolling merrily on its way. There has not been too many lopsided scores to the moment, indicating, with perhaps the exception of Cornwall, there is a definite equality of strength. At the time of writing the Kingston Kiccs are ruling the roost with seven points by virtue of three wins and a tie, and have dropped one verdict. Whitby Dunlops are in second place with six points, representing three wins, and have been beaten twice. The McFarlands share third slot with the Ottawa Canadiens, both clubs winning two and tying one. Cornwall, which absorbed its sixth straight defeat on Sunday at the hands of the Canadiens are in the cellar.

Tonight those old enemies, Kingston and Whitby, tangle in the latter's arena, in what should be another thriller, while Cornwall treks to Pembroke in quest of its first victory. Friday night sees the Dunlops and McFarlands meet in Memorial Arena for the first time this season and that one should pack Walt Gerow's hacienda. Pembroke are the guests of Kingston the same evening. The Flyers hope the Lion Pride is bright and early Saturday morning when they pay their first visit to the Pembroke Lumber Kings. Pembroke plays back here a week, Friday.

SOFTBALL

The Belleville District Softball League winds up its highly successful season in a blaze of interest Thursday, Thursday, November 2, at the Sarine Club, president Cy Barrage has announced. Tickets are now on sale and potential banqueters should procure their's right away.

Presentation of trophies and awards will feature the get-together following the dinner, while it is expected Ontario Amateur Softball Association secretary, Lloyd Pickard, will be around in the role of guest speaker.

The Faint Anne Cementmen, dual champions this year, will be presented with the Bill Ott trophy, symbolic of the league title. They already have the Canada Cement trophy, emblematic of the OASA intermediate industrial title. Batting champions will receive their awards. These include Faint Anne's Sam Maddalena, who won the "A" championship and Roger Drake of the Trenton Juniors club, who took the "B" crown.

A lot of the city's sports notables will be around for festivities and to congratulate the various winners. The league has plenty of reason to be proud of its members' accomplishments during the 1956 season. Two OASA titles came home to roost, one already mentioned, won by Faint Anne and the all-Ontario OASA intermediate "B" championship which rests in Frankford. Other clubs did a highly creditable job in their quest for honors down the playdown trail.

CHICK APPEL SAYS:

"They're spinning a pretty good yarn about two former NHL players, Jimmy Peters and George Gee, who last year performed with Windsor Bulldogs in the OHA. Ironically, their positions were completely reversed this season, Peters being playing coach last year and Gee doing the job of manager this year when his company in Detroit purchased control of the club. Gee, as the new boss, phoned Peters and asked him if he'd like to talk contract for this year. Peters said 'Yes,' but there were a few reservations he'd have to make before agreeing to terms. 'Why, certainly,' Gee remarked. 'I'm pretty broad-minded and we've known each other a long time now.'

"'Well,' purred Pete, 'since you feel that way about it, here's what I'd like for this season—I'd like to have the very same contract you had last season; secondly I'd like to be able to play just like you did last season, only home games, or whenever I felt like it, and thirdly, I'd like to be able to walk when the mood hit, like you did last season." Gee's comments were not available, and besides, this is a family newspaper."

For the benefit of hockey fans who have been asking information about the new minor penalty rule in force this season, here's the explanation: "If while a team is shorthanded by one or more minor penalties the opposing team scores a goal, the first of such penalties shall automatically terminate. Under these circumstances, the player released from the penalty box is still charged with the full two minutes for a minor penalty in the league records, although he may not serve the full time."

WRESTLING AT RCAF

Ted Steadman, a likeable cuss, dropped in the other day. Ted, in case do not know him, is the new manager of the equally new Trenton Community Centre, which should be ready for operation this winter.

But Ted brought a surprise with him. Instead of telling the gang about his new centre he popped up with the statement that pro-wrestling is making its debut at the 6 R.D. RCAF drill hall come tomorrow night. It seems the fly-boys are putting on the pro-grunt show for the financial benefit of the new Trenton Community Centre — a worthy cause no matter how you view it.

And headlining the card is none other than our old friend Yukon Eric, who is main-booted with that crafty Nip, from Nippon, Mr. Motto. That in itself should be worth the price of admission. And Mr. Motto's sidekick, Mr. Ito, also is on the card, tangling with the old perennial Falso Flanagan.

And last, but not least, by any, stretch of the imagination, are those four pygmies of pachydermia, the midgets, Little Ole Beaver, a one-man show in himself, heads the cast which includes his partner, Roger Littlebrook, who will match their muscles against those of Fuzzy Cupid and Ivan the Terrible.

The midgets have been a sensation wherever they have performed and have proved a riot on television. They are very popular with wrestling fandom of this city and district and doubtless a large crowd of the faithful will be on hand at the drill hall tomorrow evening. The first bout gets under way at 8.30.

And They Didn't Meet Them; Lindsay Still Points Tops With Howe Close in Second

MONTREAL (CP)—Every team in the National Hockey League took a lusty crack last week at Montreal Canadiens with the sole exception of Chicago Black Hawks. The Hawks didn't meet the nose-diving champions.

When the gala points-gathering parties were over, Detroit Red Wings were still undefeated in the season's early run, with five wins and two ties, and were leading the parade with 12 points.

In keeping with Detroit's two wins in as many starts last week, Ted Lindsay bagged a goal and four assists—best performance of the week—to hang on to the scoring leadership with 11 points.

A four-way tie for runner-up was broken and it's not for surprising to see Gordie Howe of the Wings nosing in behind his teammate. The league's official statistics show Howe collected two goals and two assists to boost his total to nine.

LEAFS TAKE SECOND

Ted Kennedy of Toronto Maple Leafs counted three assists, but no goal, and now is tied for third place with Jean Beliveau of Canadiens. Each has eight points.

Sloan and his mates had two wins and a tie in their three games and moved into second place over New York Rangers, who had a win and a tie in two starts.

Beliveau, last season's scoring champion, managed to collect two goals and two assists while his club was dropping four games and bogging down into fifth place.

In fifth place in the scoring list, one behind Sloan and Beliveau, is Norm Ullman of Detroit who dropped behind teammates Lindsay and Howe with only one goal and one assist.

HARVEY TYING AGAIN

Doug Harvey of Montreal, whose 42 assists last season set a league record for defencemen, is in sixth place with six points—all assists. He added two last week.

Behind Harvey, with five points each, are seven players headed by the Leafs' Dick Duff. All of the Toronto wingers collected one goals and he leads the league in that department.

Boston Bruins, whose single game last week was a win over Montreal, are in fourth place in the standings.

The lowly Chicago Black Hawks who dropped their two games last week, are still without a win. They have only one tie in seven games and not a Hawk has more than two scoring points. Only Harry Watson, who has no assists, has counted two goals.

Dodgers Order Rest for Podres

BROOKLYN (AP) — Pitcher Johnny Podres, discharged from the U.S. Navy last Friday, visited the Brooklyn Dodgers office Monday and was told to go home and rest for a while.

The star of the 1955 world series was about eight pounds under his normal pitching weight at 180 pounds. He was released from the navy after seven months' service because of a back injury.

Podres pitched the Dodgers to two victories in the 1955 world series. After a brief conversation with the pitcher, Dodger vice-president Buzzie Bavasi told him to do some hunting and fishing and put on some weight.

Bavasi said he will decide about January whether he will ask Podres to pitch winter baseball to get into shape for next season.

Pat Abbruzzi Out in Front In Big Four

TORONTO (CP) — Montreal's Hal Patterson picked up 13 points in the 'Big Four football' scoring race Saturday, but it's unlikely he'll catch teammate Pat Abbruzzi in the No. 1 position.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show Abbruzzi with 102 points against Patterson's 78 with only one game of the 14-game schedule remaining. In third place is Don St. John of Ottawa Rough Riders with 59 points.

Ron Stewart, backfielder with Queen's Golden Gaels, leads Senior Intercollegiate Union scorers with 34 points on four touchdowns. Tied for second place with 18 points each are Al Bowman, also of Queen's, Frank Loftus of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs and Bill Reid of the University of Toronto Blues.

Billy Graham of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the Ontario Rugby Football Union is the country's top scorer in senior company with 133 points.

Lords Tackle Golden Bears

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — With only two wins against seven defeats, London Lords will be trying again Tuesday night for their first home victory when they tackle Edmonton Golden Bears here in a Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union game.

The Lords will be closing out their regular schedule. Currently they are deadlocked with Toronto Beaches for second place. A win would lift them into a first-place tie with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

London is in the cellar, but with Rochester out of the loop, all four remaining teams will be in the playoffs.

There has been unconfirmed talk that should the Lords meet Beaches in the sudden-death semi-final, the game might be switched to London for financial reasons. In its first season, London has outdrawn any city in the circuit.

Lords are almost at full strength for the game. Only fullback Harry Shugrue and tackle Jules Rewucki are on the mend from injuries.

MAY REST PATTERSON

MONTREAL (CP)—A sprained ankle suffered by end Hal Patterson of Montreal Alouettes Saturday at Hamilton has been responding to treatment but the two-way speed king may be rested against Toronto Argonauts here Saturday.

Canada's World Hockey Club Could Be Ottawa Canadiens

MONTREAL (CP) — Ottawa Junior Canadiens, itinerant competitors who already dabble in three leagues, may cap an amateur career by representing Canada at the world hockey tournament in Moscow early next year.

The idea has been put to the parent Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League and managing director Frank Selke said he's willing if that's what Canada and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association want.

The proposal indicated that the CAHA is thinking about scrapping elaborate plans for an all-star team drawn from amateur teams around the country and trained at Vernon, B.C.

Selke said he was approached last Friday by George Panter, former president of the Ontario Hockey Association, who has been trying to raise funds for the all-star squad.

WOULD BOLSTER TEAM

"Panter said he didn't like the idea of an all-star team and hadn't had cooperation," Selke said. "He said he would like our juniors to be the nucleus of the team to go to Russia, especially since the juniors now are playing against professionals as well as senior and junior amateurs in various leagues."

Selke said he believed the club could be strengthened by a couple of big, strong defencemen and two forwards who are adept at killing off penalties. One player he had specifically in mind is Frank Mahovlich, who plays with Toronto St. Michael's College Majors of the OHA Junior A.

The Ottawa Junior Canadiens settled in Ottawa at the start of this season after roaming the east last year from their Montreal base. Various centres bid for them.

They took on virtually all comers since the Quebec Junior Hockey League folded.

This year, they play partial schedules in the OHA Junior A and Senior A Eastern Division series. Bolstered by a few seniors, they also are playing 20 games in the professional Quebec Hockey League.

HAWKS SIGN WINGER

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago Black Hawks announced Monday the signing of Zellio Toppazzini, 26-year-old ace right winger of the American League, who has been a holdout since the season opened Oct. 11.

Bloody Revolt May Hamstring Hungary's Hopes in Olympics

LONDON (AP) — Hungary's bloody revolt Monday appeared to have hamstrung the little country's hopes of Olympic glory—even if the Hungarian team with its many stars ever gets to Melbourne.

A London report said that Tata, the country's Olympic training camp, had been the scene of heavy fighting. Josef Csermak, who won the Olympic hammer throwing title at Helsinki in 1952, and Ferenc Puskas, Hungary's world-famed soccer captain, were reported killed. A later broadcast, however, reported Puskas alive and uninjured.

There have been contradictory reports about Hungary, which won 16 Gold Medals in the 1952 Olympics, 10 more than it did in the 1956 Games. The first radio reports indicated the team would been withdrawn, but a news broadcast from radio Budapest, monitored in Vienna, quoted the Hungarian Communist party newspaper, Szabad Nep, as saying the team would take part in the Games although its start may be delayed.

This agreed with the cabled word received at the Australian Olympic officials who already are in Melbourne. They said the team would arrive there by plane Nov. 2 and the Games start Nov. 22.

FIGHT WITH REBELS

Thomas de Mariffy - Matuzsa, captain of the Hungarian Olympic team, before the Second World War and now living in Canada, said his reports indicated the Hungarian athletes were fighting on the rebel side.

That left outside athletic officials wondering how many Hungarian stars, such as runners Sandor Iharos, Istvan Rozsavolgyi and Sandor Rozsnyoi, were injured and fit for the Olympics.

In Lausanne, Switzerland, the International Olympic Committee Monday called for an "Olympic truce" such as existed in ancient Greece during the Games, to permit the Hungarian team to leave for the Games.

The Hungarians planned to send 130 athletes to Melbourne with good chances of capturing medals in boxing, water polo, wrestling and field to women's gymnastics.

Top scorers were Valcamp with 9 and Middleton with 9.

The second game between the Nightriders and the Honest Johns at the end of official time was a tie 21 to 21. Greenberg Plans To Talk With Durocher

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cleveland general manager Hank Greenberg expects to talk today to Leo Durocher about a proposal that Leo manage the Indians next season.

"I want to find out whether Leo wants to come back to baseball," Greenberg said after arriving here by plane Monday. The Indians have inclined a manager since Al Lopez resigned at the end of the 1956 season.

Trappers Reduce Admission to Attract Fans

NORTH BAY (CP)—North Bay Trappers, first in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, Senior A southern group, but last in the hearts of North townsmen, Monday reduced admission prices to cradle in an effort to get larger crowds.

Trappers' manager Pete Peters said he has been threatening to fade up over since the season opened, but fans and local merchants seem to have rallied to the cause.

Six merchants are planning to run an advertisement asking fans to go to the games and a special ban service is planned for Thursday when Sault Ste. Marie Indians, never a big drawing card, will be playing Trappers.

Palangio said last week the club has lost $6,000 so far this season and he does not intend to lose any more. Monday's tilt, with the ball talked over selling Trappers with Max Silverman of Sudbury.

Silverman, however, is in bad graces with the NOHA, having been refused permission to take part in Sudbury hockey activities this year.

Trappers' largest crowd this season has been 1,300, with attendance at the last two games of 547 and 850.

Musical Ride Of Mounties Top Attraction

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. National Horse Show, bringing together 42 equine breeds along with international teams from five countries, opened in Madison Square Garden today.

All told, there will be 119 events and 2,000 horses from north 532-415 during the show's eight-day run.

The main interest, as always, centered around the international competition with riders from Canada, the United States, Chile, Ireland and Britain. The Canadian team comprises Tom Gayford, Douglas Hood and Douglas Caldwell, all from Toronto.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the cowboy top added attraction, made their first appearance in the matinee, presenting their musical ride.

'Father Time' In Melbourne

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) The Olympics' stream lined "Father time" from Melbourne today ready for the Games starting Nov. 22.

(He is Charles Sickert of Switzerland, official timekeeper for the Games.

Five hundred pieces of highly specialized timing equipment have come with him. Eventually Sickert will be joined by nine experts who will help in timing the Games.

A clock camera is their greatest pride. Developed specially for the Helsinki Games, it automatically photographs each contest in the race finish and records his time to one hundredth of a second.

"But even split second timing like that is becoming out of date" said Sickert. "In Switzerland, we are experimenting with a machine clocking accuracy to one ten thousandth part of a second. If perfected, it could be used for anything from flies crawling up a wall to jet bombers."

Hard-Hitting All-Star Squad Selected by Baseball Writers

NEW YORK (AP) — A heavy-hitting major league all-star team, with six American leaguers including Mickey Mantle, Ted Williams and Yogi Berra, today was selected by members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America in the annual Associated Press poll.

The powerful array was backed up by Brooklyn Dodgers' right-hander Don Newcombe and Billy Pierce, Chicago White Sox lefthander, who drew a majority of the votes cast for pitchers.

Mantle American League leader in home runs (52), runs batted in (130) and batting average (.353) was named to an outfield spot on 392 of the 395 ballots.

Milwaukee's Hank Aaron, the National League's batting leader, and Williams took the other outfield berths. The Boston Red Sox slugger edged Al Kaline of Detroit, who received 94 votes to Williams' 83.

THREE HOLDOVERS

Three first baseman Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati and second baseman Nellie Fox of the White Sox are the only repeaters from last year. Kluszewski, a .302 batter with 35 homers, edged Stan Musial of St. Louis—34 votes to 30. Stan also got 25 votes for the outfield where he played the first two months of the season.

Rounding out the All-Star infield baseman Ken Boyer of St. Louis Cards and shortstop Harvey Kuenn of Detroit.

Boyer collected 118 votes to 76 for Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee. Kuenn was an overwhelming favorite of the writers, receiving 146 votes to only 30 for runner-up Roy McMillan of Cincinnati.

Berra, the world series batting star for the Yankees, grabbed 198 votes, 62 Ballay of Cincinnati was next with nine.

Newcombe, 27-game winner, finished far in front in the balloting for the top righthanded pitcher. He picked up 125 votes. Sal Maglie of the Dodgers had seven and Tom Brewer of Boston was third with three.

Pierce also won easily. He had 127 compliances. Whitey Ford of the Yankees was next with 48 followed by Warren Spahn of Milwaukee with 12, Herb Score of Cleveland with 10 and Johnny Antonelli of the Giants with eight.

Except for the pitchers, only Fox and Berra among those elected batted under .300. Berra wound up at .298 with 30 home runs and 125 runs batted in. Fox hit .296.

The team, with 1956 records in parentheses:

First Base—Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati, NL (.302).

Second Base—Nelson Fox, Chicago, AL (.296).

Third Base—Ken Boyer, St. Louis, NL (.306).

Shortstop—Harvey Kuenn, Detroit, AL (.332).

Outfield — Mickey Mantle, New York, AL (.353).

Outfield—Hank Aaron, Milwaukee, NL (.328).

Outfield—Ted Williams, Boston, AL (.345).

Catcher—Yogi Berra, New York, AL (.298).

Righthanded pitcher — Don Newcombe, Brooklyn, NL (27-7)

Lefthanded pitcher — Billy Pierce Chicago, AL (20-9).

Alleged Ultimatum to Player 'Publicity Gag' Says Official

EDMONTON (CP) — The manworked for 15 years in minor who started a hockey furore in Edmonton with a report he had hockey ultimatum to a junior athlete says the whole thing was declared as a "publicity gag" that grew into an "embarrassing and unfortunate" incident.

Leo Leclerc, manager of Edmonton junior hockey Oil Kings said Monday the whole thing "from beginning to end was a publicity stunt" that when news outlets treated it "straight" it resulted in considerable embarrassment.

"It was designed to get a little space for hockey in a season when the headlines usually go to football," Leclerc, always an outspoken supporter of hockey, told a service club. Then in an interview, he said:

"I had no power to issue an ultimatum at any time, but when I said the boy would have to choose between football and hockey, nobody quessed or cared whether I had the power to enforce such a thing.

COULDN'T DO IT

"I couldn't have made the boy choose as it would be impossible to keep him out of hockey even if I had so desired," Leclerc said.

The issue developed last week when it was reported Leclerc had given Mike Lashuk, 17, outstanding junior football player, city junior golf champion and a hockey player of note, 24 hours to choose between the two sports.

Leclerc said Lashuk knew at the time that his decision—either way —wouldn't prevent him from completing the junior football season with Edmonton Huskies. In the end, Lashuk came out in favor of hockey and Leclerc said he would finish the football season with Huskies.

Leclerc, who says he has worked for 15 years in minor sport in Edmonton without making a cent out of it, announced he will retire if he doesn't get a vote of confidence from sports writers. He said a letter is going today to the Edmonton Sports-writers Association asking for action asking for a vote of confidence.

"If I get it, fine" he added in a prepared statement. "If I don't get it, I'll refire to private life and probably be much happier with fewer headaches."

The hockey manager said he felt "bitter disappointed" by the criticism he received following release of the Lashuk story. He added he has devoted 15 years to minor sport in Edmonton and he does not receive any pay for managing the Oil Kings.

Will Try to Fire Bert Bell, Says Owner

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tony Morabito, co-owner of San Francisco 49ers, today said he would try to get Bert Bell, National Football League commissioner, fired when the league meets in January.

"I don't know how far I'll get," Morabito said, "but there are other directors I'm sure, who feel the same way I do, although I fully realize I can't speak for them."

After the 49ers lost 38-21 to Chicago Bears Sunday, Morabito called Bell an "incompetent dictator." The 49er owner was incensed about the officiating, although he said the Bears were a superior team.

In Philadelphia, Bell told the San Francisco Chronicle "the only way in the book to fire me is for moral turpitude . . . and it would cost $400,000 to buy up my contract.

"I have 10 years to run on a 12-year contract. I get a salary of $20,000 a year plus $10,000 a year that's placed in trust.

"I've tangled with Morabito in the past regarding small matters" Bell said. He added he would not do anything about the threat "as long a Morabito doesn't say I'm dishonest, or attack my' character or my family."

Lopez New Chisox Manager Figures Club 57 Contender

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO- (AP)—Al Lopez, former Cleveland manager who made a career of finishing second to New York Yankees, joined forces Monday with the perennial third-place Chicago White Sox.

Lopez accepted a one-year contract offered by vice-president Chuck Comiskey to manage the White Sox in 1957. Lopez resigned as Cleveland manager Sept. 28 after guiding the Tribe to second place five times since 1951. His Indians won the pennant in 1954 with an American League record of 111 victories.

The Senator, one of baseball's "nice guy" managers, succeeds Marty Marion, who resigned last week.

Lopez, 48, broke into baseball in 1925 and was a catcher with in the National League. In 1947, he played in 57 games with Cleveland. His major league lifetime batting average was .261.

He managed Indianapolis of the American Association to a pennant in 1948 and finished second in both 1949 and 1950. He then took over at Cleveland.

Comiskey, in making the announcement, said, "I long have been an admirer of Lopez on and off the field. I think he did an outstanding job at Cleveland and I hope he'll do as well for us. He was the only man considered for the job and he accepted by wire from his home in Florida."

As Tampa, Lopez said he was "tickled to death" over being selected and began talking of a possible return for the White Sox.

"The Yankees are a good ball club," said Lopez, "but they can be had. The White Sox have a chance to go all the way in '57.

"Speed is Chicago's biggest asset. The pitching is good enough. Hitting is good enough—pretty good.

"We will try to improve the club wherever we can," he continued. "Chicago doesn't need too much. I think it's a contender every year I was in the league."

Three Programs Indicate Western on TV Improving

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Let's put it in the form of question: Are westerns improving on television?

Not all westerns, mind you. Just some westerns. Specifically, let's look at the two hours of westerns available on ABC-TV every other Tuesday evening. Beginning at 7:30 p.m., comes the hour-length new Cheyenne series followed by a half-hour of Wyatt Earp in his second season and topped off by Broken Arrow, a new weekly series.

Westerns normally just aren't this department's dish. But Cheyenne, starring Clint Walker, as reliable as the last week, strikes us as excellent entertainment. It alternates with Conflict, seen tonight.

The story, with its emphasis on characterization, was several notches above the old-fashioned bang-bang and whoop-de-doo.

Besides being marked by superior story line and characterization, Cheyenne, has superb camera work.

DOESN'T BORE

Wyatt Earp, as a character, is more knowledgeable than Cheyenne. One might expect him to become either a bore in his second season in the way that Gene Autry and Hopalong Cassidy have become bores in critical-minded adults: Because they are infallible and know all the answers.

But Wyatt Earp continues to be a good show, better now than it was a year ago. Its quality is maintained by the only thing that can sustain any regularly seen series: Good writing.

Broken Arrow attempts the new western emphasis on character. It is excellent in its purpose of treating the Indian seriously and presenting the Apache civilization as something more than a gang of renegades.

Unfortunately the purpose falters in execution. The problem appeared last week to be a matter of budget and scenes were skimped.

These three programs indicate that the western on television is improving and if such programs help bring other westerns up to their level, optimism will indeed be vindicated.

ODDS SHIFT

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top booking Monday slashed prices on Money to Burn, a lightly-weighted three-year-old filly, and made her the 11-to-4 favorite for Wednesday's Cambridgeshire Handicap—last of the Irish sweepstakes races this season.

First Radio Now Television For Gridders

LOS ANGELES (AP)—First Radio was short-wave radio coaching of quarterbacks equipped with receivers in their helmets. Now comes coaching by television to the sidelines.

The professional Los Angeles Rams football team is trying it. The Rams' pass defence coach, Jack Faulkner, explained it this way today:

"It's the Rams' new 'closed circuit' TV gimmick. With this, an assistant coach, located up in the press box, can diagram plays and make adjustments down onto the field, where they are picked up on a 17-inch monitor.

"The players gather 'round and see the whole picture in a nutshell—or in a mahogany case, to be exact.

"Not only can the press box coach talk to the players on the field as he diagrams changing coverage, but the players watching the films as it comes over their TV screen can ask questions by way of a two-way radio. . . .

DIDN'T HELP SUNDAY

"So far as I know it's the only set of its kind in operation in the league."

Faulkner added:

"We're constantly adjusting defensive formations, and I personally discuss what coverage is holding up, what adjustment of keys is important, and make on-the-spot defensive switches, as we did in the second quarter Sunday when I diagrammed where the players in the 3-4 line up and changed coverage for the check pass Detroit was throwing."

TV or no TV, Detroit won the game 16-7.

Radio - controlled quarterbacks have been outlawed for the rest of this season, commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League announced in Philadelphia 12 days ago.

Golfer Turns Robin Hood

YORK, Pa. (AP) — Golfer Maurice Rishel got himself a birdie on the 19th hole at the Yorktowne Club Monday.

Rishel watched a Canada goose circling overhead as he played 18 holes. Then he purchased a hunting license, got himself a bow and arrow, returned to the golf course and with a perfect shot brought the goose down.

AT THE BELLE — Richard Widmark, Robert Wagner and Jack Palance share honors in "Halls of Montezuma" Twentieth Century-Fox encore triumph, now playing for the last times tonight at the Belle, with Clifton Webb, Robert Wagner and Debbie Paget, the romantic interest in the greatest musical show on earth, "Stars and Stripes Forever."

AT THE McCARTHY — A tense scene from the dramatic hit "Edge of Hell", now at the Odeon Drive-In Theatre starring Hugo Haas, Francene De Scaffa, 2nd. feature in Technicolor is "Showdown at Abilene" featuring Jock Mahoney and Martha Hyer.

Ontario Soccer Gets Boost From Association

TORONTO (CP)—Soccer in Ontario received a boost Monday night when Billy Simpson, secretary of the Ontario Football Association announced that more than $4,000 had been allocated to promotion of the game.

A meeting of the OFA decided to give $1,000 to the Ontario minor promotion committee and $2,225 to various district associations. The district associations benefitting by the announcement are Chatham, Bay of Quinte, Essex, Hamilton, Kingston, London, North Bay and Toronto.

New Clubs Join Figure Skaters' Association

VANCOUVER (CP) — Twelve new clubs were admitted to the Canadian Figure Skating Association at its annual meeting here Saturday, bringing total membership now well over the 130-club mark.

Officials reported the 1957 Canadian figure-skating championships will be held at the Winnipeg Winter Club Feb. 14-16.

F. H. Crisp of Toronto was elected president of the association. Other officers include E.R.S. McLaughlin of Oshawa, vice-president, and Douglas Kimpel of Galt, a member of the executive.

Rock 'n' Roll Neither Hurting Nor New Says Fats Domino

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — From a fellow who should know comes the proposition that Rock 'n' Roll is neither corrupting nor new.

The source is Fats Domino, one of the high priests of the music craze that has captured the fancy of the young and confusion and the distaste of their elders. His free-rolling, hard - bounding records have sold in the millions. He has also made news by having riots at his concerts.

"But it wasn't the kids that did it," he said. "We've only had two incidents, and both were caused by adults who were drinking. One was in San Juan, where they packed too many people into the hall. The kids were okay, but a lot of grown - ups were boozing. Somebody threw a bottle on the floor and then some others did. Somebody called the cops.

THREW BOTTLE

"The same thing happened at the naval base in Newport, R. I. somebody threw a bottle and the trouble started. The kids didn't bother nothing to do with it.

"We only play to an audience of kids, they don't go wild. They just clap their hands to the beat and bounce a little and enjoy themselves.

He added that Rock 'n' Roll has a bad name with adults because some entertainers employ suggestive lyrics and suggestive movements. "I don't think they're doing it so much now. When I started, I never would use dirty lyrics. And I don't use dirty movements either. I just play the piano or I sing and clap my hands."

MADE GOOD

Domino is 28 and built like his namesake. He hails from Fats Waller, for whose film biography he has been mentioned. Young Fats is a New Orleans boy who made good in a big way, but it didn't happen overnight.

"I'm playing the same music I've been playing for 15-16 years," he explained. "It's the same old New Orleans beat they've always played down there."

Why did it become so popular all of a sudden?

THEY GOT OUR MUSIC

"I think it's because the young kids got tired of the old bands," he reasoned. "The bands were going in for bebop, and you can't dance to that. It ain't got a beat. "Rock 'n' Roll has a good, steady beat. When the kids heard it, they liked it."

Fats had been making records for several years, but it wasn't until two years ago that the disc jockey started playing them and his career really took off.

This year he expects to gross half a million with his eight-piece combo.

Rookie Leads American League

NEW YORK (CP)—Boris (Bo) Elik, brilliant rookie forward who has accounted for more than a quarter of Cleveland Barons' output, continues to lead the American Hockey League scoring race.

Elik, 27, who came up to the AHL from North Bay Trappers of the Northern Ontario Senior League, added five points last week to bring his total to 14—including nine goals—for the second-place Barons.

Cleveland is the highest-scoring team to date in the AHL with 36 in eight games.

Fred Glover, Cleveland's 29-year-old centre from Toronto, is tied for second place in the scoring with Bruce Cline, 24-year-old forward from Massawippi, Que., Providence Reds sophomore. Each has 11 points.

Jimmy Moore, Elik's linemate who returned to the AHL this season after five years with Chicoutimi and Montreal in the Quebec Senior League, is tops in assists with eight.

In the race for goaltending honors, Gil Mayer of Hershey leads with an average of 2.37 goals allowed in seven games.

Swedish Captain Must Remain in Hospital 10 Days

NEW YORK (AP)—Capt. Gunnar Nordenson of the Swedish liner Stockholm may have suffered a cerebral thrombosis while testifying at a hearing in the collision of the Stockholm and the Andrea Doria, his doctor said Monday.

Dr. Joseph Hajek said a cerebral spasm suffered by the ship officer "has not completely subsided and the presence of a small blood clot (thrombosis) cannot be discounted."

The physician made his report in an affidavit filed in the Federal Court pre-trial hearing being conducted to fix responsibility in the July 25 collision off Nantucket.

Dr. Hajek recommended that Capt. Nordenson remain in the hospital for another 10 days.

Earlier at Monday's hearing, Lar- H. Enstrom, 30, second mate of the Stockholm, testified there was no fog in the vicinity when the two ships collided with the loss of 50 lives. The Italian Line contends there was fog on the night of the collision.

Still No Trace Of Florida Negro Taken From Jail

WILDWOOD, Fla. (AP) — The disappearance of Jesse Woods from jail remained an eerie riddle today, as the 71-year-old father of the Negro lynch victim told reporters: "I believe they done killed him."

MacArthur Woods didn't elaborate, but it was he who brought his son back to jail for safekeeping Saturday night after the younger Woods, accused of assaulting a white woman, was released on $20 bail on a drunkenness charge.

The elder Woods said that when he asked police chief Ed Mullis if he could "put this boy back for safekeeping," Mullis replied, "this jail isn't too much."

Woods said he also asked Sheriff M. H. Bowman if Bowman couldn't take his son to the county seat and was told that "this is a city case."

Bowman said Woods made his inquiry before his son was bailed out, and never knew that he be taken away for safekeeping.

Canadians Can Buy British Premium Bonds, Win Money

LONDON (CP)—Canadians can buy British premium bonds for their children or relatives. And if they win the £1,000 jackpot, they can get the prize money, all $2,800 of it, sent to Canada.

Britain's government - operated "lucky lottery" whirls into business Nov. 1 in some 30,000 post offices around the country, with the first drawing of winners expected six months later, probably in mid-June, 1957.

Already, a few Canadians, as well as others overseas, are taking a flutter by writing directly to the British Post Office, enclosing a money order for their purchase. In some cases, the bonds may be bought through a Canadian bank with representatives in the United Kingdom.

PRECAUTIONS

On a hunch that Nov. 1 will be mighty busy, the post office is taking the same precautions as it normally does for the height of the Christmas rush, including having extra staff on hand.

"Of course, it may not be necessary," said an official, "But it's better to be safe than sorry."

Premium bonds are being distributed to various post offices ahead of time. At Lytham St. Anne's, a small town near Blackpool, a staff of 1,058, including charwomen, is standing by. A battery of high-speed cameras has already been installed.

The cameras will photograph all bond applications so that the originals may be filed alphabetically and the photographic copies filed according to bond numbers. Officials expect an "enormous mass" of documents to be processed daily.

During the first six months, a complicated character called Ernie will be waiting his big chance. When draw time arrives, Ernie's electronic innards will digest all the bond numbers, perform some gastro-numerical gyrations and spew forth the winning combinations. At the moment, Ernie is capable of reaching $99,999,999.

NO GAMBLE

Each £10,000 in the prize fund will be divided into 227 tax-free prizes: one of £1,000; two of £500; four of £250; 10 of £100; 30 of £50 and 200 of £25. The fund itself will be calculated on the basis of an annual interest rate of four per cent.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Harold Macmillan, who risked church criticism when he proposed the lottery scheme in his April budget, claims it really isn't a gamble. Every bond is worth £1, no matter how long it remains in the hat, and it can be cashed in any time.

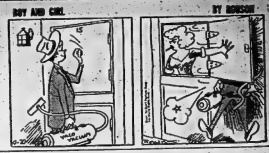
"You can't lose," said an official. "If you don't win a prize you can always get your pound back."

One British newspaper, poking fun at church opposition, published a cartoon showing two black-garbed clerics walking past a sign proclaiming "Mac's winner! Buy a bond." Says one to the other:

"Of course, if we thunder against it we're rather doing ourselves in the eye over our spring raffle."

GO BACK HOME

MONTREAL (CP)—Five Sicilian stowaways started back home Wednesday after an unsuccessful bid to enter Canada illegally. The five were put aboard the freighter Labrador, bound for Mediterranean ports. They had been detained here since being found aboard the French freighter Jolietic.



NO MORE PERONS

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Provisional President Pedro Aramburu says his government plans to overhaul Argentina's constitution to bar the possibility of any more dictators. In a speech broadcast Friday night he said his regime will call a constituent assembly to reform the constitution in advance of the 1957 election—the first since Juan D. Peron was thrown out as dictator-president.

FOUNDED CREDIT UNIONS

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Earl Rentfro, 70, a one-time railroad man who pioneered the credit union movement in the United States, died Sunday. Rentfro had a railroad job in Missouri when he became interested in 1924 in credit organizations among wage earners. He and others, aided by Boston financier Edward Filene, organized the Credit Union National Association, parent group of most credit unions in the country today.

New Task·Force '57 Chevrolet Trucks!

These V8 powered models, including Chevrolet's superb new 283 cubic-inch Super Thriftmaster V8, took the Alcan Highway right in stride.

The Chevrolet Alcan run was sanctioned — and official results certified— by the American Automobile Association.

They're here . . . the trucks that whipped the ALCAN Highway to Alaska, writing a whole new chapter in the history of hauling!

Alcan fleet reports up to 20 miles per gallon! That's based on official AAA fuel consumption figures for the Cameo Carrier, powered by the famous Thriftmaster 6 engine and equipped with Overdrive (optional at extra cost).

Here, on the ALCAN Highway, they conquered the Yukon's toughest terrain. Six new '57 Chevrolet trucks covered 1,520 truck-killing miles from Dawson Creek, B. C. to Fairbanks, Alaska—normally a 72-hour run—in less than 45 hours. There's proof of stamina, power and performance that means more profitable hauling on your job!

The Alcan Highway ranks as one of the world's most challenging roads. It tumbles over towering mountains and wanders through desolate Yukon forests. Gravel most of the way, its surface is continually battered by fierce sub-arctic storms.

This is the road where trucks grow old before their time! But six new Task-Force '57 Chevrolet trucks, loaded with cargo, took the measure of the Alcan Highway — and did it in a history-making round - the - clock run! Running at a steady, grinding pace, these new Chevrolet lightweight, middleweight and heavyweight champs made the trip in less than 45 hours (it normally takes 72 hours!)

Here was an all-out test of stamina, power and performance. Here was a supreme test of all the qualities you look for in a truck — handling ease, roadability and riding comfort. Come in and look over the new trucks that offer Alcan High-way proof of more profitable hauling, for you!

All the way in DRIVE range with Powermatic! As a special test, the Powermatic-equipped 1900 Series tractor travelled the length of the Alcan Highway — up mountains and through washouts — in a single forward-speed range. An identical truck with 5-speed transmission required 1,560 separate gear and rear axle shifts.

More profitable hauling for you! That's what Chevrolet's Alcan Highway test run adds up to. Come in and look over the new Task-Force '57 trucks. They're the fairest workers and biggest savers on any job!

BRITISH, FRENCH PLANES ATTACK EGYPT

Hungarians Give Russians New Warning

Earlier Threat Of Air Attacks Not Carried Out

Cardinal Mindszenty Given Great Budapest Welcome

Bulletin

BUDAPEST, (AP) — The Russian retreat from Budapest appeared in full swing today. Soviet tanks—leaving their lairs in the capital—headed away under a shower of leaflets from Hungarian air force planes threatening to bomb them if they tarried.

BUDAPEST (AP) — Aircraft of the Hungarian air force today scattered leaflets on Budapest threatening again to bomb Russian tanks if they do not quit the city.

It was the air force's second threat to attack the Soviet forces who tried in vain to quell the uprising against Russian control of Hungary.

An ultimatum from the Hungarian air command Tuesday night demanded that the Russians evacuate the revolution-torn capital today, but the early morning deadline passed without action.

The Red troops abandoned their positions in Budapest's Danube River bridges, but a Hungarian army officer said Soviet tank units still were stationed near the parliament building, seat of Premier Imre Nagy's government.

In the confusion still gripping the city it was not immediately clear whether any Russian forces had left the capital in fulfillment of Nagy government promises to the rebels.

The government-controlled Radio Budapest said that "according to reports" the Russians were leaving the city.

Russian mechanized units and tanks were moving westward in the city but it was difficult to tell if they were actually pulling out. They were moving about in different directions and sometimes passing one another.

CARDINAL FREED

The swirling events brought the liberation of Cardinal Mindszenty, the revolutionary troops. The prelate returned to the capital today and received a tumultuous welcome after he was spotted being driven through the streets.

Crowds poured out to hail the church leader, especially in Buda, Budapest's predominantly Roman Catholic section.

Meanwhile, endlessly drove through the streets as armed rebels still prowled the revolt-torn capital seeking to wipe out the last remnants of the hated Hungarian security police, the AVO.

Bitter fighting was reported in some sections early this morning. The secret police force and guard barred about 30,000 and some of the 10 members were in hiding in Budapest's slum areas. The insurgents were preparing a house-to-house search in an effort to track them down.

A rebel radio broadcast demanded that the Nagy government guarantee that steps would be carried out to provide the withdrawal of Russian troops from all Hungary by the end of December.

READY TO NEGOTIATE

The Freedom National Council, whose headquarters have been established at Gyoer, said it was ready to start negotiations with the government. The rebel broadcast said a number of Hungarian army units have pledged loyalty to the council. It also said a general strike still is in progress in some parts of the country and will be continued unless the government meets demands of the council.

Hungary's old traditional political parties began to pick up the threads of their existence after years of Communist-ordered oblivion. Bela Kovacs, former first secretary of the Smallholders party, was reported to have arrived in Budapest.

Nationalist Radio Tuesday broke into headquarters of the Communist party on Republic Square, dragged out party functionaries and secret police officers and forced them on the square.

Telephone and telegraph communications between Buda a pest and Vienna were restored today.

HUNGARY APPOINTS DEPUTY PREMIER

Zoltan Tildy, above, former Hungarian president who resigned in 1948, was appointed deputy premier in Budapest as Hungary's Red leaders formed a new government sprinkled with pro-Soviet non-Reds in an attempt to appease the rebels. Communists kept key jobs, however, and the new government fell short of rebel demands.

CONSERVATIVES UPSET LIBERALS IN N.S. ELECTION

Spring Greatest Surprise On Cape Breton Island

HALIFAX (CP)—Nova Scotians elected their first Conservative government in 23 years Tuesday.

Progressive Conservative chieftain Robert L. Stanfield led his party to its first victory in a provincial election since the Liberals swept to power under the late Angus L. Macdonald in 1933.

The result compared with the last election:

	1956	1953
PC	23	12
Liberals	19	32
CCF	1	2
Total	43	46

Six legislature seats were added in a 1955 redistribution.

The mounting Conservative tide engulfed the two-year-old government of Liberal Premier Henry D. Hicks, fighting his first election as party leader. He took over after the death of Premier Macdonald in 1954.

The Conservatives sprung their biggest surprise on Cape Breton Island. They carried five of six constituencies in industrial Cape Breton County, winning a new seat and ousting one CCF and three Liberal members of the last house.

Conservatives elected there included lawyer Donald Macneil and druggist C. E. Gillis, who once played leading parts in a sensational investigation of conditions at the Cape Breton mental hospital last spring. A party spokesman said labor unrest was another factor in the Conservative gains.

Four Liberal cabinet ministers lost their seats Agriculture Minister Colin Cameron was defeated in Antigonish, long a Liberal seat. Attorney-General Malcolm Patterson, a House member for 19 years, went under in Cape Breton West.

SOVIET TO PROTEST

MOSCOW (AP) — British and French Ambassadors have been summoned to the foreign ministry today and Soviet authorities were called to hear a formal Soviet protest over developments in the Middle East crisis.

BUTTAWA ARMS SHIPMENTS

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government today suspended all arms shipments to Israel.

Prime Minister St. Laurent also announced at a press conference following a cabinet meeting that the government has decided, for the time being at least, not to call the present session to discuss the Middle East crisis.

Canadian Govt. Unhappy Over Ultimatum of Britain, France

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government is unhappy over the way the British-French attempt to crack down on Israel and Egypt is panning out.

It regrets the "necessity" for the joint ultimatum issued to the Middle East opponents Tuesday and is distressed that a split between the United States and British-France has resulted in the UN Security Council over the issue.

Canada's views on the tangled situation were made known Tuesday night by External Affairs Minister Pearson, who expressed the opinion that a Middle East truce cannot be ended without the UN taking some action.

The minister was leading figure in the UN for several years—suggested war could result unless a political rather than military solution were obtained in the Middle East conflict. At least, he made it be wonders about this.

Mr. Pearson talked for an hour to parliamentary press gallery correspondents Tuesday night and later underwent a barrage of questioning from a panel on the CBC-TV Press Conference program.

Canada, he said, has been trying to use its good offices in and the Washington-London-Paris action through talks by the ministers with London and Washington Tuesday night. But the result was more anxiety than comfort.

While he said he regarded the Middle East turbulence as unlikely to erupt into a war that could involve Canadian forces, he expressed particular concern over the way Canada's Western Allies decided at the UN Security Council at a meeting Tuesday night on the Israeli-Egypt powderkeg.

Britain and France at this meeting split with the U.S. and twice vetoed proposals of Russia to call a cease fire. One of the British-French vetoes was on a Russian proposal based on a U.S. plan that asked UN members to abstain from force in the trouble zone.

Mr. Pearson called it "most deplorable" that at the UN the United States and Russia should be aligned on one side and Britain and France on the other.

But he refused—in his televised press conference—to say Canada on one side or another of the division between allies.

Canada is not at present a member of the Security Council. Had she been, it might have been a difficult decision to make. He was not sure whether or not Canada would have abstained from voting, as Australia did.

Mr. Pearson actually stands at the moment on the issue, he said, "will take some considerations."

In his earlier press conference, Mr. Pearson chose his words carefully in saying that the Canadian government "has calculated Britain and France "found it necessary" to deliver their ultimatum. But he would not be pinned down to saying flatly that Canada actually regrets the action.

British Commons and Papers Split by Eden's Suez Move

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Eden's decision to send troops into the Suez Canal Zone touched off a domestic political storm today.

The Labor party organ, the London Herald, denounced as that Eden "risks disunity among the Western powers."

"He offends the Western powers. He offends important members of the British Commonwealth. And he divides the British people at a grave moment in history."

It says the decision "is the house the entire Arab world against Great Britain and the West and whatever the immediate outcome, will destroy the last vestige of British influence in the Middle East."

Taking the government's side, the Conservative paper Daily Mail said that "far from dividing us" fire brigade should tackle the flames before they burn down the whole structure.

The decision to intervene was given a 270-to-218 vote of confidence in the House of Commons Tuesday, mostly along party lines.

Prime Minister Eden himself said: "There is nothing in the United Nations charter which justifies the United Nations taking as world policeman. The great danger is that if we can do that so can anybody else."

Labor member Christopher Mayhew said Eden was using the Egyptian-Israeli battle as a pretext to destroy Egypt and the canal.

In defending his decision, Eden said that all he wanted was that the Red Cross move Egyptians temporarily—repeat temporarily—into Port Said, Ismailia, and Suez.

"The last thing we want is an enduring commitment of our own."

The Times says "There are evident risks in the manner, and in the timing, of the Anglo-French intervention now exacted by the accord." But, it adds, "boldness of this sort will be the wisest if every hope that it will do so now."

Russia Says She Wants All Red Lands to Be Sovereign

MOSCOW (AP) — In a major policy shift, the Soviet Union says it wants all the Communist countries to be completely sovereign, and is willing to talk about the disposition of Soviet troops in three of them.

An unusual declaration issued by the government Tuesday night was interpreted by diplomatic observers as indicating that Moscow was seeking a measure of relief from increasingly embarrassing situation within the Communist camp.

In conciliatory tones, it professed that the Soviet Army will evacuate Budapest "as soon as this is considered necessary by the Hungarian government."

It also acknowledged that "the further presence of Soviet armed units in Hungary may cause even further aggravation of the situation."

The declaration said there are Soviet units in only three of the "peoples' democracies"—Hungary, Romania and Poland—and added:

"With a view to ensuring mutual security . . . the Soviet government is ready to examine with other Socialist countries participating in the Warsaw treaty the question of Soviet troops stationed on the territory of the above mentioned countries."

The Soviet troops in Poland, Romania and Rumania are stationed under terms of the Warsaw Pact, the Communist countries' mutual defence alliance formed last year by the Soviet Union and her East European allies.

Defence Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov told newspaper correspondents Tuesday night that all the pact members would have the right to withdraw their Soviet troops from Hungary, a country which quit the alliance Monday.

There was no mention in last night's statement of Soviet troops in East Germany.

The Soviet Union said it was putting into practice decisions of last February's 20th Soviet Communist party congress based on "maintaining the complete sovereignty of every Socialist state."

It said the government and the whole Soviet people "deeply regret the developments in Hungary that led to bloodshed," but reiterated that Soviet troops entered the country in Hungary only on the request of the Hungarian government.

RCAF NORTH STAR ON RELIEF FLIGHT TO HUNGARY

Carrying Five Tons Of Medical Supplies

GANDER, Nfld. (CP) — An RCAF North Star took off from Gander International Airport early today with five tons of medical supplies for revolt-torn Hungary.

North Star 15311, flying as Special Flight 501, was airborne at 1:50 a.m. NST after a two-hour refuelling stop. Its destination was Vienna by way of the Azores.

The $40,000 cargo it carried was collected earlier this week within less than 48 hours from Canadian medical and government depots in Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and Winnipeg and flown to Toronto Tuesday afternoon for Hungary where thousands of refugees are finding needed medical aid desperately.

Every crate and package in the jam-packed aircraft bears a large Red Cross label and the words "gift of the Canadian people."

Other markings show that the 40,000 penicillin vials, 500,000 suits-compound tablets and thousands upon thousands of shell dressings were gathered from Red Cross depots, civil defence stocks and commercial firms.

Red Cross officials said once it was decided to send the gifts and Prime Minister St. Laurent had Sunday authorized use of the North Star, drug manufacturers started round-the-clock operations to meet the Tuesday afternoon deadline.

ITEMS SPECIFIED

The supplies needed were specified by the Hungarian Red Cross.

The North Star touched down at Gander six hours after Hungarian nationals, waving flags, had given it a touching send-off at Malton.

After a refuelling and crew-briefing on flight conditions, the four-engined aircraft took off on the second leg of its journey. From the Azores it is to fly to Bristol, England and on to Vienna where it is due to land at 3 p.m. GMT (9 a.m. EST) Wednesday.

Authority has been sought through international and Hungarian Red Cross sources for one plane to fly right into Budapest, thus saving time in transshipment from Vienna, but no answer has yet been received.

Meanwhile, provincial associations throughout Canada were described as well. Deciding to pitch in with the Red Cross they organized to collect clothing through the Red Cross Unified Fund with Toronto lawyer G. E. Gerrow-ward as chairman and one Canadian business man yet to be named.

Contributions to cover further shipments would be sought from the Canadian public at large.

ANASTASIA GOES GUNNING

NEW YORK (AP) — Anthony (Tough Tony) Anastasia, Brooklyn longshoreman's union leader, fired a shotgun into the air early today outside his home and was run off a prowler, police reported. Anastasia told officers that an unidentified man, intent on evil, armed with a shotgun, he went to the front porch and saw a man running down the street. Anastasia said he fired one shot in the air.

Israel Captures Egyptian Warship After Dive-Bombing It Near Haifa

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — Israeli forces today captured, a crippled Egyptian destroyer following an air-sea engagement near Haifa which forced the ship's crew of 250 to surrender, according to Israeli sources.

Unofficial reports said Israeli planes dive-bombed the destroyer Ibrahim Awal as she approached near Haifa in the first Egyptian naval approach to Israeli shores since 1948.

An air force spokesman said two Soviet-built Egyptian MiG jet fighters and a British-built Vampire jet were shot down at dawn today, bringing the total Egyptian planes lost to date in the Israeli crisis to seven.

The actions took place as Israel accepted a joint Anglo-French ultimatum to lay down her arms providing Egypt accepted as well. But Egypt's President Nasser rejected the ultimatum.

Air raid sirens wailed twice during the night in Haifa as the populated areas of the Tel Aviv region sounded alerts, but there were no reports of a raid.

The Israeli spokesman said his air force attacked the destroyer which the Egyptians bought from Britain in January. The ship had been shelling Haifa Bay during the night without causing either casualties or damage.

Crowds of Israelis in Haifa this morning gazed westward to see where the grey destroyer was being towed to harbor.

Many of them had been aware of the brief naval battle. The sides had been lighted with bursting rockets and tracer bullets, rousing the sleeping townsmen.

Eden Refuses To Give Commons Details Of Plans

U.S. Opposition Will Not Halt Anglo-French Action

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today made clear that Anglo-French forces would move into the Suez Canal zone despite United States opposition.

Prime Minister Eden told the House of Commons:

"We stand by what we said and we shall carry it out."

Shortly after his speech an official British statement from Nicosia, Cyprus said:

"As an offensive by bomber aircraft under Allied command against military targets in Egypt."

In his Commons speech, Eden said that the Anglo-French request Tuesday to Egypt to allow troops to enter the three main canal zone towns still was open.

He told the House he pointed because prior to the Nicosia official statement there had been reports of actual Anglo-French landings which had been generally expected during today.

"We have no desire whatever, nor have the French government,

BULLETIN

LONDON (Reuters) — British bombers attacked Cairo tonight at 9 p.m. local time—8 p.m. EST, Cairo radio reported.

that the military action we shall have to take shall be more than temporary in its duration.

"But it is our intention that our action to protect the canal and separate the combatants (Israel and Egypt) should result in a settlement which will prevent such a situation arising periodically in the future."

GIVING NO ACCOUNT

Amid uproar from the Labor opposition, he said he was not going to give the House any account of the plans planned but added:

"We stand by what we said and we shall carry it out."

All through the barracking, Sir Winston Churchill sat on his bench looking grim and unsmiling.

Amid laughter from the government side, Churchill said: "I do not ask the prime minister to disclose troop movements, I ask him simply to tell the House and the country and the whole world why the British and French are finally taken that British and French troops shall invade and occupy this region."

Eventually amidst a storm of shouting, some booing, and cries of "resign" a compound by Eden's reply to Churchill, Eden said:

"I am not prepared to give the House any details of the action which will follow the statement I have already yesterday that British and French forces will intervene if whatever strength may be needed.

"We stand by what we said and we shall carry it to the end."

Gaitskell said he was at a loss to understand the government's reluctance to give this essential information frankly and freely.

"I can only assume from what he has said that this decision has been taken and that British and French troops are at the moment on the move," he said.

If that were not so the prime minister should tell the House and the country he contended.

Eden, explaining why Britain had vetoed the United States resolution on the Israeli - Egyptian fighting in the Security Council Monday night, said the resolution had been in effect a condemnation of Israel as an aggressor.

U.S. Still Stands By Pledge to Aid Victim of Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today the United States still is standing by its pledge to assist any victim of aggression in the Middle East.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty made the statement at a press conference in reply to a question. He had been asked whether the U.S. would abide by that 1950 pledge despite action by Great Britain and France Tuesday in the United Nations Security Council.

British and French UN representatives at that time vetoed a U.S. resolution calling for a ceasefire in Egypt which has been invaded by Israeli forces.

Hagerty's statement came as President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles met again at the White House to continue discussion of the Middle East crisis.

Later it was announced that Eisenhower will speak on television and radio on the Middle east crisis at 8 p.m. EST tonight.

One possibility in the view of officials here is that far-reaching economic difficulties may develop for Western Europe, especially West Germany, France and Spain.

India Says Israel, France, Britain All Guilty of UN Charter Violation

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Indian government announced today that it considers the Israeli attack on Egypt and the French-British ultimatum to be "flagrant violations" of the United Nations Charter."

In a formal statement, India said "this aggression is bound to have far-reaching consequences in the United Nations and could lead to war on an extended scale."

The Indian government, a spokesman added, also considered the Anglo-French move "opposed to all the principles laid down by the Bandung conference" of the African and Asian powers.

Prime Minister Nehru today met in rapid succession with Egyptian, French, United States, Egyptian and Russian representatives here to discuss the new Suez crisis.

Diplomatic sources said before the meetings that there was a possibility of a joint approach by India and the United States to Britain and France to halt the use of force in the Middle East.

Newspapers in Many Lands Condemn Intervention by British and French

By REUTERS NEWS AGENCY

The world today reacted sharply to the Anglo-French decision to occupy the Suez Canal Zone.

Official comment—especially in Western countries—was guarded, but the press of many lands condemned the decision and Communist official newspapers charged that Britain and France had known beforehand about Israel's plan to invade Egypt.

The Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda linked the United States with Britain and France in a charge that the three tacitly supported Israel's attack on Egypt.

Communist China's party paper, the Peiping People's Daily, said that "international challenge has many signs which can confirm that it is instigated by the Western colonial powers."

The official Yugoslav newspaper Borba today declared that the "world stood stupified" by the Anglo-French move.

NEUTRALS ALARMED

Indian officials in New Delhi said they were "bewildered" by the British and French vetoes in the United Nations Security Council Tuesday.

The Ceylon Daily News, a leading nationalist newspaper in Colombo, said the Anglo-French move might well be the spark that would set the Arab world ablaze.

In Australia, Prime Minister Robert Menzies refused to make a statement as he said publicly he was "better informed."

In New Zealand, Prime Minister Sidney Holland said the position in which the U.S. found itself—aligned with the Soviet Union on the issue of intervention in Suez—was to be deeply regretted.

In Brussels, the Belgian cabinet met in an emergency overnight session and recalled Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak from his visit to Russia.

ITALIANS SPLIT

The Italian Socialist paper Avanti criticized Britain and France for a "brutal act of aggression on one of the colonial interests." But the Catholic Il Quotidino praised the Anglo-French move as designed to prevent a greater evil and to re-establish international law.

Britain's 10 national newspapers were split, but only three right-wing newspapers—The Express, The Mail and The Sketch—had no qualified praise for the Anglo-French move.

British-French Intervention Extension of Canal Issue

LONDON (CP)—The Joint British-French intervention in the Middle East—explained to the strong possibility of a "middle-sized" war with Israeli-Arab hostilities—is essentially an extension of the Suez Canal dispute.

The action springs broadly from the same set of assumptions and seems now to result in a similar cleavage of opinion.

The root motive for British action case is oil. Two - thirds of the world's proved reserves lie in the Middle East, and these supplies are deemed to be "imperilled by the fighting between the Israelis and the Egyptians.

In the case of France, oil is also a vital matter but there are other compelling factors. One is the widespread belief in France that Egypt's Col. Nasser is the underlying cause of France's difficulties in North Africa. Another is Prime Minister Guy Mollet's insistence on preserving the rule of law in international affairs.

On a psychological plane, some sense of British imperial pride is involved. In both Britain and France, those who favor aggressive action emphasize the importance of national prestige. At the other end of the scale, there is much common in left-wing circles, that the two countries are on the wrong side in world affairs, and should make the retreat as painless as possible.

How solid is the support in Britain and France for the Anglo-French ures? In France, opinion seems emphatically in favor. A roundup of newspaper opinion broadcast this morning from Paris showed virtually all the papers taking the line of the government's decision. Reservations were expressed only in two left-wing papers, and naturally the Communist press was opposed.

In Britain, the position is less clear-cut. Debate on the Suez canal dispute, particularly in the House, charged emergency parliamentary session in mid-summer, indicated the country is split down the middle.

Government spokesmen have said they believe a majority of the British nation favor a strong line. Independent observers, however, feel the reverse may be the case. It is certainly true to say that what might be called the "liberal-intellectual" view in Britain is extremely uneasy.

On the other hand, it has been apparent from the start that there were reservations among British allies. The United States has been hotly criticized here for what is thought to be an "inconsistent" hukewarm support. Canada has taken a middle road, but official statements strongly imply grave doubts about the wisdom of the Anglo-French approach. The same applies to other Commonwealth countries, such as Australia and New Zealand.

SOUL-SEARCHING

The tone of British press comment today reflects some soul-searching. Support for the government action is widespread and bedged with qualifications. One dominant thought is broadly that the Anglo-French initiative is a great gamble, which can hardly be criticized if it pays off.

The Daily Mail a right-wing newspaper which usually takes a vigorous line where Britain's prestige is involved, is by no means alone in its doubts and misgivings. It says Britain and France have acted with legal sanction—except that of any country safeguarding its international rights—"whether that is sufficient warrant should be made clearer than it has."

This correspondent, from talks with officials and persons who have followed the Middle East crisis closely, feels that the latest developments have taken nothing by surprise. This amounts almost to bewilderment on the part of some observers on Fleet Street.

One British fear, apart from worries about oil, is that Nasser, if appeased, will become even more of a dictator among the Arab peoples, and will gradually assume hegemony over Syria, Jordan and Iraq, and then together economies as Iraq and Saudi Arabia. For British diplomats, the "Emperor Nasser" holding the Arab world in thrall is a frightening thought.

Mayor Launches Drive Against Price of Liquor

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—Mayor Harry Veiner said Tuesday he is considering extending his "milk-in-dollar-over" campaign to the end of the year.

The teetotalling mayor launched his boy-over drive last week in protest against an increase in the retail price of Canadian liquor, scheduled to go into effect in Alberta Nov. 1.

The mayor gave out free bottles of milk to all who would pledge not to buy liquor that week in protest. The pledge ends Thursday, when the new price will be put on sale.

"There has been no change whatsoever in milk prices, a decrease in sales," said Jack Hargreaves, manager of the Alberta government liquor store in Medicine Hat, when asked Tuesday if the campaign had affected volume.

MAY EXTEND

Mayor Veiner said he may extend his campaign to the year-end.

"If I do, I'm sure liquor sales will drop," he said. "If I go through with it, I'll say that for every chase a quart of milk for any city resident contemplating buying a Christmas bottle of Canadian liquor.

"And I'll even personally deliver it to his home. As long as he'll pledge not to cross me up and use it for moose milk (a drink made of rum and evaporated milk)."

The mayor said he may still go through with a plan to picket the Medicine Hat liquor store Thursday.

Police Blotter

City and provincial police reported an exceptionally quiet night last night with only incidents and few occurrences of any nature noted in the occurrence books.

City police yesterday reported one minor motor accident at the corner of Pinnacle and Bridge streets, resulting in less than $100 damage. And a Ritchie Ave., man reported the rear seat of his car had been slashed with a knife while the vehicle was parked outside his home Monday night.

Special Session Of Parliment May Be Called

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today there is a possibility a special session of Parliament will be called to discuss the Middle East crisis.

He told reporters, however, that he hopes this action will not be necessary.

If Parliament were called, it would not be to declare war but for the government to submit its attitude on the Middle East situation.

He made these brief comments before entering an extraordinary cabinet session.

Judge Says Wife Has Right to Leave Husband

TORONTO (CP) —A husband cannot force his wife to return after she has left him, a county judge said Tuesday, dismissing Philip J. Thomas' appeal against a conviction for striking and besetting his wife, Doreen, 31.

Judge Shea said, "A woman has the right to leave her husband. He can not force her to live with him. He does not own her and she is not his chattel."

Harvey Dalley, counsel for the 45-year-old former British naval officer, said he will appeal the ruling since "this case could have a serious bearing on our divorce laws."

Evidence was that Thomas emigrated from Canada in June, 1953, and was followed in November by his wife and their seven-year-old son, Brian. A month later Mrs. Thomas left her husband and later had him arrested on a charge of watching and besetting, saying he embarrassed her by seeing her at work and at her home.

Thomas claimed he thought he had a right to see her since they were still legally married and he wanted to discuss their future and their son. Mr. Dalter argued that a man has a right to try to effect a reconciliation with his wife.

EDEN

"The British government did not feel and do not feel that it is possible to pronounce in this way against one of the parties in a dispute for the action which they have taken regardless of the cumulative effects that went before," he said.

The prime minister said: "In the actions we have taken we are not concerned to stop Egypt but to stop war."

CAIRO (AP)—Britain warned Egyptians to clear out from all Egyptian airfields today—apparently as a prelude to the landing of a French-British expeditionary airborne force to seize control of the Suez Canal.

Egypt announced it had put Russian MiGs into operation against Israeli forces on the Sinai Peninsula. Israel claimed the capture of an Egyptian ship in Haifa harbor.

Reporters in an Oslo dispatch quoted Foreign Minister Halvard Lange of Norway as saying that British and French troops began landing at 5:30 a.m. this morning. Lange misunderstood to have had a telephone conversation with Norwegian Premier Einar Gerhardsen in London.)

REFUGEES WARNED

The Voice of Israel, Jerusalem radio station, warned the refugee-packed Gaza Strip that it soon would be cut off from Egypt. It asserted Israeli military operations in the Sinai Peninsula soon would be concluded with the defeat of Egyptian forces.

The Israelis claimed to have destroyed scores of Egyptian vehicles in attacks on convoys east of Ismailia, and claimed their forces had reached within 10 miles of the Suez Canal, the "ultimatum" line set by British and French.

Egyptian military headquarters announced it had sent its Soviet-built MiGs into battle today and that they had knocked down 10 Israeli planes. The Egyptians admitted the loss of two of their own planes.

The Egyptians said bombers also had gone into action over Israel's territory and had destroyed and damaged Israeli airfields.

SHIP CAPTURED

The Israelis announced the capture of an Egyptian 1,000-ton frigate, the Ibrahim Awal which overpowered Haifa and the surrender of its 250-man crew.

The Egyptians said the frigate was scuttled by its captain after "successfully completing its mission." The high command said the Ibrahim Awal developed engine trouble during an attack by the three Israeli warships and warplanes and the captain was forced to abandon it.

Egypt rejected the demand from London and Paris that the Israeli-Egyptian fighting stop by 6:30 a.m. (11:30 p.m. EST Tuesday) and troops be pulled back 10 miles from the strategic waterway. But Radio Egyptian sources said that up to noon no British or French troops had landed in the canal zone. This was confirmed by the French defence ministry in Paris.

The Middle East news agency reported that 25 ships were moving normally through the canal today.

The British and French governments had said they would send their troops into the zone "temporarily" to keep the canal open if Egypt and Israel did not agree.

Strength of NATO Forces Praised By St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP) — Strength of NATO forces is encouraging the people of Communist - dominated countries in Eastern Europe to revolt against their oppressors, Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday.

The prime minister made the statement, his first since the rebellion in Hungary and the earlier uprising in Poland, at an impressive ceremony at Uplands airport held as a farewell to the RCAF's CF-100 Jet Fighter Squadron 445 which leaves Thursday for Europe.

Mr. St. Laurent spoke briefly to some 500 persons at the ceremony after presenting Wing Cmdr. E.G. Ireland, 35, of Toronto, 445's commanding officer, with a squadron badge recently approved by the Queen.

Mr. St. Laurent said he is convinced that because of the strength of the NATO forces the oppressed people of Eastern Europe think there is some prospect of success in revolting against foreign regimes. The people of these countries were making a "gallant effort" to regain their lost freedom.

Mr. St. Laurent did not mention Hungary or Poland by name. However, he said the oppressed people in Europe were attempting to regain the freedom that men of 445 Squadron were pledged to safeguard for the Western allies.

FAT BOOZERS HAPPIEST

OXFORD, Eng. (Reuters)—A research physician who has analyzed the drinking habits of 263 university students in Britain says most fat persons drink more liquor than thin ones—and get more enjoyment out of what they drink. The analysis showed that about 25 per cent of fat students were regular drinkers, compared with less than five per cent of thin men.

Judge Dismisses Charge Against Police Officer

MONTREAL (CP)—Judge Omer Legrand Tuesday dismissed as groundless the case against Insp. Fleet's right to free a prisoner and formally charged in court. It is formally charged with falsifying a police blotter and freeing a prominent Montreal man arrested for drunken driving.

The judge ruled "the complaints against the accused do not contain any criminal offence and I order him liberated on both counts." He said it is a police officer's right to free a prisoner and formally charged in court. It is done time after time, he added.

He also disagreed with a conclusion by special crown prosecutor Real Cagnon that blotters at police stations are public documents.

The complaints against the 45-year-old inspector were laid by Jacques Sauriol, Montreal newspaper man and unsuccessful mayoralty candidate in the last municipal election.

The judge said a police officer may use his own discretion in the matter of laying complaints against persons under detention.

"Every day people are detained but not all of the arrested up in court," he said. "If the accused failed in his duties it is not a matter which falls within the domain of this court. It is a matter for his superiors to handle. The courts of law are established for public interest and not for any individual."

Loppylugs Wins Cambridgeshire

NEWMARKET, England (AP) Loppylugs today won the Cambridgeshire handicap over one mile, one furlong of Newmarket's turf course.

Hafiz 11 came second and Epaulette was third.

Loppylugs started at betting odds of 100 to 7. Hafiz 11 was 10 to 1 and Epaulette 20 to 1.

Loppylugs, a four-year-old bay gelding by Royal Charger out of Lady Jitters, hauled 105 pounds to halt a length victory over the American-owned Hafiz in a thrilling battle over the last furlong. Epaulette was four lengths behind Hafiz II. Melody Fair was fourth in the field of 34 runners.

ISRAELI'S SHREWD MOVE

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion of Israel has struck his master stroke against the Arab nations whose enmity is an enduring threat to the very existence of the Jewish national state.

The timing of Israel's invasion of the Sinai Peninsula was more than merely shrewd—it was brilliant, some will say devilishly so.

Britain and France, in the midst of a bitter quarrel with Egypt over the Suez Canal, were in a state of irritable frustration over the failure of their every effort to obtain a swift and clear cut international agreement in this dispute.

Britain had just seen her position in the Middle East further undercut by the results of the Jordan election, in which anti-British elements had scored a decisive victory.

France had enraged the Arab world by the ruse which had resulted in the capturing of Algerian rebel leaders by diverting their plane from its destination at Tunis to Algiers and, moreover, had had its feelings exacerbated by anti-French riots in Arab lands in protest against this ruse and by the apparent proof that Egypt was shipping arms to rebels in French colonies in North Africa.

Russia was in the throes of a delicate struggle to retain some vestige of her control over the satellite states in eastern Europe without resorting to such a ruthless use of naked force that she would alienate all support even among the ranks of longtime Communists in these lands.

The United States was in the last stages of a presidential election, with all this implies in a tendency to sit on the fence for at least another week. Moreover, there are many Jews who are U.S. voters but few U.S. citizens of Arab descent.

Israel marched into Egypt. Whether this action is in fact designed only to destroy the bases from which fanatical groups had raided Israeli territory, or whether it is intended to be the first stages of a full-scale "preventive war" is not immediately apparent—and indeed events may move so fast that the world will not know the answer for awhile.

Britain and France acted promptly—quite promptly in exactly the way in which Israel had hoped. They announced that they would send troops to occupy the Suez Canal zone.

Britain and France may feel that their action was essential to safeguard the canal against possible damage and to insure continued free passage of ships through the canal. However, of at least equal importance with their real intentions is the question of how these intentions will be interpreted by the world, particularly by the Arab world.

Arabs may take one of two views. They may regard Britain and France as the allies of the Israelis. Or, and this is more likely, they may look on these nations as rogues, seizing the opportunity provided by the Israeli attack on Egypt to attempt the occupation of the canals some which they desired but which they hesitated to attempt, because of world opinion, until a convenient excuse was provided.

An earlier attempt to occupy the canal zone would certainly have further endangered the position of Britain and France in the Arab world, but to link this occupation to a threat with an attack by Israel on Egypt is to make certain what was formerly only probable, that Britain and France will earn the enmity of the Arabs throughout the whole of the Middle East.

Israel and France will certainly not find their position bettered by this crisis. Israel, which had felt that it was living with the sword point at its throat, may gain some security—but it is by no means certain. The Israeli swing was shrewd—but sometimes one can be too shrewd for one's own good.

CEMETERY REAL ESTATE

In British Columbia, it is possible to buy a cemetery plot from a man who is not a licensed real estate salesman.

This may not appear like a startling news, so we shall try it again with reverse English.

After April 30, 1957, it will be impossible to buy a cemetery plot from a man who is not a licensed real estate salesman.

There, that is more interesting, isn't it?

Apparently regulations under the Cemeteries Act in British Columbia require a man, before he becomes licensed as a real estate salesman. This provision, however, will be waived until April 30, because the Real Estate Salesman Licensing Act requires real estate salesmen to have full knowledge of land registry laws. Somebody thought that it was unreasonable to require cemetery plot salesmen to have full knowledge of land registry laws. So the whole thing is off—until April 30. What happens then, we do not know. Perhaps it is planned to amend one or other of the acts in the interim.

JUST FOLKS

HALLOWEEN

The little ghosts will walk tonight
On every peaceful street,
And when the doors to them are flung
They'll murmur: "Trick or treat."

So, load with gum and various sweets the table in the hall
And have the good things ready for the goblins when they call!

Don't be afraid to be afraid; the shoes that walk tonight
Are but the kind that leave the grave arrayed in garments white.

They're happy-hearted little spirits with sunny natures
And they're not to be denied.

Their only slogan for the hour is this one: "Trick or treat."

Since few of us are good at tricks, we're also ill at ease,
'Tis well that "treat" alternative we're able to provide.

I'd hate to think a little ghost should pay a call on me
And leave my door dissatisfied and disappointed be.

The year is getting older. It is Hallowe'en again.
And those who once were little ghosts are women folk and men.

And I remember gratefully, while I'm standing out the treat,
How good the neighbors were to me upon our little street.

Executives Now on Leash

London Times Weekly Review

Among the many reasons why on the average executive seems to his secretary more nonsense than a dog is that he cannot be taught to come to heel. He slinks out of the office at the peak of the working day without warning or, at most, with a muttered word over his shoulder to look in the moment on the sales manager. This is bad enough for the office routine but, if he has a whole factory to set lost in, there is no limit to the frustration into which he may throw his secretary and the telephone operator. He was last heard of inspecting the conveyor belt. Where is he now? Nobody knows. Only the ladies filling the packages beside whom he is standing, because they have not the slightest idea who he is and could not care less. He is no shop steward.

As at cocktail parties, so with executives, they work, one thing leads to another, and a vaguely perspicacious executive can, and does, talk off the leash for several happy hours in the course of which he will have lunched complete with electric chair, has been prepared for bed, and is ready to slip into his breast pocket a helpful little obituary. In the case of a special case, that will keep him inextricably at the beck and call of his secretary. The telephone rings. But the old embarrassing, uncontrolling formula "He has just gone out of the room for a moment" need no longer be brought into play. The girl on the switchboard is asked to turn on his call signal. She does and it sounds, as clearly as it ever sounds, like a well trained dog, in the ears of the wandering tycoon.

Not all tycoons will welcome this advance of science. The soothing assurance that the personal signal unit bursts "gently and pleasantly" will not commend itself for the loss of freedom. But their reactionary doubts may well prove to be the last rear, as vain as were those of old-fashioned business men who declared—and not without reason—to the coming of the telephone. Before its day, a magnate in Lombard Street, wishing to get in touch with his fellow magnate in the corner in Cornhill had to write a note and send it round by messenger. Nowadays the clerk could easily prove that the proportion of unnecessary telephone calls is spectacularly small. The chances are that rather than put out in the house of her chief to settle it at the next casual meeting in the club. Now the desk pencil and the office smoking recess is threatened by women than by machines. Their telltale burner will be heard sounding from the breast pockets of figures comfortably ensconced in armchairs. The pavilion at Lord's itself will not be sacred. Those buzzes along.

Chiang's Move Is Too Late

Windsor Star

The Chiang Kai-shek regime on Formosa is in process of completing a land-reform measure of which little has been purchased from the big landowners and sold to peasants at a moderate cost. It appears to be working well, contributing to a satisfied peasantry.

It's another example, however, of too little and too late. If Chiang Kai-shek had put through similar land reforms in China a generation ago, the Reds might not now have been Communist. The system of greedy landlord and corrupt, tax collectors made the peasants of China ripe for change, even if it were a change for the worse.

Finn Deserves Peace Prize

Montreal Gazette

It is reported from Stockholm that the Nobel Peace Prize for 1956 will be awarded to Dr. Johan J. K. Paasikivi, former president of Finland. If so, it is well. The prize would be awarded in recognition of Paasikivi's delicate, difficult and courageous role of peacemaking in relation to Russia.

During the Russo-Finish War of 1939-40, the world was offered the spectacle of tough, courageous little Finland giving the Russian Red Army such a bloody nose that the reorganization of its structure was forced on the Kremlin. Finland, however, was only two, or three to one, the Finns shattered the Russian forces piecemeal and were overawed by political commissars at that time, rather than by military leaders.

The British and French considered Finland as a natural ground forces to Finland's aid but failed in practice to get beyond making a cross that country. Finally, with Soviet prestige at a new low, the Kremlin threw all its resources into military weight and the war was ended.

Finland lost the Mannerheim Line and her best geographical defences—the advantages in the Karelia area to the Russians. This was followed by the Soviet-Russian preparations for the attack from Germany that the Finnish Premier went to Moscow to come. Russia absorbed northeastern Poland, the Baltic States and the Finnish border area to use as buffers when the Red Army suddenly came.

That was not the end. Russia is Finland's traditional enemy. When the Germans attacked, the Finns joined them. For the second time in 25 years they were defeated by their giant neighbor. Russian demands were harsh and cleared. The Finns were ordered to pay their reparations in goods, large parts of which went to Russian specifications. Finland would be chained to the Russian economy.

Somehow, it hasn't worked out that way. Finland has fought this economic war with Russia with the same spirit of determination, the same spirit of sacrifice which marked her military struggles. And somehow, it has been a victory for Finland, for a change.

It has been a victory largely in diplomatic bullying. Finland is still free. In honoring Paasikivi, Sweden would be honoring the whole Finnish nation.

The Nobel Peace Prize moves toward greater co-operation, so do the Finnish people deserve the award of the Nobel Peace Prize could be a sign of greater Scandinavian co-operation to come.

Roads Study Superfluous

Toronto Globe and Mail

A news story from Brockville suggests that the report of the Legislature's Select Committee on Toll Roads now feel their duties have become a bit superfluous. Revenues for the Ontario Highways Department, if this is so, and recent activities of the committee seem to bear it out, it is time it got back on the job.

If any doubt exists as to the reason for the committee's existence it can easily be dispelled by looking at the terms of reference when the committee was first appointed on March 30, 1955: "... to study all matters relating to toll roads and to report on the application of same to certain areas having regard to the needs of the Province of Ontario."

Nothing could be plainer than this. Why then, doesn't the committee stick to its job? As a matter of fact, it might well ask at this time why the committee is still operating when it has completed its mission. Seven months ago it unanimously decided that the "toll road" is a practical system of constructing and maintaining highways and bridges in certain ways. It so recommended to the Ontario Government in March.

The committee also reported that there is a backlog of close to $1 billion in highway projects alone, at a time when revenues from all sources are increasing and that the province is faced with a serious problem of constructing and maintaining facilities needed in many

May Reorganize C of C In Deseronto

DESERONTO— At a meeting Monday evening in the Bayview Theatre to discuss the reorganizing the Chamber of Commerce there were in attendance about 30 citizens of whom one-third were civic-minded women of the town. The principal speakers were B. J. Bernard of Toronto, the Ontario representative for the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and J. T. A. Wilson, assistant Ontario manager also of Toronto.

S. March, who originated the idea of reorganizing, told the audience of the need in Deseronto for a Chamber of Commerce, introduced the speakers.

Mr. Bernard spoke of the work of the Canadian Federation and advised his listeners that 75 per cent of the Chambers of Commerce were in towns of less than 5,000 population.

Mr. Wilson, in his opening remarks said he had more than a cursory interest in Deseronto. His mother had taught school in this town in 1914 and had often told him of the many interesting thing that had occurred at that time. Chief among the stories she was meeting the famed Vernon Castle, who was a member of the air force here at that time.

His address was most interesting and enlightening and he told his audience that the Chamber of Commerce was interested in everything that affected the economy of Canada. He warned the ladies present and stated that they were definitely a part of Chamber efforts. According to his remarks, progress should be directed to improve the living conditions of all peoples. There are three classes of people in all towns who live off it, those who live in it, and those who live for it. He went on to say that he cannot understand the attitude of a great many of our people. He continually hear abuse on our civic officials and at the same time never attend meetings or try to help by taking office. Mr. Wilson stated that what we lack is civic pride. We should be proud of the advantages that our town offers and not so vociferous about its shortcomings.

In the question period that followed, the question was asked how to arouse civic pride. S. Bruyea, former president of the local Chamber also remarked on the difficulty of arousing enthusiasm in Deseronto. On a motion by D. Hubble and H. Everett, it was decided to form another chamber of commerce. A by-laws committee was appointed of Mrs. T. L. McCullough, D. Hubble and A. E. Walker and a nominating committee composed of H. Sweetman, J. Therrien and R. R. Neal. The meeting adjourned to meet again in two weeks.

Two movie game winners, one from Belleville and the other from Trenton, were each presented with a cheque for $1,000 at the Park Theatre in Belleville last Friday night. Photo shows Phillip Bridger, 220 Moira St., Belleville, receiving a cheque from Doug Pinder, relief manager at the Park Theatre, while A. Dugnid, manager of the Century Theatre at Trenton, presents David O'Neil, Coleman Heights, Trenton, with his cheque for $1,000. Both winners had numbers one to six correct for Movie Game No. 4. Winners told the audience the movie game was easy to play and lots of fun.

Refrigerators Designed for Child Safety

It is to be hoped that the future will show a drop in the toll of children's lives taken by the discarded refrigerator. While awaiting the evidence parents will do well to warn their children against playing in refrigerators they may find abandoned or act of use on the parches of vacant houses, in back yards, vacant lots, dumps or junk yards.

Last year many children lost their lives by suffocation as a result of shutting themselves up, or being shut up by playmates, in abandoned refrigerators.

The most encouraging recent development is recognition of the problem by individual manufacturers of refrigerators and the move by some members of the industry to eliminate it. One manufacturer, for instance, has equipped its 1956 line of household refrigerators with magnetic-type doors that can be opened from the inside. These doors have no mechanical latches or other fasteners. The pressure required to open them from the inside is so small that they can be easily opened by instinctive action of a small child kicking or pushing against them.

Price of Liquor To be Increased

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Liquor Control Board said Tuesday that price of liquor will be increased by from 20 to 30 cents a 26-ounce bottle Nov. 1.

The increases follow an announcement by Canadian distillers last month that they were increasing the wholesale price of liquor from between 40 cents to $1.20 for a 12-bottle case.

Tuesday, scotch whisky manufacturers said they will object to the increases because their wholesale prices are unchanged. A representative of the Scotch Whisky Association said that the "discriminatory extra profits taken from scotch sales act as a protective tariff and seriously restrict the sale of scotch."

The association said the policy originally was introduced to protect Canadian distillers and is no longer needed.

AUTOMATIC AID

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—Wrist's cramp is a thing of the past for Mayor Howard Winter and civic officials, who often sign hundreds of cheques a day. A cheque-writing machine now signs all cheques of less than $100,000.

Lake Ontario Development Assoc. Fully Outlined to Kiwanis Club

"The objective of the Lake Ontario Development Association is to encourage economic development within more than 35 communities throughout South Central Ontario and to promote the natural advantages in the area surrounding these communities," said the president of the association, W. Gordon Powell, to Belleville Kiwanians yesterday. Mr. Powell was quite emphatic in saying the development association has nothing whatever to do with the St. Lawrence Seaway Project as many people believe.

The actual role played by the association is that of an organization representing the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Hallburton, Victoria, Northumberland, Peterborough, Durham and Lennox and Addington to promote industrial expansion throughout the region.

Mr. Powell said there are several points which place these communities in positions to benefit from the association. "These eight counties have a total population of about 300,000 people; they have a labor force of about 100,000; the communities contained in the counties have access to Montreal and Toronto markets; all main railways pass through the district; there are 10,000 miles of roads to speed delivery; there are numerous buildings and sites available; the St. Lawrence Seaway is being constructed in the vicinity; these counties possess several important mining developments; there are many prosperous farms; and these eight counties are capable of handling 22 per cent of Ontario's tourist trade."

The association is financed jointly by 38 municipalities at the rate of seven cents per capita. A collective fund of $10,000 from these municipalities in addition to $10,000 from the province is available to the association each year.

Mr. Powell said, "the Lake Ontario Development Association was set up after three years of intensive study by the trade and industry branch of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development for the purpose of reducing the mortality rate among small industries in an area which shows great promise." Merchants, industrialists and businessmen in communities situated between Toronto and Montreal are in extremely advantageous positions. These two cities are the market centres of Canada.

"Attracting industry is a long-term process. There isn't anyone who can bring industry to a community overnight," he said.

One of Ontario's greatest assets is its tourist attraction. Ontario flora and fauna last year resulted in the tourist industry ranking second, to the gold mining industry for the money it brought to Canada.

Mr. Donald Kingdon, who at one time was secretary manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, is now the area manager for the association. The speaker said Mr. Kingdon has visited New York and Chicago and has helped pave the way for American interests to locate somewhere in the area.

Since its organization the L.O.D.A. has spent $1,700 in Belleville; the area manager has made 15 visits here and he has escorted six industrialists to the Belleville Chamber of Chamber.

Mr. Powell said that six holiday areas within a radius of 100 miles or each other in these eight counties provide wonderful opportunities for increased tourist trade.

Introduced by Hal Floyd, the speaker was thanked by Charlie Leak and President Al Drysdale. Also present at the luncheon meeting was R. C. Hamilton, secretary manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Weddings

HARNS—MITCHELL

A lovely double-ring wedding was solemnized in Bridge Street United church, Belleville, on Saturday, October 13, at high noon, when the Rev. Harry M. Jarvis, B.A., pastor of the church, united in marriage Betty Margaret Mitchell, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Mitchell, to John Brown Harns, of Johnstown, burg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gladwyn Harns, Wilton, Lennox and Addington. Intermingled with anthemsmusical numbers, performed by a pretty background for the ceremony.

As the bride entered the church, the hymn, "Praise My Soul, the King of Heaven," was rendered by the church organist, Mr. S. Jack Foxton, who also played during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. John D. Mitchell, the bride was radiant in her waist-length, bridal gown of Alencon lace with appliqued yoke, set skirt over ruffled net and white, slipper satin, with matching lace jacket and veil. She wore an elbow-length veil and headdress of lace sprinkled with seed pearls and sequins, and carried a cascade bouquet of Talisman roses with white stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Mrs. Jared Vorhees of Lake Orion, Michigan, as matron of honor, was attired in a waist-length gown of emerald green crystalette, fashioned on princess lines, with matching feather headdress. She carried bronze 'mums in cascade style.

Mr. Fred Hillman of Toronto, was groomsman.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road, where the bride's mother, wearing grey and pink brocaded taffeta with pink hat, and matching accessories, and corsage of pink carnations, received the guests. The bridegroom's mother, gowned in a silver grey corded silk ensemble with navy hat and accessories, with pink carnation corsage, assisted in the receiving line.

For motoring through New York State, the bride wore a brown lingerie-weight wool broadcloth suit with pink and brown accessories, and corsage of pink carnations. The young couple will reside in Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored by miscellaneous showers at the home of Mrs. Ross Bateman, Belleville, and at the home of Mrs. Robert Munroe, Belleville, with Mrs. Jared Vorhees as co-hostess. Also at a dinner and presentation by the staff of the Income Tax office of which the bride is a member.

Mead Johnson Company Holds Autumn Dance

The management of Mead Johnson and Company was host last Friday to the employees and their friends on the occasion of the company's 'Autumn Dance' held at the Club Commodore.

The hall was beautifully decorated for the event by Mrs. Johan Alexander, Miss Joyce Brown, Tom Scriven, Cecil Connors, Miss Fay Hamilton and Stewart Hill, all employees of Mead Johnson. President David L. Mennies, with Mrs. Mennies welcomed the guests at the door, when each lady was presented with a suitable favor by Mrs. Mennies.

Art Sweet and Cameron Dunnett provided appropriate music and called for square dances, social circles and spot dances were announced. The winners of the spot dances were: Miss Marilyn Anderson, Bill Bridges, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Vorvis, Miss Fay Hamilton and Jim Cathcart.

Dr. Ronald Burr Speaks on 'Physics In Medicine'

The autumn meeting of the Belleville branch of Queen's Alumni was held in the Bridge United church last Wednesday.

The ladies of the church served a delicious turkey dinner to one of the largest alumni gatherings in several years and the attendance was most encouraging to the executive.

Mr. Harry Moorman, accompanied by Mr. Linton Read, ably presided at the meeting which followed the dinner.

Later, president, Frank Moore, introduced Mr. A. S. Robb, a local member, who was this year elected to the Board of Directors of Queen's University. Having one of the members elected to this board is an honor both to the branch and the candidate and congratulations are tendered "Stu" on his election.

ENDOWMENT FUND CAMPAIGN

Mrs. Helen Bateman, who is doing such an outstanding work as local chairman of the Endowment Fund, spoke briefly concerning the present campaign.

Dr. Ronald Burr, the guest speaker, was introduced by Dr. Bruce Cronk. The speaker was no stranger to this area as he was born in Prince Edward County, and is the son of Mr. Clayton Burr of this city.

As a director of the Cancer Research in Kingston, Dr. Burr spoke on "Physics in Medicine".

In order to give some idea of this phase of modern medicine, he reviewed the history of the discovery of X-ray; radium, and later the use of the Cobalt bomb in medicine. Dr. Burr also gave some ideas of the reactions taking place in both the "fission" and also the "fusion" of the atom.

Rev. George Miniellly thanked the speaker and presented Mrs. Burr with a gift.

Giving Shopping?

Last week we referred to complaints in the disquiet of the shops at this in-between period. For shopping it is sort of a 'This & That' period, neither here nor there, and with a little of this and a little of that scattered willy-nilly on the shelves. There is a consistency about this in-between period which permeates the allcomplaints about it as well as the shopping world. The beautiful weather which may be less than summer between an erratic summer we look back on with pleasure, and a winter we look forward to with uncertainty. Even the feverish activities of innumerable women's groups has an in-between essence that is made up of the non-essential stuff of bazaars, bake sales, teas, fish ponds for the children and countless other projects. Not to be outdone, nature clothes herself with a fantastic mantle of contrasts in color.

You do not expect to discover opportunity in shopping in an in-between period and you don't. You can, however, find it in choosing compost on one shelf and directly across the aisle turn to pick out a toy that may please some little friend for Christmas. The price of a toy is not the reason for the season.

There are signs of a drop in the price of beef with pork falling in line and there is a possibility that some kinds of bacon may go down as much as ten cents by week's end. As a consultant, we found that imported head lettuce has gone up but Ontario head lettuce at 2 heads is expected soon to ease the price situation, and what could be more in-between. Then you will find in your wonderful Belleville shops new suggestions for the gift seeker. Take for instance gloves. Fall weather and leather go together when nippy days and evenings make finger tips tingle. There are new ideas in gloves and bags for the ladies to put on their list, but since this is a better-sleither shopping excursion we will leave details for a subsequent column.

Incidentally, if you are in between and getting nowhere with us in our irregular meandering, we suggest that you wander around the local store with us each week. There is something fascinating and exciting about the shops in our in-between period and there is produce and articles on your heart's desire to be found. We are singularly fortunate to be served by shops that are unsurpassed anywhere.

Good shopping!

Most of our festivals have a long past and tonight is one of the oldest. We thought you might be interested in what the Encyclopedia Britannica tells us: "Hallowe'en or All Hallows Eve, the name given to Oct. 31, as the vigil of Hallowmas or All Saints' Day, now chiefly known as the eve of the Christian festival. It is long anterior to Christianity.

The two chief characteristics of ancient Hallowe'en were the lighting of bonfires and the belief that this is the one night in the year during which gibbet ghosts and witches are most likely to wander abroad." The Druids believed that Saman, lord of death, called together certain wicked souls and in parts of Ireland Oct. 31 is still known as the 'Vigil of Saman.'

The E. B. goes "on the Druidic ceremonies were grafted some of the characteristics of the Roman festival in honor of Pomona held about Nov. 1, in which nuts and apples, representing the winter stores of fruits, played an important part. The custom of lighting Hallowe'en fires survived until recently in the highlands of Scotland and Wales."

T & T wishes once again to wish success to the Dufferin Home and School group from Trenton and the Picton citizens who have gone all out to make tonight memorable for their children. The children will celebrate tonight in an organized "shell out" endeavor to support UNICEF in its program to help their less fortunate brothers and sisters in other parts of the world. Samaa has become the 20th century land of hill, instead of death, and Pamaua has become UNICEF through which our stores of winter fruits may be shared around the world. The UNICEF idea to turn Hallowe'en into a festival of constructive fun is spreading throughout Canada and the USA. We trust and pray that all our children will have a safe, a happy and a helpful night, tonight. "May they be unconfined."

In March of this year, there were 103.7 males for every hundred females in Australia. Maybe Australia will run their island continent so enticing during the Olympic games that the female athletes will never escape.

Did you know that a horse-drawn street railway was opened on Front Street in Belleville in 1876, just eighty years ago?

T & T would like to draw to the attention of its readers, another opportunity put forward in the endless work of your local Women's Hospital Auxiliary. The coffee shop at the new hospital opens tomorrow on the first floor. The new quarters are larger and will enable the women to facilitate their service to patients and visitors alike. It is seen to mention the auxiliary work very often there is a reason for this and but emphatic reason. The services of a hospital would be very lenient nor temporary, they are endless and demanding; and so is the work of the volunteers who make the coffee shop a reality.

P.S. Since finishing the column, we have had an inquiry from S.S. 20, Thurlow, about meeting for UNICEF tonight. The children are interested; the idea is spreading. Next year we hope it will be general.

Christ Church E.B.W.A. Enjoys Hallowe'en Party

Skeletons, black cats, bats flying to and fro, and eerie pumpkin faces, greeted the members of the Evening Branch of W.A. of Christ church in the lower room of the Parish Hall on Monday evening when the members enjoyed their annual Hallowe'en party.

Mrs. T. Clark, assisted by Mrs. Fuzzes, and Mrs. G. Cherry, provided a most entertaining evening of games and contests, among them a competition in hat designing with each member later modeling her creation.

A ghost and kids visited the gathering and had an interesting but weird tale to relate.

From the table centred by a lighted pumpkin face, refreshments were served by Mrs. Clare, Mrs. L. Shambo, and Mrs. J. Miles.

A social half hour was spent after the sale.

St. Thomas' Little Helpers Enjoy Party

The Little Helpers of St. Thomas' church held their annual party, Tuesday, October 23, with a service in the chapel. They sang their favorite hymns, recited their verses and listened while the rector, Canon A. S. McConnell told them where the pennies they had saved would be sent. There was a mixture of eagerness and solemnness on the little faces as they placed their offerings on the altar. The service ended with a hymn.

Following the service, a party was held for the children.

There was great excitement as each Little Helper found a small chair around the long table which formed a semi-circle at the front of the hall.

Against a background of balloons and wisteria, regarding the Little Helpers clapped their hands in delight as the ladies of the W.A. served each one with ice cream Dixie cups with a cookie in the centre.

While the children enjoyed their ice cream and biscuits, the ladies of the W.A. had not forgotten the mothers as tea and cakes were passed in the friendly atmosphere of the party.

Each Little Helper was the proud possessor of a balloon as they left the party with promises to come again next year.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

GOOD PLAN FOR HOUSEWARMING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last March my husband returned from his 3-year service in Germany. Fortunately he could return to his old position, and recently we were able to buy a simple little house near where we both have always lived. We'll soon be moved in and more or less settled. We've been reading your suggestions about housewarmings, and yesterday we got thrilled over the idea of having a housewarming ourselves.

1. Is it ever proper for the owners of the new home to give their own housewarming, or must we wait until someone suggests giving a housewarming for us?

2. If not only it's all right for us to give it, what would you think of our giving the housewarming sometime during the coming holiday season? And what kind of invitations should be sent?

—Jim and Jane

Wondrous News . . . to have a home of your own to be living in at Christmas time!

1. Not only is it proper, but it is customary, for the hostess and host of the new home to give the housewarming. And this is really the most convenient and practical procedure, too, for the hosts know best when they would prefer to give the party, and are ready to plan it, whom they wish to invite.

2. It would be a perfect plan, I think, to give your housewarming during the coming holiday season. A festive time for festive parties! I suggest you give your party in the form of 4-to-6, 4-to-6, or 5-to-6, whichever hours you think would be most convenient to the majority of the guests.

For this Christmas party it is a good idea to write the invitations on your Christmas cards . . . on the page opposite the Christmas message. Invitations for parties during the holidays are often . . . and very "informally" . . . written on Christmas cards. And this gives you the opportunity to register the new address.

TO WEAR HER WEDDING DRESS TO A DINNER-DANCE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A month ago I was married, and for my wedding I wore a ballerina-length dress of white lace over light-blue taffeta, with matching blue satin slippers and a blue white seed-pearl tiara. Now my husband and I are very soon to attend a dinner-dance, to be held in one of the larger hotels. My husband would like to have me wear my wedding dress, as there will be people attending who were not at our wedding but who know we were just married. Do you think this dress would be too light in color to wear at this time of year? Most of the friends I've asked about this think it will be all right, but I will abide by your advice. — Reader

I'd like to have you wear that white lace over blue taffeta "dream dress" of yours, and I'm sure it will be charmingly appropriate for this occasion. Wear it with stars in your eyes . . . but of course don't wear the tiara. White lace is really an all-year-round material, and will be entirely appropriate for this time of year.

WHAT FORM OF NAME WHEN LEGALLY SEPARATED?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When there is a legal separation between a husband and wife, should she continue to be "Mrs. Henry Brown" or should she change her name to "Mrs. Emily Brown," or may she use the form of name she will use when they are divorced, "Mrs. Adams Brown"? — R.P.

She should continue to use the name "Mrs. Henry Brown."

INVITING CLERGYMAN TO LARGE WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are to be married in the middle of December, a large, formal church wedding, with a large reception following in the ballroom of a hotel.

(1) The clergyman of my church is to perform the ceremony. Since he has been at our church only a short time, do you think I should invite him to the reception? If so, should I also invite his wife?

(2) If they come to the reception, should they be seated at the Bridal Table or should the Parents Table or would they simply mingle with the guests at the buffet service? — R.L.I.

(1) It is an expected courtesy that when there is to be a large reception after the ceremony, the bride's parents invite the minister and his wife to the reception. And, as a matter of fact, this invitation would be an especially important and considerate one when the clergyman is a newcomer to the church. (I am quite sure that the newcomer-minister and his wife will be deeply disappointed if they are not invited to your wedding reception.) As a supplementary courtesy, your family should provide transportation for the clergyman and his wife from the church to the place-of-the-reception.

(2) They should be given traditionally-important places at the Parents' Table. The clergyman is seated at the left of your mother, the hostess (the groom's father, man guest of honor at the wedding, is at her right; the clergyman's wife is seated at the left of your father, the host (the groom's mother, woman guest of honor at the wedding, is at his right).

SHOULD GROOM'S MOTHER GIVE SHOWER?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it correct for the mother of the prospective groom to give a bridal shower for the bride-to-be? — V.M.

It isn't considered appropriate or in good taste for a member of the groom's family (or a member of the bride's family) to give a bridal shower. Looks much too much like a planned "promotion" for gifts for the new home.

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP . . . SAY "OLDER" NOT "OLD"

You should make it your courteous habit to say "older" people . . . not "old" people or "elderly" people, or "aged" people. Easy to say why . . . isn't it? If you were an "older person," wouldn't you prefer to be referred to as an "older person," rather than as "old person," or "elderly" or "aged"? Watch how people of taste and grace always say "older."

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU MUST ACCEPT RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE PROBLEM YOU CREATED

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 18 and was forced into marriage. I gave my baby any day now.

The problem is, my husband and I are never together any more. The only time we are, is when we're sleeping and half hour at noon and a little while when he gets home at night from work.

The reason I'm never with him is that every night while we're eating, one or two of his boy friends will show up and pull him away from me and I end up sitting home while he's out having a good time. I wouldn't mind if it were one or two nights a week, but it's every single night. And if they don't come here to the house, they ask him to meet them somewhere. I don't know where he goes or what he does. When I ask him, he says, "Oh, just around."

He don't seem to get it into his head that he's now a married man and an expectant father and it's time he started to stay home more. He says he's still young and wants his fun out of life.

What can I do about all this? Talk to him about it or talk to his boy friends or what? I try to talk to him, but it just goes in one ear and out the other. I don't like being a tattletale, or I'd talk to his parents about it and have them talk to him. I doubt, though, if that would do any good, either.

Please give me your best advice, because I'm afraid if this doesn't stop now he'll do the same thing after the baby is born. I'm going to need a little help with the care of the baby and it should be the help of my husband.

— Pat In

Dear Pat

I wonder if it has ever occurred to you that your husband may be resenting you because his freedom and independence were interfered with by his having "had" to marry you.

I'm not suggesting that it would have been right or right for him not to have married you. But, not infrequently in cases like yours, the man who marries the girl does resent it and gives his wife a hard time because of it.

It's possible that, having married you, this fellow thinks you ought to be satisfied and that if he supports you and the baby he has no more responsibility toward you. If he does feel that way, it would explain why what you say to him about leaving you alone "just goes in one ear and out the other."

My feeling is that you might just as well stop trying to talk or argue him into spending more time with you, and certainly it can be of any further help to you, please remember that I'll be very happy to have you write me again. These then are my budget-balancers for this week's economy menu:

GOURMET HAMBURGERS

In a bowl combine 1-3 cup soft margarine (or butter), 1-3 cup crumbled old Cheddar (or, if you are not accustomed to Roquefort or Bleu) cheese, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1-2 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce. Mix this very well into a "spread" and spread 1 tablespoon of it on each half of 6 hamburg buns. Mix together 3 cups hamburg meat, 3-4 teaspoon salt and 1-4 teaspoon pepper and shape into six meat cakes. Broil these hamburger patties under very hot broiler, turning once when first side is browned. Do not overcook them—they are moist and good if meat is pink in centre. During last three minutes place the buns spread side up on a cookie sheet and toast them until bubbly and golden. Place broiled hamburg patties between toasted bun halves. At a little party men love this for a midnight snack.

CHILI BEEF

In a frying-pan melt 2 tablespoons shortening or bacon fat and add 1 cup each chopped onion and celery and saute until limp and golden. Add 1 lb. ground beef and stir to break up meat lumps. Add 1 teaspoon each salt and chili powder, 1 teaspoon black pepper, 1 10-oz. tin of condensed tomato soup. Simmer about 15 minutes. Serve on bed of fluffy boiled rice, or buttered noodles or fluffy mashed potatoes or if desired on toast points or toasted buns.

BEEF SAUCE WITH POTATO GNOCCHI

Beef Sauce—Heat 6 tablespoons oil (or butter) in heavy saucepan or frying pan. Add 1 cup chopped onion, 1 teaspoon chopped garlic, 2 tablespoons chopped celery and 1 cup chopped green pepper (if not accustomed to cup chopped raw mushrooms). Stir and brown gently about 3 minutes. Add 2 tablespoons tomato paste. Add 1 lb. ground raw beef and stir to break up meat lumps. Add 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 2 firm tomatoes chopped. Simmer 15 to 20 minutes. Serve over spaghetti or alongside Potato Gnocchi: Mix together thoroughly 1-4 cup butter or margarine, 3-4 cup flour, 1 egg, 3 cups mashed potatoes. Add salt and cayenne pepper to taste. Roll out into a long thin sausage. With sharp knife cut into one-inch shaped pieces. Simmer 15 minutes in salted water. Drain, arrange in border on hot platter, sprinkle with old grated cheese, serve beef sauce in centre. This is definitely a company dish.

Hamburger A La Mode

By Mary Moore

There is no sense in talking about roast duck and turkey croquettes one day and urge economy on the next day unless you do something about that economy. So I bought 4 pounds of hamburg meat at a weekend special rate of 39c per lb. and cooked it in the freezer compartment. Every time the opportunity came I'd make up a different hamburg dish.

I don't mean meat loaf or meat cakes or hash. I mean new combinations that will make your families exclaim "Hurrah!" and "Mum you're a wonderful cook!"

wouldn't do any good for you to discuss the thing with his boy friends, I don't think, in fact, that it would be wise to discuss it with anyone. It's just part of the problem that you created for yourself when you let your desires run away with you, and that being the case, I think it's up to you to handle it yourself.

I'd suggest that while you're in the hospital with the baby, you ask the hospital chaplain to come to see you. Then tell him your story honestly, explain the problem you're having with your husband and ask his advice. Tell him that you know you brought it all on yourself, and that you want to accept your full share of responsibility and work out your relationships with your husband so that a marriage that got off to a bad start can become a successful one.

If by any chance you're not in the hospital by the time you read this letter, go to the pastor of your own church and talk with him instead.

Either way, I'm quite sure you'll get some practical help and I'm sure, too, that you'll feel both stronger and happier for having assumed your responsibilities in this way.

And if, at any time, you feel I

White's Church Celebrates 115th Anniversary by Fine Services

WHITE'S CHURCH — On Sunday, October 28th, White's Church observed the 115th anniversary of its inception with a morning and evening service. Pots of mums and ferns and lovely baskets of cut mums formed a setting for these two impressive services.

Mr. Robert Percival, pastor of Bayside charge, was in charge of the morning service with the Rev. W. R. Merrick of Belleville, as guest speaker. Mr. Merrick chose Jeremiah 31: 16: "Thus, saith the Lord, refrain thy voice from weeping and thine eyes from tears," as his text. Jeremiah, Nehemiah, Paul and other great prophets often wept. Jesus also wept. But all were great leaders and as Christians their life example should be followed.

Mr. Merrick gave a story for the children, of a girl who was crippled and who was always pushed about. But as she grew up she became an active Christian and at her death the whole town turned out to mourn her passing.

The choir rendered two anthems, "One Day," and "Sweet Peace," with Mrs. Everett Nicolle and Mrs. George Bilham singing the verses and the choir joining in the chorus of the latter.

Mrs. W. A. Jeffery was pianist throughout the service.

For the evening service the Rev. A. C. McCallum, a former pastor, was present and gave a fine message, extending best wishes for continued success.

The Rev. W. R. Merrick was guest speaker in the evening, choosing as his text, Luke 18: 36-37, "Jesus of Nazareth passeth by." As Jesus was on His way to Jerusalem He passed through Jericho. A great multitude of people followed and a blind man named Batimaeus sat by the side of the road. Hearing that Jesus was passing by he asked to be taken to Him to be healed. He prayed and Jesus healed him. Today there is mass evangelism. At one meeting of Evangelist Billy Graham 600 accepted Christ. Mr. Merrick said: "At this anniversary let us re-dedicate our lives and remember the power of prayer."

The choir contributed two anthems, "Walking in the Beautiful Light of God," with Mrs. Everett Nicolson and Mrs. George Bilham singing the chorus as a duet, also "Jesus Will Walk With Me." The latter anthem and the closing hymn "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour," made a fine closing for a well planned service.

Tilted for Dash

Beautiful fabrics, lovely colors and adept draping mark many of the nicest hats that require no other adornment. Walter Florell, knowing this, creates a ruby velvet bonnet of richly draped folds. Although it may be worn level on the hairline, this hat looks newest and most striking, when worn at a dashing tilt.

HAIR STYLES FOR GIRLS FROM 6 TO 60

With so many changes in both beauty and fashion styles this Fall, it's hardly surprising that there should be big news in hairdos as well. And the news we have for you today concerns both big girls and little girls. We'll talk to the big girls first:

No matter how you've been wearing your hair, you'll be in the mood for a new hair-do before the season's over. That's what hair-do's are for—to be changed, when you need a change of mood! As you may have heard, the chignon has returned to popularity with a lot of women—especially with those who wore the short Italian hair cut for so long. And some women feel they look too severe with a very short cut, yet find a long bob is a touch youthful for their years and figure.

So comes the chignon again. Only this time it's in a new guise, with really exciting news. Chignons made of Dynel fibers can be custom-blended to really match your hair. We understand the human hair is never one color — it's actually a blend of various tones— so much the experts can blend the right colors in a matter of minutes! And your new Dynel chignon is as washable as your own hair. The department and variety stores that feature these hair pieces claim a chignon in any desired arrangement can be blended and handed to you in a matter of ten minutes! It ought to prove a popular proposition this winter, especially with the new fluffy fur hats. You need a trim, smooth head to support one of these!

The hair news for little girls comes straight from Paris.

The famous French milliner, Claude St. Cyr, has given a new twist to ribbon hair bows that make little girls look airy enough to fly. She tried it out first for her own 8-year-old daughter, then some of her young customers clamored for them. The secret is to use the same kind of knot a man uses to tie his tie. This elongated knot makes the two crisp ribbon ends stand up like little wings. You might like to give your own little girl a big thrill with this new kind of ornamentation. Use these bellknots on pigtails, or to hold hair back at either side of the head. You can use as long or short a length of ribbon as you like, depending on how fly-away you want the ends to look.

Be sure to choose ribbons that can be kept fresh and crisp with suds-and-water washing, as no bit of hair ribbon can look its best without frequent sudsing. It's simple enough to untie the knots, and smooth the ribbon out before laundering it. Dry it over the rim of the basin or bathtub, or on top of the washing machine — spreading it smooth while it's wet. No ironing will then be necessary.

Marilyn Monroe Meets Queen At Film Show

LONDON (AP)—Marilyn Monroe met the Queen Monday night. They found they're neighbors.

Marilyn was one of a group of international movie stars presented to the Queen at the annual Royal Command Film performance.

The Queen asked, "How do you like living in Windsor?"

A nervous Marilyn blinked and asked, "What?"

Then she said, "I understand we lived in Englefield Green."

"Oh, we're neighbors," insisted Queen Elizabeth.

She explained that Englefield Green, where Marilyn and her husband Arthur Miller have rented a large manor, is near Windsor Castle, one of the homes of the Royal Family.

WAS MOVIE

The movie the Queen saw was The Battle of the River Plate, about the battle between the German pocket battleship Graf Spee and three British cruisers off the South American coast in 1939.

Most of the movie beauties who met the Queen were dressed demurely. The daringly-low necklines raised eyebrows at last year's command performance.

Marilyn's gold lame gown was the most revealing. It rested several inches down her famous bosom.

Anita Ekberg kept to the new rules. The Swedish star was submerged from neck to toe.

Dr. Leslie Bell Addresses Canadian Club on Attitudes Toward Music

"Music," said Dr. Leslie Bell, B.A., M.A., Doctor of Music, "is the most important art in our lives," as he addressed the Women's Canadian Club last evening on the topic "Attitudes, Right and Wrong, in Music," at the annual dinner meeting in the Masonic Temple.

"Music is more available than any other arts, at such a small tipend; other arts are showing a decline; less and less readers now request the libraries, and art in general is degenerating. But music is all around us, in the home; outside the home, in the concert hall, and in the school. It is the most important art in our lives, because it deals with the emotions, which need training as much as the mind needs training. Music touches the heart, the seat of the emotions, to distort these emotions is deadly; it is not so much the H bomb that should be feared but the distorting of our emotions, as seen in the modern artistic regime. Music can be a discipline to the emotions; it breaks down barriers. It is the only one of the arts that affects animals; as the dog, for example. There is no art more closely allied to religion than music; it is not a fad, or a waste of time."

As examples of the 'power of music, Dr. Bell cited the use of music in Kingston Penitentiary, in mental institutions; in service clubs where it is a known help in dealing with delinquency by the use of boys' bands. Today music is most important, but people are not making the most of it because they do not understand it, they fear it.

MUSIC DEALS WITH EMOTIONS

This is because it is illusive, vague, not tangible as books, and paintings. People have lived so long with superficial things; they dread up to music, and are bound by 'concert traditions' hearing the same stereotyped music; the classical and highbrow is substituted for real listening. People think they can be cultured in music by a 'hurry-up' movement, nothing creative; nothing new, spiritless.

The magnis for master-pieces does not help your love of good music, one should seek out both good and bad, get rid of the inhibitions. Stop talking about popular music. Music is only 'good 'or 'bad,' not when its popular. One cannot like all kinds of music, as music is the reflection of all kinds of peoples; you can respect them even if you do not like them.

You cannot form an opinion from once hearing a piece of music; but only after several hearings. One's own personality and one's associations color likes and dislikes.

In speaking of children and musical training, Dr. Bell asked why give them a musical training? What is the reason for you wanting the child to have music as an art. If it is because the child will become the life of the party, it is the wrong goal. Music should be studied for its own appreciation.

Questions regarding the training were: did you surround the child with music in the home? arrange his lessons so that they would not conflict with his play time? did you bribe him to practise? These are wrong directions, the child should be allowed to explore music, to develop his own judgment.

In discussing music and teenagers, the speaker mentioned that they were essentially honest, and independent, as Elvis Presley was admired by them for his novelty, and independence, though immature.

TV JEOPARDIZING MUSIC

Good music is at the present time in a state of jeopardy because

Women's Institute

FOXBORO W.I.

The regular monthly meeting of the Foxboro Women's Institute was held in the school auditorium with 17 members present.

Mrs. C. Hubble presided and opened the meeting in the usual way.

Correspondence, a letter from Toronto, regarding "Project Literacy," was read. It was decided to ask the 4-H Club girls if they wished to take part in the latter.

It was also decided to give $10 to the canvass for the Blind.

Mrs. Hubble brought to the W.I.'s attention the fact that no insurance of any kind was carried on the Institute property in the auditorium. After some discussion, it was decided some should be carried.

DELEGATES CHOSEN

Mrs. W. Simmons, Mrs. M. B. Shorey, Mrs. F. Kilpatrick and Mrs. C. Hubble were chosen as delegates to the area convention. Mrs. Hubble to act as alternate delegate if Mrs. Shorey were unable to attend.

Mrs. R. W. Skinner dealt with the motto "A man of words and not of deeds is like a garden full of weeds." A person who does a lot of talking about what he is going to do, and does nothing about it but talk, is like a garden producing nothing of any value, weeds.

Following the singing of the "Queen" and "grace," refreshments were served by the lunch committee and a social hour was enjoyed.

of the TV which tells you, explains the music, rather than letting you find out for yourself. In contrast, the radio has been a blessing as it develops the habit of listening; radio has made a nation of listeners, but TV is taking it away. It is necessary to develop an honest attitude toward music, and appreciate what you understand, and the more one listens the more one understands, and appreciates.

The speaker was introduced to the capacity audience of over 200 by the president of the club, Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon, who, on behalf of the assembly also extended appreciative thanks to Dr. Bell for his fine address.

Appreciation was also extended to the Keen Age club of Tabernacle United church, for the sumptuous meal provided, enhanced by smiling pumpkin faces which highlighted each table.

HEAD TABLE

Those at the head table included: Mrs. H. Robbins, Mrs. R. G. Coulter, Mrs. J. G. Demeza, Mrs. A. Campbell, Mrs. E. Hickey, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. E. S. Fairman, Dr. Bell, Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon, Miss Jacqueline Murphy, (the recipient this year of the club's $100 bursary for highest marks in French. Miss Murphy is attending the University of Toronto); Mrs. A. G. McConnell, Mrs. L. There were 36 members present at the October meeting of St. Joseph's subdivision of the Catholic Women's League, which was held Monday evening in the school hall.

The president, Mrs. J. Hanley, presided. Father J. V. Buckley opened the meeting with prayer.

During the past month the corresponding secretary sent three get-well cards, three baby congratulation cards, one sympathy card, and received two letters of acknowledgment.

The treasurer, Mrs. T. Hopkins, gave the financial report. Mrs. P. Halloran, first vice-president, reported a membership of 102. Third vice-president, Mrs. O. Dufour, reported on assistance given to needy families and clothing sent to Madonna House, Combermere. She also stated a letter had been received from Quinte Welfare Bureau inviting those interested in welfare assistance to a general meeting on November 12. Spiritual convener, Mrs. G. Whalen, reminded the members that the intention for November is the Holy Souls. She asked that outstanding books be returned to the League library.

Mrs. M. Panting and Mrs. T. Hopkins reported 96 hospital visits made in August. Hospital visitors for November will be Mrs. Doran and Mrs. O'Connor.

Mrs. H. Carr-Brain announced that plans for the Hallowe'en tea and bake sale have been completed.

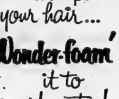
The dinner, the Rev. J. V. Buckley gave an interesting talk on study clubs and their importance. Father Buckley had those present participate in an active discussion such as a study club should be and suggested topics for group study and discussion.

Study club leaders were appointed for the various districts.



Following adjournment refreshments were served by Mrs. R. Lynch and Mrs. J. Thorne.

CONSERVATIVES

Highways Minister Arthur W. MacKenzie fell in Hastu East. He moved them for this election from his old seat in Grenbrough, where a Liberal was elected.

TRADE MINISTER FALLS

Trade Minister Wilfred Daughney, his department a prime target of Conservative criticism, bowed to a Conservative in Shelburne.

Premier Hicks was personally in Annapolis East. Fellow ministers who survived were Labor Minister Clyde Nunn, Health Minister Geoffrey Stevens and Education Minister Ronald Fielding.

Premier - elect Stanfield, the lawyer son of a textile family long associated with the political fortunes of the province, had little trouble retaining his Colchester seat with his front-bench running mate G. I. (Ike) Smith.

The 43-year-old Conservative leader followed the results in Truro, the county seat where he was born.

"I hope the people of the province will co-operate with me so that I can devote myself wholeheartedly to my duties," he said.

The new premier, tall, angular and reserved in bearing, has been compared to the late Premier Macdonald in scholarly looks and manner.

He's the son of a former Nova Scotia lieutenant - governor, and a brother of Frank Stanfield, a House of Commons Conservative member from 1945 to 1953. His uncle John was also a successful Conservative early in the century.

He took party leadership in 1948, when the Conservatives had not a single seat in the legislature, and led it to increasing strength in 1949 and 1953 elections.

STILL YOUNGEST PREMIER

His age means Nova Scotia still boasts the youngest Canadian premier. Premier Hicks, a former Rhodes scholar, is 41.

Mr. Hicks's hinted the Liberals may ask for recounts in some constituencies where results were close. At 10 seats shown majorities of 105 or less.

"But it certainly looks as though the Conservatives will have a majority of three seats," he said.

He telephoned personal congratulations to Mr. Stanfield from Bridgetown, the premier's home town.

"This is only a temporary setback for our party," he said. "We intend to rebuild stronger than ever."

Despite reports of heavy early voting a preliminary count showed the total vote down slightly from 1953. Conservatives received 49 per cent compared with 44 per cent three years ago.

The figures (percentages in brackets): Progressive Conservatives 152,852 (49), Liberals 136,648 (43), CCF 9,899 (3), others 813 (—).

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Frank Brooks Reaches 85th Milestone

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mrs. Frank Sandercock entertained on Saturday evening a number of relatives to honor her father, Mr. Frank Brooks, on his 85th birthday.

Mr. Brooks is hale and hearty and still enjoys the occasional motor trip. He also works around home where he lives with his son, Mr. Basil Brooks, Mrs. Brooks, and grandson Wayne, of Johnstown.

He took the birthday party in his stride, too, and enjoyed everything as much as the younger folk.

There was a huge birthday cake on the dining room table complete with many candles. There were numerous gifts which he also enjoyed and shared two dozen cards.

His granddaughter's husband, Clifford Millar, took pictures of him with his grandchildren, and others of him with his grandchildren and great-grandchildren with the birthday cake in the background.

Refreshments were served of sandwiches, fancy cookies, the birthday cake and relishes. There were congratulatory notes and wishes for many happy returns of this natal day.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Basil Brooks and Wayne, of Johnstown; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brooks, Ronald and Allan , of Murray; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Black, Gloria and Norbert, of York Road; Miss Elsie Black and Miss Agnes Herrington of York Road; Mr. and Mrs. Delbert McComb, Larry and Karen of Alkins District; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Millar, Sylvia, Gary and Douglas, of Bayside; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sandercock and George; Mr. Clifford Acker and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis, all of Sidney.

SCARED TO DEATH

CHICAGO (AP) — A coroner's physician testified Monday at an inquest that nine-year-old Stewart Cohan was literally scared to death by a horror movie. The boy toppled from his seat and died Sunday during a climactic torment in the picture, The Creeping Unknown. Dr. Albert H. Baugher testified after performing an autopsy that the boy's heart was small and frail, and "the boy died of a heart collapse after extraordinary tension while watching a movie."

QUIETNESS REIGNS

"Say Mom, look at this for sheer concentration and enjoyment."

"Yes, there are two occasions when children are quiet—when they're sleeping and the other when the Star Weekly comics arrive."

"I glanced at Donald comics myself before the kids grabbed 'em and by George they're in new pleat type and in beautiful coloring."

"And four more pages—twenty-four pages of colored comics now."

"Just look at pastels and silhouettes—draped all over the place."

"Say kids, hurry up, I want those Star Weekly Comics."

Bringing Up Baby

NOTES COLLECTED BY Mrs. Jean Graham (MEMBER OF N)

If baby is bottle-fed, the proper selection and care of nipples is most important.

- Be sure to buy firm nipples. The normal development of your baby's jaw depends upon the sucking exercise he gets. Firm nipples encourage good sucking action.
- Clean nipples thoroughly after using since boiler fat deteriorates rubber.
- Store in a cool, dark place. Heat and sun cause rubber to soften.
- Rubber nipples swell after repeated boilings. Don't let baby nurse from a softened or swollen nipple.

They're notable for blend, but pleasure flavors and a creamy-smooth consistency that feels good on baby's tongue. All five are enriched with iron, calcium and important B-vitamins. All are pre-cooked so you merely add milk or formula—stir and serve.

• • •

First time with cereal will go more smoothly if you make the mixture quite sugary at first, so it will be similar in consistency to the formula baby's been used to.

• • •

Nutrition notation. A specialty for your special one! Gerber Strained Orange Juice is made from tree-ripened oranges, selected for full, rich flavor and high vitamin-C content. A Hallowe'en Surprise

By Helen B. Anderson, Wellington, in the Montreal Family Herald and Weekly Star

It was a brisk October morning. The trees along the roadside and in the woods that covered the misty hill tops were arrayed in brightest garb of russet, red and gold, and the soft October sunlight that flooded field and woodland, enhanced the beauty of the autumn picture.

All unconscious of the beauty that surrounded them, a group of boys trudged along the country road to the village school, their earnest conversation and their occasional halting by the way, revealing that some interesting project was being discussed.

"I say," declared Tom Boyd, the evident leader and spokesman, "we'll have the best night ever. Last Hallowe'en was a failure, but the first this year will make them all sit up and listen. Some of 'em will think that the ghosts, ghoes and black cats have been around in earnest."

The boys, open-mouthed, listened with unfeigned admiration to their leader.

"It will be more than takin' off a gate or two," continued Tom with an air of mystery, "it will be beardin' the lion in his den." Then, holding up a warning forefinger — "don't one of you breath it, but we are going to have some fun with old Donaldson."

"Never," chorused his excited hearers, while all gazed in awe, not unmixed with fear, at their intrepid leader.

"You don't mean it!" protested Billy Smart. "Mother says that old Donaldson is in league with the Evil One, and that those who trouble him will surely come to harm. There's a light in his shack sometimes all night and he's been seen at all hours returning to his hut after a ramble through the woods where he meets with other evil spirits."

"Oh! Go on," sneered fighting Jack Landon, squaring his young shoulders as if preparing for a fray. "Who's afraid of an old man like Donaldson? He's stooped and he carries a cane, and I'm sure he can't see very well — for why should he wear those thick dark glasses? Tell us your plan, Tom, I for one am not afraid."

Their discussion, however, was interrupted, for bobbing down the side road, whom should they see but Donaldson himself — stooped and bent, his long grey hair and whiskers flying in the wind. Coming up to the boys he looked them with a kind, "Good morning." Owing to his reputation of having an alliance with the Evil One, some of the timid boys drew back, while the bolder ones returned his salutation with a great show of fearlessness.

For six months he had dwelt among them in an old deserted shack on the outskirts of the village, coming from no one knew where. He made friends with none, but showed a great interest in the boys of the community, many of whom were preparing for fun at the Donaldson shack. Considering the old man's appearance and reputation, and the mystery that surrounded him, it is little wonder that the boys looked upon Boyd's plan as one that required unusual courage. As they gazed after Donaldson's retreating figure, Dick Guthrie exclaimed, "I'll have nothing to do with your plan, Tom. I'd be afraid to enter his yard, and I know that Ronald Sinclair will not join you either."

"Ron won't be with us, of course," replied Tom. "He's a good sport and likes fun but you know he never joins in Hallowe'en pranks."

"And why not?" asked a boy who had recently moved into the locality.

"Oh, years ago, his older brother Donald got in trouble over Hallowe'en pranks. An old man living in this same shack was hurt; he tried to drive the boys away and attacked Donald who returned the blow. The old man fell and Donald fled and has never been heard from. But the old man recovered after all. Don's father and mother were heartbroken at their son's absence and every Hallowe'en they open their home for a party for the boys and girls. Real good times they are — with witches and black cats and everything — and lots of eats. So Ron never comes with us, and we never think of asking him."

The days passed, and while preparations were being made at Sinclair's for the annual Hallowe'en party, a few of the more adventurous were preparing for fun at the Donaldson shack.

When the evening arrived it was a merry company, masked and disguised, that assembled at the Sinclair home. But when the merriment was at its height all were startled by an imperative ring at the telephone — and the appalling cry of "Fire," reached the ears of the revellers. Rushing to the window, they saw the flames shooting up in the air in the direction of the Donaldson shack. Hastily Mr. Sinclair ran out his car and with the larger boys, set out for the fire. In due time, they, with a crowd of excited neighbors, reached the place only to find the shack destroyed, and the old man with Tom Boyd and his associates, standing guard over large boxes and a few household articles that had been rescued from the burning building. The boys and the aged man bore marks of their encounter with fire and smoke. They told the story briefly — how they had come to perform Hallowe'en pranks on their strange neighbor when he, evidently expecting a visit, kindly invited them in to a wonderful luncheon, cake, cakes, candy, apples and pop corn. Just as he was showing them some impressive books and pictures, it was discovered that the roof was on fire, probably from a defective chimney. They lost no time in removing every available article.

Mr. Sinclair, touched with pity at the forlorn appearance of the stranger, invited him to his home for the night. "You, Tom, and the boys come too and we'll enjoy some of the good things the good wife has prepared."

The invitation was readily accepted and in a short time they found themselves at the Sinclair home. The doors were cordially opened to receive them, but when they looked for the stooping figure of the old man in the throng he was no where to be seen.

"Where is Donaldson?" inquired Mr. Sinclair, looking around at the group of boys.

"He was in our car," answered Tom, "but I did not see him get out." As Tom spoke a tall figure stepped out from the group, a fine looking young man with the upright bearing of a soldier. He advanced a few steps, then he stopped uncertainly, casting an inquiring glance about the room as if in search of someone. In the brief moment when his glance rested on Mrs. Sinclair's face, there was an unexpected stir, then a mother's cry, "Donald, my son," and mother and son were clasped in a close embrace after a separation of many years. Mr. Sinclair came forward and welcomed his long-lost son with deep emotion.

When the excitement had subsided, Donald told his story of working hard and studying at night, of entering a newspaper office and working his way up, of joining the overseas forces in the war, and after the war writing stories.

"Are you the author, D. Donaldson," asked his brother Ronald. "I am," smiled Donald. "I found the old shack an ideal spot for my work — my reputation allowing for the needed privacy. I expected the boys tonight and prepared a treat. But I am glad the mighty enjoyed the evening more pleasantly in my boyhood home. And I trust boys," he continued, "that your Hallowe'en jokes may always be helpful rather than harmful and that your manliness may keep you from playing pranks on the aged and afflicted."

"You bet," assented the boys, Tom's voice leading. And loyal to their new-found friend, all joined in singing, "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow."

New Zealand Virtually Great Advance Base for Invasion

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. (CP) — New Zealand is buzzing with preparations for the biggest assault ever launched on the Antarctic continent. The country has become virtually a great advance base for the southward invasion.

From late October a continual stream of aircraft and ships will push south from New Zealand. They will take men and thousands of tons of specialized equipment which has assembled in New Zealand to await the coming of the southern summer.

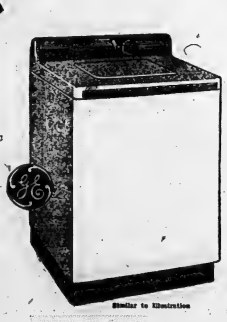
Most of this equipment is for the huge American "Operation Deep Freeze," but New Zealand is also pushing ahead actively with its own expedition, the first the country has ever sent to the Ross Dependency, a sector of the Antarctic over which New Zealand claims sovereign rights.

AMERICAN VENTURE

Last year the Americans set up two bases—one at Little America and the other at McMurdo Sound. These have been named during the Antarctic winter. Now they are to be greatly reinforced and enlarged, and five more bases are to be established, including one in the South Pole itself. All except the staging base at McMurdo Sound are being set up for scientific research in International Geophysical Year.

For months past the Americans have been assembling equipment in New Zealand ready for the southward assault. A purchasing unit has been set up and plans to spend more than $1,000,000 in supplies in the next few months. A communications unit has established a teleprinter network which will eventually link the South Pole, Antarctic bases, New Zealand and Honolulu. A camp has been built for a maintenance unit which will service aircraft in between flights to the Antarctic.

Most of the activities centre on Christchurch, in the South Island. At airfields near the city there has been assembled the largest collection of big long-range aircraft ever seen in New Zealand. Eventually the Americans plan to have 36 planes flying in the Antarctic this season, but not all of them will be able to fly there direct. Some will be taken as cargo by larger aircraft and some will be transported in ships.



At the same time a fleet of ice breakers, transports, fuel carriers and other vessels will make New Zealand ports the taking off point in transporting heavier supplies.

Meanwhile preparations for the New Zealand expedition are being pushed ahead with great vigor under the leadership of Sir Edmund Hillary, the New Zealander who climbed Everest. The New Zealand party will also make observations for International Geophysical Year and will have the additional task of providing support for the British attempt to make the first land crossing of the Antarctic. The New Zealanders will find a route for the British after they pass the Pole from the other side of the continent, and will establish fuel and supply depots inland toward the pole for the use of the British party on the latter part of its journey.

CAMPBELLFORD

Panel Members Introduced at H-S Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD — An executive meeting of the Campbellford Home and School Association took place on Monday night in the library of the public school. Mr. Owen G. Barrow, president, presided.

Mr. Barrow stated a panel discussion by a group of high school students would be part of the program for the November meeting. The continuation of the H. and S. Christmas concerts was also discussed by the president, and a discussion re drapes for the principal's office brought the meeting to a close.

The regular meeting of the Home and School Association took place in the kindergarten room of the public school. The president, Rev. O. G. Barrow presided. Business arising from the minutes was interviewing of the Vocational Guidance representative from the Department of Education in Toronto which is to take place in the high school auditorium.

The Home and School magazine was introduced by the president for the benefit of those who are not acquainted with it.

The treasurer's report was given and a motion made by Dorothy Baker and seconded by Muriel Elliot that all outstanding accounts be paid.

PANEL MEMBERS

Mr. Barrow called on Mrs. T. Peake to introduce the panel members: Dr. D. Burgess, Dr. W. Baker, Mr. Wm. McComb, and Mrs. I. Tatham. Also sitting on the panel were Mr. Whitfield, teacher, and Mr. W. Rothwell, principal. The topic of discussion was "Some people maintain that educational standards of public schools has been lowered; if this is true, should the departmental entrance examinations be brought back?"

Some members insisted that doing without the department examinations was partially to blame for the lowered standards of education. Others were of the opinion that educational standards had been life-broadened, and lowered. Taking competition out of a child's life does not fit a child to face a highly competitive world.

The president announced the public school curricical contest which is sponsored by the Home and School Association would be held on November 2nd in the high school auditorium.

Mr. Rothwell's classroom won the attendance prize.

Refreshments were served by the executive.

It was announced that the next meeting of the Association would take place on November 14th in the kindergarten room of the public school.

Deer Cause Traffic Hazard; Speed Limit Set

PEMBROKE—A serious traffic hazard caused by abundance of deer has resulted in a 35-mile speed limit being set for a part of Highway 60 in Algonquin Park. This limit will be imposed between the Madawaska bridge just west of Lake of Two Rivers and the Park Museum, a distance of about eight miles, according to Ontario Department of Lands and Forests District Forester D. N. Omand.

"This congested stretch has, in recent years, become a serious traffic hazard because deer are abundant through this area," Mr. Omand explains. "Thoughtless drivers, on seeing the animals, stop abruptly anywhere on the highway and leap from their cars, often leaving the doors open. Motorists who follow must brake swiftly to avoid collisions, a number of which occur every year. It is hoped that reduced speed will reduce danger and accidents."

LAD SHOOTS PAL

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Thoughtless play with a shotgun cost the life of a 12-year-old Buffalo boy Sunday night. James Speaker was slain by a school mate when the latter fired at him with the loaded weapon believing it to be empty, police reported. They said Speaker and Phillip Schreck, 13, were playing with a shotgun belonging to James' father, Lester, when James loaded the weapon without Phillip's knowledge.

COMMUNIST FLAG RIPPED BY HUNGARIANS

U.S. citizens of Hungarian origin cut and rip a Communist Hungarian flag after tearing it down from the United Nations banner display at Rockefeller Centre, New York. In its place, the national flag of Hungary was run up in honor of the "heroes who have died for freedom" in the strife-torn European country. (Central Press Canadian).

U.S. Relations With Allies Fall Into Dangerous State Of Confusion and Disunity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Relations between the United States and its chief European allies in the Middle East crisis have collapsed into a dangerous state of confusion and disunity.

A crack which had developed in recent months broke wide Tuesday night when British and French aircraft spurred a peace appeal by President Eisenhower and ordered their troops into key positions on Egyptian territory along the Suez Canal. Their announced aim was to guarantee access to the canal for the free of Israel's military thrust into Egypt.

U.S. officials, some angry and some shocked, are frantically uncertain what the consequences will be, either in the turbulent Middle East or in the broader framework of the Western alliance.

It seems evident that the split has wrecked the 1950 agreement in which the Big Three undertook to maintain the balance of power in the Middle East and to prevent any aggression.

Some authorities here believe the intervention may prove to be disastrous by uniting the Arab world against Britain and France. If a prolonged state of war should develop, pipelines carrying oil for Europe could be cut and shipping in the Suez Canal could become hazardous. That would have a devastating effect, imposing an economic crisis which, coupled with the costs of fighting in the Middle East, Britain and France are ill prepared to bear.

What the U.S. would do in such a situation is not certain. Should Washington hold to the view that Britain and France brought these troubles on themselves, it might be less willing to help out with western hemisphere oil than if the difficulties had been brought on primarily by Egypt.

The only immediate aim of U.S. policy is to try by all available means to prevent a war, to keep the Middle East fight from spreading.

American officials are dismayed that the Middle Eastern crisis with its resultant complications — which saw the U.S. and Russia voting together against Britain and France in the United Nations Tuesday night — has so largely eclipsed developments in Hungary and in Russia's relations with its Eastern European satellites.

As one official put it, "The world may lose sight of the fact that freedom is winning its greatest battle in 10 years of struggle with Soviet communism."

Eisenhower made his appeal for Britain and France in a speech after announced intention to put troops near the Suez Canal in mid-afternoon Tuesday. The statement made clear that Eisenhower had received his first word of the British and French intentions through news dispatches.

Exchange of information between Britain and France pe one hand and Washington on the other has been dropping off for some time. Some officials feel there has been a virtual blackout of communications with London.

It was evident, at any rate, that in this case there was a complete lack of the kind of consultation which has characterized Big Three relations for years.

U.S. state department officials are making no attempt to conceal a growing suspicion — for which apparently they have no hard evidence—that France and possibly British had known ahead of time of Israel's plan to launch a major military operation against Egypt.

The reasoning was that with the Middle East in turmoil, the two governments could be expected to retain control of the Suez Canal by military means. Ever since the canal was nationalized by Egypt's President Nasser July 26, Britain's views and the Secretary Dulles have urged negotiation and not force.

MINE BLAST KILLS FIVE

ALGIERS (CP)—Five French soldiers were killed and two were wounded when their truck was blown up by an insurgent mine near Nemours, it was reported here Tuesday. French planes strafed fleeing insurgents in the action near Nemours.

Magistrate Sets Aside Conviction Of Jail Guard

KITCHENER (CP) — A magistrate, who last month convicted a man of assault, dismissed the conviction because he did not wish the man to lose his job as a jail guard, it was learned Tuesday.

Magistrate J. H. Kirkpatrick convicted David Briscoe, a guard at Waterloo County jail of assault in the beating of his 17-year-old daughter. Subsequently, he set aside his conviction and released Briscoe in a special court session. No reporters were present at the hearing.

Magistrate Kirkpatrick later said he dismissed the conviction because he did not wish Briscoe to lose his job. Evidence at Briscoe's trial showed he punished his daughter for failing to do household chores.

In Toronto, the attorney-general's department said that a magistrate could change his mind and reverse a decision if it has not been formally noted on court records.

If, however, the conviction had been recorded then, "that is the end of it." Normally a magistrate would not reverse a conviction without new information which would have affected his original decision.

The attorney-general's department said that it now would be up to the crown, or Briscoe's counsel, if he obtained the completion, to appeal the decision if either wished to do so.

Paper Companies Continue Supreme Court Appeal

OTTAWA (CP) — Seven fine paper companies and 21 executives, salesers and merchants continued argument before the Supreme Court of Canada today in an appeal against their conviction for conspiracy in price-fixing combines.

Joseph Sedgwick of Toronto, one of the company counsel, told the court Tuesday the central charge that companies getting together to hold up Canadian customers at some point in their development became an illegal combine, under federal anti-combines legislation.

He said that is what had happened in the case of Price Brothers, W. F. Spence of the Ontario Solvay Sales Co. and the companies guilty in 1954.

The Ontario Appeal Court had found there was no price-fixing agreement between the mills and the companies but that a certain section lay in "loyalty payment" arrangements. This was a legal drawback paid by the mills to companies buying from them in the form of importing.

Mr. Justice C. H. Locke said the Supreme could not understand how a loyalty discount in itself could be considered restraint of trade.

But Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock said it should be kept in mind by large the business of the mills and companies before the defence.

He invited the high court to interpret certain sections of the Combines Investigation Act when it gives its judgment. A panel of seven justices is hearing the appeal, which began Monday and probably will last a week or more.

UN Diplomats Are Dismayed As Britain and France Veto U.S. and Soviet Resolutions

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Britain and France used their vetoes twice Tuesday night at the hands of the United Nations Security Council in the Israeli-Egyptian fighting while they pushed troops toward the Suez Canal zone.

Their actions here and in the Mediterranean shocked and dismayed United Nations diplomats and drove a deep wedge into their alliance with the United States.

(In Canada, External Affairs Minister Pearson described the Security Council split as "most deplorable." He indicated that Canada's "good offices" had been used in an attempt to reconcile the Big Three powers, but when asked whether he had comfort or anxiety to report, he said it was "mostly anxiety.").

The vetoes were viewed as a hard blow to the 11-member council's prestige, already lowered by the Soviet veto in the Hungarian crisis. It highlighted a council sitting that were on for 12 hours, with time out only for lunch and dinner.

The council adjourned only 37 minutes before the 11:30 p.m. (EST) deadline set by British and France for Egyptian-Israeli agreement to stop fighting. It had kept troops along the waterway nationalized by Egypt July 26.

The two Western powers gave Egypt and Israel seven hours to stop fighting and draw back 19 miles from the 103-mile canal so that British and French forces might move "temporarily" into Port Said, Ismailia and Suez "to separate the belligerents and to guarantee freedom of transit through the canal." They said if Egypt and Israel did not consent, they would move anyway if Egypt agreed, but Egypt refused.

Another council meeting was scheduled for this afternoon to take up an Egyptian charge that Britain and France were committing aggression. Egypt said that Britain and France, by announcing measures, Egypt has no choice but to defend itself."

Britain and France had argued that the council could not act swiftly enough to halt the fighting and prevent interference with canal traffic. Accordingly both vetoed:

1. A U.S. resolution calling on Israel and Egypt immediately to cease fire, on Israel to withdraw its armed forces from Egypt and on all UN members to avoid using force in the area or giving Israel military, economic or financial aid in her operation. The vote was 7-2, with Australia and Belgium abstaining.

2. A Soviet resolution that amounted to the U.S. proposal with its teeth pulled, calling only for a cease-fire and withdrawal of Israeli troops. The vote was 7-2 with Belgium and the U.S. abstaining.

U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge had asked and obtained an urgent council debate on the Israeli military action on instructions received from President Eisenhower Monday night after Israel moved into Egypt.

He introduced a resolution as "first and imperative step" toward ending the fighting, and bringing withdrawal. Sir Pierson Dixon of Britain and Bernard Cornut-Gentille of France that he drop the proposal.

Lodge said that Israel conferred with the U.S. Friday on the basis for the British-French ultimatum would disappear. He rejected any implication "that the United States considered Israel's armed attack on the (British-French) ultimatum was justifiable."

After Lodge said he had obtained assurances from the Soviet amendment because its removal of certain elements from the U.S. resolution would be fatal to it.

Lodge chatted smilingly with Dixon, his neighbor at the council table, even after the veto of his resolution.

But Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev said the Western vetoes would disappear. He rapped Security Council." He accused Britain and France of using Israel as an instrument to justify seizure of the Suez Canal.

Walter E. Duffett, Economist, To Head Bureau of Statistics

OTTAWA (CP)—The man moving into the boss's office at Canada's biggest figure factory likes figures — cattle, fish, planting and motor - boating on the Rideau River, when he can spare the time.

But for an economist, says Walter E. Duffett, who is being hailed as "a lot of homework." So the future Dominion Statistician will be head the bureau of statistics spends much of his leisure time boning up on what professional economics & the subjects about which statistics are collected.

"I don't think statistics are tedious, but they can be used in a tedious fashion," he said in an interview. The tall, good-humored economist said he tries especially to read the old joke: "Figures can't lie. But liars can figure."

Since 46, Mr. Duffett has been chosen to succeed Herbert Marshall next July 1, as head of the bureau of statistics, which employs some 1,400 persons and can turn up a figure on almost any subject concerning Canada's economy. Mr. Marshall is retiring.

To his new job, Mr. Duffett brings 15 years' experience with economics and statistics in several Ottawa jobs plus seven years in the same business in Montreal.

He came to Ottawa in 1942 to work in the research division of the Wartime Prices Board. Two years later he moved into the Bank of Canada's research department, and in 1951 was assistant chief of the department before taking on his present job as director of the department's economics and research branch in 1954.

A native of Toronto, he spent a year at the University of Toronto studying chemical engineering. He said he then decided there were better opportunities in economics. So he went on to study at the London School of Economics, then joined the Sun Life Assurance Co. in Montreal the year he graduated, in 1933.

In all of his Ottawa jobs, Mr. Duffett has kept close contact with the statistics bureau on a variety of figure-gathering and planning projects. So he has the advantage of being familiar with the bureau's operations.

A dark - haired, bespectacled bachelor, he is a serious man in his wife and their two young children spend the mid-summer months at a cottage on Meach Lake, about 15 miles north of here on the Aylmer Road. He says that time he commutes to work by boat.

He said he has a fairly elaborate set-up at the large—two cottage on the Rideau, which he usually—and keeping things in repair. Fishing is also his spare time. For recreation, he does some boating on the lake, occasionally goes for a swim with his daughters and in winter goes skating on the Ottawa and Rideau Canal, along which his Ottawa home is located.

Sometimes after they have been doing the last couple of summers he has driven into Ottawa along the Rideau River and canal system between town and Kingston, Ont. They stop each night on these journeys at small hotels or tourist cabins along the way.

Mr. Duffett confessed that the bureau of statistics has department office had something to do with this. It faces on Dow's Lake in the Central section of the city of Capital. The lure of the water fi- cidering their club.

Special Pact to Define Use Of Soviet Troops in Poland

WARSAW (Reuters)—A special pact to define the use of Soviet troops in Poland is expected to be drawn up when the Polish Communist party chieftain, Wladislaw Gomulka, visits Moscow within the next few days.

Observers here believe the new treaty will govern the future movement of Russian troops in Poland and require that they get Polish permission to hold manoeuvres.

Informed sources here say Gomulka is also expected to discuss the future of Soviet Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, Polish defence minister and army commander.

Rokossovsky, recently ousted from his powerful Politburo post, has since been reported home to Russia on leave.

Both Gomulka and Polish Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz have said it is necessary to have Soviet troops stationed in Poland to counter the presence of NATO bases in West Germany, the formation of a West German army and a campaign for the revision of the Polish-German frontier.

While the Polish Politburo wants to limit the number of Russian troops in Poland insofar as possible, some members believe that if Soviet troops were removed completely it would mean that the East German Communist government would "come to an end overnight." If this happened, in the Communist view, it would leave Poland's former German territories east of the Oder-Neisse open to attack.

As a result, these sources say, the Russians have agreed to a policy of withdrawing a large number of the estimated 100 Soviet officers now holding key positions.

A Warsaw radio announced during the night that Gen. Ivan Turkul, Soviet commander of the Polish Air Force and Gen. Andrew Jaworsky, Soviet commander of the Warsaw garrison, have been dismissed.

The new Polish Politburo also has requested demanding 5,000,000,000 rubles from Russia as a reparations share. The figure makes $1,250,000,000 at the Soviet official rate.

An informed source said the Politburo shaped its demands for the 25 per cent of reparations Russians Russia took from Germany in the immediate post-war years in 1945 Potsdam agreement. Russia kept it all.

Major Financing Of Pipe Lines Nearly Completed

OTTAWA (CP) — Major financing of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.'s cross-country natural gas pipeline should be announced in the next month, its spokesmen say.

They gave this information to the board of transport commissioners Tuesday in asking for a month's deferment in the board's Nov. 1 deadline for showing proof of satisfactory financing before getting a final construction permit.

The board granted the application setting Dec. 1 as the new deadline. It was the fifth such postponement since Trans-Canada got its charter in 1951.

Representatives of Canadian and United States financial syndicates planning to underwrite Trans-Canada securities told the board the prospects are that the financing will be substantially completed during November.

COMPANIES REPRESENTED

They were A. Deane Nesbitt, president of Nesbitt Thomson Investment banking firm of Nesbitt, Thomson and Company and a member of the syndicate's management committee, and Paul F. Clarke, vice-president of United States investment banking firm of Lehman Brothers.

Trans-Canada general manager Charles Coates of Toronto also expressed the company's view, and all three told the board that the 2,300-mile pipe can be financed without the assured sale of gas in Canada only.

Mr. Nesbitt had been the company view it would have to sell substantial amounts of gas in United States—by way of Emerson, Man.—to make the job feasible. He told the board Tuesday that "the situation has changed" since the board's last hearing in March.

Progress was held up by a United States steel strike.

The line would reach the Lakehead by the end of next year, Mr. Coates said, and would be ready to start moving gas in the fall of 1958 construction season.

Highlights Pearson Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Highlights of statements on the international situation made Tuesday by Prime Minister Pearson at a press conference and in the later TV appearance Tuesday night:

The UN Security Council split between the United States and Britain and France and Canada on the other is "most deplorable."

The turmoil in the Middle East is unlikely to grow into a general war in which Canadians might become involved.

The Canadian government regrets that the United Kingdom and France found it necessary to use force to compel Israel and Egypt to stop fighting. Canada would not condone the use of force to expel Israel and Israel while the Security Council was considering their claim.

Canada was not consulted on the ultimatum.

The Security Council's decision on Israel's invasion of Egypt will largely influence Canada's judgment on whether an Israeli order for Canadian Sabre jet fighters will be filled.

Preparations are being made to move Canadian nationals out of five Middle East countries in conjunction with United States transport facilities.

It is not possible to be "very cheerful" about Middle East developments, but the Canadian government does not regard matters as settled without use of force.

The upheavals in Red Hungary and Poland are the most important and the Soviet Government since the Second World War.

The Canadian government will not put obstacles in the way of those in Canada wanting to go to Europe to fight for forces of freedom.

A Canada-Hungary trade agreement awaits signature and is not expected to be invalidated by developments in Hungary.

Hallowe'en Long Considered Night of Pranks, Devilment Losing Unsavory Reputation

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hallowe'en, long considered a night of pranks and devilment, is gradually losing that unsavory reputation.

Vancouver's Deputy Police Chief Gordon Ambrose typifies sentiment in a Canadian Press survey across the country. He says "Hallowe'en isn't celebrated here as much as it used to be. We don't have the same trouble with hooligans that we once had."

Many police forces will have additional men on duty Wednesday night, but all major centres reported they were expecting quiet evenings.

Far from indulging in pranks many children will be giving their time to charity as they go from householders to "shell out for UNICEF" seeking donations for the Canadian committee of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

The drive, sponsored by various community groups in co-operation with the United Nations association, is to raise funds for relief of destitute children overseas. It is expected to raise more this year than its 1955, when $15,000 was realized.

Many children will attend community-sponsored Hallowe'en parties scheduled in most large centres to combat traditional Hallowe'en vandalism.

Children can expect a favorable response to their "trick or treat" knocks, judging by early press reports which indicate a surge in sales of candy, nuts, apples and other goodies. In most communities stores feature "Hallowe'en specials," including reduced prices on gaily-packaged candy and fruit.

Fireworks, not a popular Hallowe'en feature elsewhere, will be the highlight of Vancouver's celebrations. The manager of a Chinese Fireworks Importing Company says Vancouver people are more interested in fireworks than before, though sky rockets are sold only to organized parties.

Plastic masks are a popular feature with children in Vancouver, as they are in Toronto where merchants fear the horror variety—especially spun glass and gorilla-and beards.

Joe Edmonds of Ottawa reports its popcorn supply was double to meet Hallowe'en demands. Major chain stores in Ottawa say sales of apples, candies — and especially lollipops — are increased to 100 per cent.

Saskatchewan's Hallowe'en is expected to be mainly for the children because Oct. 31 is civic election day in many cities and in the province, meaning liquor outlets are closed. A men's club-sponsored dance in Regina expects 800 children, while several Saskatoon teen-agers are to attend another party run by a service club.

Winnipeg youngsters will wear costumes varying from goblins to football players as the smaller fry go door-knocking and the high schoolers attend dances. A Scottish night will be sponsored at Winnipeg's civic auditorium by the Scottish Benevolent Association.

A couple of Toronto's larger hotels plan special Hallowe'en entertainment and dancing, with floor-shows and decorations on the seasonal theme. Others will merely add Hallowe'en food and decorations to regular functions.

New plastic and rayon masquerade costumes, including futuristic characters such as Red Riding Hood and Peter Pan, as well as the traditional witches and skeletons are popular with Ontario children, as are the more traditional of noisemakers carried by department stores.

Adult celebrations in Montreal are expected to be mainly on a private basis, though clubs will hold costume balls and parties.

Montreal children, after perhaps a bit of mischief on "mat night," when doormats and clothesline may disappear if left unguarded, will approach householders with the traditional plea there at "charity please," They may be asked to perform a stunt or sing a song before getting the hand-out.

Children in the Maritimes will be especially active in the UNICEF's appeal and will be speaking literally more than 40 people to "help the poor."

In Halifax and Saint John, N.B., costumed children will parade along; the main streets, later to congregate at the homes of members of the sponsoring clubs. It's much the same in Prince Edward Island, where a service club is holding a party for some 1,200 children.

Most of the youngsters who will be out Wednesday night don't know it, but they are perpetuating an age-old custom, the ancient Romans used to feast at this time of year in honor of Pomona, goddess of the fruit of trees. Since the Christian era the event has come on the eve of All Saints' Day honoring saints known and unknown.

Kyvind Bartels, Danish consultant general in New York, has been named administrator of the 15 - nation Suez Canal Users' Association. He will be given a small staff and will report to the six-member executive committee of the SCUA in London, temporary headquarters of the association. The ambassadors of the 15 maritime powers also decided to open two bank accounts. One would be to defray administrative expenses and the second would be the fund into which member countries can pay their fees for passage through the Suez canal.

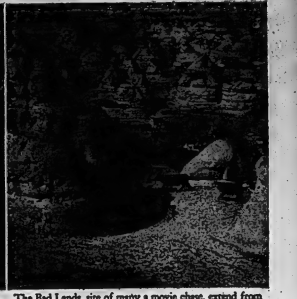
Balanced Diet Provides Top Brand Beef



The Cowboy Feeds Canada

A balanced diet for cattle is as important as for people and the Prairie grasslands provide the most nourishing fare for cattle who in turn make a tasty treat for Canada's protein and diet-conscious people. To the market flow

Canada slaughters close to 2 million head of beef a year and the meat packing industry is among the country's top five. At present, we meet our own market requirements and export about 40,000 head a year to the U.S.

The Bad Lands, site of many a movie chase, extend from Canada to the United States. Nature's art formed the odd cone-shaped figures by wind erosion through the weight of heavy rocks pressing on the mass of sand.

of beef from West to East has been added a North to Southeast trend by the growth of the cattle industry in Northern Ontario where the grazing land is good but needs to be supplemented by grain and hay in winter.

Dehorned to avoid injuries, cattle are shipped to the feeding yards for delivery to farmers and breeders who fatten them for market. The Hereford is the favorite with the Shorthorn and Aberdeen Angus close runners-up.

The cowboy is still top man in the industry as well as with the kids. Winter and Summer, he looks after his herd, brands them, vaccinates them against disease, and leads them to pasture and back until round-up time.

Cattlemen work closely with Government scientists to improve breeding and a theory or experiment can take them a lifetime to prove. Experts still argue over the trend to breed cattle for 2 instead of 4 years which reduces the weight from a ton to about 1100 lbs. Some say that young meat is more tender, others that it loses flavor. But the market shows the beef eaters buy it and like it.

CANADIAN

He made it clear, though, despite reports from London that the British government was in communication with Commonwealth countries on the move—that Canada was not consulted and heard of it only just before the announcement was made Tuesday morning.

"The speed with which events developed made it difficult for the United Kingdom to consult us," he said.

In both questioning periods, Mr. Pearson made it clear the Canadian government is reserving judgment on whether Israel was the aggressor in moving into Egyptian territory with troops. And he said the Security Council's decision on this will largely influence the government's verdict on permitting shipment of an order of 36 Sabre jet fighters to Israel.

Shipment of the planes, in any case, would not be physically possible for some time.

Other points in Mr. Pearson's conferences:

1. Canada and the U.S. are joining in transport facilities to move Canadian nationals out of Israel, Egypt, Syria, Jordan and Lebanon. It had been announced previously that these persons were advised to move out unless they held essential posts.

2. The minister considers pro-democratic uprisings in Hungary and Poland the most important developments behind the Iron Curtain since the Second World War.

3. A Canada - Hungary trade agreement is ready for signing and is not likely to be invalidated by developments in Hungary.

Mr. Pearson also told reporters the government at the moment has no intention of putting obstacles in the way of persons from this country wanting to go to Hungary to fight for freedom. However, he said it would appear there would not be much more fighting in that country.

BRITISH COMMONS

The Liberal paper Manchester Guardian, viewing the move as an "act of folly," says it was made "without justification in any terms but brief expediency." It describes the move as pouring "fuel on a growing fire" and says there is no way of knowing "what kind of explosion will follow."

Supporting Eden, the tabloid London Daily Sketch says: "Never has a statesman been so soon and so fully justified in unpopular decisions as Anthony Eden has been over his military preparations in the Middle East."

Winding up the debate, Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd said if the opposition divided the house (by a vote) in this serious situation it was something the country would not forgive.

The government could not postpone its action until the conclusion of the United Nations debate, he said, because Israeli troops were within a few miles of Suez and air activity was increasing on both sides.

"We are faced with a situation in which there may at any moment be a threat to British lives and British ships passing through the canal," he said.

Lloyd, who was continually interrupted by uproar from Labor members, said: "We have never said that we have acted with the approval and authority of the United States government. This decision we and the French had to take in our own rights."

Treasurer Wants More Tax Money From Ottawa

HAMILTON (CP) — Provincial Treasurer Dana Porter of Ontario said Tuesday night that unless federal fields of taxation are opened to the provinces, Ontario will have to increase present provincial taxes or borrow at ruinous rates of interest.

He told a convention banquet of the Canadian Industrial Management Association that peacetime burdens of education, hospital, health and public works costs were falling more and more heavily on the provinces.

"Last year Ontario collected more than $400,000,000 in taxes but still had to borrow to meet its disbursements," Mr. Porter said. "This year, the federal government will have a surplus or something like $200,000,000.

"It can spare some of that surplus. It can withdraw from some of the tax fields it now controls and which are actually provincial tax fields in any case."

He said that while the government is giving $16,000,000 in grants to universities this year and propose to continue such support as long as necessary, "it would be a much healthier condition if universities did not have to depend on government grants to the extent that they do."

"A change of government or of policy could cut such grants. The university should not be at the mercy of such a possibility."

Dept. Returns Negative Report On Man's Death

HAMILTON (CP) — Analysis of the attorney-general's department in Toronto Tuesday returned a negative report on the death of a 36-year-old Niagara Falls woman whose body was found on a mountain two weeks ago.

The stomach contents of Geraldine Oliver, a clerk in a Niagara Falls novelty shop, were sent to the department after there was no evidence of violence and no apparent cause of death.

The tests indicate nothing present that could have caused death. The woman was found Oct. 14 by children playing on a mountainbrow, 12 days after she disappeared from her brother's home in Hamilton.

A blue pill found in the dead woman's purse proved to be an ordinary aspirin, the report stated. Police said they are unable to trace Miss Oliver's whereabouts during the 12-day period before her death.

RANGOON (AP) — Reports reached Rangoon today that two unknown persons sprayed a Communist-organized mass meeting in western Burma with sten-gun bullets, killing four persons and wounding many others. Booming Birth Rate Has Had Healthy Effect on Country's Motion Picture Industry

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's booming birth rate has had a healthy effect on the country's motion picture industry.

Something from a shortage of baby-sitters is the drive-in theatre business, which in turn is giving a boost to an industry that was suffering from the competition of television.

"Drive-ins are a boon to low-income parents who cannot afford a baby-sitter as well as a night out. They just pile the family into the car and off they drive," said Clare J. Appel, executive director of the Canadian Motion Picture Distributors' Association, in an interview here.

RAPID INCREASE

Drive-ins first appeared in Canada in 1946, when 13 opened in Ontario and one in British Columbia.

Seven years later, there were 221 Canadian drive-ins, which created $5,760,621 in 1953.

Total-car capacity is 85,713 and walk-in seating is negligible, 1,000.

Ontario has the largest number of "open-air cinemas," 89, with Alberta second, 51. Several British Columbia drive-ins remain open all year round and Calgary promoter has been experimenting with winter opening, providing patrons with car heaters.

New drive-ins are opening at the rate of about 70 a year.

Land and installation for a drive-in costs between $50,000 and $250,000 depending on the size and facilities.

"Theatres are closing in certain places, but they are mainly situated in towns of 1,000 population or are sixth-rate city theatres whose owners have not spent anything on repairs for years," Mr. Appel admitted.

About 10 small theatres have closed during the last three years. New theatres are being opened here and there, but mainly in smaller towns.

New large theatres in cities "just aren't an economic proposition at the moment when there are enough to cater for the present motion picture patronage," said Mr. Appel, who has 30 years' experience in the theatre business.

"Many of the larger drive-ins, 75 per cent of which are independently owned, provide almost any kind of family service you can think of," he explained.

The majority will heat babies' bottles, a few provide clean diapers. Most have resort facilities which means the whole family can enjoy a night out.

Many have children's playgrounds where youngsters play until they become tired, then climb into the back of the car to sleep.

USEFUL LABOR

SILSBY, England (CP) — No one would pay for the cleaning of a stream that regularly flooded this Leicestershire village, so parish officials donned old clothes and rubber boots and did it themselves.

Senator Favors Govt. Paying Full Tax Cost

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator David Croll Monday told town planners —including the mayors of about 30 Canadian cities—it is high time the federal government paid its full share of municipal taxes.

"Instead of devising ingenious formulas to avoid paying of taxes to municipalities, it might well meet the inevitable now and like the rest of us—start paying taxes in full," the Liberal senator from Ontario told the Community Planning Association's annual conference here.

The federal government now pays grants equivalent to full municipal taxes where total federal property exceeds two per cent of the total municipal assessment. The tax is paid only on the excess.

Senator Croll, a former mayor of Windsor, Ont., said the full cost of municipal taxes, a "trifling" $13,000,000 to $15,000,000 would be missed by the government and could help municipalities meet their bills.

Pleads Guilty To $14,522 Theft From Warship

VICTORIA (CP)—Robert Semple, 21, of Port Arthur pleaded guilty Monday to stealing $14,522 from the warship Cayuga at nearby Esquimalt naval base April 25, 1956.

He and William Buchanan, 24, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., who pleaded guilty last Friday to being an accessory after the fact, were remanded by Magistrate H. C. Hall to next Monday for sentencing.

Last month Francis J. Cassidy, 34, was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment after pleading guilty to theft of the money.

Semple, 21-year-old former Cayuga crew member, was arrested in Hamilton last Thursday as a result of investigations which followed Cassidy's arrest.

Cpl. Douglas Rogers of the RCMP testified Monday that Semple assisted Cassidy in taking the money from an open safe in the supply officer's cabin. He said Semple allowed Cassidy to get on and off the ship without suspicion by changing watches with another seaman.

Semple received $3,300 of the loot, Cpl. Rogers said. This money has not been recovered, he said.

Cpl. Rogers said Buchanan helped Cassidy dispose of the money and at one time had $13,000 of it in his possession.

Cpl. Rogers said Buchanan also got approximately $3,300 of the total amount. His share was all accounted for but none was recovered.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was asking pop diffrent questions such as if it would be easier to learn French in school if your grate grandfather had been a Frenchman, and whether you would feel uncomfortable if you had as many mussels as the strong man in a circus, or say, ing you probably would if you got cramps in them, and I said, Hay pop, is it wrong to tell on somebody, even if somebody asks you?

Well, a stool pidgin is usually considered a low grade of beer, pop said, and I said, That's what I think, and that's why I wouldn't want to be like Berton Jones.

Is he like that? pop said, and I said, Sure, pop, but I'm not. Today in school somebody was writing in my part of the room, and the teecher came down the lis and asked me if I knew who was doing it, and I told her I knew but I didn't believe in spying ex, cept in war time, and neither I do, pop said.

That's a very good principal to have, pop said, and I said, Well Berton Jones hasn't got it. He was the next one she asked and he told her right away, and the guy was kept after school. And that's why I wouldn't want to be like Berton Jones, I said.

Neither would I, so we may con, sider ourselves members of the same lodge, and Berton Jones may consider himself barred from membership, pop said. Who was doing all the whispering? Do I know him? he said, and I said, Sure, pop, it was me.

Yes gods, do your housework, pop said.

Which I did, having 3 exter pages to do on account of not being a stoof piddin.

Ebbets' Field Sold to Gotham Realtor

NEW YORK (AP)—The days of Ebbets Field as the home of the Dodgers became numbered Tuesday with the announcement of the sale of the property by the Brooklyn National League baseball club to Marvin Kratter, New York real estate investor.

Under terms of the transaction the ball club will remain as tenant the next three years with an option to continue another two years or through 1965.

Terms of the sale were not disclosed. Kratter said merely that the purchase price was seven figures, and the flat rental into five figures.

Kratter said the plans are to convert the property, which includes a parking lot and has a total area of approximately 300,000 square feet, into a housing and business development at a cost of "upwards of $25,000,000."

A committee representing the Brooklyn sports centre authority is making a study of the feasibility of building a huge sports centre which the Dodgers could call home.

SPORT IN BRIEF

"SENATORS" OFFICIALLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Call 'em what you will, Washington's baseball players are now officially the "Senators."

Club president Calvin Griffith announced the rechristening Tuesday with this pronouncement: "We feel that 'Senators' has dignity."

Many fans always have referred to Washington's American League team as the Senators, among other tags with somewhat less dignity. Actually, the team's official nickname has been the "Nationals" since 1906. As the "Nats," they've banged around the second division for the last 10 seasons.

DECIDE ON TIME

OTTAWA (CP)—Big Four president Jim McCaffrey said Tuesday night that the semi-final playoff between Ottawa and Hamilton next Wednesday will begin at 1 p.m. EST regardless of where it is played. There had been talk of staging the game under lights.

The game will be played in Hamilton unless Ottawa can beat the Tiger-Cats by at least 30 points when the teams clash here Saturday.

FORKES LOSE

TIMMINS (CP)—Abitibi Eskimos bounced back into the winning column of the Porcupine Mines Senior League Tuesday night after two straight losses as they dumped the league-leading South Porcupine Porkies 8-2.

Syl Ethier led the way for the Eskies with a pair of goals while singletons came from Brian Garut Jerry Labelle, Butch Festarini and Gordie Warner.

RAISE JAP FLAG

MELBOURNE (AP) — As Australian army corporal, wearing four rows of combat ribbons he won fighting the Japanese in the Second World War, raised the Nipponese flag at the Olympic village Tuesday. While the entire party stood at attention, a Japanese official unfurled the banner.

Masaji Kiokuwa, and other members of the Japanese Olympic delegation then moved into the village where they will be joined by their athletes Nov. 11.

PERMITS RARE

DETROIT (CP)—The Michigan conservation department Tuesday started mailing out special deer hunting permits following a drawing to determine the lucky hunters.

The department was swamped with applications for hunting permits and drawings had to be held in nine of the 22 special season areas. More than 104,000 hunters made applications for the 65,340 permits to be issued throughout the state.

Lopez Names Three-Fourths Coaching Staff

CHICAGO (AP)—Al Lopez formally signed a one-year contract at a reported $40,000 Tuesday to manage Chicago White Sox and immediately named three-fourths of his coaching staff.

Lopez retained first base coach Don Gutteridge and pitching coach Ray Berres from the Marty Marion regime and said he'll bring with him Tony Cuccinello from Cleveland Indians.

Lopez said a fourth coach would be named later.

The 48-year-old Lopez said after contract-signing ceremonies that he would remain in Chicago for several days to confer with White Sox vice president Chuck Comiskey on possible deals.

One player expected to be mentioned is Cleveland third baseman Al Rosen who is "on the block."

"If we could get him, I'd like to do so," said Lopez. "Rosen is a fine baseball player. He's a sensitive fellow and it's bothering him to have a few Cleveland fans booing him."

Bombers Expect To Be at Full Strength

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers are expected to be at full strength Saturday when they meet Saskatchewan Roughriders in the opener of the two-game Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-finals.

But the Roughriders have listed three key players as doubtful starters—ends Stan Williams and Harry Lampman and guard Mario Demarco. Williams is nursing a sore leg while Lampman has a broken hand and Demarco is suffering from bruised ribs.

Bomber coach Al Sherman was jubilant Tuesday: "We're in the best shape we've been in for a long time, physically, mentally and spiritually. . . I have never felt so good about our chances."

The doubtful Saskatchewan trio all worked out in a drill at Regina Monday. Absent was Gordon Sturtridge, who injured his foot last weekend. He will be ready for action, though. Tackle Martin Ruby and fullback Bobby Marlow were limping but are expected to be in form for the opener.

Ebbets' Field Sold to Gotham Realtor

NEW YORK (AP)—The days of Ebbets Field as the home of the Dodgers became numbered Tuesday with the announcement of the sale of the property by the Brooklyn National League baseball club to Marvin Kratter, New Rental real estate investor.

Under terms of the transaction the ball club will remain as tenant the next three years, with an option to continue another two years after through 1961.

Terms of the sale were not disclosed. Kratter said merely that the purchase price ran into seven figures, and that the rental was five figures.

Kratter said the plans are to convert the property, which includes a parking lot and has a total area of approximately 300,000 square feet, into a housing and business development at a cost of "upwards of $25,000,000."

A committee representing the Brooklyn sports centre authority is making a survey as to the feasibility of building a huge sports centre which the Dodgers could call home.

SPORT IN BRIEF

"SENATORS" OFFICIALLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Call 'em what you'll will, the baseball players are now officially the "Senators."

Club president Calvin Griffith announced the rechristening Tuesday with this pronouncement: "We feel that 'Senators' has dignity."

Many fans always have referred to Washington's American League team as the Senators, among other tags with somewhat less dignity. Actually, the team's official nickname has been the "Nationals" since 1906. As the "Nats," they've banged around the second division for the last 10 seasons.

DECIDE ON TIME

OTTAWA (CP)—Big Four president Jim McCaffrey said Tuesday night that the semi-final playoff between Ottawa and Hamilton next Wednesday will begin at 1 p.m. EST regardless of where it is played. There had been talk of staging the game under lights.

The game will be played in Hamilton unless Ottawa can beat the Tiger-Cats by at least 20 points when the teams clash here Saturday.

PORKIES LOSE

TIMMINS (CP)—Abitibi Eskimos bounced back into the winning column of the Porcupine Mines Senior League Tuesday night after two straight losses as they dumped the league-leading South Porcupine Porkies 6-2.

Syl Ethier led the way for the Eskies with a pair of goals while singletons came from Brian Garst Jerry Labelle, Butch Festarini and Gordie Warner.

RAISE JAP FLAG

MELBOURNE (AP) — An Australian army corporal, wearing four rows of combat ribbons he won fighting the Japanese in the Second World War, raised the Nipponese flag at the Olympic village Tuesday. While the entire party stood at attention, a Japanese official unfurled the banner.

Masaji Kiokowa, and other members of the Japanese Olympic delegation then moved into the village where they will be joined by their athletes Nov. 11.

PERMITS RARE

DETROIT (CP)—The Michigan conservation department Tuesday started mailing out special deer hunting permits following a drawing to determine the lucky hunters.

The department was swamped with applications for hunting permits and drawings had to be held in nine of the 22 special season areas. More than 104,000 hunters made application for the 65,340 permits to be issued throughout the state.

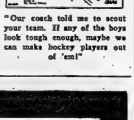
Lopez Names Three-Fourths Coaching Staff

CHICAGO (AP)—Al Lopez formally signed a one-year contract at a reported $40,000 Tuesday to manage Chicago White Sox and immediately named three-fourths of his coaching staff.

Lopez retained first base coach Don Gutteridge and pitching coach Ray Berres from the Marty Marion regime and said he'll work with him Tony Cuccinello from Cleveland Indians.



Lopez said a fourth coach would be named later.

The 48-year-old Lopez said after contract-signing ceremonies, that he would remain in Chicago for several days to confer with White Sox vice president Chuck Comiskey on possible deals.

One player expected to be mentioned is Cleveland third baseman Al Rosen who is "on the block." "If we could get him, I'd like to do so," said Lopez. "Rosen is a fine baseball player. He's a sensitive fellow and it's bothering him to have a few Cleveland fans booing him."

Bombers Expect To Be at Full Strength

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers are expected to be at full strength Saturday when they meet Saskatchewan Roughriders in the opener of the two-game Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-finals.

But the Roughriders have listed three key players as doubtful starters—ends Stan Williams and Harry Langman and guard Mario Demarco. Williams is nursing a sore leg while Langman has a broken hand and Demarco is suffering from bruised ribs.

Bomber coach Al Sherman was jubilant Tuesday: "We're in the best shape we've been in for a long time, physically, mentally and spiritually. . . I have never felt so good about our chances."

The doubtful Saskatchewan trio all worked out in a drill at Regina Monday. Absent was Gordon Sturtridge, who injured his foot last weekend. He will be ready for action, though. Tackle Martin Ruby and fullback Bobby Marlow were limping but are expected to be in form for the opener.

MINOR HOCKEY

The moppets are on the move and it won't be too long before arenas of the district are resounding to the "battle cries" of the young "republic." It will also be minor hockey time and organizations in the district are readying for another successful season.

Last season over 600 puck-chasing youngsters played organized hockey under the aegis of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association and Recreation Director "Ted" Doran, who has almost completed a survey of the public schools here, says almost that number will be equalled if not bettered this year.

In the district Ontario Minor Hockey Association executive members and conveners, not to mention club coaches and managers are planning for the season's activities.

OMHA executives Doug Patterson of Stirling and Albert Watkins of Peterborough have started things moving in the northern section of this part of "Lower Canada" and next week will get the southern section's wheels into motion.

At a recent meeting of the northern communities, seven centres were represented. These included Campbellford, Marmora, Havelock, Norwood, Cooper, Brighton, Stirling, Hastings and Warkworth. Bancroft and other centres are expected to fall in line.

The bantam league includes Campbellford, Marmora, Norwood, Havelock, Stirling, Hastings and Warkworth. In the midget loop are Campbellford, Marmora, Norwood, Cooper, Brighton and Stirling, while the junior league includes Campbellford, Marmora, Havelock, Cooper, Brighton and Stirling.

The southern section of the league convenes at the city hall here on Tuesday, November 6, when Patterson will head the organization confab. He hopes the leagues, started last year with Belleville, Picton, Wellington and Trenton will be repeated with the same success that attended the inaugural efforts.

Said Doug today: "In the past teams in the southern area with the exception of Belleville, have had to be content with a few practices or exhibition games to prepare for OMHA play-downs. I sincerely hope the teams which participated last year will be back for a repeat performance again this season. I believe that last year's league provided hockey for boys which did more than any practice or exhibition game to provide such conditions."

With this in mind Doug has called the meeting for next Tuesday and it is hoped all teams will be represented. Possible entries include Belleville, Picton, Wellington, Trenton, Napanee and Wooler. Those interested in minor hockey, but who do not represent an entering club are extended a cordial welcome to attend.

Members of the northern section are reminded of the meeting scheduled for Campbellford on Thursday, November 8 when plans for the season and a proposed pre-season league will be discussed and probably finalized.

Here in the city the Belleville Minor Hockey Association is busy readying its lists of players and it is expected the player rosters and other pre-season details will be released shortly.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association is scheduled for the Royal York Hotel on November 16-17, and a large delegation from Eastern Ontario is expected to be in attendance. President Bill Gault of the BMHA, Mel Richards of the Belleville Senior "B" hockey association, possibly "Red" Doran, and this reporter will attend from this city.

It has been announced that the OMHA executive has assumed the retiring secretary, "that ole warkhorse" Jack Christie, for the presidency of the association. Jack has given long and faithful service to the OMHA and much of its success over the passing years is due to his untiring efforts. The presidency is a fitting reward, a climactic gold medal, so to speak, and this corner sincerely endorses the idea. It couldn't happen to a more efficient, more "hard-working, or a nicer guy."

For you basketball lovers who like high-class comedy mixed with long shots, the Harlem Globetrotters are appearing in the Kingston Community Centre, November 12. They come complete with their famous bag-of-tricks, a powerful cage group, plus a comedy routine that includes everything from their football and baseball routines to new wrinkles developed over the seasons. Elmer Robinson, the team's "old pro," and one of the best shots basketball has ever known, is starting his 11th season with the Trotters. They play the Philly Spas.

Team, Player Records Toppled In Western Loop

REGINA (CP)—Team and individual scoring records toppled like skittles during the 1956 Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

Figures released today by Bill Hawrjak, chief WIFU statistician show that at least 13 team records and six individual records were broken.

Saskatchewan with six records to its credit led the parade, while Normie Kwong of Edmonton Eskimos and Frank Tripucka of the Roughriders shared the individual honors.

Kwong gained 3,437 yards rushing to beat his own record of 1,250 set last year.

BREAKS PASS MARKS

Quarterback Tripucka's strong throwing arm gave him records for the most attempted passes, the most completed passes and the most yards gained in passing.

All former records were set by Indian Jack Jacobs for Winnipeg.

His 383 attempted passes beat the former record of 355 set in 1951, his 218 completions surpassed the 204 set in 1954, and his 2,774 yards gained in the air beat the 2,248 set in 1951.

Team records set by Saskatchewan include:

Total yards from scrimmage set, 6,620 — Beating Edmonton's 5,410 yards set in 1951. Winnipeg with 5,743 and Edmonton with 5,674 yards also broke the former record.

Most completed passes, 222, exceeding by one the former record set by Winnipeg in 1953.

Most yards passing, 3,211—beating own record of 2,101 yards set in 1953.

Yards passing, 3,063—compared to Winnipeg's 3,230 in 1951.

Other records were set by the other clubs.

Winnipeg with 338 first downs beat the record 291 set by Saskatchewan in 1955. Edmonton with 318 and the Roughriders with 313 also surpassed the old figure.

Edmonton gained 3,482 yards rushing to exceed the 3,392 mark they set in 1953.

Calgary had the most points scored against a team—410. In 1953 the Roughriders had 363 scored against them.

Finally Quit Playing Dead In Rousing Offensive Game; Rangers Meet Leafs Tonight

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Black Hawks, who had played dead in the National Hockey League for seven previous games, came to life Tuesday night with vengeance.

The Hawks shut out Boston Bruins 4-0 in a rousing offensive performance that gave them a few season firsts and a much-needed lift all around.

It was the first win for Chicago, previously with only a tie to show for its troubles. Goalie Al Rollins, who sparkled throughout, chalked up his first shutout and rookie Forbes Kennedy scored his first pro league goal.

Eddie Litzenberger notched his first and second goals of the season to spark the Hawks and joined Harry Watson with only two-goal man on the squad.

FIRST HOME GOAL

To cap it off, Johnny Wilson opened the scoring in the first period with the Hawks' first home ice goal in three appearances at Chicago Stadium.

The victory wasn't enough to lift the Hawks out of the league cellar but it did move them to within two points of the disappointing Montreal Canadiens, who checked five points are two behind the Bruins. Boston's loss cost the Bruins a chance to grab a share of third place with New York Rangers.

Black Hawks kept the Bruins off balance, slamming a total of 49 shots at Goalie Terry Sawchuk while allowing only 15 at Rollins.

The league's lowest scoring club could undergo a shakeup tonight when New York Rangers try to snap Leafs at Toronto in the only game scheduled. A Toronto win would move the Leafs, now in 10 points, into a first-place tie with Detroit Red Wings while a New York victory would enable the Rangers to dislodge the Leafs from second spot.

SUMMON AID

Both teams called up reinforcements for the battle.

Leafs brought in centre Mike Nykoluk from Rochester of the American League to replace Brian Cullen who is out a week or so with a leg injury. Coach Howie Meeker also called in hard-checking Bob Bailey has a chance of making a regular berth.

The 165-pounder shot 10 goals and assisted on 12 in 14 Western League playoff games last spring. The season before that, he captained Toronto Marlboros to the Memorial Cup.

The Rangers also acquired scoring punch in forward Parker MacDonald and Bruce Cline, up from Providence Reds in return for Don Murphy, Bronco Horvath and Camille Henry.

Hartack Almost Sure of Title

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Jockey Willie Shoemaker is off on a seven week vacation, then virtually assures the 1956 U.S. riding championship for Willie Hartack.

Hartack now heads Shoemaker by four wins, 317 to 314, in their annual battle and seems certain to repeat as the country's winningest rider for the second year in a row.

Johnny Podres To Undergo Spine Surgery

By ED CORRIGAN

BROOKLYN (AP) — Johnny Podres, the skinny Yankee killer revealed today that he faces a spinal operation—but that he's going to pitch as long as possible before going under the knife.

The 24 - year - old Brooklyn Dodgers' lefthander who beat New York Yankees twice in the 1955 world series, was discharged from the navy less than a week ago, but has already taken an off-season job as an automobile salesman near Ebbets Field.

"I'll go as far as I can before I get the operation," said Podres. "I certainly don't want it now.

"Maybe I can go a year and maybe I can go five before it becomes a necessity. The doctors can't make a better estimate."

THE OPERATION

Podres suffers from spondylolysis, a disintegration of the small bones which link the spinal column of the body. He's had the ailment almost all his life.

"You know," Podres said, "I've never pitched as many as 100 innings in one year for the Dodgers and it is a handicap of that name because, in fact, one year I was able to go only 88 innings at Montreal.

The boyish-looking blonde has his own theory about the Brook vice-president Buzzie Bavasi, who wanted him to go to Puerto Rico to pitch in the winter league there and get himself in shape. Podres didn't take too kindly to the idea.

He thinks he needs rest more than anything else. He probably will head south of the border just before the start of spring training.

Lords Wallop Bears 31-6

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — London Lords thwarted Sarnia Golden Bears' bid for a first-place tie with Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen in the Ontario Rugby Football Union Senior series Tuesday night when they walloped the Bears 31-6.

It was the first home victory for the last-place Lords.

Sarnia's Jack Cielo Balmy Beaches are tied for second place, each with a total of 12 points. Beaches, however, have two games in hand, having played only nine games while Bears have completed the 11-game schedule.

Tuesday will be tying in crazy a two-point margin held by Dutchmen when it meets the leaders in Kitchener Saturday.

MAY SKIP A GAME

Beachs will play their final scheduled game against the Lords in Toronto Sunday only if it has a bearing on the final standings. London has collected six points this season.

In Tuesday night's contest, London had a 14-0 lead after the first quarter and led Sarnia 17-6 at the three-quarter mark after a scoreless second.

Dale Creighton spearheaded the winners' attack with three touchdowns. Playing coach Indian Jack Jacobs added seven points on a field goal, two converts and a single. Ross Buckle scored the other London touchdown.

Sarnia's lone touchdown was notched by Jean Robillard.

Sasky Riders 6-5 Favorites Over Bombers in Playoffs

WINNIPEG (CP)—It's 20 years since Saskatchewan Roughriders took a playoff series from Winnipeg Blue Bombers. But despite this record, the Riders grudgingly will go into the Western Interprovincial Football Union two-game, total-point semi-final against the Bombers at about 6-to-5 favorites.

The first game is scheduled for Saturday at Regina's Taylor Field with the windup at Winnipeg Stadium Monday.

It was in November, 1936, that Riders last turned the tables on a Winnipeg team in the playoffs—either semi-final or final. Riders, however, failed to make the trip to the Grey Cup due to a dispute over imports.

Since then, Riders have never been able to take a series from the Bombers. They went to the Grey Cup in 1951, but by defeating Edmonton Eskimos, who had downed Winnipeg in the semi-final.

THREE LEAN YEARS

The last three years have been rough ones for the Riders. They lost all three semi-final series to Winnipeg. In 1953 Lorne (Reon Boom) Benson roared for a three-league-record six touchdowns in the first game but Riders never fully recovered, losing 60-22 on points. In 1954, it was the same story. The clubs tied the first game 14-14, but Bombers won the second 13-11. Last year, Winnipeg won the first contest 16-7, dropped the second 8-5, but took the round 24-16.

Edmonton Eskimos, meanwhile, are sitting back in a comfortable position, waiting to take on the semi-final winner in their bid for a third successive Western title.

Injuries, which have been a big headache for Riders in the play-offs of recent years, appear to have steered clear of them this year. Only player to miss Tuesday's workout was import guard Mario Demarco, who was suffering bruised ribs.

Flying wing Ron Kelly, still recovering from a 10-day bout with pneumonia, may be the only Bomber regular to miss the opener.

Whitby Blasts Kingston 10-1; Cornwall Ties Pembroke For First Point

Dunlops Run Wild Against Old Rivals From Down East; Chevies, Kings Draw 3-all

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was anti-goaltenders night in Ontario's senior hockey league Tuesday night as two teams came up for goals against their opponents.

Result: Ste. Marie Indians turned the trick in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Southern group, beating their cross-river enemies, Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 10-4 and in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Eastern Division, Whitby Dunlops lost Kingston CKLC's 10-1.

In other Eastern Division play Pembroke Lumber Kings and Cornwall Chevies drew 3-3 at Pembroke and in the Northern Division Owen Sound Mercurys won their first game, taking Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 4-2.

Centre Laurie Peterson was the big gun as Indians handed the Greyhounds their worst defeat since 1947. Hometown fans saw Peterson score five times and assist on two other goals. Chuck Holdaway and Johnny Bonello got two each and Russ Kowaluk scored once.

Penalties as well as goals featured the game. Eighteen were handed out in all, including four majors and one misconduct. Greyhounds were outshot 40-16, and in their two last games have absorbed 80 shots on goal.

At Whitby, Fred Archer scored three times to lead the Dunlops. Stu Gagnon and Ralph Thrasher each got two, and Bob Attersley, Sandy Air and Cord Myles had singles. Don Murray spoiled Jack Donley's shutout in the last period.

Lumber Kings and Chevies were unable to break their tie even with 10 minutes of overtime. Down 3-1 at the end of the second, the Kings drew even on Bill Donnelly's goal at 1:26 of the third. Patten knocked in the tying goal for Cornwall in the last three minutes. Pete Payette and Moe Savard got Cornwall's other goals, Charlie Marshall, Ronald Gaudet and Bruce Giesebrecht scoring for the Kings.

At Owen Sound, Mercurys took advantage of a double penalty to Dutchmen Ernie Bergrow and Vallero had taken a 2-1 lead in the second. Then in the third, Owen Sound banged in two more before Dutchies replied with less than three minutes left.

Jerry Dutchie Sandford and Vern Gardiner were other Mercury scorers. Referees were George Scholes and Charlie Brooker counting for Kitchener.

Mexican Wins First Big Riding Trophy

NEW YORK (AP) — It didn't take Gen. Humberto Mariles long to get the National Horse Show crowds a demonstration of just what they came to see.

The riding master from Mexico teamed with his top mount, Chihuahua I, to win the Good Will Challenge Trophy, first of the big international events, at the opening of the show Tuesday night in Madison Square Garden.

In the matinee jow-score competition—the first of a series of three in the Interclub cup—the low score—Canada's riders finished with eight faults. Chile was second with 12 and Ireland third with 30.

The United States was fourth with 32 and Mexico, the defender, was fifth with 84.

Tom Gayford led the Canadians with a perfect ride aboard Rusty. Gayford, Ottawa, is a Canadian Army, and Douglas Hood, with Oregon Duke, had four faults apiece through single knockdowns. All three Canadian riders are from Ottawa.

A feature of this year's horse show is the RCMP's musical ride.

Durelle, Wallace Fight Fading

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Promoter Chris Shaban says the possibility of a Yvon Durelle-Willace British Empire light heavyweight title match is fading because Durelle objected to offered Wallace and his Canadian manager, Frank Bricker, $2,000 plus expenses to meet the Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., battler here.

"That was over a week ago and I haven't heard from them yet," says Shaban. "I think the offer was quite attractive and I don't see why it hasn't been accepted.

"I don't know why Wallace keeps ducking Durelle."

Shaban said Board of Boxing Control sanctioned the proposed title bout two weeks ago. Durelle is Canadian lightheavy champion and Wallace, of Brantford, holds the Empire crown.

Worsley Tops NHL Goalies

TORONTO (CP)—The efficiency ratings for National Hockey League goaltenders lightened up this week as Gump Worsley of New York Rangers moved to the top.

The little netminder blocked 65 of the 68 shots fired at him in two games to boost his season's percentage to .950.

Right behind was Montreal Canadiens' Jacques Plante, who let by eight goals in 90 shots for a .911 mark which cut his season's rating to .947 from .975 the first two games when he led the goaltenders.

Glenn Hall of Detroit Red Wings is third with .945, Terry Sawchuk of Boston Bruins fourth with .921 and Al Rollins of Chicago Black Hawks fifth with .916.

Ed Chadwick, rookie goaltender for Toronto Maple Leafs, is only a point behind Rollins at .915, an improvement of 13 points.

Petes Juniors Expect New Arena This Week

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A TPT Petes are rapidly rounding into shape after three weeks of stiff conditioning work for their opener against Marlboros in Toronto Sunday.

The Petes have been drilling at Civic Arena here and in Cobourg, as well as playing exhibition games, and expect to get into their new Memorial Centre here before the end of the week.

Coach Cal MacKay has most of his team picked and signed. The goaltending job is being fought for by Chuck Adamson of Sudbury and George Kemp, who played Junior B for the Petes last season.

Among defencemen, MacKay has Jim Dunne of Sault Ste. Marie, Ralph McNiff, with Junior Canadiens for three years, Irvin Spencer of Kitchener, Arlie Parker of Kitchener and possibly Nick Murray from Campbellton, N.B.

Forwards signed are Larry Babcock and Gerry Montague of Chatham, Tom Clark of Sarnia, Ron Mason from Seaforth, Chuck Hamilton and Pat Casey of Kirkland Lake, Jim Mikol and Bob Ertell of Kitchener, Wayne Connelly of Rouyn, Que., Tom Thurlby of Kingston, Les Marshall of Kirkland Lake and possibly Pat Baker of Peterborough and Charlie Brana of St. Mary's.

Weightlifting

Belleville records in lifting are in for a tumble this season. Joe Cox unofficially cracked a couple of them Monday night and he was not alone at the game. Several boys are pushing him hard.

Totals for the evening are as follows: Bill Rotherby, 148 class, 480 lbs.; Joe Cox, 165 class, 580 lbs.; Art Duby, 165 class, 485 lbs.; Barry Ray, 165 class, 535 lbs.; Harry Abbott, 181 class, 485 lbs.

These boys proved capable of better totals with extra lifts that cannot be added in.

Leo Not 'Lippy' For Once Declines To Say Something

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Leo Durocher was anything but lippy today about any offer he may have to return to baseball and manage Cleveland Indians.

"Any statement will have to come from Hank Greenberg," said the former New York Giants manager, who met twice Tuesday with Greenberg, the Indians' general manager. He declined to say whether the talks would continue today.

Greenberg, visiting here with his friend and former Pittsburgh Pirate teammate Hank Greenberg, was not available for comment.

A reliable source told The Associated Press that Durocher, now as NBC executive, was offered a flat salary to take over the Indians, who finished second last season in the American League. But, the source said, Greenberg balked when Durocher also demanded a sizable piece of the club's stock.

Durocher has said previously he would never manage again "just for a salary."

Does Not Favor Canada World Hockey Team

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—Gord Juckes, second vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Tuesday night he does not favor sending a hockey team to the world championships in Russia next year.

He referred to a report that Frank Selke, general manager of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, was approached last Friday by George Panter, former president of the Ontario Hockey Association, with a view to sending Ottawa Junior Canadiens to Russia.

Panter had been trying to raise funds to send over an all-star amateur team originally agreed at the CAHA's annual meeting in Montreal last May.

Juckes said the CAHA had given Panter no instructions to make such a suggestion and he was usurping CAHA prerogative in approaching Selke.

He said in an interview he has sent a wire to Conroy A. Dunn, president, and George S. Dudley, secretary - manager, expressing his feelings.

"Aside from the aspect of considering any junior team when we turned down the Allan Cup-holding Vernon Canadians last May, I feel no approach should have been made without approval of the executive committee," he said.

CARDS FULL OUT

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals said Tuesday they "do not intend" to operate their Rochester franchise in the International Baseball League next season.

Frank Lane, general manager of the Cardinals, said "we hope local Rochester interests will acquire the franchise and be able to operate it successfully."

Kaline Dropped Through Error

NEW YORK (AP)—Detroit's Al Kaline, who barely missed making The Associated Press major league all-star team, selected Tuesday by a vote of the Baseball Writers Association of America, was dropped from the second team listing through an error in tabulating.

Kaline received 79 votes, ranking fourth and losing out as a first team member when Boston's Ted Williams collected 83.

In copying the tabulations, The Associated Press inadvertently omitted Kaline's name from the second team and included Frank Robinson of Cincinnati, who actually was cited in the balloting for the outfielders.

No Canadian Failed to Equal Standard

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fred Rowell, national chairman of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada's track and field committee, said Tuesday no member of Canada's Olympic team has failed to equal standard for individual events this year.

Rowell was replying to a report that the Newfoundland branch of the AAU has protested against the way the final berth spots on the team were filled, George Hillier, veteran St. John's marathoner, failed to make the team but was named first alternate.

"It was understood that if the winner of the walking and marathon trials made the team, they'd be picked for the team," Rowell said. "Hillier didn't make the standard."

Discussing criticism that he had made the last two selections for the team himself, Rowell said there was not sufficient time to refer performances in the last trials to the full committee.

Will Handle Half Million For Minor Clubs

NEW YORK (AP)—Four major league executives and two from the minor leagues were named by baseball commissioner Ford Frick Tuesday to handle the $500,000 set aside to aid minor league clubs.

Frick announced that Executive of New York Yankees, and Walter Shipkey of Detroit Tigers will represent the American League. John Quinn of Milwaukee Braves and Roy Hamey of Pittsburgh are the National League representatives. Grayle Howell of Tulsa in the Texas League, and Claude Dilks of Des Moines in the Pioneer League, are the minor league delegates.

The six men will meet with Frick in New York Nov. 13 to select officers and work out plans for administering the fund.

The $500,000 comes from the commissioner's fund and will be used to aid financially ailing minor league clubs. In some cases Frick said, grants might be given clubs while in other instances loans would be made.

Clips World Swim Record

MELBOURNE (AP) — Murray Rose, an 18-year-old vegetarian, Tuesday night clipped 6.4 seconds off the world 1,500-metre freestyle swimming record and thereby won a round in his battle of swim times with Aberian George Breen.

Rose's time, set in the third and final night of the Australian Olympic trials in the new Olympic pool, was 17:19.5. It was Breen's 18:05.3 record that he broke.

To distance swimmers, breaking 18 minutes for 1,500 metres is something like what breaking four minutes for the mile was to runners a few years ago.

A few days ago Rose held the world 880-yard record and Breen the 1,500. Then Breen took the 880 mark with a time of 9:19.3 as compared to Rose's 9:24.5. He also swept past the 1,500 metre mark in the record time of 9:15.3.

Quebec League

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicoutimi Sagueneens shaded Trois-Rivieres Lions 2-1 in one of two Quebec Hockey League games Tuesday night to advance to within one point of the pace-setting Quebec Aces, who were idle.

The other game saw Shawinigan Falls Cataracts, last year's QHL champions, shade Montreal Royals 3-2 on an overtime goal by Gerry Desaulniers to snap a four-game losing streak.

The win put the third-place Lions seven points behind the Sagueneens.

GIANTS SIGN SAVER

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Giants, looking for outfield protection, Tuesday signed veteran Hank Sauer for the 1957 baseball season. Sauer, 37, recently was released by St. Louis Cardinals.

The Giants said Sauer will be expected to help fill the hole left by service-bound Jackie Brandt.

Expresses Great Admiration For Talents of Mary Martin

AT THE PARK — Brian Donlevy co-stars with Mercedes McCambridge in Michelle Wood and Raymond Burr in "Warlock," a Technicolor mystery drama, CV In The Night," now showing at the Park Theatre and on the same program "The Amazing Trader" starring John Sutton in color, both features finish tonight.

By TCHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight people scarcely constitute a quorum for a public opinion poll. But here are the opinions of eight concerning Born Yesterday as presented on Hallmark Hall of Fame (NBC-TV) Sunday evening.

Two enjoyed it thoroughly, Six, including this viewer, suffered from varying degrees of disappointment.

All the disappointed expressed great admiration for the talents of Mary Martin, who took the part of Billie Dawn. But all felt she failed to equal the role of the dumb-smart, tough - tender dame which Judy Holliday created on Broadway and also played in the movie version.

SHE'S A LADY

"The trouble with Mary Martin, though it's not really a trouble," said one woman, "is that she's a lady. And Billie Dawn just isn't."

Only one of the eight failed to praise Paul Douglas, who brought to television the role of the big lunkhead, Harry Brock, which he played on Broadway.

"The trouble with Paul Douglas," said this same critic, "was that on the stage and in the movies he came across perfectly as a slob—but a sort of sweet slob. On television he just came across as a slob."

"Your're crazy," growled a man who enjoyed the show, "it was a darn good job."

One woman with whom this viewer talked voiced an opinion that could explain the disappointment of the other five.

"I think," she said, "that comedy on television absolutely requires a live audience. Personally I hate that laughter coming in on cue. It annoys me. Plus I think that any actor or actress who is a real comedienne or comedian has to have the reaction of an audience. They're keyed to it and they get themselves up by it and the whole timing of the piece depends on it."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, Nov. 1, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You can be done in by clever scheming, astute following up. Put enthusiasm into your endeavors; it pays well. Listen to others; you may hear something to your advantage.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Be direct but not abrupt, discerning but not critical. Associate with intelligent folk interested in the same things you are. Attention to details advised.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Influences unfriendly in some ways. Routine, well established business, matters pertaining to the home honored. More care advised in financial, personal investments.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Interesting and progressive influences for the ready, quick-minded person. You can achieve with honest effort. Do not waste time with schemers, get-rich-quick ideas. Avoid overindulgence.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Keep going at a steady pace. Those who delay may miss on opportunities to advance. An early start will make it easier to put over your pet ideas.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Vibrations skin to Gemini's. Make no unwanted or radical changes. Don't shirk difficult tasks or you will retard progress. You possess the mental equipment to see you through to victory.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Where time permits, cooperate with smart, determined people in fresh plans. Look for new methods to enhance the quality of your performance. Control tendencies toward emotionalism, carelessness.

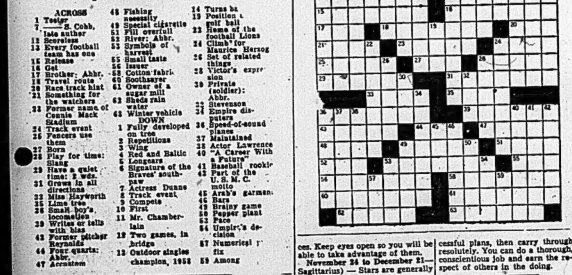
October 24 to November 22 — Scorpio) — You can rely on your intuition now. Good, helpful hints will come from unexpected sources. Keep eyes open so you will be able to take advantage of them.

November 24 to December 21 — Sagittarius) — Stars are generally favorable today. You can accomplish in things for which you are fitted if you put forth sincere efforts. Ignore trifle unfamiliar matters even if gains are promised.

December 23 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — You may have to call upon all your wits and craft to offset past vacillation now. Combine your natural dexterity and reasoning power to bridge obstacles more quickly.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Merchandising, transportation, making plans, dealing with people in professional and business fields highly favored. Resist any tendency to be lax in duties. Resolutely achieve.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Inauspicious vibrations warn against unscrupulous individuals, the cheap priced but valueless item and pointless activities. Maintain high principles.



You born today can overcome tremendous obstacles when you put your mind to it. You have a practical outlook and can weed out unessentials to aid in building a strong future. Give yourself sufficient time to absorb details necessary to formulate most successful plans, then carry through resolutely. You can do a thorough, conscientious job and earn the respect of others in the doing.
